city or town in which such child is born.

"The parent who neglects to give notice of a birth for ten days after the time limited therefor shall forfeit not more than five dollars for each offense."

The importance of the birth record is shown by the following circular letter of the Superintendent of the Boston Public Schools:

"Pupils admitted for the first time must present a birth certificate, baptismal record, official governmental passport, containing proof of age, or evidence satisfactory to the principal that none of these is obtainable."

A RÉSUMÉ OF THE ACTIVITIES OF THE BOSTON HEALTH DEPARTMENT FOR 1922.

BY FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, M. D., COMMISSIONER.

A general synopsis of the vital statistics for 1922, up to and including December 31, 1922, with corresponding data for the years 1921 and 1920, is given below. The outstanding feature of the figures as given is the total live births. The total for 1922 is 1,147 below the total for 1921 and 1,244 below the total for 1920, with a corresponding change in the birth rate per 1,000 population.

It is also noticeable from the above table that the total deaths in 1922 exceed the total deaths in 1921 by 1,149 but are less than the figures for 1920 by 232; and that total deaths from heart disease in 1922, amounting to 1,756, exceed total deaths from that disease in 1921 by 294 and similarly exceed the figures for 1920 by 282.

The following table gives a statistical summary of cases and deaths from the reportable diseases up to December 31, 1922, with comparisons for the two previous years.

INFLUENZA.

During February, 1922, there prevailed in Boston in epidemic form an infection of the upper respiratory passages accompanied by marked constitutional symptoms and a temperature perhaps as high as 103 degrees Fahrenheit. The total number of cases for February reported as influenza was 1,390, and the total number of cases of lobar pneumonia was 252. There were 28 deaths from the former and 112 deaths from the latter. The marked rise in cases from these two diseases, and consequent deaths, occurring in February, may be noted by a comparison of the figures for January when only 67 cases and 7 deaths occurred from influenza, and 143 cases and 72 deaths from lobar pneumonia. Though these figures appear of themselves to tell the story the Health Department was given to understand by several local employers of large numbers of employees that economic loss during the period of this outbreak was more apparent than these figures would seem to indicate. The outbreak happily spent itself during the month of March, however, so that no further undue anxiety over the possibility of a recurrence of the devastating outbreak of 1918 and 1919 presented itself.

TYPHOID FEVER.

Twenty-two cases of typhoid fever and three deaths were reported during September, this being the month in which most cases occurred. Most of them showed infection traceable to sources outside of Boston. Occasional cases occur among resident Italian children, the origin of which is mysterious in some instances. Evidence is strong that the eating of shell fish from polluted shore areas or the handling of shell fish or worms from such areas in connection with their use as bait is the source of infection, in some cases, but it is becoming doubtful if this is the true source of infection. During October one adult case of typhoid fever was forcibly removed to the Boston City Hospital as a precautionary measure.

CHICKEN POX.

Although communicable diseases generally occurring during November exceeded the number of reported cases for the preceding month, the number of cases seasonably expected during this period did not approach normal. The only notable exception to the above was indicated in cases of chicken pox reported, there being quite a perceptible increase of such cases during the month—183 cases were reported as compared with 58 in October. Special attention is paid to these cases. A visit in the first instance is paid to each case by a medical inspector who has in mind always the possibility that a reported case of chicken pox may be an unrecognized case of smallpox. In all cases of chicken pox reported in adults the chief medical inspector visits for the same reason. The sudden outbreak of this disease is largely attributable to the fact that many cases have occurred in which parents have neither called a physician nor taken any precautions for the protection of the others. In order that the physicians of the city might be on guard against the possibility of unrecognized cases of smallpox in the city a special circular letter was prepared relative thereto.

WHOOPING COUGH.

During the first nine months of the year there were about 650 cases of whooping cough reported to the department. With the opening of schools, however, the reported number of these cases increased, probably due to the fact that the supervision exercised by the school medical authorities resulted in the discovery of more cases that otherwise might have gone unrecognized and so not have been reported. The extent of the increase may be realized by the fact that during the last three months of the year about 900 cases were reported. The seriousness with which the disease should be regarded by families and physicians in view of the fact that the disease has a distressing fatality record has been brought to their attention through the medium of the monthly bulletin issued by the department.

HOOKWORM.

Hookworm disease appeared here during the latter part of the year through the Port of Boston. Forty-seven cases were reported by the United States Immigration authorities as occurring among alien immigrants being held pending deportation. It may be well to state that for some years past the Port of Boston was not a gate of entry for Oriental immigrants which furnish nearly all the cases of hookworm disease. The appearance of these cases here during the past year is to be accounted for by the fact that the practice of examining arriving Orientals at Victoria, B. C., was abandoned and all Orientals shipped in bond to Boston as the official port of entry.

TRICHINOSIS.

During the month of October three cases of trichinosis were reported to the department. One was in a local hospital and the other two in the same family, man and wife. The latter family reported that the stricken persons ate pork chops in an adjoining city. The eating of these pork chops may have been the cause of the infection but if the chops were properly cooked as the wife reported, they should not have been able to cause the disease. The fact should be driven home impressively for the necessity of realizing that the eating of uncooked pork in any form brings with it the danger of trichinosis, a danger based on the popular statistical evidence that 4 per cent of all hogs contain trichinae. A visit to the homes of many of our foreign population, notably in Polish and Italian families, will disclose that at times there will be hanging in the various parts of the house raw sausage ready to be eaten without further cooking, a dangerous practice.

LEPROSY.

On September 22, 1922, a male resident of a city adjoining Boston, age sixteen years, was reported ill at one of the Boston hospitals with leprosy. The young man had been living in Cambridge for a few months, but prior to that had lived in New Bedford for a few years after his arrival in this country from Portugal. He was employed by a casket making factory as a laborer handling the crude wooden boxes used in the manufacturing process.

DIPHTHERIA.

There was almost a consistent decrease in the number of diphtheria cases reported each month during the year from January to September, the January totals being 278 and the September totals 176. In the month of July, however, 31 cases were reported from one of the institutions of the city alone, and three of them were fatal. A decided jump in the number of cases occurred in October, 269 cases having been reported and a further increase to 290 cases took place in November, which impresses upon the department the need for constant vigilance with respect to this disease, and the need for adequate precautions to be taken with respect to isolation, quarantine and treatment so as to preclude the possibility of an epidemic.

DOG BITE.

Cases of dog bite sufficiently serious as to require anti-rabic treatment oc-curing during the year were so numerous that as a direct result of the prevalence of these diseases the Boston City Council, with the approval of his Honor the Mayor, passed in July an order restraining or muzzling all dogs for a period of ninety days. The members of the police force were empowered by the order to make special service upon the owner or keeper of each dog within the limits of Boston by delivering to them a certified copy of the City Council order. Although a case of dog bite very seldom results fatally, there was one such case in which human rabies developed from a dog bite causing the death of the persons bitten, a result almost inevitable in view of the 100 per cent fatality record of cases of rabies in human beings.

DETENTION HOSPITAL.

Plans were completed during the month of August for the providing of adequate isolating facilities and general alterations and repairs of buildings at the Detention Hospital. The work to be done consisted of remodeling one of the buildings in the hospital inclosure, which building had been used chiefly for storage purposes and housing an obsolete sterilizer. The building was badly out of plumb by reason of the settling of the land on which it was built thirty years ago. The building has been straightened out and utilized for providing isolation rooms for the accommodation of patients under observation for contagious diseases, and to make room for a modern sterilizer and up-to-date laundry equipment, and also provide additional quarters for nurses. The work is practically finished now, and when actually completed will fill a long felt want of practical hospital facilities on the premises.

SCHICK TEST.

On May 6, 1922, the Health Department first inaugurated among the residents of Boston, under the direction of Dr. John A. Cecomi, recently appointed epidemiologist, the administration of the Schick toxin-antitoxin immunization against diphtheria. The work was first started in the parochial schools and institutions of the city on account of the fact that in these schools and institutions there is not that degree of close medical supervision that prevails in the public schools, which maintains an adequate corps of school medical inspectors. The Medical Advisory Board, newly organized by his Honor the Mayor, were called together by the Health Commissioner on May 10, 1922, with a view to an open discussion of the efficacy of the Schick toxin-antitoxin immunization against diphtheria, and after discussing the situation from all angles, and considering it in the light of their own personal intimate knowledge of conditions relating to disease prevention and eradication in Boston, the Board unanimously voted that the physicians of the city should be informed in detail concerning the Schick test. As a consequence, therefore, a special circular letter was prepared and mailed to each of the practicing physicians in Boston.

From that time to date the work has steadily progressed, the corps of workers under the direction of the epidemiologist has been added to by the acquisition of extra nurses and physicians who have done remarkable work in connection with it. There is now a corps of fifteen doctors and nurses engaged in this work of prevention. A statistical resume of the work accomplished in the parochial schools and institutions in the city in which the Schick test has been administered may be worth while in indicating the extent and scope of the work.

From May 6 to December 28, 1922, there have been in all 27,061 Schick tests performed. Twenty-five thousand two hundred thirty-seven of these have been read, 11,653 were found positive, 1,461 were found positive combined, 3,561 were pseudos, and 8,652 were found negative; 11,993 first injections of the toxin-antitoxin immunization were given, 10,652 second injections and 8,785 third injections. Cultures were taken on 1,663 positive reactions and 1,000 negative reactions, resulting as follows: One hundred and three positive and 1,560 negative findings in the 1,663 positive reactions, and 57 positive and 943 negative findings in the 1,000 negative reactions cultured. Since December 1, 300 Schick re-tests have been made and of the 284 which have been read, 11 were positive, 6 were positive combined, and 52 were pseudos, and 215 were negative; 17 first injections of the toxin-antitoxin immunization were given, and 15 second injections. Of the 254 positive reactions cultured, 12 were found to be positive and 242 negative.

Briefly, the Schick test is first administered with the consent of the parents. Within two to ten days, thereafter, but usually within four days, as the best reaction will be obtainable when the reading is made at this time, the reading of the test is made. This may result positively or negatively. If negative it means that the patient is not susceptible to diphtheria and has a natural immunity to the disease. If the reading is positive, the toxin-antitoxin immunization is administered in three doses of 1 cc. each, each injection being given within seven to fourteen days after the preceding one until the three injections are given. Six months thereafter the patients are re-Schicked and are then possessed of an acquired immunity against diphtheria.

The nurses employed in this work assist the physicians in the administration of the test and also perform the clerical work connected with it. A special card record is kept of each child Schicked, and a card is also kept of each child in the school or institution in which the test is administered, whether or not consent to perform the test has been obtained. In this way a check is kept on any such children that may become ill with diphtheria in those instances where the consent of the parents was not obtained. The card record kept by the nurses is made out in considerable detail, and besides the personal history of the patient, includes data concerning the toxin actually administered, together with minute data concerning the results found. Besides the card records, there is kept a large tabulated sheet on which a comprehensive record of Schick toxin-antitoxin administrations done at the several clinics within the city is made.

The results obtained to date in the administration of the Schick test have been so successful that the Health Commissioner reflects with gratification on the accomplishment, especially so when it is considered that there has not been one untoward event or accident connected with its administration in the more than 27,000 tests performed. It is therefore with a feeling of confidence in the efficiency of the test that the Health Commissioner anticipates a complete survey of the city with a view to establishing the maximum number of immunes to diphtheria among children in the city, and consequently causing the number of cases and deaths from this disease to approach the irreducible minimum ultimately.

DENTAL CLINIC.

With a view to starting a dental clinic at the present Health Unit of the department on Blossom street, West End, there was purchased during the latter part of this year sufficient supplies and equipment to enable two dentists and two dental hygienists to operate. Arrangements were completed with the Forsyth Dental Infirmary whereby professional services would be furnished by them, this being considered a better method than the permanent employment of part-time dentists and dental hygienists by the Health Department. Provision has been made in the budget estimates for sufficient funds to carry this work forward and also to enable a similar clinic to be started in the proposed new health unit in the North End, which it is expected will be ready for use about October, 1923.

HEALTH UNITS.

Through the medium of the George Robert White Fund the city will be enabled to establish one more health unit in the North End district of the city in addition to the Health Unit that has been in operation under the direction of the Health Department since 1917. The North End was selected as a location wherein the most service could be rendered to the best advantage. The building is already in place, the discontinued use of the old Harbor Police Station on Battery and Commercial streets affording an opportunity to save considerable money by remodeling this building for use as the next health unit in Boston. Plans are also being considered for the establishment next year, under the provisions of the George Robert White Fund, for a third health unit in East Boston, another district of the city in which the most good will be accomplished by such a health establishment.

REGULATIONS.

Toward the latter part of the year work was started on a publication for ready reference of the rules and regulations of the Health Department, including also citations from the general and special laws and city ordinances relating to health, and it is now practically ready for the printer.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL.

While the function of garbage disposal is not one within the jurisdiction of the Health Department, nevertheless the Health Department has always been the recipient of complaints from the public as the result of disagreeable odors emanating from the garbage disposal plant on Spectacle Island. The contract that had been in operation for ten years ending June 30, 1922, was reformed by a committee by his Honor the Mayor of Boston, during the past city administration, the then Health Commissioner of Boston being a member of the committee. The contract was awarded to commence on July 1, 1922, to a disposal contractor other than the previous contractor, after competitive bids had been received, and in view of the fact that there is a special provision in the contract that where incineration of refuse is undertaken the process shall be such as to eliminate smoke and disagreeable odors, the Health Department will be again the agency to whose attention complaints of smoke and odors, if any, will be brought for adjustment.

In connection with garbage disposal it might also be stated that under the provisions of a law passed in 1921 by the General Court the department promulgated in August, 1922, certain regulations relative to the transportation of garbage, house offal or other offensive substances through the streets of Boston, for the better control of persons operating in accordance with this law.

MONEY RECEIPTS.

There was received for the calendar year 1922, up to December 28, 1922, from all sources, $19,478.28 as against $16,162.70 for the entire calendar year 1921. Of the total receipts for 1922 up to December 28, $2,699.79 was received from convenience station coin locks on private pay lockers provided in these stations, and $418.39 from personal weight scales also installed in some of these stations. The corresponding figures for the year 1921, from each source, were $1,585.10 and $447.62, respectively.

PROSECUTIONS.

Up to December 16, 1922, 303 cases of food violations were brought to the attention of the courts for adjudication, and fines aggregating $2,693.65 imposed. Similarly, 324 cases were prosecuted for violation of the general nuisance laws and fines aggregating $343.45 imposed by the courts, the majority of these latter cases having been placed on file because the work had been done.

SWIMMING POOL EXAMINATIONS.

Swimming pool examinations conducted during October included special investigation of the condition of the water at the North End Beach at low and high tides, report of which was forwarded to the Park and Recreation Department. The Health Department endeavors to co-operate at all times in the matter of swimming pool water examination with the Park Department in the correction of defective or insanitary conditions found in conducting municipal pool examinations.

RAT EXAMINATIONS.

During October the trapping of rats as an intensive function of the department was temporarily discontinued. One man, however, was engaged in an inspection of waterfront establishments for the purpose of eliminating breeding places for rats. He is also urging that the owners of such waterfront property keep the premises clean and free from debris so that there will be a minimum of harboring places for rodents. It is contemplated that one week a month will be spent in trapping and examination for the present. The trapping and examination of rats has been in operation in the Health Department intensively since the spring of 1921, during which time no single cases of bubonic plague in rats was found in Boston. There was, however, a very suspicious rat found in the summer of 1921, which was dispatched by special messenger to the United States Public Health Service Laboratory in Washington, D. C., for confirmation of the diagnosis. The rat fortunately proved negative for plague, however. No such suspicious case was discovered by examination during 1922, there having been 7,692 rats examined bacteriologically during the year up to December 16.

TUBERCULOSIS SPUTUM EXAMINATION METHODS.

An investigation for the purpose of determining the relative efficiency of routine methods of sputum examination for tubercle bacilli used in different laboratories was conducted by the bacteriological laboratory of the Health Department in November. Two hundred sample specimens were examined and a comparison of three methods used in preparation of the sputum made as follows: (1) direct method; (2) shaking method (10 minutes), and (3), shaking method (10 minutes) with antiformin and centrifuging. Of the 200 specimens examined, 25 were found positive by direct method, a percentage of 13 per cent; 29 were found positive by the shaking method, a percentage of 14.5 per cent; and 33 were found positive by antiformin method, a percentage of 16.5 per cent. The specimens examined but not tabulated were negative. The net result of the investigation as outlined above was that more organisms were found in smears where antiformin method was used than in smears taken by the other methods. In other words the antiformin method gives a higher percentage of positives not only as regards facility for examination but it contains more organisms per field for positives than the other two methods, thus making the positives easier to find.

SANITARY INSPECTION.

Commencing April 1, a radical departure from the existing practice was made in the operations of the sanitary inspectors. Theretofore, all inspectors reported each morning at nine o'clock at the central office in City Hall Annex. Special assignments for the day's work were issued to each man, and reports of work accomplished during the previous day were filed. This system necessarily involved a considerable loss of time in the aggregate on the part of the inspectors. It also necessarily minimized the amount of work that could be accomplished in the regular working day. In an endeavor to permit more concentrated effort in the cleaning up of insanitary conditions found in the various districts in which the city was divided, all inspectors were instructed to discontinue reporting directly each morning to the central office at nine o'clock. Instead, a system of mailing was instituted, whereby the work to be assigned to the several inspectors was sent to the post office nearest to their residence, or the district covered, if that happened to be other than in the residence of the inspector. The inspector thus calls at the designated post office at nine o'clock and received his assignments for the day from the general delivery window. At the end of the working day, each inspector places in several envelopes provided for the purpose the reports of his work for that day and mails them to the central office. This system has worked out very satisfactorily since its inauguration, and has since then been put into operation in the food inspection and nursing services with equal success.

REDISTRICTING OF THE CITY.

During September a redistricting of the city took place, and new men were assigned to permanent sanitary districts. Very little confusion resulted with the change, and it is expected that there will be better control of the work of sanitary inspection of the city, and that the city will accordingly benefit.

DEMOLITIONS.

In May this year, acting at the instance of the Mayor, the department interested itself specially in the matter of demolition of old and dilapidated structures. Under a law passed in 1897, and amended in 1899, the Health Department is empowered to order old buildings vacated when occupied, and then demolished. The removal of about thirty was immediately considered, all but one being vacant, and all being in a very dilapidated and offensive condition, besides being a distinct fire menace to adjoining buildings. They were also a serious detriment to the value of adjoining properties and made it impossible for the right kind of tenants to occupy houses which faced or adjoined such insanitary and unsafe structures. The majority of these buildings were accessible to the public and were used for committing nuisances. During the year thirty-seven such buildings were demolished. The department feels that the continued exercise of the supervision that results in the location and subsequent demolition of structures of this kind will eventually work to the better advantage of the immediate vicinity and to the city as a whole, having in mind the time when Boston will have no undesirable old buildings within its limits endangering the health and lives of the people. Co-operation is expected and has been received from the owners of these dilapidated buildings and all are gradually being removed.

ELIMINATION OF ODORS FROM OFFENSIVE TRADES.

The so-called offensive trades in several localities, especially Spectacle Island, and the rendering plants in South Boston and Charlestown, engaged the attention of the department to an extent more than usual during the warm weather. Night and day investigations were carried on covering all these places. The observations in connection with Spectacle Island were conducted in conjunction with the Commissioner of Public Works. Certain new methods designed to eliminate nuisance at rendering plants were systematically observed, and much apparent success has been noted.

SURVEY OF ALLEYS.

An extensive survey was conducted at the instance of his Honor the Mayor, during July, of all alleys north of Massachusetts avenue in the city proper, with a view to their proper paving and draining.

VENTILATION AND OVERCROWDING OF STREET CARS.

The latter part of November developed a situation with reference to ventilation and overcrowding of street railway cars in Boston that seemed to invite a conference with the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway with a view to the adoption of corrective measures. Such a conference was held with the general manager representing the trustees, and it is expected that improved service will result.

GAS FIXTURE EXAMINATIONS.

During the year, besides over 900 original inspections of premises for defective gas appliances, and subsequent follow-up for the purpose of correction, there were 199 special complaints relative to gas appliances made. The majority of these complaints were in the nature of official references made by the Police Department to the Health Department of all instances where deaths or near-asphyxiations occurred as the result of illuminating gas poisoning, or from suicides by inhaling illuminating gas. In order that closer supervision and investigation might be had in connection with gas fixtures an additional gas fixture inspector-investigator was added to the sanitary inspection forces of the department during the year.

FOOD INSPECTION.

One of the unpleasant duties of the Health Department, in spite of its desire to be a negative factor in the matter of price reduction by minimizing the wholesale condemnations of foodstuffs, was the seizure and condemnation of nearly ten tons of beef stickers which were decomposed and unfit for food, and similarly condemned were a lot of beef contaminated with tuberculosis, five tons of prunes and a large shipment of oranges. No excuse need be offered for such wholesale condemnations even on the score of a consequent upward trend in prices of such commodities to consumers to offset the loss thus occasioned by the producers, because it is hardly necessary to point out that the community would ultimately suffer a great deal more if the Health Department were lax in its methods of supervision and permitted contaminated and unwholesome foodstuffs to be placed on the market for public sale and consumption, with the probability of inoculating disease in the people.

To indicate the extent to which the foodstuffs offered in the Boston market are scrutinized, it may be well to state that a fine of $300 was imposed by the court on one dealer for having unstamped and diseased meat in his possession with intent to sell. One of the indications to the public and to the food inspector that food is fit for human consumption is the presence of a government inspection stamp of approval on meat carcasses. Its absence is a cause for further examination and investigation to determine the reason so that careless dealers may not be permitted to foist uninspected meat carcasses, possibly diseased, upon the consumer.

CITY INSTITUTIONS.

Co-operating with the City of Boston Supply Department the Health Department assigns an inspector to examine the foodstuffs purchased for use at city institutions before such food is prepared for use as such at these institutions.

BOTULINUS.

Several fatalities from the disease botulinus occurred in the month of April in Indiana from the eating of spinach packed by a certain manufacturer. A survey of Boston was thereupon made to determine if this brand of spinach was being offered for consumption here. As a result, 107 cases of exactly the same brand of spinach were found, and even though but 33 cans were held as being swollen, and negative bacteriological reports were obtained, the cans were ordered to be sterilized as a matter of precaution.

LICENSING BOARD CO-OPERATION.

During the year a new way was discovered to cause a change in the methods employed by a certain class of negligent restaurant keeper in the matter of cleanliness and sanitation. Persistent offenders against sanitary regulations were caused to appear before the Boston Licensing Board upon formal complaint by this department charging failure to conduct their licensed business in a proper manner. After a hearing the Board, in some instances, suspended the licenses as common victuallers until the premises were put into satisfactory condition. The lesson was so salutary in one case as to cause the offender to clean and paint his premises to such good effect that his license was restored to him within forty-eight hours after its suspension. Of five complaints to the Boston Licensing Board during one month, one applicant was refused a license; three licensees were forced out of business, or given time to get out, and another was given time in which to satisfy health requirements. It seems too bad that action sufficiently drastic as to force a merchant out of business is necessary in order to enforce health regulations, but on the other hand, if a business man catering to the needs of the public in the matter of foodstuffs does not consider the cleanliness of his products, or the premises upon which they are produced or offered for sale, to an extent sufficient to interest himself in the wholesomeness of his products and the cleanliness of his premises, then such a man is better out of business.

In August, under a recently enacted law relative to the licensing by the Boston Licensing Board of so-called "soft drink" establishments, the Health Department inspected all these places that were not on record in the department. Where insanitary conditions were found existing, orders to remedy were issued, and in no case was it necessary to forward an adverse report of any such applicant to the Licensing Board, because all of them substantially complied with Health Department requirements.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

Another noteworthy approbation of the activities of the work of the department in the matter of food inspection was indicated in the decision handed down in May by the Supreme Court upholding a fine of $50 previously imposed in the lower courts upon a corporation charged with violation of the regulation of the Health Department concerning the handling of rot and spot eggs. This defendant contended that the Health Commissioner had no authority to make a regulation so broad as to compel the denaturing of such eggs with a carbolic solution or its equivalent, and keeping them in a metal container, and refused to comply therewith. The Supreme Court decision dispelled any doubts in this connection. The regulation in question was originally promulgated in 1918, during the last previous administration of the present Health Commissioner, Dr. F. X. Mahoney.

RAISINS.

A hearing was held in the office of the commissioner to discuss the question of fumigating large quantities of raisins by a treatment of carbon-tetrachloride generated to a gas at 91 pounds pressure at 80 degrees Fahrenheit after which treatment they were to be screened and made ready for public sale. Suitable samples of the raisins thus treated were obtained by an inspector present at the process and were subjected to bacteriological examination. The process was finally determined not to destroy the bacteria, and therefore could not be permitted here.

MEATS.

An unexpected heat wave caused the condemnation of over two tons of meat carcasses during the first week of June, with smaller condemnations during the rest of the month.

SOFT DRINKS.

Investigation of a report that soft drink dealers had resumed the practice of using saccharin in their products resulted in the taking of numerous samples which, however, after laboratory examination showed negative in every case. But such reports as these demonstrate the wide field of activity in which the department must interest itself in order to be able to consider that it is taking every possible precaution to safeguard the health of the community.

BAKERIES.

Under the regulations of the (State) Department of Public Health a general inspection is required not less than twice a year of all manufacturing bakeries in the city. A very small percentage of notices to abate nuisances were served on the bakeries inspected.

EGGS.

During October in order that proper attention might be paid to the method of handling and selling cold storage eggs, several conferences were held with the representatives of several well known chain store systems.

POULTRY SALES.

The most important individual task undertaken during November and December in connection with food inspection was the supervision of poultry arrivals for the Thanksgiving and Christmas sales. Almost the entire field staff was engaged on the two days preceding Thanksgiving and until late on Thanksgiving eve, and preceding Christmas, in the market district and the suburban districts in seeing that the public was not offered food that was not wholesome and fit for use as food. An indication of the unusually high quality of the poultry offered for sale may be found in the fact that slightly more than 100 pounds were seized and condemned. But one complaint was received from the entire city during the Thanksgiving sale.

DISTRIBUTION OF SAMPLES OF PATENT MEDICINES.

In November a certain distributing concern was stopped from passing out samples of a nationally known laxative tablet. Although the distributors defended the practice as legal on account of deliveries of the samples being made directly in the hands of adults at each house, the situation, after conference, was informally presented to the Law Department of the city which returned an opinion that the practice was distinctly a violation of the law governing such matters. The distributors then withdrew their operatives.

MILK AND DAIRY INSPECTION.

Particular attention was paid during the early part of 1922 to the proper cooling of milk and icing of milk cars used for the transportation of Boston's milk supply from the outlying dairies to the Boston market. This was made necessary on account of the fact that many producers were short of ice, stressing upon them very strongly the importance of adequate cooling, particularly at that season of the year. Distributors whose products showed an excessive amount of bacteria were also closely supervised at this period with a view to the improvement of their operating methods and equipment.

In April the Health Commissioner sent to those engaged in the pasteurization of milk or cream for final sale in Boston a circular letter requiring the equipping of all heaters or pasteurizers used in the pasteurization of milk or cream with suitable automatic time and temperature recording devices. These devices indicate the temperature to which such products are heated, the length of time to which they were subjected to heat and the time of recording. The records thus kept are filed daily and are open to official inspection for one year. The installation of such equipment is a distinct safety measure and is also a condition precedent to the issuing of milk licenses to wagon dealers.

In June another circular was issued to handlers of bulk milk and cream (hotels and restaurants), calling attention to the importance of mixing this commodity prior to each serving. It was pointed out that otherwise the cream which rises to the top of undisturbed milk is likely to be unevenly distributed and result in some purchasers being served with partially skimmed milk. Mixing at the beginning of selling is insufficient unless all the milk is sold immediately; if a part remains in the container for any length of time such portion should again be mixed when later sales are made. The above statements also apply to cream in bulk. The reason for the issuing of a circular as abstracted was to insure the serving to consumers of milk and cream of normal quality, and to bring about a reduction in the number of court cases.

Special attention was paid during July in an endeavor to secure better icing of milk during process of delivery to the consumer. In spite of difficulties incurring in the handling of this situation progress was made in securing the cooperation of certain delinquent dealers.

Noteworthy also in this phase of Health Department work was the completion of a survey of the quality of Boston market milk. This survey has resulted in the compilation in convenient tabular form of the quality of milk of all wagon dealers and of chain store operators, so that the citizen can have available definite information upon which to base a selection of a milk supply.

* Awarded contract.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts, awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do the work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Upon December 30 the Mayor approved a contract with the J. J. Walsh Company for building ten sets of runners for the hose pungs of the Fire Department. A communication from Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn was as follows:

FIRE DEPARTMENT,
BOSTON, December 28, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Your Honor's permission is requested to award a contract without advertising to the J. J. Walsh Company, 1540 Columbus avenue, Boston, for building ten sets of runners at $210 each, total $2,100, for our hose pungs during the winter months, transfer of funds in the Fire Department budget for 1922-23 having recently been approved by you.

The type of runner furnished by this company is better adapted for our purposes than any we have ever seen, being constructed to conform with the length and weight of body. These runners are known as the Travers runners and are stronger than those of other structure because of the additional iron and braces used in their construction. This style runner is better than the sled runner because of the open construction which allows the snow to go through it instead of banking up against it which is the case with the sled runner when turning.

It is necessary in the interests of the department to have this work done immediately.

Very truly yours,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

Upon January 4 the Mayor approved a contract with Edwin C. Lewis, Inc., for gas fixtures for the Municipal Building, South End. A communication from Fred J. Kneeland, Superintendent of Public Buildings, was as follows:

BOSTON, January 3, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I wish to advise you of the following facts:

In the contract of the National Electric Construction and Supply Company, under date of July 18, 1921, for the installation of the electric, gas and elevator equipment in the Municipal Building, old Ward 12, there was an allowance for gas fixtures in the sum of $2,000. The city accordingly made a deduction from their contract in the sum of $2,000, and made a contract with Edwin C. Lewis, Inc., for furnishing and installing these fixtures. The work has long since been completed, but in the presentation of the bill to the City Auditor for payment he insists that a formal contract be drawn up.

Before doing this it will of course be essential to receive your approval for doing same, and I respectfully request permission to award this contract to Edwin C. Lewis, Inc., in the sum of $2,000, without the usual form of advertising.

Respectfully yours,

FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Upon January 2 the Mayor approved a contract with the Linscott Motor Company for furnishing the Paving Service of the Public Works Department eight 14 ton Reo speed wagons, equipped with dump bodies and hydraulic hoists. A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT,
BOSTON, December 30, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to award a contract, without publicly advertising, to the Linscott Motor Company for furnishing to the Public Works Department, Paving Service, eight 14 ton Reo speed wagons, equipped with 14 yard dump bodies and hydraulic hoists at a price of $1,943.25 each delivered. The Reo speed wagon has been used by the Public Works and Transit Department with great success, and in harmony with the policy of this department to standardize its purchases, as far as possible, I feel that it is for the best interests of the city to make this contract with the Linscott Motor Company. No benefits could be derived from advertising, as this concern is the only one that would be able to furnish this type of truck.

Trusting that the permission requested will be granted, I am,

Respectfully yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

THE ADMINISTRATION'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

Mayor Curley's first year in office during his second term has been signalized by many municipal accomplishments that will serve to make his administration when the history of the city is written, the "Golden Age" of Boston.

Three accomplishments stand out as monuments to his activity and genius for government. These are the establishment of the Municipal Employment Bureau, by means of which more than 2,500 veterans were given employment and the placing of so many veterans, heretofore unemployed, in work for the city with the Transit, Park and Public Works Departments that the burden of soldiers' relief, which last March was paying an average of $112,882 for the support of citizens out of work, has been so reduced until in September the city was called on to pay but $52,089. This has been cut down to less and less every month since. Thus where the city was dispensing of more than $1,300,000 a year in relief of unemployed citizens, the average expenditure now is but $632,000 a year or less than half what it was when the Mayor assumed office.

Another outstanding achievement of his office was the successful settlement of the Building Trades strike, which was not only driving thousands of skilled workmen from the city where they were needed but preventing such building operations as would have brought relief to Boston's housing distress; also setting into operation construction work which up to the present time has amounted to more than $48,000,000. This construction work includes the $5,000,000 Statler hotel and several new office structures in the business section of the city, which will add large sums to the city funds in the way of taxes.

When the Mayor took office not only was the building situation in a distressing way as to housing but other sections, particularly New York State, were launching huge building campaigns, and with no prospect of work in sight for building trades craftsmen in this city Boston was in a fair way to lose most of her mechanics. The Mayor sensed the situation and immediately offered the services of his office to the contending factions, then called opponents into conferences at City Hall. After several of these conferences and suggestions from the Mayor as to calamities to follow continued disagreement, employees and employers settled their differences and the city has greatly benefited.

The third large achievement in his year in office has been the readjustment of the city's taxation system so as to prevent any increase in burdens to the taxpayers by jumping the rate. While almost every other city and town in the state has been forced by reason of increased levies and expenses to add to the burden of taxes, Boston, thanks to the Mayor, is forced to pay no more and for a time it seemed that even in the face of urgent demands for improvements the tax rate would have been cut slightly.

These are the three outstanding features of the present administration of Mayor Curley. The latest achievement of the Mayor which has won him the unstinted praise of the public has been his securing of fuel by the sale of which not only will the ordinary citizens of Boston be able to keep warm this winter but will be saved from profiteers who would otherwise have robbed the people by forcing them to pay excessive prices for heat. He first secured a consignment of coke which was placed at the disposal of the public and more recently a cargo of coal which has been sold to the public at an advantageous price to them.

Other and lesser achievements of the Mayor would be notable but for the four accomplishments mentioned. One of the other achievements of note was the revival of the shipping of grain through the port and thus adding to the employment and increasing business. When the administration began there was little or no grain being shipped through the port. The Mayor's first effort was to secure for the Port of Boston some of the grain being shipped to Russia for the relief of her inhabitants. Since this shipment grain has been going abroad through the port in ever increasing quantities until, according to latest reports, more than 1,000,000 are passing through the port each week.

By his general activity for the Port of Boston he has so stimulated the interest of Boston and New England business men that there has been a general agitation for the port by commercial men all over the state. New steamship lines have been attracted to the port and new branches of industry established.

Other achievements to be mentioned are the inauguration of a series of public improvements, the largest of which is the building of the Strandway. Another is the widening of Province street into a 50-foot thoroughfare and the appointment of a general committee of citizens as a planning board by the aid of which it is hoped to make Boston the city beautiful.

In everything the Mayor has undertaken he has had the interest of the humble citizens at heart and he has been an eternal battler for the less fortunate and the citizen of moderate means. It is doubtful if there ever has been a mayor of Boston who has had the interests of the people more constantly at heart than has had Mayor Curley. For this reason it is the prediction of his friends that he will have earned the title of Boston's best loved Mayor by the time his administration has ended.

SALE OF ARMY PIER.

Mayor Curley has proposed to Governor Cox that the Commonwealth buy from the War Department the Army Base Pier at South Boston, and Governor Cox replies that the suggestion seems interesting and that he will take it under consideration.

The letter of Mayor Curley to Governor Cox was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
December 27, 1922.

HON. CHANNING H. COX, Governor of the Commonwealth, State House, Boston, Mass.

YOUR EXCELLENCY.—At the suggestion of the Commercial and Industrial Bureau of the City of Boston, which has given careful thought and deliberate study to the matter, I am recommending to your Excellency the advisability of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts taking over the Army Base Pier at the earliest available date and its operation in conjunction with the other port activities of the Commonwealth.

Early last spring I made a similar recommendation, but at that time the late Commissioner Cole was averse to having this instrumentality added to the burdens of his department for reasons that time has proven to be groundless and by doubts that the ever-increasing business of the base have shown to be only doubts. The changed conditions of today show very conclusively that my former recommendation had a merit that today calls for the consideration of the Governor.

At the present time the business at the Army Base Pier has grown to such proportions that it has become imperative for the state or the city to assume control of the utility and its future activities in order that the growth and interests of the port as a whole may be conserved, since it would be a grave error to permit such an instrumentality to pass under private ownership.

I can say in this connection that too much credit cannot be accorded to Captain Pillsbury, in full charge of the pier under the United States Government control, for the admirable manner in which he has administered his trust and the sagacity and persistence with which he has gone after business and developed the possibilities of the plant. I invite your attention to the accompanying statistics which he furnishes showing the rapid growth of tonnage of shipping and cargo at the pier.

To take over the pier at this time on a lease from the national government would not only be expedient but financially profitable. It is primarily a state function and as such I make this recommendation since the development and prosperity of the port are matters of more importance and concern to Massachusetts and New England than to Boston as a municipality. If in your judgment the Commonwealth does not deem it wise to widen the scope of its port authorities at this time, then I will deem it my duty to ask your Excellency's assistance later in securing the necessary legislation to enable the City of Boston to take over the pier as a municipal activity. It is probably the largest and best equipped maritime instrumentality in the country, and will enable Boston to keep pace with other ports of the country which have advantageously secured leases of similar utilities from the United States Government.

With the greetings of the New Year, I remain,

Cordially yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

RETURN OF CANNON.

Mayor Curley has addressed Hon. George P. Graham, Canadian Minister of Militia and Defence, Ottawa, suggesting that a certain cannon in the Citadel of Quebec, which has for many years been pointed out to American tourists by soldiers of the garrison, acting as guides, as having been captured by the British at Bunker Hill, be relinquished to the City of Boston in time for its participation in the Seventeenth of June celebration at Charlestown.

COMMENDATION FOR STREET CLEANING.

Mayor Curley has received the following letter from James H. Baldwin, attorney at law, Kimball Building, Boston:

Boston, January 3, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

HONORABLE SIR,—It is with a sense of intense pride that I write to you in respect to the extraordinary efficient manner in which the recent fall of snow was immediately and orderly removed from our streets.

As a resident of Boston for many years, I was impressed with the alacrity and dispatch with which the work was accomplished.

The morning following the storm, I paused on Tremont street, to observe the method and the organized system of operation in the removal of snow.

One may say that your Honor and the officials who had this work in charge were performing a recognized duty. I believe, however, that the achievements merit more than passing comment.

I congratulate you upon the work accomplished, and respectfully urge you to convey my hearty congratulations to the officials who had this work in charge for their splendid accomplishment.

Trusting that further opportunity will be afforded the heads of the various departments of the city to manifest their fitness for the position which they hold and that their conduct in respect to their positions will merit and receive the public approval and appreciation of their work and worth, and thus redound to the credit and distinction of your Honor's administration, I am,

Very truly yours,

JAMES H. BALDWIN.

That section of General Orders No. 94. Series of 1922, page 2, paragraph 8, which reads "and so notified by their officers," is to be disregarded, for the reason that since the issuance of that order the Department of Civil Service and Registration has informed us that they will undertake to notify the applicants direct, the time and place of examination.

By order of the Fire Commissioner,

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

DECEMBER LABOR REPORT.

Business at the Public Employment Office, 23 and 25 Pearl street, was not so heavy during December as it was during November, but when compared with December a year ago, the figures are very satisfactory, showing a decided improvement in all items.

During the month the demand (people wanted by employers) was 237 or 16 per cent less than in November, but 366 or 40 per cent more than in December, 1921. The number of positions reported filled was 138 or 14 per cent less than in November but was 241 or 33 per cent more than in December last year.

During the month 1,446 service men (975 soldiers, 471 sailors) visited the office in search of employment and 198 (125 soldiers, 73 sailors) were given introduction cards to employers and 137 (88 soldiers, 49 sailors) secured positions.

Males, Skilled.—During the early part of the month in the metal trades there was a big demand for machinists and machine operators which was easily filled as the supply was heavier than the demand. There were calls for molders, blacksmiths, tinsmiths, electricians, boiler-makers, pipefitters, machinists' helpers, electricians' helpers. The demand for building mechanics fell off to only a stray call now and then which was quickly filled. The steam trades showed considerable activity with a fair supply and many positions were filled. There was a little activity in the printing industry with a large supply of help and positions were quickly filled. There is some demand for cotton ring spinners and wire drawers with no supply whatever.

Unskilled.—During the early part of the month the demand for able-bodied laborers began to fall off and the attendance of applicants for this kind of work increased daily so that at the present time there is a good supply of competent help. The restaurant trades showed some activity during Thanksgiving and Christmas so that the supply of applicants for dishwashing and kitchen work was considerably reduced. There was a good demand for casual laborers with a fair supply and many positions were filled.

Boys.—The demand for boys for errands, offices and factories is fairly good with a short supply of suitable help.

Females, Skilled.—The demand for women workers has been slow, the only positions seeming to be those for Christmas work. The clothing trade showed some activity at the early part of the month, fell off towards the end. Hotel and restaurant work was flat except during the Christmas holidays.

Unskilled.—The demand for housework girls continues to dominate, with three employers for every applicant. The demand for day workers and cleaners was very satisfactory with a good supply of help.

The number of persons called for by employers in December was 1,253 as compared with 887 in 1921; 1,022 in 1920 and 2,558 in 1919.

The number of positions reported filled in December was 979 as compared with 738 in 1921; 837 in 1920; and 1,596 in 1919.

CONVENTION OF PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Mayor Curley addressed 200 members and guests of the Society of Master House Painters and Decorators of Massachusetts, at the opening session of the thirty-second annual convention in Horticultural Hall upon the 3d instant, and urged a better understanding and co-operation among employers and employees, stating that such action would not only benefit labor, but the city, state and nation as well.

"Harmonious action between these forces," declared Mayor Curley, "will tend to uplift, make greater resources and do away with general unrest. With this understanding, our great and noble country has been able to build itself up socially and financially to such an extent that it is unparalleled by any other nation on the earth."

"During the 140 years that we have been a republic America has made a more rapid growth in every way than any of our neighboring or European countries. Yes, in ten years, we have accomplished more than they have in a century and it is all due to better co-operation and understanding."

"Boston has now started a building campaign that will undoubtedly total about $135,000,000, but the assistance of employers and employees in a common bond is needed to put the thing over satisfactorily."

"Planning boards are a necessary thing, for they can place before the people the general ideas of what is being done or what may be contemplated. It will bring public co-operation. If we work together, forget little differences and grievances the country will reach the goal for which our forefathers fought and worked so valiantly."

MUNICIPAL PLANS FOR 1923.

Mayor Curley wishes for the citizens of Boston a happy and successful New Year, with the consciousness of a year devoted to the interests of Boston and improvements that will keep her in the forefront of American cities.

The Mayor states:

"The program for 1923, as far as the administration of the affairs of Boston is concerned, calls for improvements in the health, fire, police, public works, school, park, legal and commercial affairs.

"It is the plan of the administration to establish two health units from the income of the George R. White fund, one in the North End and another in East Boston, through which all public health activities may clear and as a result of which a reduction in infant mortality may be possible and a better protection of public health be afforded.

"There will be a rigid enforcement of health regulations, a vigorous policy on demolition of unsanitary tenement property and preventive measures including the Schick test for the protection of health. All chronic cases will be removed from Long Island to Parker Hill on the mainland. New hospital buildings will be erected at a cost of $750,000 and buildings now under construction will be completed.

"The program outlined for the Fire Department calls for a complete motorization of apparatus with improved quarters for men and apparatus and a central fire station at Shawmut avenue and Tremont streets.

"New headquarters for the Police Department at Pemberton square at a cost of $1,000,000 with $500,000 to be expended on improvement of existing stations with an increase in the Traffic Squad.

"Among the public works planned for the new year is the new Harvard Bridge to cost $7,500,000 and a street program to relieve traffic congestion now a menace, at a cost of $20,000,000. This latter improvement will include work on Cambridge, Portland, Tremont, Exchange and Summer streets. There will also be a consolidation of city yards and the substitution of oil for coal as fuel.

"The educational program for the city calls for the abolition of portable schools. It is my aim to provide a seat for every pupil in school.

"The fight for validation of national bank collections, an adverse decision on which would mean a loss to Boston of $3,000,000, will be continued. The fight for the removal of the differentials will be waged with renewed vigor to the end that commerce and industry may be restored and developed.

"It is also planned to complete permanent roads throughout the park system, with a rose garden at Franklin Park and baseball diamonds with bleachers to accommodate thousands in each section of the city. It is also planned to complete the south shore boulevard.

"Beginning with February 1, 1923, Boston will enjoy a reduction in the price of gas, which will result in an annual saving of $400,000, and I shall continue to fight for a reduction of charges for electricity. I shall also continue to fight for a five-cent fare for all lines, with the promise of a single fare from Hyde Park in January.

"It is with the deep conviction of how sorely Boston needs these things that I pledge myself to work for them during the new year and hope at the end of the new year to find them accomplished. Again I wish for Boston a happy and prosperous new year."

LAND-TAKING IN EAST BOSTON.

The Mayor has approved an order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land in Milton street, East Boston, for sewerage works.

The right and easement is taken to lay and maintain sewerage works in the following described lands, exclusive of any interest in trees, buildings or other structures standing thereon, reserving to the owners thereof the right to use the lands for any purpose except such as may injure or obstruct said works, and except for placing or maintaining any structure on said lands not authorized in writing by the Mayor of said City; trees, buildings or other structures standing upon or affixed to the land in which an easement is hereby taken are to be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said taking for the purpose of constructing said sewerage works. Said lands are in that part of Boston known as East Boston and are bounded as follows:

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Milton street, bounded:

Southwest by Wordsworth street, ten feet; northwest by another part of Milton street, eighty-five feet; northeast by the same, ten feet; and southeast by the same, eighty-five feet; containing eight hundred and fifty square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows:

Seventy-eight linear feet of 10-inch pipe sanitary sewer, in the above described premises, being part of the private way known as Milton street, leading northeasterly from Wordsworth street for a distance of about eighty-five feet.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the improvement ordered herein.

This Board determines that no person sustains damages in his estate by the taking of the aforesaid easement and construction of said sewerage works and awards no damages therefor.

Ordered, That this Board estimates that the lots of abutting land on both sides of Milton street for a distance of about two hundred feet northeasterly from Wordsworth street, excluding the two lots at the northeasterly and southeasterly corners of Wordsworth street, will receive benefit or advantage, other than the general advantage to the community, from the improvement ordered herein, each of the particular lots to the amount respectively set against them herein; said lots and the supposed owners thereof being shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Plan No. 484, Sewerage Works, Milton street, East Boston, November 15, 1922, F. O. Whitney, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department," and on file in the office of said department.

TRANSFERS IN APPROPRIATIONS.

City Auditor Rupert S. Carven appoints the following transfers in appropriations in departments of the City of Boston and County of Suffolk, indorsed by Budget Commissioner Charles J. Fox and approved by his Honor the Mayor:

ASSESSING DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, December 28, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—We respectfully ask for the transfer of $1,315, within our appropriation, from the following items:

From A-1, Permanent Employees: Deputy Assessors, 5 at $4,000, $277, to the appropriation for A-3, Unassigned, $277; Clerks, 5 at $1,900, $31, to the appropriation for A-3, Unassigned, $31; Clerks, 6 at $1,600, $60, to the appropriation for A-3, Unassigned, $60.

From B-1, Printing and Binding, $220, to the appropriation for A-3, Unassigned, $220.

From B-2, Postage, $176, to the appropriation for A-3, Unassigned, $176.

From B-3, Advertising and Posting, $60, to the appropriation for A-3, Unassigned, $50; to B-35, Fees, Services of Venires, etc., $10.

From C-9, Office Equipment, $56, to the appropriation for C-10, Library Equipment, $30.33; to A-3, Unassigned, $25.67.

From D-1, Office Supplies, $365, to the appropriation for B-37, Photographic and Blueprinting, $110; to A-3, Unassigned, $255.

From F-14, Special Items (listing), $70, to the appropriation for D-11, Motor Vehicle Supplies, $40; to A-3, Unassigned, $30.

The amount requested to be transferred to A-3 is necessary because of abnormal conditions arising in the Registry of Deeds, due to the increase of 10,000 instruments over the previous year, which was the largest number ever recorded.

The amount requested to be transferred to B-35 is for registration of automobile for the year 1923.

The transfer required for B-37 is due to additional blueprints not anticipated in making of budget for the year 1922.

The amount requested for C-10 is due to purchase of certain books on taxation, etc.

The amount requested for D-11 is due to increased mileage of automobile, which required greater consumption of gasoline than amount consumed in 1922, due to the additional number of investigations over the corresponding year.

Respectfully,
BOARD OF ASSESSORS,
by JOSEPH G. O'MALLEY,
Secretary.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, December 30, 1922.

BOSTON SANATORIUM.

Trustees' Office.

BOSTON, December 21, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—At the present time there is no such position as coal passer at the Boston Sanatorium. The trustees find that it is desirable to have one, and they have voted to appoint one with a salary of $1,456 a year, which is at the rate of $28 a week. This position is needed during the cold weather when, of course, there is much coal to be shoveled.

The trustees respectfully request your approval of this new position.

In order to pay for this coal passer, and for other reasons given below, the trustees request the following transfers within the appropriation:

From the appropriation for A-1, Pathologist at $2,000 a year, $202.25, to the appropriation for A-1, Coal Passer at $28 a week, $112; A-1, Special Investigator at $1,400 a year, $8.10; A-2, Temporary Employees, $82.15.

The $112 for the coal passer is to pay for the salary of this new position, if granted, during the month of January. The $8.10 for special investigator is needed because of an error made in the budget when calculated.

Under A-2 there is a deficit made because the baker is now serving on the jury, and his place must be filled by a temporary baker, who must be paid from A-2. The deficit for this reason is $57.14.

The physicians serving in the night clinic are paid from A-2, not from A-1. There is a deficit here of $60. There is, however, a balance under A-2 of $34.99, which makes the net deficit for A-2, $82.15.

Yours very truly,
JAMES J. MINOT,
Secretary.

Transferred by City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, December 29, 1922.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, December 28, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request a transfer in the appropriation of this department as follows:

From the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, Building Inspectors, 19 at $2,100 per year ($39,550), $425, to the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, Clerk, 1 at $1,600 per year, $105; B-2, Postage, $50; B-39, General Plant, $50; C-10, Library, $20; D-1, Office, $200—$425.

A-1: This transfer is necessary on account of overestimating the unexpended balance on hand.

B-2: The reason for the additional amount of postage is that owing to a change in the system of issuing permits, it was necessary to send permits by mail.

B-39: This money was appropriated for the upkeep of typewriting machines and adding machines and the correction of insurance maps, which has been greater than anticipated.

C-10: In purchasing the necessary technical volumes together with the cost of atlas which had been subscribed for, we find the additional sum of $20 is required.

D-1: This additional amount is necessary on account of the increase in number of applications, records, and office expenditures, occasioned by the increase in building operations in the city, amounting to nearly 100 per cent.

Yours very truly,
JOHN H. MAHONY,
Building Commissioner.

Transferred by City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, December 29, 1922.

COLLECTING DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, December 28, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The following transfers are requested within the appropriation of the Collecting Department, Water Division:

From A-1, 7 Clerks at $1,700, $40; 2 Clerks at $1,400, $460, to B-2, Postage, $500.

This transfer is necessary to provide for the mailing of demand notices to delinquent tax payers.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM M. MCMORROW,
City Collector.

Transferred by City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, December 29, 1922.

BOSTON, December 28, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The following transfer is requested within the appropriation of the Collecting Department:

From A-1, 1 Teller, at $2,800, $98.13; A-1, 1 Secretary at $2,000, $500, to C-9, Office Equipment, $98.13; B-2, Postage, $500.

This transfer is to provide payment for a typewriter and electric sealer, purchased through the Supply Department, and for the mailing of poll tax demands and personal notices.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM M. MCMORROW,
City Collector.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, December 27, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—On behalf of the Trustees of the Hospital Department, I respectfully request the following transfers:

From B-39, General Plant, $1,000; E-9, Machinery, $400; G-2, Special Investigation, $100—$1,500, to Materials, $1,500.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH P. MANNING,
President, Board of Trustees.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, December 30, 1922.

BOSTON, December 27, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—You may remember that when the budget for the year 1922-23 was presented, Mr. Carven decided that inasmuch as the Thorndike Memorial Building would not become operative until late in the year, it was not wise to incorporate the salaries for the physicians in the budget, but ask for the same later on. Doctor Peabody has selected for his assistant Dr. Robert N. Nye. Doctor Nye served in the Pathological Department of this hospital with Dr. Mallory, as research assistant in pathology, from October 1, 1920, until January 1, 1922. To provide for his salary at the rate of $3,500 a year from January 1 to January 31, 1923, inclusive, it becomes necessary to request a transfer within our appropriation. I therefore respectfully request the following transfer:

From A-1, Permanent Employees, 3 Physicians at $38.89 per week, $18; 3 Physicians at $35 per week, $37; 7 Physicians at $29.17 per week, $52; 3 Physicians at $23.33 per week, $65; 4 Clerks at $25-$27 per week, $29.37; 3 Technicians at $25 per week, $100—$301.37, to A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Assistant Physician, Thorndike Laboratory, at $68.05 per week, $301.37.

The amount transferred, $301.37, becomes available because of a small amount of slack in the pay roll.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH P. MANNING,
President, Board of Trustees.

VISIT OF ADMIRAL BENSON.

Mayor Curley is especially gratified to receive a positive assurance from Rear Admiral William S. Benson, U. S. N., retired, and now commissioner of the United States Shipping Board, that he would be delighted to come to Boston upon February 15 as the guest of the City of Boston and the United Spanish War Veterans, and deliver an address in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the sinking of the U. S. S. "Maine," to be held at Faneuil Hall.

A notable reception and entertainment will be extended Admiral Benson during his stay in Boston.

Admiral Benson notified Mayor Curley that he has canceled all engagements in order to have the pleasure of being in Boston upon the memorable naval anniversary marking the sinking of the U. S. S. "Maine."

Admiral Benson is one of the most popular men in the naval life of this country during the present generation. He graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1877, and has received the degree of LL.D. from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa., and Loyola College, Loyola, Md. Admiral Benson was appointed chief of naval operations on May 11, 1915, and later sent by former President Woodrow Wilson to confer with the Allied Powers of Europe during the year 1917 relative to our naval operations abroad. He was appointed the naval representative of the United States to draw up naval terms for armistice with Germany and the Central Powers, and served also as adviser to the American Commission which assembled at Versailles to negotiate peace. He returned to the United States and continued as chief of naval operations until September 25, 1919, when he retired by operation of law after forty-seven years' active naval service, and was recommended by former President Wilson to be made permanent admiral for life. He was awarded the Distinguished Medal of Congress in 1919, and also holds the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor of France and the Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George.

NEW YEAR'S EVE CEREMONIES.

The City of Boston observed New Year's Eve with notable ceremonies and mass singing upon Boston Common.

All lights were extinguished at 11:58. For two minutes the audience of 5,000 persons at the Parkman Bandstand maintained absolute silence, while taps sounded. At one second past 12, a blare of trumpets announced the New Year. A great cheer arose, and the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

It was a solemn audience, with none of the boisterousness that characterized New Year celebrations in other parts of the city. The selections of the 101st Infantry Band were still rendered. At times the whole audience sang with the band, under the urging of the band leader, A. H. Merritt.

The mass singing was under direction of Leon E. Baldwin, and John J. Morgan served as chairman of the New Year's Eve Committee of the Public Celebration Association.

The program at the Common was as follows:

- Band selections:
- (a) March, "The New Year." Coughlin
 - (b) Overture, "Rakoczy." Kela Bole
 - (c) Selection from "Il Trovatore." Verdi
- Address by Mayor James M. Curley.
- Songs for the audience:
- (a) "America."
 - (b) "Onward, Christian Soldiers."
- Band selections:
- (a) "The Lost Chord."
 - (b) "Twelfth Mass."
- Songs for the audience:
- (a) "Kentucky Home."
 - (b) "Silver Threads Among the Gold."
 - (c) "Old Black Joe."
- Band selections:
- (a) Waltz, "Hydropaten." Gungl
 - (b) Entre-act, "Wayside Chapel."
- Songs for the audience:
- (a) "Adeste Fideles" ("O Come All Ye Faithful.")
 - (b) "Silent Night."
- Band selections:
- (a) "Rondo Militaire." Bohm
 - (b) Serenade, "Hearts and Flowers." Tobami
- Instrumental solo.
- Songs for the audience:
- (a) "Battle Hymn of the Republic."
 - (b) "Auld Lang Syne."
- Band selections:
- (a) Patrol, Selected.
 - (b) "Stars and Stripes Forever." Sousa
- Grand finale and welcome to the New Year—Midnight.

Boston's message from Boston Common on New Year's Eve by Mayor James M. Curley was as follows:

To the citizens of Boston, my neighbors and friends, I give the greetings of the New Year accompanied with the sincere wish that 1923 may bring the blessings of health and happiness, peace and prosperity; the courage to face the new days with cheerfulness and confidence; and the resolution to maintain this city of their homes and affections in the forefront of American communities.

I ask them to remember that the years of war and waste have passed into history; that the days of hatred and suspicion are behind us; and I urge them to carry into the New Year the great lesson of the recent Christmas season,—peace on earth, good will to men.

The new year will have its problems to solve, even as the dead years had theirs. By unity of purpose, faith in the essential honesty of our fellows, patience to hear wisdom to examine and resolution to bring justice and honor to our judgments, all problems may be solved and all questions answered with benefit to the body politic and profit to the individual.

There are false prophets and teachers of evil abroad in the land today, seeking to breed dissension and distrust among men and striving to plant seeds and create conditions, detrimental to the principles taught by the fathers and injurious to the policies and practices that have made our country great and its name glorious. The forces of evil and propaganda of falsehood must be met with patience, repelled with firmness and repudiated with finality, by a people strong in the faith and tradition of a Commonwealth that has lived in honor and justice, that the good name of the community may be untarnished and its peace and prosperity preserved and perpetuated.

I bring to my neighbors a message of good cheer. The days of depression are passing; industry is thriving, business is full of hope and courage; unemployment grows less and less; and I can see ahead the days of constancy of work and wages, which bring social peace and industrial contentment, and a return of those normal conditions of life in whose presence the enemies of civic unity and social harmony stand baffled.

I see a great revival of the maritime activity of the Port of Boston and a restoration of that international trade and commerce which were once the glory of our people. The increase of shipping in this port in the past few months has been as amazing as gratifying, and if we will but work harmoniously, unitedly and courageously for the legitimate rights and interests of our city, and insistently demand fair play in law and practice for them this city in the coming days will resume the proud place once held in the industry and commerce of America.

I commend you in the New Year a matter of more importance than our material prosperity, and which is one of the most vital factors in it—our spiritual responsibility; our duty to our fellow man, the preservation of the social and religious peace, and the avoidance of the speed and activity that weaken and imperil the fellowship of the community, which in the last analysis is applied Americanism.

AREA OF BOSTON.

Area to ward lines (26 wards), 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,944 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,484 acres flats. Land area only 27,971 acres (i. e., 43.70 square miles). Included in the latter are 154 acres of filled flats added to the land area of South Boston in 1919 and 1920 and 133 acres to that of East Boston. Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, eight are larger in land area than Boston, viz., Los Angeles (365.7 sq. miles), New York (318), Chicago (199.4), Philadelphia (129), Baltimore (91.9), Detroit (80), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.25). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 sq. mi.).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and others have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., Los Angeles, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

ALTITUDES IN BOSTON.

(1) Highest, Custom House tower, 510.71 feet, i. e., top of filial above mean low water (same as "City base") or 495 feet from surface of street; (2) Bellevue Hill, West Roxbury, 376.3 feet to top of new reservoir, or about 320 feet to top of hill; (3) Bunker Hill Monument, 307.84 feet, or top of Breed's Hill, Charlestown, at base of monument, 86.44 feet; (4) Slocum Hill, near Allandale street, Jamaica Plain, about 300 feet; (5) High Port Observatory, Highland Park, Roxbury, 291 feet, or top of hill at base of tower, 158 feet; (6) Revolution Memorial Monument, Telegraph Hill, South Boston, 270 feet, or top of hill at base of monument, 145 feet; (7) State House, top of dome, 261 feet; (8) Hill between Poplar and Dale streets, West Roxbury, near Hyde Park boundary line, about 258 feet; (9) Peters Hill, Arnold Arboretum, 237 feet; (10) Fairmount Hill, Hyde Park, about 220 feet. Beacon Hill, now 107.89 feet (i. e., at corner Mt. Vernon and Joy streets), was originally about as high as the base of the State House dome.

REDIVISION OF BOSTON INTO WARDS.

Chapter 630, Acts of 1914, required the redivision of Boston, by the City Council, into not less than 24 nor more than 36 wards, so arranged as to contain as nearly as could be ascertained an equal number of voters in each ward. On December 28, 1914, the City Council enacted as an Ordinance, by vote of 6 to 3, the plan submitted by its Committee on Redivision of Wards. This plan describes the new boundaries of the 26 wards. (See Municipal Register for 1921, pages 196-207.) The changes effected by the redivision of wards were mainly these, viz., Wards 1 and 2, East Boston, are divided by Prescott and Princeton streets instead of as before; Charlestown has two wards (3 and 4) instead of three; Ward 5 covers the old Wards 6, 7 and 8; Ward 6 in place of old Ward 9; Ward 7 in place of old 10; Ward 8 in place of old 11; Ward 9 and 10 cover the old South Boston Wards 13, 14 and 15 mostly; Ward 11 takes in the northern half of old Ward 16 and western end of old Ward 15; Ward

12 is similar to old Ward 17 and Ward 13 to old 18; Ward 14 includes old Ward 19 and adjacent part of old Ward 22 (as far as Perkins and Centre streets); Wards 15 and 16 cover old Ward 21 and the northern part of 22 (as far as Boylston street); Wards 17, 18 and 19 cover that part of old Ward 16 south of Dudley street and all of old Ward 20; Wards 20 and 21 cover the eastern half and western half respectively of old Ward 24 (as far as Blue Hill avenue and Walk Hill street); Ward 22 includes the southern half of old 22 below Boylston street and the northern end of old Ward 23 to Whipple avenue, Walk Hill, South and Allandale streets; Ward 23 is unchanged except as to its northern boundary just stated, and Ward 24 takes in Mount Hope section, east of railroad, Mattapan and Hyde Park. Ward 25 and 26 cover the southern half and northern half respectively of old Ward 25, Brighton.

POPULATION OF UNITED STATES, NEW ENGLAND AND MASSACHUSETTS.

Continental United States (i. e., 48 States in 1920, 105,708,771; outlying possessions, 12,148,738; total, 117,857,509. New England, 7,400,909; Massachusetts, 3,852,356 or 52 per cent of New England, and ranking sixth in the Union. In density of population it ranks second, i. e., 476 per square mile of land, Rhode Island ranking first, with 566 per square mile of land. Population of the other New England States in 1920, ranking from the highest total; Connecticut, 1,380,631; Maine, 768,014; Rhode Island, 604,397; New Hampshire, 443,083; Vermont, 352,428. Density for New England, 119 per sq. m.; for U. S. (48 states) 36 per sq. m.

In Sept., 1922, the population of the United States slightly exceeded 110,000,000 (i. e., 3.46 per cent of the earth's estimated total) the rate of increase being 3 per cent every two years, as shown by the actual increase from 1910 to 1920, while that of Massachusetts was slightly over 4.000.000.

POPULATION OF OTHER CITIES OF OVER THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND, WITH INCREASE OVER PREVIOUS CENSUS. (RANKING FROM HIGHEST.)

New York, 5,621,151 (increase of 854,268 or 17.9 per cent over 1910). i. e., Manhattan Borough, 2,284,103; Brooklyn, 2,022,262; Bronx, 732,016; Queens, 466,811; and Richmond, 115,959. Chicago, 2,701,705 (inc. 516,422 or 23.6 per cent); Philadelphia, 1,823,158 (inc. 274,150 or 17.7 per cent); Detroit, 993,739 (inc. 527,973 or 113.4 per cent); Cleveland, 796,836 (inc. 236,173 or 42.1 per cent); St. Louis, 772,897 (inc. 85,888 or 12.5 per cent); Baltimore 733,826 (inc. 175,341 or 31.4 per cent); Pittsburgh, 588,193 (inc. 54,288 or 10.2 per cent); Los Angeles, 576,673 (inc. 257,475 or 80.7 per cent); San Francisco, 508,410 (inc. 91,498 or 21.9 per cent); Buffalo, 506,775 (inc. 83,060 or 19.6 per cent); Milwaukee, 457,147 (inc. 83,290 or 22.3 per cent); Washington, 437,571 (inc. 106,502 or 32.2 per cent); Newark, 414,216 (inc. 66,747 or 19.2 per cent); Cincinnati, 401,247 (inc. 37,656 or 10.4 per cent); New Orleans, 387,219 (inc. 48,144 or 14.21 per cent); Minneapolis, 380,582 (inc. 79,174 or 26.3 per cent); Kansas City, Mo., 324,410 (inc. 76,029 or 30.6 per cent); Seattle, 315,652 (inc. 78,458 or 33.1 per cent); Indianapolis, 314,194 (inc. 80,544 or 34.5 per cent.)

CITIZENSHIP, BOTH SEXES, ALSO FAMILIES.

Native white citizens, 246,816; foreign-born whites naturalized, 102,822; Negro citizens, 12,086; total citizens, 361,724. Foreign-born whites remaining aliens, 118,214. Only 56.30 per cent of the citizens registered for voting purposes in 1920 (for City Election) and of the 203,666 who did register only 30.53 per cent voted. Coming to the final facts to be remembered, only 17.2 per cent of the citizens of Boston took part in electing the three members of the City Council and two members of the School Committee in 1920, these five candidates taking office at the will of only 8.3 per cent of the citizens, which was more than sufficient to elect. On the question of permitting Sunday Sports and Games, 10.9 per cent of the citizens voted in favor and 4.3 per cent against, 7.7 per cent being more than sufficient for a majority in favor. The City Election of 1920 reveals the most flagrant case of minority rule ever noted in Boston, not more than one-ninth of the women citizens being interested enough to vote.

Total families in 1920, 164,785 or 3,679 more than in 1915. As this shows a larger increase of families than of persons (i. e., 2,621) since 1915, here is another discrepancy that discredits the 1920 Census. As 4.63 represents the average number of persons to a family, 3,679 families would contain 17,034 persons. The U. S. Census of 1920 shows a net increase of only 2,621 persons since 1915.

POPULATION (ESTIMATED) OF BOSTON POSTAL DISTRICT.

The Supt. of Mails, Boston Post office, maintains a system of mail delivery whereby the Boston Postal District, consisting of 12 cities (not including Lynn and Woburn) and 11 towns, covering about 231 square miles of territory, is divided into 74 delivery districts, each having a mail station. They extend northerly as far as to include Stoneham, easterly including Winthrop, southerly including South Weymouth and westerly including Wellesley, all being situated in the Metropolitan District or "Greater Boston" and mostly within 10 miles of State House.

Population of Boston Postal District estimated as 1,885,829 in July, 1922, and of these separate delivery districts in Boston as follows: Allston, 18,811; Back Bay, 65,608; Grove Hall, 43,018; Hanover St., 30,000; Jamaica Plain, 37,850; Roslindale, 19,989; Roxbury Crossing, 52,275; Station A, 91,943; Upham's Corner, 49,896. These are minor districts (not all that the City contains) and do not correspond with the geographical districts.

OWNED AND RENTED HOMES IN NEW ENGLAND, UNITED STATES CENSUS.

Total owned, 668,324 or 332.571 mortgaged and 335,753 free; rented, 1,010,586. In Mass. 301,245 owned or 174,933 mortgaged and 126,312 free; rented, 564,097. To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I beg to forward herewith data relative to the case of Sweet & Donohue, which was an action against the City of Boston brought by P. Donohue of the Fire Department to recover for damage to automobile caused by the skidding of Engine 39 while responding to Box 1281 on December 21, 1921. TAKING OF LAND, BATH STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, December 27, 1922.
To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I beg to transmit herewith opinion of the Corporation Counsel, to take up to land in connection with the taking of 17 feet of land in addition to what has already been approved by your honorable body on Bath street. This land is needed to insure the proper development there which will, it is estimated, add some three million dollars' worth of taxable property to the city.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, December 27, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

My dear Sir,—I enclose herewith an order to be submitted by you to the City Council in regard to a new discontinuance and conveyance of a portion of Bath street and revoking the order approved by you on August 6, 1922.

The engineers of the Post Office Square Company have slightly changed their plans, necessitating some changes in the lands to be conveyed to and by the city and for which an increased amount will be paid. The old order called for the payment to the city of $47,370. The new order calls for the payment to the city of $48,000, which latter sum is suggested by the Corporation Counsel and Mr. Hunneman, attorney for the company.

As this order must have two readings not less than fourteen days apart, I will ask you to forward the order to the City Council today if you conveniently can.

Very truly yours,
CHARLES FRANK DAY,
City Conveyancer.

Whereas, It is proposed that a portion of Bath street, containing an area of 1,873 square feet, now or then on a plan dated November 23, 1922, and signed by Amos A. H. Lincoln, Civil Engineers, shall be discontinued:

Ordered, In event of such discontinuance that the Mayor, in the name and behalf of the city, is hereby authorized to release and quit-claim to the Post Office Square Company, its successors or assigns, by an instrument in writing satisfactory to the Law Department, all the right, title and interest which the City of Boston may have in and to the said land at the time of or after the said portion of said street is discontinued, and also in and to a triangular parcel of land containing about 17 feet lying west of Bath street and bounded northerly by the southerly end of the Delta Building property, upon payment to be conveyed in fee to the City of Boston for street purposes a parcel of land containing 187 square feet, more or less, which is now located on the southerly corner of Post Office square and said Bath street, as shown on a plan signed by said engineers and dated December 21, 1922.

Ordered, That the order relating to this matter approved August 8, 1922, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

To His Excellency the Governor and the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled:
To the Honorable Mayor and City Council of the City of Boston:

Under the charter amendments of 1909 establishing the Finance Commission (see sections 17 to 21, chapter 492, of the Acts of 1909) the commission is charged with the duty to investigate from time to time any and all matters relating to appropriations, loans, accounts, and methods of administration affecting the City of Boston or the County of Suffolk, or any department thereof, that may appear to the commission to require investigation and to report thereon from time to time to the Mayor, the City Council, the Governor or the General Court.

On April 10, 1922, the Mayor of the City of Boston sent to the City Council a loan order for $70,000 for the establishment of a playground at Baldwin place in the North End of the City of Boston. The order was rejected by the Council on June 5, 1922.

On July 31, 1922, the president of the Council who had voted to reject the order on June 5, introduced an order for the same amount and for the same purpose. The order received the unanimous vote of the Council on July 31, 1922, and again at its final passage on August 14, 1922.

On October 7, 1922, the city took certain lands in Baldwin place by eminent domain in accordance with the terms of the loan order above referred to. On November 8, 1922, upon receiving deeds of conveyances of the land from the owners, the city paid them $62,600. Consequently, the Finance Commission concerning the passage of the loan order, which convinced the commission that an investigation was necessary.

The commission began taking evidence on November 13, 1922, and beginning November 20, 1922, and on thirteen days thereafter, the commission conducted public hearings on the matter and had the evidence taken verbatim.

In addition to the executives and to the legislative bodies to which the Finance Commission is directed to report the results of its investigations, it was advised by Attorney-General Attwill, in a letter dated November 15, 1917, that whenever an investigation conducted by the commission disclosed evidence that seemed to show that a crime might have been committed, it was proper for the Finance Commission, if indeed it was not its duty, to bring the attention of the official having the duty of prosecution of such crime the facts disclosed by its investigation.

The Finance Commission is of the opinion that the evidence taken in this investigation should be presented to the District Attorney, and accordingly has this day delivered to the District Attorney for Suffolk County a copy of the evidence taken at the public hearing and a copy of this report.

Respectfully submitted,
MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

COURTENAY GUILD,
JOHN F. MOORS,
J. WALDO FORD,
The Finance Commission.

MAJORITY AND MINORITY REPORTS, SCHOOL HISTORIES.

A communication was received from the School Committee transmitting the majority and minority reports on the question of excluding certain histories from the schools.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, before this matter is placed on file I desire to say a word if I may have the report for a moment. Mr. President, I want to say, concerning the decision of the School Board on the matter of the hearing granted by them upon the request of this body relative to the removal from the hands of future citizens certain school histories now in use and in use for many years in the schools, that I have great respect personally for every member of the School Committee, for the two members who are the minority in this report, the two of the three members who made up the majority, and for the other members who attended the question although voting with the majority. This School Committee majority of three against two concerning Professor Herli's book and Professor Muzzey's book has a very serious subject to suggest the opinion of such patriotic organizations as the American Legion (nations), Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, Grand Army of the Republic, Knights of Columbus, Sons of the American Revolution, United Spanish War Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars, and even the New York School Committee. In its report, which I have read in another place,

When you stop to think out of your home district, where you are presumed to be bad, you get 184 votes out of 192 cast, you are pretty well satisfied—even though I am one of those 184 that voted for Watson, and it goes without saying that I did not vote for Watson alone. The reason why there was a small number out is because the nineteen candidates did not spend much money. I understand by the reports on file that I spent the largest sum on the election of $1,000—and that the City bills are all paid; at least I will make you think so, anyway. The whole nineteen candidates did not spend as much as was spent in East Boston and Charlestown by either of the candidates for last year, and much less than was spent by the candidates for United States Senator in the primary in these districts. I spent more than $19,000 without any vehicles to take people to the polls, with bad going, with lack of workers at the polls, with no circular campaign, and all that, that is the reason why there was a small vote cast. But the intelligent people voted for me and the others who were elected, and I think many intelligent people voted for some of the others. But I do want to say in closing that we are on the eve of a new year. Next Sunday is New Year's eve and the following day is the beginning of another year, 1923. It is time we stopped tearing down, and it is time that we—and I refer to the Mayor and to this Council, individually and collectively, and I refer to the Finance Commission, to the Legislature, to these political organizations, the Geo-Gos, for instance, to the large taxpayers and to the workers, the rent payers, it is time we stopped tearing down and did some constructive work. Boston's fair name has been maligned and blackened from Maine to California, and I think we have no control. The Finance Commission spent half a million dollars—$468,000—by compulsion we give that to them, not by desire or wish, but we are obliged to by statute—they spent nearly half a million dollars in ten years, and not one single constructive thing has emanated from them as a body from them individually. I was in Washington, Philadelphia and Baltimore right after the election and met several people whom I knew, and talked frankly with them and they with me, and the opinion they have of Boston is not fit to repeat, and all because of a few self-appointed custodians of other people's morals and custodians of other people's good ways and manners, and even of their business, and who want to remove things from other people's closets but put good locks on their own closets,—they have been responsible for the fair name of Boston being maligned and blackened from Maine to California. So, on the eve of the new year, as a constructive new statesman, I want to say that all of us should get together. I propose to support the Mayor of this city in many of his great undertakings, knowing that he will not meet with the support of those that should support him. I do not refer to this body at all. I will go to the Legislature to support meritorious propositions which tend toward the upbuilding of Boston. There is the widest field in the United States—and I want to congratulate him in favoring it, even though some not friendly or otherwise with him may be beneficiaries, but the great big improvement overlooks the fact that those who do not deserve the benefit will be benefited, and I think he is to be congratulated on his wisdom and his manly conduct in embracing this proposition into certain reforms and improvements which he is going to ask from the Legislature. I think, Mr. President, that the coming year will be the most prosperous year in the history of Boston, and we want to be a party to it. I am going to sacrifice a great deal of my natural conduct, will modify my conduct in action a trifle, although it will be artificial to some extent, and to humiliate myself to some extent if necessary, and join with all and all those who believe in the upbuilding of this city we all love, the greatest city in the United States, the city with the greatest possibilities, the city that can be the city beautiful, if we will but pull together. And, Mr. President, with these pull together. And, Mr. President, with these remarks and trusting that there will be co-operation here in this body with the Mayor, and that the Mayor will co-operate with this body as well, and that the city officials will co-operate with this body and with his Honor the Mayor, and that all will have the assurance of the Governor and the General Court in the matter of the upbuilding of this city that we all adore, and, furthermore, that the newspapers will join in doing something to build up rather than tear down. I am, Mr. President, that out of a suspension of the rules the order I introduced will be passed.

Coun. MORIARTY in the chair.

HEALTH ORDINANCE.

Coun. WATSON offered the following:
City of Boston,
In the year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-Two.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

No building, vehicle, structure, receptacle or thing used or to be used for any purpose whatsoever shall be made, used, kept, maintained or operated in the city, if the use, keeping, maintaining or operating of such building, vehicle, structure, receptacle or thing shall be the occasion of any nuisance, or detrimental to health.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

REIMBURSEMENT OF D. DOHERTY COMPANY.

Coun. GILBODY offered the following:
Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favor legislation to reimburse the D. Doherty Company for losses sustained in delivering coal to the city for use in certain schoolhouses.
Coun. GILBODY—This is an order which I introduced here earlier in the session of this year. It embodies a claim for coal sold during war-time, and when originally introduced the Mayor caused an extensive investigation to be made of it, and now I am satisfied of the justice of the claim, and my motion recalls the order before the body. It simply asks this body to tell the Legislature or some committee in the Legislature that we would favor the passage of the order. I ask suspension of the rules.
The resolution was adopted under a suspension of the rules.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.20 o'clock p. m., on motion of Coun. WALSH, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.
The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 3.40 o'clock p. m.

5. Report on message of Mayor communication and orders, referred today, for taking and sale of land on Bath street—that the order ought to pass.
The report was accepted, and the question came on giving the preamble and order its first reading.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I am going to state that I am voting "yes" today. I am going to reserve the right to vote "no" on all other orders, and I want to make it a matter of record so that we won't get so much newspaper notoriety from the crowd who are spending more money wrongfully without any return to the City of Boston—The Finance Commission. I make that statement.

The question came on giving its first reading and passed, yeas 6, nays 0.
The order will take its final reading not less than 14 days from date.

AREA OF UNITED STATES, NEW ENGLAND, ETC.

Total of the 48 states in square miles, 3,026,719; Alaska, 590,884; making grand total of 3,617,603 sq. m. or 42.11 per cent of continent of North America and 6.32 per cent of the earth's land area. The six states of New England, 66,424 sq. m., i. e., Maine, 33,040; Vermont, 9,564; N. H., 9,341; Mass. 8,266; Conn., 4,965; R. I., 1,248. Land area of New England, 61,976 sq. m.; of Mass., 8,093 sq. m.

Total area of U. S. (inclu. Alaska) 112,000 sq. miles less than total of Canadian provinces, but total population is over 12 times as many.

INCOME TAX (STATE) ON INTANGIBLE PROPERTY.

In accordance with Chap. 269, ss. 2 and 11, General Acts of 1916, intangible personal property (except bank stock) is subject to be subject to assessment and taxation in 1917 and thereafter. In place of that tax an income tax was established, amounting to six per cent per year on income derived from such intangibles, subject to various specified exemptions.

Owing to the exemption from tax of intangible personal property, the total valuation of personality in Boston decreased from $328,929,679 in 1916 to $162,545,343 in 1917, a loss representing $2,945,000 in taxes. By sec. 23 of said Chapter 269, it was provided that the State Treasurer should pay to each city or town an amount equal to the difference between the personal property levy in 1915 and that of 1917 computed at the 1915 tax rate. If the income tax collections exceeded the amount required for such distribution, the excess was also to be distributed, this in proportion to the State tax imposed on each city or town in 1917. The amount of income taxes paid by the State to the City of Boston under said statute for 1917 was $3,704,855; for 1918, $4,085,175; for 1919, $3,017,133; and $620,735 for Schools; for 1920, $3,754,237 and $644,703 for Schools; for 1921, $3,182,200, and $660,122 for Schools. Total for the five years, 1917 to 1921, inclusive, $19,669,165. In 1917 the total distribution in Metropolitan District outside Boston was $3,198,281 or $506,574 less than in Boston alone. Total for whole District (incl. Boston) $6,903,136 or 61.64 per cent of total for State, and $1,423,401 in excess of the total shrinkage in taxes on personality from 1916 to 1917 in the District due to the new law exempting intangible property.

EXPENDITURES FOR THE FISCAL YEAR.

Total ordinary and extraordinary, $63,066,243 or $5,588,333 more than in 1920-21. For maintenance of departments (excluding Water Service and Printing Department), $36,128,513 (including $11,167,921 for School Departments); for City and County interest, $3,415,646; sinking-fund requirements, $783,318; serial loan payments, $1,528,914 (making all debt requirements, excluding Rapid Transit, $5,727,878); for Water Service (including Metropolitan water assessment, interest on debt and extension of mains), $3,233,728 (covered by water revenue) State tax, $4,262,300 (regular) and $200,937 (special for benefit of soldiers and sailors of World War); other regular Metropolitan and State assessments, $1,725,285; Printing Department, $387,706 (covered by revenue); special appropriations from Tax Levy, $4,128,151; special appropriations from Park-man Fund income, $254,575. Total ordinary expenditures, $56,049,073 or $4,295,285 more than in 1920-21. Total expenditures for departments only, $2,342,270 more than in 1920-21. Department increases of expenditure in excess of $25,000 over the year 1920-21, were: Assessing Dept., $26,190; Fire Dept., $63,672; School Depts., $1,269,993; Police, $307,766; County of Suffolk, $143,481; Overseers of Poor, $259,881; Soldiers' Relief, $614,157; Library, $67,670; Health, $38,887.

Regular appropriations unexpended by the departments and accounted as surplus reached the noteworthy total of $596,579. Decreases of expenditure from 1920 were Public Works Dept., $447,590; Institutions Dept., $85,262; Election Dept., $69,562; Park Dept., $63,260; Hospital Dept., $7,120; Collecting Dept., $4,534; Weights and Measures Dept., $3,200.

Extraordinary expenditures for permanent improvements (i. e., loan appropriations, etc., including unused portions from previous year), $5,433,676, of which $934,252 was for Rapid Transit construction; $987,294 for Stuart St. land damages and construction; $974,138 for sewer construction; $939,918 for making of highways; $582,783 for East Boston Ferry improvements; $95,041 for sea wall, etc., Roxbury Canal; $56,322 for Jail hospital; $72,988 for playgrounds; $169,214 for park and recreation buildings; $43,805 for High Pressure Fire Service; $427,236 for public buildings and sites; $150,686 for other objects. For Rapid Transit debt requirements, $1,583,494. Total extraordinary, $7,017,170 or $1,327,097 more than in 1920-21. Of the 1921 loans, the amount expended within the same fiscal year was $3,715,223 or 67.92 per cent.

POPULATION BY AGE-PERIODS UNDER TWENTY-ONE YEARS, BOTH SEXES.

Under 7 years, 97,870; 7 to 13 years, inclusive, 88,524; 14 and 15 years, 22,481; 16 and 17 years, 22,616; 18 to 20 years inclusive, 35,629; total under 21 years, 267,120, or 35.71 per cent of City's population. Said total is 2.375 less than the corresponding total shown by 1915 census. The more the 1920 census figures are analyzed, the more incredible they appear. When it is further noted that the number of persons 18 to 20 years inclusive in 1920 was 6,063 less than those of the same ages in 1915, and that the total of children under 7 years in 1920 was only 1,291 more than the same in 1915, as compared with an increase of 9,689 in the preceding five years, the evidence is plain that thousands of young children and other minors were not counted in 1920. This appears more certain when it is noted that the excess of births over deaths of children in the five years 1915-1920 was 83,248, non-residents excluded.

GENERAL PROPERTY TAX PER CAPITA IN LEADING CITIES (RANKING FROM HIGHEST).

Boston, 46.11 (as corrected); Pittsburgh, $45.67; Los Angeles, $45.45; New York, $39.29; San Francisco, $36.06; Philadelphia, $35.31; Chicago, $32.97. (See U. S. Census Bureau's Financial Statistics of Cities, 1920, Preliminary Reports.)

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to Sept. 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY.

The first chartered colony in New England, charter granted by Charles I on March 4, 1629. About a year before, a patent had been granted to six prominent men of Dorchester, west of England, among whom was Capt. John Endicott. He sailed in June, 1628, with a party of 50 or 60 persons, arriving in September and settling at Naumkeag, afterward named Salem. In the spring of 1629, the Bay Company fitted out three ships conveying about 400 persons and arriving at Salem in June. Endicott sent a small party to effect a settlement on the Bay in Mishawum, afterward named by the settlers Charlestown, the first town in New England to assume the town polity, Plymouth and Salem being governed by a Governor and Council. Endicott was appointed in London as the first resident Governor on April 30, 1629. The Massachusetts Bay Company was reorganized in London on Oct. 20, 1629, when John Winthrop was chosen as Governor. He arrived at Salem on June 12, 1630, soon proceeded to Charlestown with a large following, and finding that place unsuitable, finally settled in Boston. Winthrop served thirteen years as Governor in four different periods ending in 1649 and Endicott 15 years at various times ending in 1665. Other governors were Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, John Haynes, Henry Vane, John Leverett and Simon Bradstreet, the latter serving 12 years until 1692 when the Bay Colony and the Plymouth Colony were merged, becoming the Royal Province of Massachusetts Bay, which existed 82 years to 1774, the governors being appointed by the King.

The name, Massachusetts, is Indian and signifies "near the big hills."

On election of a City Council of fifteen members by districts instead of at large: Yes, 56,324; No, 79,353; majority against, 23,029; Blanks, 37,191. On approval of Act to regulate the manufacture and sale of beer, cider and light wines (Chap. 630, Acts of 1920), which provides that all beverages containing not less than one-half of 1 per cent and not over 2½ per cent of alcohol by weight at 60 degrees (Fahr.) shall be deemed not intoxicating: Yes, 87,300; No, 63,651; majority for approval, 23,649; blanks, 21,917. (In the year 1920.)

ABSENTEE VOTING AT STATE ELECTIONS.

By Chapter 289, General Acts of 1919, any registered voter absent from home at election time may vote by mailing an "official absent voting ballot" previously applied for and obtained from the Election Commissioners, to the latter so as to be received before the polls close. Said ballot must be marked by the voter privately but within the observation of an official authorized to administer oaths, and of no other person, in a municipality which is separated by at least two municipalities from that in which he is registered. The voter must make affidavit before said official, enclose ballot in official envelope and mail same on or before day of election.

Of 868 Absentee ballots mailed to Election Dept., on or before Nov. 2, 1920, 570 were counted, 10 were rejected and 288 were uncounted because not received until after closing of polls.

VOTE FOR MAYOR AND OTHER OFFICIALS AT LAST ELECTION.

Total registered voters, 207,590 or 131,610 men, and 75,980 women, said total being 3,924 more than in 1920; names checked, 162,132, or 78.1 per cent of all registered, which is higher by two per cent than in 1917, at the last mayoral election.

Vote for Mayor, James M. Curley, 74,261; John R. Murphy, 71,791; Charles S. Baxter, 4,268; Charles S. O'Connor, 10,884; all others, 22. Totals, 161,186. Of the 11 City Council candidates voted for John A. Donoghue was re-elected, receiving 53,466 votes; William J. Walsh became a new member with the leading vote of 57,466 and George F. Gilbody another, with a vote of 55,156. Of the two School Committee candidates, Frances G. Curtis was re-elected, with 79,139 votes. Vote on referendum: "Shall Licenses be Granted for the Sale of Certain Non-Intoxicating Beverages in this City?"—Yes, 86,474; No, 46,094; Blanks, 29,564. Per cent of registered voters who voted on referendum, 63.86.

INCREASE IN ELECTION PRECINCTS.

In accordance with Chap. 636, Acts of 1920, the Election Commissioners made a new division of the 26 wards, increasing the number of precincts from 221 to 274. This change was necessary because of the addition of women voters to the electorate, the intention of the law being to keep the precincts equalized, i. e., with 1,000 voters in each.

Wds. 7, 8, 21, and 23 now have thirteen precincts instead of nine; Wds. 14, 17, 19, 20, 22 and 25 have twelve; Wds. 13, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 24 contain eleven; Wds. 10, 11 and 12, ten; Wds. 1, 6, 9 and 26, nine; Wd. 2, eight; Wds. 3, 4 and 5, seven. Only six wards remain unchanged, viz., Wds. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 9.

After a thorough investigation by the said department the conclusion was that the Census Bureau's enumeration fell short of the actual population by 54,808; the approximately correct total, as evidenced by various official records, being 802,868. For further information see Municipal Register of 1921, pp. 224-226.

The population of "Greater Boston," or the Metropolitan District (established in 1893), was 1,658,936 in 1920 according to the same census.

ESTIMATED POPULATION OF BOSTON.

After making proper deductions for decreased immigration and additions for increasing excess of births (as compared with the 5-year period 1910-1915) the estimate for July 1, 1922, is 832,678, showing an average annual net increase of 1.49 per cent or 994 + per month. Figuring on this basis, the population should be 862,488 on Jan. 1, 1925 (the year of the next census), if there are no annexations, restricted immigration to be in effect up to 1925.

POPULATION BY GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRICTS, UNITED STATES CENSUS.

East Boston (i. e., Wds. 1 and 2, including the island) 63,051 or 2,629 less than in 1915; Charlestown (Wds. 3 and 4) 34,273 or 5,329 less; Boston Proper (Wds. 5, 6, 7, 8, and northern corner of Wds. 12 and 13) 170,637 or 25,663 decrease; South Boston (Wds. 9, 10 and northern part of Wd. 11 to Howell St.) 64,144 or 5,601 decrease; Roxbury (most of Wds. 12, 13, 14, 15 and all of Wd. 16) 135,024 or 7,341 increase; Dorchester (most of Wd. 11, Wds. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 and part of 24) 157,932 or 19,813 increase; West Roxbury (including Jamaica Plain and Roslindale, i. e., Wds. 22 and 23) 63,190 or 7,119 increase; Brighton (Wds. 25 and 26) 41,724 or 6,942 increase; Hyde Park (most of Wd. 24) 18,086 or 628 increase. According to these unprecedented census returns, the five districts constituting the most densely inhabited part of Boston (i. e., from the northern boundary to Franklin Park, including Roxbury and South Boston) showed a net decrease from 1915 to 1920 amounting in all to 31,881, while the other four districts showed an increase of only 34,502. In the preceding five years, 1910-1915, the same five districts increased by 16,373 and the other four by 58,481, a total increase (omitting the 15,936 gained by annexation of Hyde Park in 1912) of 58,918, or more than 22 times the increase from 1915 to 1920 as shown by last U. S. Census.

BOSTON'S TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM.

WALTER STUART KELLY'S BRILLIANT PROGRAM OF BETTERMENT.—A NEW UNION STATION.—ELECTRIC TUNNEL SYSTEM.—YARDS AND SWITCHES UNDER COVER.—VITAL NECESSITY DEMANDS ABOLITION OF PRESENT CONDITIONS.

A conference was held in City Hall, Boston, December, 1922, to consider plans submitted by Mr. Walter Stuart Kelley of Brookline, Mass., which represented the conclusions of some fifteen years' thought and study by that distinguished engineer and designed to solve the transportation and terminal problems of Boston and the adjacent territory. The project as visualized and explained by Mr. Kelley fell under two heads: Passenger traffic and the assembly, storage, distribution and transportation of freight and express.

Reduced to its bones and denuded of technicalities, estimates and statistics, the plans simplified themselves into the following outstanding features:

1. A new Union Station to be constructed on the site of the present Boston & Albany Railroad train yard in the space lying between Boylston street, Huntington avenue and Exeter street, of spacious capacity, equipped with the usual executive and administrative offices for the several railroad companies serving Boston, waiting rooms and other conveniences for passengers and ample surplus rooms and space for shops and other commercial concessions, the rentals of which would constitute a valuable asset.

2. Underneath the building the tracks of the three railroads are to be laid on three different levels, so constructed that the movement of trains by loops will be constantly forward with no dead ends, the cars of each railroad entering its own tunnel and discharging its passengers, embarking new passengers, and proceeding out of the station, through the tunnel, back to its surface tracks. The terminal zone tunnels and the engines that take on trains and operate in the tunnels will be electrically equipped.

3. Elevators will connect the three track levels with the street levels of the Union Station, transferring them and their baggage from one railroad system to any other that their destination demands. If such passengers are merely coming into or going from the city, their local accommodations will be served by local electric trains and substations connected with the tunnels at various points, the locations of which may be designated when formal, final plans are developed and the greatest convenience ascertained.

4. The various electric railway systems that serve Boston and the state outside the city will be connected with the terminal project.

5. A series of short branches or links, eight in number, of a total length of twelve (12) miles, designed to connect the tracks of the several railroads would enable freight trains to be routed in the most direct way to almost any point in the Terminal zone, the motive power in the zone for all trains to be electric.

6. At the limits of the Terminal zone steam railroad freight trains stop, and if for local delivery in the Metropolitan District are broken up and routed direct to their destination. Engines are shifted and cars delivered by electric locomotives to any dock on the harbor.

7. The connecting trackage links make the construction of a special belt line unnecessary, since the existing tracks are made usable by the links.

8. By filling in the present malodorous South Bay to, and including Dorchester avenue, an insatiable threat to the health of the city is removed and an ideal situation is developed for a great freight and warehouse terminal on the margin of Boston's wholesale district and very convenient for the retail district.

This is an intelligible outline of the scheme, which embraces many useful and suggestive details.

The discussion of Mr. Kelley's project brought out many interesting facts, among others that the transfer of the daily influx and efflux of passengers at the North and South Terminal stations, when transferred to a new distributing point would relieve much of the congestion and delay of street traffic in the business district, its volume and constancy slowing up the necessary street traffic.

At the close of the conference Mayor Curley felt that Mr. Kelley's plan was of sufficient interest to justify further discussion at an early date and January 10, 1923, at Lorimer Hall in Tremont Temple was designated as the time and place. It was decided that the meeting take the form of a conference of the City Planning Committee, composed of two hundred members and officials and engineers of the Boston & Albany Railroad, Boston & Maine Railroad, New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad, Union Freight Railroad, Boston Elevated Railway Company, Eastern Massachusetts Railway Company, the committees of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Boston Real Estate Exchange, the City Council, State Commissioner of Public Works, Department of Public Utilities, committees on railroads, and street railways of the Massachusetts Legislature, speaker of the House, president of the Senate, the Governor, Board of Street Commissioners, Commissioner of Public Works and Public Works Department engineers, Corporation Counsel, Finance Commission, banking officials, owners and publishers of the Boston newspapers, the Hotel Men's Association, and the heads of various local improvement associations.

The conference was held as called in Lorimer Hall, Mayor Curley presiding and introducing Mr. Kelley to the audience, when he spoke for some thirty minutes, illustrating his address with explanatory maps and illuminating statistics cast upon a screen.

The following are the high points of his address:

The adoption of this plan, or of any plan, that will solve the problems of Boston's transportation difficulties, is of the most momentous importance, not only to this city but to the entire Commonwealth and the whole of New England. I do not imagine what I present you is the last word on the question, but I do claim it presents a feasible solution; that it is comprehensive and covers the essential features and as a whole offers a workable basis on which to build a worth-while transportation system. Personally I welcome suggestions from any source.

Our local transportation system touches the pocket nerve of every person in the community. From its location in the car that brings it to Boston, a barrel of flour before it reaches the pantry of the ultimate consumer is frequently handled ten times and every handling costs money. Whether it comes by rail or sea I will show you how at least four handlings can be eliminated.

I have studied problems of transportation facilities since 1912. From 1891 to 1914 seventeen official reports of legislative commissions and committees have been published at a cost to the Commonwealth of $200,000, and these with formal reports from other bodies number over forty.

Yet nothing is done and we go from bad to worse.

Our most obvious shortcoming today is the fact that in any considerable way it is practically impossible to transfer freight from one road to another. The cost is such that very little freight can bear it. The three steam railroads are organized into three separate transportation districts; and when it comes to docks and wharves they form three water-tight compartments.

The passenger service of the railroads is from any standpoint wretchedly inadequate; the growth of population has never been accompanied by increase in passenger facilities. The people on the south side of the Charles river are practically denied the products of the soil and forests of northern New England; rail transfer is almost prohibitive and trucking only less so. As a result we find the president of the Boston & Maine road stating there is no demand for the transfer of freight cars from one railroad to another. Out of 3,000 cars handled daily only about ten (10) are transferred.

These conditions impose enormous burdens on business, compel unnecessary trucking and add greatly to the taxes of Boston for street upkeep and widenings; and make for transportation conditions that discourage and handicap business enterprise.

We need ample freight depots, convenient to the business section, equally accessible to all railroad lines for a quick and economical handling of local freight. We need a warehouse section or sections, so that the only trucking in the business section would be deliveries to local customers and thus effect a reduction of street congestion.

The healthy growth and prosperity of the Port demands quick and economical shipment to and from any dock over any line of railroad. Unity of control in all parts of the Terminal Zone will abolish the petty zone system now obtaining in overseas traffic.

Our railroads radiate like spokes from a wheel hub; there are no circumferential roads to facilitate transfers; we need a tire touching all the spokes to do this. United operation will bring a flexibility in transportation that will rid Boston of the stupid system of dead ends and impassable railroad frontiers.

The present system, with its two archaic terminal stations, badly located, has prevented the natural, wholesome growth of realty values, giving excessive values to some properties and atrophying the growth of others. With the release of our transportation system from its shackles, realty values, like the waters of the tide, will spread and expand to the benefit of the community and the municipality.

The new system in the contemplated Terminal Zone, with tracks and switches under cover from the hazards of this climate, will remove the dangers and delays that are so much in evidence in the past weeks. Snowclad tracks and yards, and frozen switches do more to slow up transportation, create traffic blockades, interrupt business and generally paralyze trade than any other one feature in the winters of Boston. The present exposed conditions of the nerves of our passenger service is as expensive, as stupid and as dangerous as it is unnecessary. The waste of time and money they bring about is amazing and discreditable to a modern community like ours.

Mr. Kelley went carefully and concisely into the merits of his plan as outlined above. He said the passenger facilities of both existing stations are taxed to their limit to handle daily 625 trains at the North Station and 1,000 at the South Station; yet on his three-track tunnel system and Union Station five times the number of passengers and trains can be handled without any difficulty or danger. In other words, the proposed New Union Station and Terminal Zone system will be able to accommodate the passenger traffic of the next fifty years.

His plan comprehends a subway to East Boston and one to Commonwealth Pier which would also serve the Army Base.

The existing conditions are perilous to the future of the city and state and cry insistently for remedy. The remedies will cost money as all imperative improvements do, but they will pay for themselves in time, and remove Boston from evils infinitely more expensive.

It is within the probabilities that Mr. Kelley's plans, maps, and views on the existing conditions will be given a fuller publication and exposition at a later day. His address made a deep impression on his audience. There is no doubt that such a system of improvement in transportation facilities as his plans suggest, when entered upon and completed, will afford means for the rapid and economical movement of passengers and freight in all directions. It involves little destruction of existing values; it means a material reduction in the cost of transportation; it will relieve congestion in the center of the city, extend the shopping district now struggling to expand, and rapidly increase values in the whole section affected. It will give an impetus to the development of Boston as a commercial and industrial center and be a boon to Massachusetts generally.

When Mr. Kelley concluded his address, the following motion, offered by Mr. F. W. Merrick and seconded by Senator Taylor of the Boston Post, was unanimously adopted:

"That it is the sense of this meeting that the program as presented for the betterment of the transportation facilities of Boston and the commercial and industrial development of the Commonwealth, is worthy of consideration and action; and that it be respectfully referred to his Excellency the Governor, with the request, duly adopted by this body, that he call a conference of the business and railroad interests of the Commonwealth to consider and formulate some definite program of action calculated to promote the commercial and industrial expansion, stability and prosperity of Boston and the Commonwealth, which are so vitally concerned in the solution of this transportation problem."

AID FOR STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to Secretary Alton E. Briggs of the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange, upon the 11th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 11, 1923.

MR. ALTON E. BRIGGS, Secretary Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange, Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIR,—I would greatly appreciate the co-operation of your organization upon the bills presented for the improvement of the northern end of Boston.

The widening of Cambridge street and extension of Portland street and widening of Exchange street represent improvements that must be adopted provided the present wholesale and retail trade of the market district is to be maintained.

The Cambridge Bridge to construct which would require today an expenditure fully 70 per cent in excess of the original cost, which was about four and three quarter million dollars, is not today used to more than 10 per cent of its capacity because of the condition of the Boston approaches. The widening of Cambridge street and the extension of Portland street and the opening up of Exchange street would provide easy access for Middlesex County to the market district of Boston and unquestionably would result in improving property values and promote the retail and wholesale business in this section of our city.

The assistance of men who are personally interested in the fruit and produce and market business generally is needed to secure the passage of these legislative measures and I trust it will be possible for you to not only invite their co-operation but secure it for the best interests of Boston.

Very truly yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC CONGESTION.

CITY REAL ESTATE EXPERT BECK FILES IMPORTANT BRIEF.

Mayor Curley received from John Beck, real estate expert of the City of Boston, a condensed brief relative to traffic congestion in the downtown business section upon the 9th instant. Mr. Beck, upon the oral request of Mayor Curley, has made searching inquiry into the entire subject matter of the present traffic crisis, and, as he is a veteran Boston realtor and familiar with the detail of this problem, his brief filed with the Mayor is of especial interest.

Mr. Beck is firm in the opinion that every possible way and means should be devised for the expediting of the work upon the Stuart street extension, as one of the material causes of an immediate relief for traffic congestion, and especially caring for that portion which will move west of Park and Winter streets, and which will be admirably served by the completion of this important thoroughfare.

Further Mr. Beck believes that the most serious question relative to congestion at present rests within the district bounded by Scollay square, State and Congress streets, and Dock square, and that only a thorough remedial effort by the widening of Cambridge and Court streets can provide for the relief of the traffic congestion within this location.

Mr. Beck is of the opinion that public spirited men should strongly indorse the proposal of Mayor Curley, as defined in a bill now pending in the Massachusetts Legislature, for the widening of Cambridge and Court streets, and which is an imperative necessity.

He further believes that the entire block, bounded by Elm, Union and Washington streets, and that bounded by Washington, Elm and Hanover streets, facing Portland street, should be entirely removed in conjunction with the widening of Exchange street. Mr. Beck is firm in the opinion that an imperative public necessity requires the erection of a station by the Boston Elevated Railway Company at Charles and Cambridge streets, and that this step should be taken prior to the widening of Court and Cambridge streets, in order that the ultimate expense may be greatly lowered.

The full text of Mr. Beck's statement is as follows:

JOHN BECK.

REAL ESTATE BROKER AND APPRAISER.

30 STATE STREET,

BOSTON, January 5, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—One of the great concerns of property owners and persons versed in values of downtown property is the traffic crisis that exists in this city, particularly on the main streets, such as Washington and Tremont, east of Park and Winter streets.

It is confidently expected that the new Stuart street extension will relieve traffic congestion, and improve realty values in that part of the city proper west of Park and Winter streets, and for a great many years values there should improve and traffic flow freely.

In that part of the city known as Scollay square, State street, Congress street and Dock square, something comprehensive and far-sighted should be done similar to what has taken place at Stuart street.

It is inevitable that unless this section is given immediate relief, a tremendous depreciation will take place in realty values, which will result in great losses to property owners and to the taxable income of the city.

Your program for street widening offers a solution.

Cambridge and Court streets should be widened in connection with Exchange street; the entire block in Dock square bounded by Elm, Union and Washington streets, and the entire block, bounded by Washington, Elm and Hanover streets, facing Portland street, should be removed, thereby allowing traffic to move freely from the South Station and the freight yard adjacent thereto to the North Station.

With Cambridge and Court streets 100 feet wide, emptying into Tremont row in front of Hanover street, within 800 feet of Portland street, Exchange street widened and running into enlarged Dock square, and the new square that should be created in front of Portland street, some of the most important traffic problems of the city will be taken care of for many years to come, besides preserving and increasing real estate values in this section of the city.

In all of the great municipal street improvements that have taken place people owning property in the vicinity were immensely benefited. The city derived benefit also, due to the increase in taxable value, but not in proportion to its just deserts, because without the initiative of the city, the improvements would not have taken place.

It is my opinion that the next generation will see not only this city but all of the great progressive centers of the country making street widenings and extensions along broad, comprehensive lines, that will make the piece-meal appropriations of the past appear insignificant, therefore the city should be "in" as a land owner in these improvements.

The city, through its Police Department, Fire Department, and its support of the county courts and other branches of municipal activity, will need adequate, well-located space for its future needs. Why not, while these improvements are being mapped out, call all department heads of the city and county together to find out if any sites are needed along the line of these street improvements, and if so, acquire them simultaneously with the takings.

The Transit Commission and Elevated trustees should consider the effect these improvements will have on rapid transit problems, and should acquire, previous to the takings, while property values are low, suitable locations for subway and elevated stations. For instance, the much needed station at the corner of Charles and Cambridge streets, which, if not anticipated now, will not only retard the growth of the district, but will cost much more after Cambridge street is widened.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN BECK.

CHRISTENING OF STEAMER.

The steamer "Rochester," recently purchased by the City of Boston from the War Department to replace the steamer "Monitor," was renamed the "Michael J. Perkins" at a special ceremony at the Army Base, South Boston, upon the 6th instant.

Miss Barbara Perkins, sister of the South Boston hero, appropriately christened the vessel.

The 13th Infantry Band played several numbers during the program, which was curtailed because of the inclement weather.

City Councilor James T. Moriarty, sponsor of the order that resulted in the change of the name, presided:

After the ceremony the guests went on board the boat, which took its first cruise under the new name. The boat stopped at Long Island and the party visited the hospital auditorium. Luncheon was served by the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion. Mrs. Mary Hines, president of the organization; Mrs. Hanora Toomey and other members assisted.

Two entertainments were given for the people at the hospital. Representative Joseph D. Toomey presided at the one on the men's side and David Michael acted in that capacity on the women's side.

The program was given by William and George Orr, Joseph D. Toomey, Walter Byrne, the McElwain sisters, George W. Arnold and Frank Rollins.

Among those attending were City Councilors Moriarty, Walsh, Donoghue and Gilbody, Dr. David Johnson, Dennis Driscoll, Michael J. Perkins and family, Representative Fred Curtis of East Boston; Commander James Anderson, Bunker Hill Post, Charlestown; Commander Joseph Murphy of the Columbia Post, South Boston; Capt. Vincent Breen, commander of the South End Post, and who was also the commander of Company D of the old 101st Infantry; Lieut. N. A. Fleming, who was a 1st lieutenant in old Company D, 101st Infantry, in which unit the late hero was assigned to duty when he performed his extraordinary act of valor which won him the highest honor in the gift of the United States; Clerk of Committees John E. Baldwin, Senior Vice Commander John W. Beth of the American Legion, and James Harding, the commander of the Michael J. Perkins Post, Commander-elect Dr. William H. Griffin of the Michael J. Perkins Post, was absent owing to illness.

After the entertainment at Long Island, the gathering returned to South Boston on the "Michael J. Perkins" arriving at the Army Base at 4 o'clock.

Colors were carried by Misses Evelyn Kvieia, Helen Mulcahy, Mary McLean and Eleanor Toomey.

NO PARKING ON SOMERSET STREET.

The parking of automobiles has been prohibited on Somerset street. Somerset street is a one-way street and is used a great deal for passenger and trucking traffic.

The nearest approach to Somerset street where cars can now be parked for not more than twenty minutes is on the northern side of Ashburton place.

BIRTHDAY OF FRANKLIN.

Mayor Curley has given hearty assurance to Robert A. Holbrook, in behalf of the students of the Agassiz Prevocational Center, Agassiz District, Jamaica Plain, that he will be very pleased to receive the students at City Hall, upon Wednesday, January 17, at 10 a. m., to place a wreath at the statue of Benjamin Franklin, in front of City Hall, in honor of his birthday.

Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston January 17, 1706, and Mayor Curley has assured the pupils of the Agassiz Prevocational Center that he will do everything within his power to make their journey to the City Hall an eventful mission.

CITY WILL APPEAL.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, announces should the Interstate Commerce Commission decide against the City of Boston in the local petition for removal of the freight differential in favor of Philadelphia and Baltimore, so long complained of at this port, the case will be taken to the United States Supreme Court on the ground that the existing differential is in violation of the Federal Constitution.

Mr. Sullivan declares he has long considered the differential unconstitutional, as that instrument declares "there shall be no discrimination against one port in behalf of another."

PROTECTION FOR COASTING.

Chairman John H. L. Noyes of the Board of Street Commissioners announces that signs will be placed upon sidewalks in residential sections where coasting is permitted, designed to reduce the number of accidents by warning automobilists and drivers of other vehicles that coasting is going on.

The signs stand about five feet high, on iron pedestals, and read: "Coasting—Stop—Look Both Ways."

The police in every section direct coasting. Chairman Noyes announces that coasting is not to be permitted any longer in the following streets: Billerica street, Lamson street, East Boston; West Cottage street, Roxbury; Toplift street, Dorchester; Adelaide and Eggleston streets and Belmore terrace, West Roxbury. Dangerous conditions attending the sport there have caused the ban to be placed upon it.

Two other streets, not hitherto in the list of coasting thoroughfares, have been added to it as follows: Cottage street, between Webster and Marginal streets, East Boston; Phillips street, between Tremont and Conant streets, Roxbury.

On March 4 following, the voters of Boston accepted said Act, viz., Chap. 110, 1821-22, as its first City Charter by a majority of 1916 in a total vote of 4,678. Ten futile attempts had previously been made to incorporate as a city, viz., in 1650, 1659, 1667, 1708, 1744, 1762, 1784, 1791, 1804 and 1815. Revised charter adopted in 1854. Charter again revised in 1885 and amended in 1909.

MAYOR DEMANDS INVESTIGATION.

Mayor Curley addressed the following communication to the Finance Commission upon the 6th instant:

HON. MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN, Chairman, Finance Commission, 430 Tremont Building, Boston, Mass.:

As Mayor of Boston, I desire to call to your attention for immediate investigation the most barefaced, successful, wholesale raid on the city treasury ever recorded.

Your commission, which was thrust upon the City of Boston by a Republican Legislature, has cost the taxpayers over $500,000, and it is notorious that the only return you have given is to besmirch the fair name of Boston by your petty persecution of such public officials as the Good Government Association wished to destroy.

During my first administration, when it became known that I was a candidate for re-election, the then chairman of your commission, afterwards rewarded with the Good Government support for mayor, investigated with blaring trumpets of the bonding business, typos, Public Garden concessions and the Probate Building.

The total amount involved was only a few thousand dollars and the investigations resulted in nothing but insinuation and innuendo similar to those employed during the past two months but noticeably absent during the four years of my predecessor, Hon. Andrew J. Peters.

That your Finance Commission, to justify in some measure, if it is possible, its existence, may have something real to investigate, I hereby present facts and figures concerning the leader of the Good Government forces, former chairman of your commission, Hon. Nathan Matthews.

I realize that it savors of sacrifice for the Finance Commission to investigate the public or private acts of a former chairman of the Finance Commission, particularly one whom Harvard College has honored with a degree, in the conferring of which he was styled:

"Nathan Matthews, lawyer, public administrator, genuine reformer; leader of a band of earnest men whose tireless zeal searched the causes of misgovernment until a remedy was found."

It has just been called to my attention that Nathan Matthews has recently sold a part of the property remaining to him after the Stuart street taking for the sum of $178,000.

He had already received an award $392,117 for damages.

After the sale above mentioned, he has still remaining a parcel of land at the corner of Stuart street and Huntington avenue, assessed for $344,400, to which assessment he makes no objection, something unusual for him.

In other words, he has, as the result of the Stuart street extension, $570,117 in cash in his pocket and $344,400 in land remaining, a total of $914,517.

The total assessment of all his property before the street went through was only $430,000 and he admitted it was not worth any more for he asked repeatedly to have that amount reduced. After the "genuine reformer" pays an outstanding betterment assessment of $25,532, his net profit from the Stuart street extension will be $458,285.

The award made by the Street Commission under the previous administration for damage resulting to the property of former Mayor Nathan Matthews was $392,117 and this award was collected on November 16, 1921.

At the time the money was collected, the total amount of bonds sold to cover the cost of Stuart street improvements was but $200,000 and these bonds had been sold to the Parkman Fund Trustees. Two checks were received by Matthews in payment of the award, one for $225,000 on the Boston Five Cent Savings Bank and one for $167,117 on the American Trust Company.

In view of the unusual manner in which the money was procured and the illegal manner in which the money was paid, it was astonishing that no action was taken by the Finance Commission.

Men were held up on the highways and byways and on threats to sell all property for unpaid taxes, money was forced into the treasurer's office, which for the first time in its history remained open after hours or until five o'clock in order that sufficient money might be raised to pay former Mayor Nathan Matthews prior to the coming in of Mayor Curley, and the payment was never really legalized until fifteen days after, when, in order that the payment might be made legal, one million dollars of the Stuart street bonds were sold to the Sinking Funds Commission of Boston.

Here is an instance of municipal finance worthy of a "genuine reformer"; worthy of a Good Government administration, and worthy of your immediate attention.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

BOSTON, January 9, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—The Finance Commission acknowledges the receipt of your letter of January 6 and in reply thereto respectfully informs your honor that for nearly three weeks it has been conducting an investigation of the Stuart street widening. Your Honor mentions a single circumstance in connection with this matter which is within the scope of the investigation.

Respectfully submitted,

MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN, Chairman,
CHARLES L. CARR,
COURTENAY GUILD,
JOHN F. MOORS,
J. WALDO POND,
The Finance Commission.

CLEARING THE SNOW.

The City of Boston placed approximately 3,000 men at work upon clearing snow and ice during the week.

Mayor Curley demanded that every available employee be put into the streets with pick or shovel and that the contractors give all the assistance in their power to clear the streets.

The maximum of employment upon snow clearing was reached upon the 10th instant when more than 4,500 men were employed, representing those employed directly by the city, the contractors and by the Boston Elevated Street Railway Company.

The greatest handicap confronting the department in the opinion of Commissioner of Public Works Rourke is the prevailing custom of parking cars on both sides of the street, locking the cars and leaving them, which compels the suspension of activities, every fifty or hundred feet in the down-town section.

The Commissioner of Public Works requests the public to park only on the north and east sides until 12 noon, and the south and west sides from 12 noon until 6 p. m., and from 6 p. m. until midnight on the north and east sides and thereafter on the south and west sides. The observance of this rule will facilitate the work of the department greatly in the work of snow removal.

DOCTOR MULLOWNEY SUSPENDED.

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Commissioner of the Health Department, upon the suggestion of Mayor Curley, suspended Deputy Health Commissioner Patrick H. Mallowney from office upon the 8th instant, pending an investigation by the Finance Commission relative to certain gifts sent to the home of the official in West Roxbury.

Mayor Curley addressed a communication to Dr. Mahoney, reading as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 8, 1923.

DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, Commissioner Health Department:

DEAR DOCTOR MAHONEY—I acknowledge receipt of the report submitted by you in the case of the Richmond Live Poultry Company, Boston.

I have examined the statement of facts as submitted by Doctor Mallowney, and in view of Dr. Mallowney's failure to comply immediately with your order for the return of gratuities received from one Abraham Kubitsky, manager of the Richmond Live Poultry Company, controlled by the Batchelder & Snyder Corporation, it is, in my opinion, your duty to suspend Doctor Mallowney, in charge of the Food Inspection Division, pending further investigation, which I have instructed the Corporation Counsel to institute at once.

Yours truly,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The letter of Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner, was as follows:

Boston, January 9, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully beg to notify you that I have suspended from duty, from the close of business January 9, 1923, Dr. Patrick H. Mallowney, Deputy Commissioner in charge of the Food Inspection Division; the reason therefor being his failure to obey my order to him to return to the Richmond Live Poultry Company certain goods and money, to wit, a turkey, a box of cigars, and $200 in money, sent to his home by the Richmond Live Poultry Company on December 22, 1922.

This suspension will hold pending further investigation by the Corporation Counsel for the City of Boston.

Respectfully,

FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, M. D.,
Health Commissioner.

Mayor Curley sent the following reply to letter of Mr. Snyder, president of Batchelder & Snyder Corporation, in which Mr. Snyder denied ownership of the Richmond Live Poultry Company:

MR. F. S. SNYDER, President Batchelder & Snyder Company, Blackstone Street, Boston, Mass.:

MY DEAR MR. SNYDER,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter in which you take exceptions to the statement appearing in the daily press, which I herewith quote:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of report submitted by you in the case of Richmond Live Poultry Company, 92-96 Richmond street, city, said company being controlled by the Batchelder & Snyder Corporation."

I have conferred with Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner, and he informs me that this statement is correct, and that the only owner of record known to them is the Batchelder & Snyder Corporation, and that so far as Mr. Abraham Kubitsky is concerned, that he has never been recognized other than as the agent representing the Batchelder & Snyder Company.

Under the circumstances, in view of the opinion expressed by you in the second last paragraph of your letter, I have requested the Corporation Counsel, who is investigating the matter, to arrange a conference, an invitation to attend which will be extended all parties of interest in this particular proposal and which I sincerely trust you will find it possible to attend.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Dr. Patrick H. Mallowney, suspended as deputy Health Commissioner, will, within the next fortnight, be granted a public hearing to which he is entitled under the law by Health Commissioner Francis X. Mahoney.

A formal petition from Doctor Mallowney for the hearing has been received by Doctor Mahoney.

FIVE CENT FARE BILL.

Mayor Curley submitted to the Massachusetts Legislature upon the 11th instant his petition for the establishment of a five-cent fare on the cars of the Boston Elevated Company, any deficit resulting therefrom to be made up by local taxation upon the cities and towns where the lines are located.

SNOW, ASH AND GARBAGE REMOVAL.

At a conference held at the office of the Mayor upon the 8th instant to consider the question of snow, ash and garbage removal, the program determined upon was to assign ten plows at once to establish fire lanes on all the main arteries of the city and the road leading to Parker Hill Hospital and Cushing Hill in Dorchester; to assign contractors to clear up the snow in the downtown districts, including Atlantic avenue, Canal street, Summer street, and other streets in the city proper; to assign the entire Street Cleaning and Sanitary forces to the work of removal of ashes and garbage.

In connection with the question of ash and garbage removal, the Acting Commissioner of Public Works states that it is unfortunate that individuals voicing their complaints through the daily press are too cowardly to either sign their own name or to truthfully state the facts.

The delay in the removal of ashes, garbage and combustible waste has been due to two causes: First, the contract system which has been in operation in most sections of the city for a period of twenty years; and second, the three successive snow storms. The first cause is possible of removal only by the substitution of day labor for the contract labor system and despite the fact that this would entail, if extended to the entire city, an additional cost of approximately one million dollars annually, apparently it is the only proper solution of the problem that has been vexatious and in evidence for a period of more than twenty years. The second reason for failure or removal of ashes, garbage and combustible waste is excessive snowfall and the inability to procure sufficient men to properly remove the same.

The assignment of the entire Street Cleaning and Sanitary forces to ash removal and garbage removal and the re-employment of contract labor for downtown snow removal, coupled with expenditures already occurred in connection with snowfall, will in all probability total a sum in excess of $100,000.

Acting Public Works Commissioner Edward F. Murphy notified Leard Remsen, city contractor, against whom many complaints have been lodged by Dorchester and Ashmont residents because of failure to remove ash and garbage, that the city will proceed to abrogate its contract with him and will claim the $18,000 bond he gave the city. Mr. Murphy acted at the direction of Mayor Curley.

William Wynter and Hugh Cannon, contractors in East Boston, with commissions to remove ashes and garbage, respectively, have also been cautioned that better collections must be made.

Mayor Curley has effected an agreement with the John C. Coleman & Sons Company to carry to completion the contract for removing ashes and garbage in Dorchester, abrogated with Leard Remsen, because of failure to abide by its provisions. About $6,700 remained to be paid on the contract and this sum will be given to the new contractor.

The Coleman firm, generally accounted among the best equipped in town for large-scale contract work, has put a force of 200 men, 25 motor trucks and 30 double carts into the Dorchester section. The work will be speedily brought up-to-date, and a regular system of collections maintained until a new contract is made.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with M. S. Kelleher, for additions to draw-tender's house, Northern Avenue Bridge, from December 15, 1922, to January 15, 1923. This extension is requested for the reason that the contractor has been delayed on account of bad weather.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with Timothy Coughlin for building sewerage works in Lorna road, Tiverton road, Stow road, Doane avenue, Glenhill road and Owen street, Dorchester, from December 30, 1922, to April 1, 1923, 90 days. This extension is in addition to a previous extension dated October 30, 1922, making a total of 156 days, and is occasioned by the additional fact that on account of the setting in of the winter weather the work will require the additional amount of time as aforementioned.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with M. DeMatteo for building sewerage works in Newburn street, Hyde Park, between existing sewer and Richards avenue, and Richards avenue, from Newburn street about 124 feet westerly, Hyde Park, and Dana avenue, from end of existing sewer at Washington street about 148 feet southeasterly, Hyde Park, from December 23, 1922, to April 1, 1923, 98 days. This extension is occasioned by the fact that on account of the setting in of the winter weather the work will require the additional amount of time as aforementioned.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with George J. Regan for building sewerage works in Savannah avenue, from Oakland street about 1,170 feet northeasterly, Dorchester, and Ogden street, from Wilmington avenue about 170 feet southerly, Dorchester, from January 1, 1923, to May 1, 1923, 120 days. This extension is occasioned by the fact that on account of the difficult nature of the rock excavation and winter weather the work will require the additional amount of time as aforementioned.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with M. DeSisto Company for building sewerage works in River street, from Perkins avenue about 360 feet northeasterly, Hyde Park, from December 30, 1922, to May 1, 1923, 120 days. This extension is in addition to a previous extension dated October 30, 1922, making a total of 180 days, and is occasioned by the fact that on account of the winter weather the bituminous macadam pavement cannot be laid until open weather in the spring.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with the Petroleum Heat and Power Company for installing oil-burning apparatus in the Power House of the Boston City Hospital, from November 1, 1922, to January 20, 1923. This request for extension is asked for because of unavoidable delays.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with M. Seretto for the erection and completion of Police Station No. 8 and Fire Station No. 31, April 1, 1923.

A further extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with the M. De Sisto Company for laying and relaying water pipes in Sonoma street, Roxbury, and Butler street, Dorchester, from January 1, 1923, to May 15, 1923. The reason for this request is due to the fact that it is inadvisable to continue work at this season of the year.

An extension of time has been granted for the completion of contract made with the John McCourt Company for grading and paving the yard of the Dearborn School, Ambrose street, Roxbury, until May 1, 1923.

NO CHANGE UNTIL 1924.

Mayor Curley declares the two-platoon system will not be introduced in the Fire Department until February 1, 1924. The Mayor declares he will put through the measure next year as a piece of economic justice which has long been due the firemen of Boston.

Complete motorization of the Fire Department and renovation of four out of every five of the stations in the city must come first, Mayor Curley declares. His budget for the fiscal year beginning February 1 has an item of $250,000 for completion of motorization and another item of $750,000 for fireproofing the stations.

SHUTTING OFF WATER.

Coun. WALSH called from the Committee on Ordinances, with unanimous consent, proposed ordinance submitted by him and referred to said committee December 18 in relation to the shutting off of water.

The ordinance was recalled and Coun. WALSH submitted as a substitute the following, viz.:

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-three.

An Ordinance.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Chapter 28 of the Revised Ordinances of 1914 is hereby amended in section 22 by inserting after the word "necessary," on line 16, the following:

"Provided, however, that if it is represented to the department that the life of any tenant would be endangered by shutting off the water, and if a physician designated by the city so reports, the water shall not be shut off while such condition exists.

This ordinance shall take effect upon its passage.

The question came on the passage of the ordinance.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. Chairman, as I understand that ordinance, things won't be much better than they are at the present time. The ordinance says "Providing that the life of no resident is in danger where the water is shut off." I think in very many instances the life of a resident, or an inhabitant of a house is not in danger, but, nevertheless, the health of the resident might be impaired by the turning off of the water. So that, if that order could be amended to read "health" rather than "life," I think it would be more in the nature of what Coun. Walsh intends to arrive at.

President BRICKLEY—The ordinance will have to be referred back to the committee if you want to change it.

Coun. DONOGHUE—I will vote for it as it is, then.

The rule was suspended and the ordinance was passed.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENT.

President BRICKLEY called up unfinished business, No. 1, viz.:

Action on appointment submitted by the Mayor.

December 27, 1923, viz.:

1. Hyman Collier, to be a Constable.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Walsh and Moriarty. Whole number of ballots cast 8, yeas 7, nays 1, and the appointment was confirmed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. FORD moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 5.20 p. m., on motion of Coun. MORIARTY, to meet on Monday, January 13, at two o'clock p. m.

REPORT OF WAR MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

FINE INDORSEMENT OF MAYOR CURLEY'S PLANS.

Messrs. Charles A. Coolidge, Ralph Adams Cram, Charles D. Maginnis, R. Clipston Sturgis and C. Howard Walker, noted architects, and named as a special committee of the War Memorial Committee to name a location for the memorial in honor of the Boston veterans of the World War, who made the supreme sacrifice, have filed a formal report with Mayor Curley.

The report recommends the building of a small island in the basin of the Charles river, upon the line of Massachusetts avenue, extending to the west, and upon which should stand the memorial; a tower, the visible memorial, and in the tower a peal of carillon or bells, which shall serve as an audible memorial.

The recommendations of the committee are strictly in harmony with the Boston and Cambridge Bridge bill of Mayor Curley, and now pending in the Massachusetts Legislature.

The letter of the architects is as follows:

Architect.

120 BOYLSTON STREET,
BOSTON, January 2, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—There was a special committee of the large War Memorial committee appointed to recommend a location for the War Memorial, and its character. This committee has performed its service and made its report. This report recommended a small island in the basin on the line of Massachusetts avenue, extending to the west, on which should stand the memorial; a tower, the visible memorial, and in the tower a peal or carillon of bells, the audible memorial.

Those now signing this letter to you are the five architects, who, on account of their professional training, were selected to serve on this committee, and who formed the majority of the committee. The committee was chairman, Charles A. Coolidge, Morris Gray, president of the Board of Trustees of the Art Museum, Cyrus Dallin, one of our most distinguished sculptors; A. A. Shurtleff, a landscape architect, who has given much public service; Mr. John Allen, who was one of the committee of three who put through the victory loan in Boston, and Messrs. Cram, Maginnis, Sturgis and Walker, architects. With Mr. Coolidge, there were then five architects (Mr. Benson, the painter, was on the committee, but unable to attend the meetings).

There is an organized opposition to an island in the basin, and the Chamber of Commerce suggested a meeting between the opponents of the island and Mr. Coolidge's committee. The committee was glad to do this as it was anxious to know the reasons of opposition to the island. To the architects the island was an old story. It was suggested first twenty years ago; it was then generally indorsed by architects, was embodied in the report of the Boston Society of Architecs on Public Improvements, the late R. S. Peabody, one of the most public-spirited among all the architects of Boston, being chairman. It was then opposed largely by residents of Beacon street, who opposed it on the same grounds as those on which they opposed the embankment. In spite of opposition the embankment was carried through and is an undoubted success.

To the five architects on the committee then it was no new idea. After considering a great many locations, the study extending over a year, the committee unanimously indorsed the island as the best location.

The members of the committee signing this letter were anxious to hear why the island was opposed, when to all of them, men trained to study such problems, it had everything to recommend it, and nothing to be said against it. This is a strong statement but we believe it to be true, and for these reasons.

(1.) The island will mean economy in the bridge. Eight hundred feet of fill will cost less than eight hundred feet of bridge. The money so saved will make possible a finer bridge.

(2.) The island will improve the basin. An interruption in the bridge, a parked island with its shores and planting, will provide a middle distance to give scale, and thus add to the apparent size of the basin.

(3.) It is an ideal site for a memorial, for it will never be effected by the growth of the city. Its surroundings will be permanent. The tower visible from many points would add to the beauty and value of the island which in itself is but an utilitarian asset in the construction of the bridge.

Convinced of these facts, the committee felt justified in feeling that everything was in favor of the island, and was anxious to know on what grounds it was opposed.

To visualize this island in the river, its appearance, a feature in a very long bridge, or a dot in a very large basin, is difficult for anyone who is not trained to see in imagination. The committee believe that only this could explain the opposition and welcomed the conference.

The meeting was opened by Mr. Coolidge presiding and was given first to those opposing. They were Messrs. Munroe, Andrews, Amory and Sayward. The first three spoke. The points made were (1.) That an island would injure the basin; (2.) that it would obstruct traffic; (3.) that it was not a good place for the memorial.

On No. (1.) The only definite reason was Mr. Munroe's statement that the area thus converted from water into land would decrease the cooling effect of the basin. Taking the area between Massachusetts avenue and the West Boston Bridge, the island covers 22 acres out of 300 acres, and the 300 is but a portion of the whole basin. This is insignificant. Others stated that it would injure the basin, decrease its apparent size, block the western view. None of these statements is, in our opinion, true. (2.) The obstruction to traffic can be absolutely avoided. Massachusetts avenue, in its full width as a thoroughfare, would cross the island, and all traffic slowing or stopping on the island would have its own diverted roadways north and south of the thoroughfare, with connections under the highway east and west. To reject the island on this score would be like refusing a permit to build a large theater anywhere on Massachusetts avenue. (3.) The third objection was that it was not a good place for the memorial. To this the only possible answer is that the committee, chosen for the express purpose of studying this matter of location, and having so studied it for two years, unanimously reported this site. It seems likely that this studied opinion of a body of trained professional men is more apt to be right than the opinion of those who now state it to be an unsuitable site. Every one is entitled to his opinion, but any one who opposes a carefully weighed opinion is bound to support such opinion with definite arguments, or at least a suggestion of a better location. No such suggestion was made.

This matter is important and immediate. A bill is before the Legislature for a new bridge involving $5,000,000. The facts show that the island will be a great element in economy. Not only will the fill cost less than a bridge, but the island will simplify the handling of material and the building of the temporary bridge. It will be a thing of beauty in itself, it will improve the basin, making it visibly larger and its waters more useful.

If the opportunity to build the island now is lost, it will never come again, and as we regret the lost Hancock House, and our many other lost opportunities, so will we regret the loss of this very wonderful opportunity.

It may safely be said that no city in the world has a body of water with such opportunities. We have built the dam, and gained a fixed water level; we have built an embankment (a wonderful boon to the summer multitudes) but the basin itself is unused and undeveloped.

Boston has an absolutely unique opportunity; the occasion is now here to begin to make this great body of water beautiful and generally useful. The island is the first step; the improvement of the shores, rectifying the mistake made in building a vertical wall and substituting a beached shore line would be the next step. Then the water would be once more fit for boating, the basin would be covered with craft, and probably more would visit the island by water than over the bridge. If the bridge is built without the island the opportunity is lost; that location for the memorial is gone forever.

This is Boston's great opportunity. It is more than that, it is the opportunity of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 16, 1923.

MR. R. CLIPSTON STURGIS, 120 Boylston Street, Boston:

DEAR MR. STURGIS,—I am duly in receipt of your valued communication of the 2d instant, signed by Messrs. Coolidge, Cram, Maginnis, Walker and Sturgis, in approval of the recommendation of the special committee for the erection of a large war memorial in the City of Boston in honor of the men who sacrificed their lives in the war with Germany.

I highly commend the report of the distinguished body of architects, and which serves also as a practical indorsement of my bill in the Massachusetts Legislature, for the erection of a bridge between the cities of Boston and Cambridge, and including an island in the Charles River Basin where the memorial in behalf of the soldiers of our city would furnish an admirable location for a lasting tribute to the Veterans of the World War who made the supreme sacrifice overseas.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

VETO OF THE MAYOR.

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 18, 1923.

TO THE CITY COUNCIL:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board adopted January 8, 1923, and reading as follows:

Ordered, That the open space between Maverick and Sumner streets, East Boston, known as Maverick square, be named and hereafter known as Grady square, for the reasons as here set forth.

In seeking to change the name of Maverick square in East Boston to that of an heroic soldier of a later day, due consideration must be given to the reverence traditionally accorded to the names of those who are historically associated with the settlement and upbuilding of the Commonwealth, and whose services to the well-being and development of the infant colony of Massachusetts Bay are recorded in our annals and have an honorable significance in the establishment of civil and religious liberty here and the administration of the law as customarily maintained in the England of the early seventeenth century.

There is no question that the English crown, through its subordinate ministers gave grants of territory in this part of America to persons and companies, subject to the jurisdiction of the king of England, and the metes and bounds of these grants were usually indefinite and vague in extent and authority; but the settlers were English subjects and subject to English law.

Samuel Maverick, under the Georges patent, came to what is now Boston Harbor, with a partner named William Blaxton. The latter settled on the peninsula upon which later the town of Boston grew and the former built one house on an is and which came to be known as Noddle Island, and another at the mouth of Chelsea Creek at Winnisimmet, now Chelsea. Noddle Island received its name probably from William Noddle said to have been a servant and tenant of Maverick though others believe he was a freeman and free holder independent of Maverick.

Maverick and Blaxton were here before the Puritans came and these on arrival refused to recognize their rights.

Maverick was a vigorous and tenacious character; he was a communicant of the English Church; and hostile to the Puritans and their conception of law and liberty. The Puritans had ignored English law and practice; they substituted the dictum of the Book of Deuteronomy for England's Constitution and law; and they restricted the right to vote to the members of their own church; and were resentful of interference from abroad and full of the spirit of theocratic tyranny and intolerance at home.

Samuel Maverick fought their policy constantly and lawfully; asked that the right to vote be conceded to all freeholders of all faiths then in the colony; and was harried and persecuted for his opinion and activities by the Puritans, who rejected liberty of conscience and person for all but themselves.

Samuel Maverick in historical retrospect deserves well of Massachusetts; he builded better than perhaps he knew; and the heretical views he aired in the Puritan Colony in those early days are now recognized as democratically orthodox in the Commonwealth of 1922.

When the authority of George III. and the British Parliament was questioned in Massachusetts and the execution of their laws were resented and resisted in the colony, the British garrison and the people came into collision and the memorable event termed the Boston Massacre was precipitated, one of the victims of that historic event was a boy of seventeen years, Samuel Maverick a great-grand nephew of the Samuel Maverick, who settled Noddle Island or East Boston; and he was shot down on State street by the British soldiery.

Winthrop, Governor of the Puritan Colony, despite his quarrels with the Samuel Maverick of his day, recognized his many fine qualities, his courage, hospitality and public spirit and the genuine Christianity that led him to shelter and care for the poor savages suffering from smallpox and bury their dead.

In his journal, Governor Winthrop wrote "Mr. Maverick of Winisemitt is worthy of perpetual remembrance."

Part of the remembrance that posterity gave to the founder, Samuel Maverick, and carried over to the memory of the boy Samuel Maverick, shot down in the streets of Boston, when the spirit of liberty and independence was stirring the colony, was represented in the naming of Maverick square in East Boston. Both bearers of the name deserve well of their Commonwealth and surely the naming of that square to preserve that name in honor, is little enough as a recognition of their merits.

It seems to me that a sense of justice, a respect for the honorable dead and their services, and our plain duty to maintain the spirit and traditions of historic days, should compel us to preserve the name of Maverick square, for the name is linked with the vital and splendid days of our history, the founding of the Commonwealth and the beginning of the struggle for American independence.

I am of opinion that the gratitude we owe to the fathers, a sound patriotism and a reverence for the traditions of a heroic past should keep us from making the mistake of attempting to honor the memory of one of Boston's heroic soldier sons by obscuring and discrediting the names of those who served the Commonwealth well in other days. It would be a grave injustice to the dead of all our centuries and would establish a precedent that would undoubtedly lead the people living in years yet unborn to treat those whom we seek to honor in this age, with the ingratitude it is sought to mete out to the Mavericks of other days.

Every great crisis, every great conflict, produces its patriots and heroes; patriotism and heroism are worthy of our honor and reverence; but it is a questionable public spirit that would repudiate the services of the patriots and heroes of yesterday that a temporary honor may be conferred on the dead of today. The heroic dead of the World War will not be forgotten; their names and memories will and should be honored in various ways; but justice and fitness preclude us dishonoring the past to honor the present.

I do not believe, the sober, second sense and clearer judgment of our people will approve of the proposed change; the name Maverick square and the service and tradition it connotes are close to the heart and dear to the sensibilities of many of our citizens; they should be respected and not lightly offended; and the retention of the name is in no sense a reflection on the patriotism and heroism of Maj. Patrick J. Grady in whose honor it is proposed that the square shall now be changed.

In these days of unrest when a spirit of intolerance, ingratitude and false Americanism is cropping out all over the country, it behooves the government of the City of Boston to show a broader and better conception of duty and patriotism and an unflinching resolution to recognize the debt and obligation we owe to the men of the heroic age of Boston; and we can pay that debt in no better way than in preserving the traditional names that link our Boston to theirs and passing them down with honor intact to those who come after us.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

PROTECTION FOR GAS USERS.

Mayor Curley is in receipt of the following communication from Building Commissioner John H. Mahony, relative to the registration and licensing of gasfitters.

CITY OF BOSTON,
BUILDING DEPARTMENT,
January 13, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In compliance with your request that new legislation be presented relative to the registering and licensing of gas fitters throughout the Commonwealth, I report that after conference with Mr. Fred C. Atwill, Chairman, State Department of Public Utilities and Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner of the City of Boston, we have prepared a bill to represent to the Legislature transferring all the powers and duties now invested in the Board of Examiners of Gasfitters of the City of Boston to the State Board of Examiners of Plumbers.

This proposed legislation is in harmony with the State having jurisdiction over and licensing of electricians and plumbers. It will prove very effective providing uniform regulations throughout the Commonwealth. This bill also includes the handling of flexible tubes and the display and sale of fixtures, etc.

We are of the opinion that this legislation is very important in view of the fact that the deaths from gas asphyxiations are greatly on the increase. This legislation is along the preventive list which you are so greatly interested in.

Hoping the above covers the situation, I am,

Yours very truly,

JOHN H. MAHONY,
Building Commissioner

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

An extension of time has been granted on contract made with H. J. Walper, for copper work at Engine House No. 44, Northern avenue, until March 16, 1923. Mr. Walper took this contract at a very low figure ($4,495) and has had to work carefully to avoid a loss. Consequently, instead of staging the whole building and working a dozen or more men as the higher priced contractors intended doing, he is doing the work assisted by only two men. However, the job promises a success when completed, as the matched boarding, two layers of paper and copper siding is already showing its value in increased warmth and dryness within the building. Mr. Walper has done his best to carry on the work to completion. The weather conditions have been extremely bad during the past two months for all outside construction.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with

J. C. Coleman & Sons Company, for furnishing and spreading loam at Franklin Park golf links, Boston Common, Public Garden, the Fens, Mt. Hope Cemetery and at four intown cemeteries, until May 1, 1923.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with the Warren Brothers Company for the completion of bitulithic pavement upon Fens roads, until June 30, 1923.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS DEPARTMENT.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with Herbert W. Doten for furnishing and installing seating, furniture, gymnasium and other equipment for Municipal Building, old Ward 12, until March 1, 1923.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Sewer Service).

An extension of the time has been granted for completion of contract made with the C. & R. Construction Company, for building sewerage works in Hereford street, between Public Alley No. 423 and Beacon street, city proper, from December 30, 1922, to May 1, 1923, 122 days. This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that the progress of the work was retarded by the contractors' difficulty in obtaining sufficient labor.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with Samuel J. Tomasello, for sewerage works in Gt. Street, between Webber street and Mall street, Roxbury, from December 15, 1922, to January 26, 1923, 41 days. This extension of time is occasioned by a shortage of labor.

SCHOOLHOUSE DEPARTMENT.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with Archdeacon & Sullivan, for general construction of a lower elementary school in the Robert Gould Shaw District, Church and Centre streets, West Roxbury, until May 15, 1923.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with the Beacon Construction Company for the general construction of a lower elementary school in the Prince district, St. Mary's and Mountford streets, Back Bay, until May 15, 1923.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with J. Rugo for the erection and completion of a lower elementary school in the Henry L. Pierce district, Dorchester, until April 15, 1923.

An extension of time has been granted for completion of contract made with the George A. Fuller Company, for construction of the Public Latin School, Martin District, Avenue Louis Pasteur, Back Bay, until March 15, 1923.

ACCEPTANCE OF STREETS.

The locations, directions, widths and grade of the private ways, in West Roxbury district, designated as follows, have been duly accepted:

Billings street, from Prospect street to Oakmere street.

Gould street, easterly from Prospect street, for a distance of about one hundred and fifty feet.

Oakmere street, from Prospect street to near Rockcliffe street.

Eastwood place, from Eastwood circuit to Caledonian avenue.

TO STANDARDIZE SCHOOLS.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to Dr. David D. Scannell, chairman of the Boston School Committee, relative to the Standardizing of school buildings upon the 13th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 13, 1923.

DR. DAVID D. SCANNELL, Chairman
School Committee, Boston:

DEAR DOCTOR SCANNELL.—After most careful investigation of ways and means of speeding up the program for a seat for each pupil in a permanent school building at the minimum of cost, I am firmly convinced that the real solution lies in the standardization of school buildings containing eight rooms or less, as outlined by you at a conference held earlier in the year.

As the result of a survey of your contemplated three-year program I am confident that with the standardization of types and material and the elimination of architects' fees on buildings coming within the proposed scope, it should be possible to effect a saving in excess of one million dollars on your three-year program. In this connection it might be well to consider the advisability of the substitution of limestone for granite, of steel lumber for wood, and such other substitutions as are possible without reducing in any way the factor of safety.

I trust your Board will consider the advisability of inviting the submission of plans and specifications by the leading architects of America, offering such award or prize therefor as they may deem fit, the Architectural Division of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to be the body to determine the most acceptable type.

I appreciate that the standardization of all school buildings has an appeal from the standpoint of economy but I do not believe there is any way in which to justify the adoption of a standard type on the larger buildings as in my opinion they should be distinctive and of such character as would be in keeping with the intellectual progress of the people and the prosperity of the municipality.

Trusting that your Board will look with favor on this project, the adoption of which will in my opinion not only expedite your school accommodation program but will result in a permanent annual saving and incidentally release a considerable sum of money annually for the repair and upkeep of your existing plant, I beg to remain,

Very truly yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

BEACON STREET REPAIRS.

The Mayor has approved the request of Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke, of the Department of Public Works, that a bill of William Barrett & Co., amounting to $1,255.27, for labor and materials furnished, to put in proper condition the easterly roadway and sidewalk on Beacon street, which were washed away by the break of the 48-inch water main in Beacon street on the evening of December 18.

It was essential that these repairs be made immediately, and the most advantageous way of having the work done was to engage the Barrett Company which was then completing its contract with the department for laying the new water pipe under the railroad tracks at Beacon Street Bridge.

CONFERENCE UPON TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to Governor Cox upon the 13th instant relative to transportation problems of the City of Boston:

HON. CHANNING H. COX, Governor, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, State House, Boston:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 13, 1923.

YOUR EXCELLENCY.—At a meeting held in Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple, Boston, on Wednesday afternoon, January 10, attended by members of the General Committee on City Planning, an organization composed of approximately two hundred men and women representative of the commercial, industrial, social, religious and educational interests of the city, in co-operation with Boston's Commercial and Industrial Bureau, and others interested in the development of the community, Walter Stuart Kelley, a distinguished engineer of Brookline, Mass., sketched in a broad way a project which if given a practical application, would go far towards solving the vexatious transportation problem of the metropolitan district. Mr. Kelley's address made a very favorable impression on his audience and at its conclusion the following resolution was presented and adopted:

"That it is the sense of this meeting that the program presented here, for the betterment of the transportation facilities of Greater Boston and the commercial and industrial development of the Commonwealth, is worthy of serious consideration, study and action.

"That the matter be respectfully referred to his Excellency, the Governor of Massachusetts, with the request, duly adopted by this meeting, that he call a conference of the business and railroad interests of this Commonwealth to consider and calculate to promote the commercial and industrial expansion, stability and prosperity of Boston and the Commonwealth, which are so vitally concerned in the solution of this transportation problem."

In transmitting this resolution of a body representative of the conservative and progressive elements of this community, I am availing myself of an opportunity to emphasize the importance of a matter which has occupied the attention of the Legislature and other public and private bodies and associations for many years; and which has called forth some forty different reports, seventeen of which were published at an expense of over $200,000, by the State of Massachusetts. It is a regrettable fact that these reports, based on careful inquiry into a matter of paramount importance to the Commonwealth, have produced little responsive action and are allowed to moulder in the pigeon holes of our archives like dead men in a graveyard.

The City of Boston is growing in spite of its transportation disabilities, because no shackles imposed on a community can arrest growth in its entirety; but the crude, stupid, inefficient, archaic system of railroad service that obtains here, while it cannot kill, can strangle and cripple our progress and prosperity locomotor ataxia. Species of transportation locomotor ataxia. The time has come when the vital interests of the community, which are dependent on the character of its facilities and instrumentalities for doing business, must receive such attention from the Legislature and its commercial and civic bodies as will lead to a thorough reform in our transportation system, if we are not to be relegated to the commercial status of a third-rate seaport. The only sane way in which this can be accomplished is by the appointment of a body of men representing the commercial, industrial and traffic activities of the Commonwealth, who will investigate conditions, point out existent evils and defects and report them to the Governor in order that he may secure legislative authority to give a prompt and practical application to the recommendations of the commission of investigation. Action should follow investigation and report, action which calls for legislation and provision for ways and means to make the needed betterments. The ostich-like policy of depositing reports in pigeon holes has had its way with the result of a Boston years behind its commercial competitors and an industrial region falling into decay.

It is essential that the three railroad systems ostensibly serving Boston be linked up and co-ordinated in the metropolitan district and the port zone; the interchange of trains between the several railroads must be made more mobile, economical and expeditious; the obstacles to the free flowage of the commercial streams must be removed; the railroad dead ends on the harbor front must be lifted, that the reception and discharge of cargoes for overseas commerce may be facilitated and expedited; that vessels may dock anywhere in Boston with the knowledge that cargoes can be transferred from train to vessel and vessel to train with reasonable expedition, delay and congestion avoided, and movement maintained. The physical and financial conditions of the railroads preclude the expectation that they can undertake this work themselves. The work must be done and financed by the Commonwealth and done from year to year with the assurance that it will in time pay for itself; and in the resulting expansion and development of the commerce and industry of the Commonwealth and New England, the burden assumed can be borne without in any way oppressing or handicapping our people or interests.

The work has to be done. Massachusetts cannot go on as it has, cribbed, cabled and confined by a transportation system that is impotent and by railroad facilities rapidly degenerating into futilities.

Moreover, in view of the anticipated abolition of the "differential" rates that discriminate against us and the placing of the Port of Boston upon an equality of economic opportunity with all other Atlantic Coast seaports, it is of major importance that our transportation facilities should be radically modernized if we are to meet and utilize the commercial expansion that is predicated by the removal of these rate barriers.

The duty of the Commonwealth is plain and inescapable. An opportunity knocks at your Excellency's door that should be grasped now, since every delay means an enlargement of our embarrassments and a deepening of the pit out of which the Commonwealth and port must climb. With the credit of Massachusetts behind the program, the financial phase of the work ceases to be difficult. The cost of the reorganization of our transportation system will be high in its sum total; adopted as a program to cover a series of years it will be easy to carry; other cities and states have not hesitated to face this same problem, and their faith and courage have been justified by results.

I am certain your Excellency will give this resolution a serious consideration and bring it and the problems it connotes to the early attention of the Legislature for action. I have gone into this matter of supplementing the resolution of the General Committee on City Planning with my own plea because I realize the importance of the problems to be solved and the urgent necessity for early and definite action, and know that the plight we are now in is the natural result of the discredited habit of trying to make tomorrow do the work of today. Mexico may find a certain comfort in a policy of "Manyana"; the motto of modern Massachusetts should be "Do it now."

Looking for the early and sympathetic support of your Excellency and trusting that the subject will at once be brought to the attention of the Legislature, I have the honor to remain,

Yours very truly,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

The measures of Mayor Curley are as follows:

AN ACT TO ESTABLISH A STATE FINANCE COMMISSION.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

SECTION 1. Within ninety days after the passage of this act, the governor, with the advice and consent of the council, shall appoint a finance commission for the commonwealth of Massachusetts, consisting of five persons, inhabitants of and qualified voters in the commonwealth, who shall have been such for at least five years prior to the date of their appointment; one for the term of five years, one for four years, one for three years, one for two years, and one for one year, and thereafter as the terms of office expire in each year one member for a term of five years. Vacancies in the commission shall be filled for the unexpired term by the governor with the advice and consent of the council. The members of said commission may be removed by the governor with the advice and consent of the council for such cause as he shall deem sufficient. The chairman shall be designated by the governor. His annual salary shall be _____ dollars, which shall be paid in monthly installments by the commonwealth. The other members shall serve without pay.

SECT. 2. It shall be the duty of the Finance Commission from time to time to investigate any and all matters relating to appropriations, loans, expenditures, accounts, and methods of administration affecting the commonwealth or any subdivision thereof, every county, city or town and any department thereof that may appear to the commission to require investigation and to report thereon from time to time to the governor, the county commissioners of any county, to the mayor and city council of any city, the selectmen of any town, or to the general court. The commission shall make an annual report in January of each year to the general court.

SECT. 3. Whenever any pay roll, bill, or other claim against the commonwealth, county, city or town, is presented to the governor, county commissioners, mayor, city or town auditor, or city or town treasurer, he or they shall, if the same seems to him to be of doubtful validity, excessive in amount, or otherwise contrary to the interests of the commonwealth, county, city or town or district, refer it to the finance commission, which shall immediately investigate the facts and report thereon; and pending said report payment shall be withheld.

SECT. 4. The said commission is authorized to employ such experts, counsel, and other assistants, and to incur such other expenses as it may deem necessary, and the same shall be paid by the commonwealth upon requisition by the commission, not exceeding in the aggregate in any year the sum of _____ dollars, or such additional sums as may be appropriated for the purpose by the general court and approved by the governor. A sum sufficient to cover the salary of the chairman of the commission and the further sum of at least _____ dollars to meet the expenses as aforesaid shall be appropriated each year by the general court. Except as herein provided, the commission shall have the same right to incur expenses as any department of the commonwealth.

SECT. 5. For the purpose of enabling the said commission to perform the duties and carry out the objects herein contemplated, and to enable the governor, the mayors and city councils of the respective cities, the county commissioners of the respective counties, the selectmen of the respective towns and the general court to receive the reports and findings of said commission as a basis for such laws, ordinances, or administrative orders as may be deemed meet, the commission shall have the power to require the attendance and testimony and the production of all books, contracts, papers, documents, relating to said investigation, or which may be material in the performance of the duties imposed. Such witnesses shall be summoned in the same manner and be paid the same fees as witnesses before the superior court of the commonwealth. Each of such witnesses may be represented by counsel who may cross examine the witness for whom he appears and any witness or witnesses who appear at the investigation. The chairman or any member of the commission may administer oaths to or take the affirmation of witnesses who appear before the commission. The commission may prescribe reasonable rules and regulations for the conduct of hearings and the giving of testimony.

SECT. 6. If any person so summoned, and said said refuse to attend, or to be sworn, or to affirm, or to answer any question, or to produce any book, contract, document or paper pertinent to the matter of inquiry in consideration before the commission, a justice of the supreme judicial court or of the superior court, in his discretion, upon application by the commission or any member thereof, authorized thereto by vote of said commission, may issue an order requiring such person to appear before the commission, and to produce his books, contracts, documents and papers and to give evidence touching the matter in question. Any failure to obey such order of the court may be punished by such court as a contempt thereof.

SECT. 8. Any person who wilfully swears or affirms falsely before the commission upon any point material to the matter of inquiry shall be guilty of perjury, and shall be subject to the provisions of chapter two hundred and sixty-eight of the General Laws and amendments thereof.

SECT. 9. Upon application by the commission to any justice of the supreme judicial court, or of the superior court, the said justice may issue a commission to one or more competent persons in another state for the examination of a person without this commonwealth relative to any matter within the scope of the said investigation or of this act. The testimony of such person may be taken by open commission, or otherwise under the procedure, so far as the same may be applicable, provided by section forty-two of chapter two hundred and thirty-three of the General Laws, and the said justice may issue letters rogatory in support of said commission.

SECT. 10. Sections seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty and twenty-one of chapter four hundred and eighty-six of the acts of nineteen hundred and nine and all acts in addition thereto and in amendment thereof are hereby repealed.

SECT. 2. Before purchasing or taking the rights and property described within the provisions of section one of this act the department shall, with the approval of the mayor, execute with the Boston Elevated Railway Company, in the name of the city, the said company consenting thereto, a contract in writing for the sole and exclusive use of said rights and property by said company for operation of street railway lines therein and for other purposes, for a term of _____ years from the beginning of the use thereof, at an annual rental equal to four and one-half per cent of the net cost thereof. The provisions of this act in so far as they declare, define or establish the tenure, maintenance and operation of said street railway lines shall be embodied and made part of said contract. The net cost thereof shall be deemed to include, except as herein otherwise provided, all expenditures incurred in acquisition, including damages and expenses of the department in connection with said acquisition.

CITY ESTABLISHES DENTAL CLINIC.

Many persons interested in child welfare work were present at the Health Department's Unit on Blossom street, upon the 15th instant to witness the beginning of the first dental service to be maintained by the City of Boston.

Mayor Curley, Health Commissioner Mahoney, Dr. Harold DeW. Cross, director of the Forsyth Dental Infirmary, and Dr. Charles F. Wilinsky, director of the Health Unit, have co-operated to bring the service to a successful completion. Doctor Wilinsky has visited other cities where similar work is being carried on and has adopted the best of the ideas in force.

The dental service though established and maintained by the city, will be conducted by the Forsyth Dental Infirmary, under the direction of Doctor Cross. Two dentists and a dental hygienist from the Forsyth staff will be at the Blossom Street Unit from nine to five o'clock daily. Arrangements have been made with the School Committee to have the kindergarten children of the West End receive the same service at Blossom street that they are now receiving at the Forsyth institution.

Mayor Curley said today that the beneficial results of dental education in a cosmopolitan district like the West End cannot be too strongly emphasized, and it is planned to institute similar dental service in the health units soon to be established in other sections of Boston.

INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, January 9, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to make the following transfer:

Child Welfare Division.

From the appropriation for B-17, Care of Persons, $100, to the appropriation for C-12, Medical, Surgical and Laboratory, $100.

The principal reason for need of additional funds on this item is that more eye glasses have been required by children in the care of the department this year than formerly.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 15, 1923.

BOSTON, January 10, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully asked to make the following transfer:

Steamers "Monitor" and "George A. Hubbard."

From the appropriation for A-1, permanent Employees, 1 Oiler at $25.50 per week, $148.75, to the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Oiler at $33 per week, $148.75.

A transfer establishing the position of oiler at $25.50 per week was approved December 27. Since that time it has been found impossible to secure a man at that rate and I am therefore obliged to ask that the rate of $33 be allowed. The sum allowed will be sufficient as the appointment is to date from January 8, instead of December 22, as was originally planned.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 12, 1923.

BOSTON, January 10, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask that the following transfers be allowed:

House of Correction, Deer Island.

From the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Clerk at $1,000 per year, $7.09, to the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Master at $2,500, $7.09.

From A-1, 2 Cooks at $1,000 per year, $16.65, to A-1, 1 Matron and Cook at $600 per year, $16.65.

From A-1, 2 Cooks at $1,100 per year, $125.50, to A-2, Temporary Employees, $125.50.

From A-1, 36 Officers at $900-$1,200 per year, $100, to A-3, Unassigned, $100.

From A-1, 36 Officers at $900-$1,200 per year, $100, to D-8, Laundry, Cleaning and Toilet, $100.

From A-1, 36 Officers at $900-$1,200 per year, $100, to D-9, Educational and Recreational, $100.

Item A-1.—Our original estimate for master was cut $7.09 through error at time budget was passed. Through error, $16.65 was changed to item "Matron and Cook at $600" which should have been charged to "two cooks at $1,000" on pay roll in April.

Item A-2.—This item covers pay for an additional fireman required during vacation period and also during the cold weather. The appropriation of $500 proved insufficient to cover the time required during the past year and transfer of $125.50 is requested to cover necessary expenditures through January 31.

Item A-3.—It is estimated that approximately $100 will be needed to pay for overtime of engineers and firemen. A larger amount than was anticipated has been needed for substitute work on account of illness.

Item D-3.—Transfer of $100 for soaps is needed on account of increase of about 30 per cent in population, which was considerably greater than was anticipated.

Item D-9.—The principal reason for need of transfer to this item is to cover cost of Christmas decorations. On account of separation of drug addicts we now have two chapels to decorate and more candles are required.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 12, 1923.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, December 30, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Your approval is respectfully asked for the following internal transfers in the Cemetery Division of the Park Department:

From the appropriation for A-1, 3 Custodians at $1.40 per year, $1,800; 8 Gardeners at $4.50 per day, $400

3 Stablemen at $4 per day, $1,200, to the appropriation for A-1, 41 laborers at $4 per day, $3,400.

The reason for asking this transfer is that during the year we transfer from the last item in the budget, and in the end of the year, transfer the balances on the other items to replace the amount taken.

Yours very truly,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 4, 1923.

BOSTON, January 9, 1923.

From D-10, Agriculture, $600, to E-12, Parks and Recreational, $600.

From F-7, Pensions, etc., $1,000, to E-12, Parks and Recreational, $1,000.

The reasons for the above request is as follows:

A-3, Unassigned, $500.—In order to pay men who are working until midnight in removing snow, we anticipate we will need an additional $500.

D-4, Transportation of Persons, $300.—On account of sending four persons to conventions during the past year at an expense of $450, which was not included in the budget estimate, it is necessary to ask for the above amount to pay the expenses to the end of the year.

B-10, Rent, Taxes, Water Etc., $223.—On account of the increase of $2.50 allowed for the use of the Freeprest Street Bathing Beach, it is necessary to ask for the above sum.

B-28, Expert and Architect, $500.—On account of the extra services required in landscape changes and studies, it is necessary to ask for the transfer of the above sum to pay for the expense of same for the balance of the year.

B-35, Fees, Etc., $6.—This amount is asked to pay $4 for license to drive truck and $2 to drive car by Foreman Hayden and Dailey who drive their own cars.

B-39, General Plant, $1,700.—This amount is needed to pay for work that is urgent and necessary and must be done at once.

C-13, Tools and Instruments, $550.—This amount is necessary to pay for the many and varied articles charged to this item which will be needed for the balance of the year. With this transfer, the total charge to this item will be $6,550, which is over $1,000 less than has been paid during each of the last two years. The expense for 1920-21 being $7,550, and the expense for 1921-22 being $7,615.

E-9 Machinery Materials, $50.—This amount will be needed to pay for materials to be ordered at once.

E-12, Parks and Recreational, $2,700.—It was found necessary to do more sanding and oiling on Jamaicaaway and Arborway than was first anticipated and the above sum will be required to pay for materials needed on this item.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 15, 1923.

BOSTON, January 9, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Your approval is respectfully asked for the following internal transfers in the Park Department, Cemetery Division:

From B-15, Motorless Vehicles, $100, to B-39, General Plant, $100.

From C-4, Motor Vehicle, $200, to B-39, General Plant, $200.

From C-5, Motorless Vehicles, $455, to B-39, General Plant, $455.

From C-17, General Plant, $200, to B-39, General Plant, $200.

From Park Department, B-13, Communication, $20, to Cemetery Division, B-8, Light and Power, $20.

The reason for asking for this transfer is that the constructing of the area for the single grave section at Mt. Hope Cemetery makes it necessary to have the sum of $2,245 transferred to complete the work. We asked for $10,000 and was allowed $5,000, and the amount asked for is absolutely necessary.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 15, 1923.

Water Division.

BOSTON, December 26, 1922.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

The regular deliveries of water meters by the Union Meter Company, under the contract which the Superintendent of Supplies made with this company on July, 20, 1922, have been practically completed. There is provision in the contract for increasing the number to be furnished. The contract price is fair and it is felt that advantage should be taken of it by pacing with this firm an order for 1,000 3-inch meters, with couplings. We will thus be able to continue the work of installation without interruption and will have a stock on hand from which to draw to replace meters damaged by frost, etc. Also, we will be able to avoid unexpected delays which may develop in the award of the contract for the coming year.

To provide for the purchase of these meters I respectfully request that the City Council be asked to transfer the sum of $7,500 from Water Income to the appropriation for the Water Service under item "C-13, Tools and Equipment."

Yours respectfully,

EDWARD F. MURPHY,
Acting Commissioner of Public Works.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 2, 1923.

LETTER OF CITY AUDITOR.

CITY OF BOSTON,
AUDITING DEPARTMENT.
January 13, 1923.

To The Heads of Departments of the City of Boston and the County of Suffolk:

GENTLEMEN,—The appropriations for the fiscal year 1922-23 have been made for all the expenses incurred to January 31, 1923, inclusive. It is imperative that every invoice for expenditures incurred be forwarded to this office for inclusion in this year's appropriations. To accomplish this, the accounts for the fiscal year will be kept open for several days during February, in order that supplementary requisitions may be forwarded to this office, and distinctly marked "January 31, 1923—Supplementary." In order to close the accounts at the earliest possible moment, it will be necessary for the various departments to make sure that invoices accompany all goods delivered, and where any invoices are missing, to obtain the same immediately. Bills for carriages and miscellaneous expenses of employees should be in your hands at the close of business January 31.

Salary budgets for this year cover services of such employees to January 31, inclusive, whether paid monthly or weekly. It will be necessary, therefore, in the last week of the year, to adjust salaries in accordance with the amounts appropriated. The weekly rolls will be made up to include Thursday, February 1, and the division between the amounts to be charged to the old year and the new year will be in accordance with the procedure that occurred at the end of last year, viz., the furnishing of requisitions divided between the two years.

In the matter of retirement deductions that are to appear upon the pay rolls, you are respectfully directed to follow the instructions of the Retirement Board.

Beginning with the new fiscal year, all drafts for pay rolls and bills during the month are to be charged as at the end of the month, viz., February 28, March 31, April 30, etc., rather than as heretofore, February, March, April, etc. This will have the effect of twelve monthly drafts, from February 28 to January 31, inclusive, within the year.

Up to this time, the new system in connection with purchase orders and invoices has been followed pretty generally throughout the various departments. However, substantial improvement can be accomplished through more effective co-operation on the part of department employees. I earnestly recommend that you refer to my communication under date of September 1, 1922, for a full explanation of the system as devised, in order that there may be a more effective control in operation.

You are urgently requested to give these matters your immediate attention, and to refer this communication to book keepers and clerks whose duty it is to render the invoices and pay rolls to this department.

Very truly yours,
RUPERT S. CARVEN,
City Auditor.

LOYAL COALITION INVITATION.

Mayor Curley addressed a communication to the Loyal Coalition, under date of the 17th inst., firmly declining an invitation to be the guest of the organization, and which by the voluntary admission of certain of the executive officials, are associated with the notorious Ku Klux Klan.

The communication of Mayor Curley is as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 17, 1923.

TELFAR MINTON, ESQ., Secretary Loyal Coalition, 24 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston:

SIR:—I have your invitation to sit on the platform of Symphony Hall when Rear Admiral William Snowden Sims, U. S. N., retired, will make an address on the evening of Thursday, February 1, 1923.

As I consider the preachments and practices of your peculiar society detrimental to the peace and welfare of the City of Boston and repugnant to the principles of civil and religious liberty; and since the published president of the Loyal Coalition, Lothrop Stoddard, is said to be a member of a lawless, vicious aggregation of cowardly, nocturnal scoundrels known as the Ku Klux Klan, I am amazed that you have the impudence to send such an invitation to me or any other loyal American citizen. Moreover, I have no desire to sit on any platform with Admiral Sims, retired, whose best service to the American navy was his retirement from it. I would suggest that when he is done shooting off the only weapon he is expert at, his mouth, that he be escorted to the Cunard or White Star dock and given an opportunity to follow the trail and example of his ante-type Benedict Arnold.

Your tickets are herewith returned.

Very truly yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

NEW PAYMENT SYSTEM.

City Auditor Rupert S. Carven has commenced a pay-as-you-go policy upon city bills contracted with merchants and small vendors, as well as with contractors engaged in municipal work. Two payments monthly are made upon this classification of bills; the former custom was one pay day a month.

Mr. Carven has gradually put this system into effect since the city finished paying up bills left over by the Peters administration, which kept coming in as late as last October, even though the last city fiscal year closed January 31, 1921.

Not only have these overdue bills been settled, but the Curley administration will have practically accomplished this fiscal year the unprecedented policy of settling within the year all bills of every type contracted within the year.

It is the intention of Mayor Curley to maintain this policy through the present administration at least. There is a direct saving to the city involved to the extent of a 2 per cent discount for ten-day payments on many of the bills. And the expectation is that prices asked of the city for all commodities will be appreciably lowered, when it is generally known that the new policy is to settle all bills expeditiously. This improvement is in line with the policy adopted by most progressive municipalities.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.General Order No. 192.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Grant, Goff and Hickey, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Roy E. Varnum of Division 13, charging him with being absent from duty without leave and leaving the city without permission, has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty. In accordance with which, it is hereby ordered that the said Patrolman Roy E. Varnum perform two hundred and ten hours' punishment duty.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 193.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Harriman, Goff and Hickey, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman John P. Kennedy of Division 1, charging him with being absent from duty without leave and conduct unbecoming an officer, has reported to the commissioner a finding of not guilty. In accordance with which it is hereby ordered that the complaint against the said Patrolman John P. Kennedy be dismissed.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 194.

A trial board consisting of Captains Harriman, Goff and Hickey, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Edward B. Cain of Division 16, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer, "In that on the twenty-third day of October, 1922, said Patrolman Edward B. Cain was under the influence of intoxicating liquor to such an extent as to unfit him to perform the duties of a police officer," has reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty with a recommendation that he be dismissed from the Police Department.

The facts in the case disclose most unusual circumstances, for which I have been unable to find a parallel. The evidence shows that Patrolman Cain was on his annual vacation when the alleged breach of the rules was committed, and that he was under treatment by a physician for stomach trouble. His commanding officer testified to his exemplary conduct while under his command, and that he had never seen the slightest evidence of his using intoxicating liquor up to the time of this occurrence.

The rules specifically state that a patrolman shall hold himself in readiness at all times to answer calls and obey the orders of his superior officers, but in view of the extenuating circumstances surrounding this case, together with the fact that this patrolman was on his vacation, that he did not have a revolver or club in his possession, and that he has been under suspension since October 24, 1922, which I believe is sufficient punishment, I have therefore decided not to accept the recommendation of the trial board by imposing the extreme penalty of dismissal but to give Patrolman Edward B. Cain an opportunity to demonstrate to this department my belief that he will make a good police officer, and it is hereby ordered that the suspension of Patrolman Edward B. Cain be lifted and that he be restored to duty with loss of pay for the term of his suspension.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 195.

A most excellent piece of police work on the part of Patrolman Lester D. Hill of Division 16 has been brought to my attention by the Boston Fire Commissioner.

Early on Christmas morning, Patrolman Hill noticed smoke coming from a stable on Commonwealth avenue and after turning in an alarm, he went to the stable, forced the side door and led out a horse which was confined there, thus saving the life of a valuable animal.

Doctor Rowley, president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has requested permission, which I have granted with pleasure, to present in behalf of the society a medal to Patrolman Hill for his brave rescue of an animal from a burning building, and I heartily commend the officer for the courage and promptness of his action.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 196.

A report of a most meritorious piece of work performed by Patrolman Daniel J. Donovan of Division 11 has been sent to me by the fire chief of that district.

Early in the morning of January 6, Patrolman Donovan noticed flames coming from a room on the first floor of a three-family house on Freeport street. He immediately roused the occupants of the burning house and with pails of water brought from the kitchen, attacked and subdued the flames in about half an hour, reasoning that if he waited to give an alarm, the flames would gain such headway before the fire apparatus could get there, owing to the impassable condition of the streets, that the house would undoubtedly be destroyed.

After extinguishing the fire, Officer Donovan made the proper reports to his station and to the nearest fire house.

I take pleasure in warmly commending Patrolman Donovan for the excellent judgement and sagacity which he showed in handling a difficult and dangerous situation.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 197.

A most commendable piece of police work on the part of Patrolman John J. Donovan of Division 6 has been brought to my attention.

In the forenoon of January 11, Patrolman Donovan, while patrolling along the viaduct off Summer street, observed a pair of horses attached to a large caravan and without a driver, speeding over the viaduct. The officer attempted, but without success, to stop the horses by running in front of them. He then caught the reins which were hanging over the side of one of the horses and although dragged for some distance, finally brought them to a stop. Had he not stopped them, the horses would undoubtedly have crashed into a large plate glass window in a building directly opposite the viaduct with disastrous results to themselves and probably to many of the people in the vicinity.

I take pleasure in cordially commending Patrolman Donovan for his keenness of observation as well as for his prompt and courageous action.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 198.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Harriman, Goff and Hickey, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Edward J. Hayes of Division 20, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer, has reported to the commissioner a finding of not guilty. In accordance with which, it is hereby ordered that the complaint against the said Patrolman Edward J. Hayes be dismissed.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 199.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Harriman, Goff and Hickey, having heard by reference a complaint against Patrolman Harold F. Brackett of Division 20, charging him with absence from duty, reported to the commissioner a finding of guilty. In accordance with which, the said patrolman Harold F. Brackett was on January 12, 1923, dismissed from the Police Department.

Due notice of such dismissal with the reason therefor was duly and specifically given in writing on January 12, 1923, to the said Harold F. Brackett.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Board of Park Commissioners to make payment of one half the claim submitted by the J. C. Coleman & Sons Company for the loss of time and money in the contract with the Park Department of the City of Boston at the Christopher Lee Playground. This loss was caused by the fact that the Boston Elevated Railway Company maintained there a large sixteen-inch conduit carrying very heavy voltage, laid in concrete casement. The presence of this conduit was not shown on any plan submitted by the Park Department in the work to be done, nor was it shown in the records of any department in the City of Boston. Therefore, it was impossible for the J. C. Coleman & Sons Company to have known of the existence of this conduit before the contract was entered into and the work started.

The J. C. Coleman & Sons Company have submitted an itemized claim amounting to the sum of $7,085. After conference with the Law Department, the Park Commissioners and the Boston Elevated Railway Company's representatives, Mr. Coleman has agreed to accept the flat sum of $5,000. The Boston Elevated Railway Company has already paid $2,500—one half of the amount agreed upon ($5,000), and the Board of Park Commissioners has voted, with the approval of the Law Department and subject to the approval of the Mayor, that the sum of $2,500 be allowed and paid to the J. C. Coleman & Sons Company on account of the said loss and damage.

SNOW REMOVAL DEVICES.

Mayor Curley declares the time has come when Boston must spend a large sum of money for labor-saving devices in snow removal—perhaps $300,000—as is being done in other cities, notably in New York, and has directed Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department to begin the equipment with the purchase of an Austin snow loader, which type has been extensively used in New York City this winter, the price of which is $7,000.

This machine is a huge self-feeding contrivance which fills the trucks on the side, rather than in the rear, such as that now in operation by the Boston Elevated Company.

Richard J. McNulty, mechanical designer of the Public Works Department, who has been studying snow removal in New York for several weeks, at the request of the Mayor, says each of these ponderous machines is able to do the work of three or four hundred men and half as many tip carts. Mayor Curley thinks Boston should have several of these machines.

Though Mayor Curley declares that he has not received a single complaint from business interests, on account of the great inconveniences and delays that transportation has suffered by reason of snow, he believes that these interests would hail with joy the acquisition of much labor-saving equipment on the part of the city.

New York, in addition to its huge motor plows and the snow removers, has nearly three hundred tractors, of small type.

Mr. McNulty has reported to the mayor that New York appropriated $4,000,000, after the severe winter of three years ago, to perfect its snow-removing department. New equipment for snow work at that time consisted of 212 five-ton White trucks of six cubic yards capacity, 100 two-ton

Mack trucks of three cubic yards capacity, 100 Cleveland tractors of about one and one half tons, fifty Holt five-ton tractors, a few hundred Champion plows, some Climax plows and minor apparatus.

Mayor Curley also thinks well of the practice in New York of conducting instruction classes on snow work, though there will not be great need of this innovation unless the city purchases the equipment which the mayor has in mind. In New York, about October 23 each year the classes are started for all chauffeurs, sweepers and officers in districts. Advertising is begun on November 15 for emergency laborers and an effort made to enroll fifteen thousand men. Placards are placed on each city cart and truck. The men are paid every three days. Standard slides are shown in the movie houses, bearing the advertisement "Men Wanted." The men are classified as being available for either day or night work.

New York obliges the employees of the street cleaning department to report for duty as soon as the snow begins to fall, and they know in advance when, where and how they are to perform their duties. In Boston there is absolutely no such system. The men are called out, but they seldom go to the same district twice in a winter. In New York, if a bad storm is indicated, snow removal is begun when the snow reaches a depth of two inches; in Boston the city employees seldom go to work on snow which has fallen to a depth of four inches, unless the storm is over.

According to the city ordinances of New York owners must have all snow off their sidewalks four hours after the storm is over and also keep the gutters open. If city is obliged to do this work the expense is charged to the property owners. It is a violation of the ordinances to throw snow from sidewalks on roadways previously cleared. In Boston it is often the case that snow is shovelled from sidewalks or from roofs long after the streets are cleared. Boston residents are given three hours between sunrise and sunset to permit snow to remain on the sidewalks, according to the ordinance, but during the present winter failure to respect the ordinance has been widespread.

INDORSEMENT OF VALOR.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter to Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department upon the 18th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 18, 1923.

MR. JOSEPH A. ROURKE, Commissioner of Public Works, 509 City Hall Annex, Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The courageous action of Joseph B. Nealon, employed as quartermaster in the Ferry Service, in diving from the pilot house into Boston Harbor to save the life of a boy who had accidentally fallen from the ferry boat "Lieut. Lawrence J. Flaherty," is worthy of special recognition.

I trust that in addition to directing the attention of the Massachusetts Humane Society and the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission of Pittsburgh to this case that you will consider him for promotion when an opportunity for advancement presents itself.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

LAND TAKING IN WEST ROXBURY.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners to take, for an addition to the lot of the Charles Sumner District Intermediate School, West Roxbury, a certain piece or parcel of land in the Charles Sumner District, bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point on Florence street 120 feet southeasterly from the corner of Poplar and Florence streets; thence southeasterly by line of Florence street 140 feet to land of city; thence southerly by land of city 175 feet to land of city; thence westerly by land of city 130 feet to land of Murray; thence northerly by land of Murray, Hersey, Parker and Cobleigh 216 feet to the point of beginning and contains 27,934 square feet of land.

STATUE OF GEORGE R. WHITE.

Daniel C. French, the famous American sculptor, has been chosen to design the $50,000 bronze statue of George R. White, one of the two greatest benefactors of the people of Boston which will be placed upon a granite pedestal in the Public Garden.

The Park and the Art Commissions of the City of Boston, in concurrence with Mayor Curley, have so decided. Mrs. H. J. Bradbury of Commonwealth avenue, sister of Mr. White, has likewise approved this action, taken in conformity with provisions of Mr. White's will, which makes a bequest for the statue.

Mr. White bequeathed to the citizens of Boston, downtown realty parcels totaling $5,000,000 in value and the White Fund is created by its annual income of about $250,000. George E. Phelan is manager of the fund.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR CLERKS.

Mayor Curley addressed the following telegram to United States Senator David I. Walsh, upon the 16th instant:

"I have been requested by the Post Office Clerks Association of the City of Boston, through President John A. Kelley and Secretary William A. Collins to especially call your attention to the fact that Senator Townsend of the Senate committee on post offices and post roads will act favorably on the time differential bill. Post office clerks of Boston sincerely trust that they may enjoy your undivided support in behalf of the enactment of this important legislation which means so much of their mutual cause."

SETTLEMENT OF FIRE DAMAGE.

The Mayor has approved the request of the Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners for the payment of the bill of Raymond J. Connolly, contractor, in the sum of $1,319.04, for repair of fire damage in the Miles Standish School, Roxbury.

A fire occurred in this school building on September 4, 1922. It was impossible at the time to approximate the amount of repair work to be done, and therefore no contract could be made. The School Committee and Superintendent of Schools desired that the building be ready for use at the opening of the schools on September 13, 1922, which made it necessary to start the repair work immediately. The Schoolhouse Commissioners considered this case as of extreme emergency.

All of the items for material and labor have been checked and verified by the department in order to comply with the provisions of the city charter and enable the City Auditor to pass the bill for payment.

HYDE PARK APPRECIATES MAYOR.

Mayor Curley received the following telegram from the Hyde Park Improvement Association upon the 13th instant:

HYDE PARK, January 12, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR MR. MAYOR,—In behalf of the Hyde Park Improvement Association please accept our thanks for your effort in regard to our transportation problem. It is not only a question of dollars and cents but it is dangerously near effecting the lives of many of our people under the present conditions. Hope you will make every effort possible for our relief at today's conference. Thanking you in advance, I am,

Yours very respectfully,

C. F. FALLON,
President.

HONOR FRANKLIN'S BIRTHDAY.

Scholars representing the printing classes in the Agassiz, Austin, Sherwin Quincy, Hancock and Lyman schools called upon Mayor Curley, upon the anniversary of Benjamin Franklin's birthday, upon the 17th instant.

He presented each with a Municipal Register for 1922.

George E. Phelan, Director of the White Fund, explained the health units planned under this fund, one to be built on Commercial street and one in East Boston.

The party visited the statue of Franklin, upon which one of the boys laid a wreath.

Mayor Curley accepted it in behalf of the city, and paid tribute to Franklin's qualities as "philosopher, patriot and worthwhile citizen."

The boys raised the money for the laurel wreath and printed the card attached to it, while the girls selected the blue ribbon as symbolic of truth and justice.

Francis Corby of the Agassiz School made a splendid presentation address, and Vincent Santino and Harold de Vose placed the wreath.

William P. Grady and Mrs. Minnie Darrow, printing class instructors, accompanied the delegation of students.

MAYOR CURLEY'S RINGING LETTER ON KU KLUX KLAN.

Mayor Curley addressed the following letter upon the 13th instant relative to the Ku Klux Klan outrages:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
January 13, 1923.

A. V. DALRYMPLE, Esq., Attorney-at-Law, 201-14 Wheat Building, Fort Worth, Texas:

MY DEAR MR. DALRYMPLE,—I have your stirring letter of January 4, 1923, which is instinct with the true spirit of America, revealing the courage, resolution and fidelity genuine Americanism connotes, and without which American liberty must go down before that sham patriotism which thrives in darkness and falsehood, which seeks by violence and terrorism to over-ride the law and constitution of the land and supplant the principles of American democracy by the abominations of organized scoundrelism. I can understand thoroughly the flaming indignation of men like you fighting on the forefront of the battle line for their precious political heritage and facing the meanest and most unscrupulous enemies that ever warred against the civil, religious and political freedom of America.

Your call to us of the North to aid in crushing this monstrous spawn of ignorance, bigotry, greed and deception cannot, and will not go unanswered. The time has come for the sane elements of American life to organize themselves into a body that will stand unflinchingly back of the law and its enforcement; that will not only pitilessly destroy this Ku Klux Klan abomination, but will drive out of the political, professional and mercantile life of America the leaders and organizers of the Klan, and the men who have given them their aid and sympathy, openly or secretly.

The men who are engaged in this monstrous conspiracy are public enemies, unworthy of tolerance or mercy, lacking even the condonation of their crimes—insanity—we accord to dynamiters and anarchists. Ku Klux Klanism is a crime against Christianity, Americanism and civilization. It is a monstrous hypocrisy; a cold-blooded and deliberate fomentation of hatred and persecution to enable its leaders and preachers to grow rich on the credulity of their gulls, to secure political power and enable them to transform the American republic into a huge camorra, more odious than any other political monstrosity that has afflicted the modern world.

Unless we destroy it we will destroy us; but destroyed it must be as pitilessly as rabid dogs are destroyed.

The commercialism and greed that are at the base of Ku Klux Klanism are already manifesting themselves. Publicity is one of its feeders, since its grotesque and fantastic methods appeal to the weak-minded and credulous and its nocturnal murders, burning and outrages, call to the criminal and degenerate. Its various manifestations are a challenge to civilization and its government and law; and it is time to take up and answer the challenge.

Let me say again, in spite of the dispatches coming out of the state, that I have faith enough in Texas to believe that the breed that died at Goliad and the Alamo, that plucked victory from the hazards and odds of San Jacinto, that gave a new republic to the world and a new pledge to human liberty, has not passed out of the Lone Star State. That band of heroes and patriots had men of many races and creeds. I know that the men who marched and fought with Houston, who counseled with Dallas and Burleson, who died with Travis, Crockett and Bowie, have not forgotten the deeds and principles of their fathers. I do not believe their blood has turned to water, nor mingled with the scum that has trickled into Texas from outside darkness. There is still enough of the splendid spirit of Texas left to rally and lead its manhood, that will not submit tamely to the militant rascality of the state, the clamor of ministerial dervishes, the brutality and cowardice of the obscene creatures of the night and the propagandists of a perverted protestantism. That virile minority will not permit the evangels of evil and hatred to wreck a state baptized in the blood of the bravest; and if ever it should come to an open fight, when the light is turned on the nocturnal prowlers and the robes of their murderous mummery is torn from their sinking forms I have no fear of the outcome. The men whose fathers drove a king from America and a dictator from Texas, who cemented every stone in the temple of American liberty with their blood, are not likely to tolerate the lawlessness and insolence of these secret societies of Santa Annas, either in Texas or elsewhere in free America.

They have but recently emerged in Massachusetts with boasts of numbers, but they have that love of safety and a whole skin which makes them court darkness and concealment. Those who are likely to flock to their ranks are of much of the same kidney as the ignorant and credulous who recruit the Klan in the South, with this difference, that while your morons affiliate with the Democratic party, ours seek to control the Republican party and will bluster and threaten in its ranks. Up here we feel quite competent to take care of them. We will organize and smoke out the political rascals who attempt to capitalize this infamy. The press here in Boston is against the Klan; it must be our business to make them pass from denunciation of the Klan and its teachings to the exorciation of its leaders and teachers.

There is talk of the organization of a protestant society to fight it, since it degrades and discredits protestantism. I believe every political leader in the state should be placed on record. The decent membership of the masonic order should be called upon to repudiate the so-called Scottish rite now openly in alliance with the Klan in the West. Our motto should be, "Those who are not with us are against us"; and we must institute a rigid, persistent, peaceful boycott against every person, corporation and business that does not stand out openly and firmly against the Klan and all it means. Moreover, I believe pressure should be brought upon the banking interests of the North to refuse capital or credit to the cities and communities tolerating this anti-American camorra, since its reign of terror and persecution makes business and trade subject to the threats of outlaws and outlawry, destroying the confidence on which they are based.

Bankers of sanity can be made to understand this and in the last resort it is the savings of the plain, law-abiding citizens which furnish the capital of the banks here and elsewhere; and those people can refuse to permit their money to be used to finance persons and communities which are public enemies and wreckers of society.

Above all things let us refuse resolutely to tolerate weakness, cowardice or betrayal in the places of authority. Let us stand behind law and order until they fail us; and then we can remember the example of the Italian Fascisti. The peace, safety and freedom of the land must be preserved at all hazards, and daylight and decency, courage and loyalty will triumph over the hosts of darkness and degeneracy.

Etternal vigilance is the price of freedom. The men of the North who broke the might of Germany and saved Europe from its menace are not the men to brook the insolence or recruit the ranks of the Ku Klux Klan. They will war if war be best and if they have to fight to make America safe and its law respected and obeyed, there will be little left to this creature of the night to bury. Ku Klux Klanism must be treated as all forms of treason, outrage and lawlessness are treated, with vigor and without mercy.

It is necessary of course to educate the public as to the true character and purpose of this iniquitous organization; and its rather transparent attempt to pose as one thing South and another thing North, must be exposed; and it must be made to stand naked in the sun for what it is, an enemy of law and order, a foe of Christianity and civilization, a wrecker of civil and religious liberty, a violator of the Constitution, an organized system of murder, torture, arson and outrage, a traitor to God and country.

Let us get rid of this puerile twaddle called "100 per cent Americanism," whose devotees are 100 per cent anti-American. Let us announce our whole-hearted hatred of government by church vestries and secret society lodges; and stand inflexibly for the principles of Washington, Jackson and Lincoln.

Let us be led by men, not midnight marauders. Let our totem be the lion not the coyote, the eagle not the turkey buzzard.

Yours very truly,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

DANCING PRIVILEGE CURTAILED.

Mayor Curley, just prior to his departure, issued the following statement:

"The policy of permitting the use of Curtis Hall for dancing is contrary to the wishes of the people in the section of the city in which the hall is located, and the Park Commissioners have definitely determined that in future the hall shall not be leased to anyone for dancing purposes."

OVERTIME ALLOWED.

1922, to April 15, 1923, 148 days. This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of the setting in of freezing weather it became necessary to wait until open weather in order to relay the macadam pavement over the refilled trenches as per Item 75 of the contract.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT (Water Service.)

An extension of time has been granted for completion of the contract made with De Christoforo Brothers Company for laying and relaying water pipes in Overlook road, West Roxbury, from February 1, 1923, to May 15, 1923. The reason for this request is on account of the slow work blasting through solid rock and adverse weather conditions.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

NO PARKING IN SOMERSET STREET.

The Board of Street Commissioners have adopted an order making Somerset street, for its entire length, free from the parking of automobiles, and further it will be a one-way thoroughfare, in a northerly direction.

A public hearing was held upon the 24th instant.

Capt. Bernard J. Hoppe of the Traffic Squad of the Police Department spoke in advocacy of this double restriction, which will mean so much inconvenience to court attaches, lawyers and members of the City Club and the Elks, who have been in the habit of leaving their cars at the club for long periods.

It was not Captain Hoppe's original idea to have parking entirely eliminated. He had thought that cars might be permitted on one side of the street, between Ashburton place and Howard street. But when Chairman Noyes asked why, in view of the narrowness of the street and its increasing use as a thoroughfare, there should be any parking, the police official declared that parking should be eliminated from every narrow street in the city and he was glad to approve the suggestion.

Several weeks ago the Justices of the Supreme Court asked Superintendent Crowley if the automobile noise at the rear of the Court House could not be stopped. It had seriously interfered with court sessions. Captain Hoppe stationed an officer there and parking has been prevented between Beacon street and Ashburton place. Captain Hoppe said that, though members of the Elks and the City Club have been in the habit of parking their cars on Somerset street, much of the offence has come from court attaches and lawyers having business in the courts. There had been numerous convictions.

Superintendent Winthrop Alexander of the Courthouse, speaking for Sheriff Kelliher, advocated the no-parking rule, telling of the annoyances suffered by the courts. There was similar support from George H. Walker, who represented the Houghton & Dutton Company.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, states the Law Department has disapproved thirty claims against the city, in twenty of which no amounts were specified, and the other ten aggregated $694.25, and are classified as follows:

Against the Collecting Department, one, amounting to $108; against the Fire Department, three, amounting to $55; against the Park and Recreation Department, two, in one of which no amount was specified and the other one amounted to $31.25; against the Police Department, three, in one of which no amount was specified and the other two amounted to $435; against the Public Buildings Department, one, in which no amount was specified; against the Public Works Department, nineteen, in sixteen of which no amounts were specified, and the other three amounted to $65; against the Transit Department, one, in which no amount was specified. All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

BOSTON HEALTH SHOW.

By DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY,
COMMISSIONER.

Good health, we are told, is a purchasable commodity. But in order to secure the benefits of it to the individual or to society as a whole, we must first create the desire for it in the mind of the individual, and then in the minds of the masses. The most effective way by which this desire can be created is to demonstrate the advantages of good health and should it fail, the resources which the individual has at hand, in the knowledge which modern science possesses, for its acquisition.

This is the age of publicity. All business men recognize the importance of publicity and employ it extensively. Even churches, to some extent, have taken it up.

Why not employ publicity to spread abroad the knowledge of how to secure and maintain or recover health?

Of all appeals to the mind the most impressive is through the eye. This fact is recognized in the numerous shows or expositions by which business men reach their patrons.

It is now proposed to employ this most effective method of communicating information on the problems of public health. As the business show sells goods to the public, it is proposed to sell health to the people of Boston.

On October 6 to October 13, 1923, inclusive, a great health and sanitation exposition will be held in the Mechanics Building.

The Boston Health Show is made possible through the co-operation of the various health agencies of the city with the Boston Department of Health. The names of some of these co-operating agencies appear on pages of this booklet.

This Boston Health Show presents an opportunity for the producers and manufacturers of things that have to do with the public health to exhibit their products. None but ethical commercial exhibits will be accepted for exhibition, and only those commodities which have a direct bearing on public health.

The scope of the Boston Health Show is almost unlimited. It embraces among other things: Proper foods and beverages; their production; handling, dispensing and distribution; their preparation in the home and the public eating house or drinking place; their proper co-ordination for the best results in nutrition; water supply; housing, including heating, ventilation, outdoor sleeping facilities, etc.; dress, including among other things, infants' clothes, underwear, etc.; heating and ventilation of schools, meeting halls, public conveyances; shoes for babies and for deformed feet; sporting goods as means of recreation and health; industrial sanitation, that is, the sanitary construction and operation of factories and other working places, with the welfare work practiced by many employers; dental hygiene; personal cleanliness and means thereof, etc. These are some of the many articles and methods useful or necessary for the practice of personal hygiene and public sanitation. Then there is the field of preventive medicine and of the curing of disease: The handling of tuberculosis; the prevention and checking of other infectious diseases; the production of preventives and remedies, as vaccines and antitoxins; special foods for special diseases; the operation of dispensaries and sanitariums, etc.

Lectures and moving pictures will bring home in an unique and striking way the lessons of health and its importance. Exhibits by city, state and private health agencies will show their methods and results.

These are a few hints of the magnitude, scope and importance of this Exposition. It will be the first of its kind. It will be a way for Boston to blaze a new trail for the progressive improvement of the health of her own people.

Can you, as a citizen, imagine a worthier object to support?

Can you, as a business man, conceive a better opportunity to bring your products to the intelligent attention of the people?

Can you, as a manufacturer or dealer, afford to keep out of this unique and unparalleled selling campaign?

It is planned to group exhibits in certain classes in association with corresponding educational exhibits by the respective public health agencies. No exhibits will be admitted that are disapproved by the medical or health authorities.

Public spirit and enlightened self-interest join in urging all who produce anything that has a bearing on health to come into this Exposition.

Yours very truly,

BOSTON HEALTH SHOW,

FRANCIS X. MAHONEY,
Health Commissioner.

FEES OF HEALTH DEPARTMENT.

Mayor Curley has approved a request of Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Commissioner of the Health Department, relative to the payment of fees for licenses for egg breaking and canning and sausage manufacturing establishments.

The communication of Doctor Mahoney and the proposed regulation are as follows:

Boston, January 11, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR.—The Corporation Counsel has submitted an opinion to the effect that the fee of $100 for licensing egg breaking and canning and sausage manufacturing establishments, proposed to be prescribed by the Health Department regulation, with the Mayor's approval, was a reasonable fee for the making of necessary investigations and hearings required so as to determine the advisability of granting licenses applied for.

I am therefore inclosing herewith copies of the proposed regulation fixing a fee of $100 under the authority of chapter 571 of the Acts of 1910 for the issuance of these licenses. The regulation in question will be promulgated as of the date of your approval, if approved.

Very truly yours,

FRANCIS X. MAHONEY,
Health Commissioner.

AN ORDER ESTABLISHING A REASONABLE FEE FOR THE ISSUING OF CERTAIN FOOD ESTABLISHMENT LICENSES.

Whereas, Under the authority contained in chapter 571 of the Acts of 1910, the head of a city department, subject to the approval of the Mayor, is authorized to establish a reasonable fee or charge for the issuing of any license or permit authorized to be issued by such head of a city department; it is hereby Ordered, That the following fees or charges be and are hereby established as reasonable to be charged for the issuing of the licenses authorized to be issued by the Health Commissioner of the City of Boston by the laws severally cited:

1. Establishments for the breaking and canning of eggs authorized by the provisions of section 89 of chapter 94 of the General Laws to be licensed by the Board of Health (Health Commissioner) shall be so licensed upon payment of a fee of $100.

2. Establishments for the manufacture of sausages and chopped meats of any kind authorized by the provisions of section 144 of chapter 94 of the General Laws (by reference to section 89 of chapter 94 of the General Laws) to be licensed by the Board of Health (Health Commissioner) shall be so licensed upon payment of a fee of $100.

FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, M. D.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE.

John L. McDonald, secretary of the Committee for Americanism, attended the first monthly meeting of the National Committee on Americanism, held in New York City, on Tuesday, January 23.

REPORT OF FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Theodore A. Glynn, Fire Commissioner of the Boston Fire Department, has presented the following report for the month of December, 1922:

Boston, January 15, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR.—In accordance with your Honor's circular letter No. 3, I submit herewith a report of the activities of the Fire Department for the month ending December 31, 1922:

Men who completed course of instruction in chauffeurs' school, thus rendering them competent to operate motor vehicles, 3. (This small figure is due to the fact that during the past month much unseasonable weather has been encountered.)

Men who have not completed course of instruction in chauffeurs' school, 6.

High Pressure Station No. 1. Alarms to which pumps responded, 17; actual time pumps were in operation, 4 hours 50 minutes. No water discharge recorded above low pressure.

High Pressure Station No. 2. Alarms to which pumps responded, 18; actual time pumps were in operation, 6 hours; water discharge recorded on Venturi meter, 87,000 gallons.

Sessions of the department fire college commenced on Monday, December 11, under the direction of Lieut. Daniel W. Baker, department drillmaster. The lecturers, for the most part members of the department, dwelt on marine fires, inspections, fire alarm systems, motor apparatus, explosives, etc. At the conclusion of the lectures a general examination was held and the members graded.

On December 8, a meeting was held at the headquarters of the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters, at which representatives of the Fire Department, Police Department, underwriting interests and sprinkler contractors were present. A discussion on the question of the best and most effective way of marking the sprinkler alarm gong on the outside of the building equipped with sprinklers took place. The reason for this discussion was the fact that many people were not familiar with the sound of sprinkler bells, and by virtue of this condition much time has been lost in the calling out of the Fire Department in the event of fire occurring within a sprinkler-equipped building, and these delays have at times resulted in great property loss. Explicit instructions are to be given to all members of the Police Department by means of demonstrations by actual operation of the alarm gong under varying conditions.

On Tuesday evening, December 5, the chief of department served in the capacity of presiding officer at a lecture given under the auspices of the Massachusetts Safety Council on the relationship between the plant superintendent and the Fire Department, the meeting being held at the Young Men's Christian Union Hall, Boylston street. He spoke on the ways and means of properly protecting plants in general, and also of the precautions that should immediately be taken by co-operation with the Boston Fire Department and also other fire departments in the event of fire occurring. Sixty-two industrial plants were represented in the audience, and so far as could be observed the meeting was a huge success.

The Board of Merit held various meetings and inspected many locations in connection with cases considered for commendation by them. The Fire Commissioner also participated in these meetings and inspections. It is of interest to note that for the past three years no consideration had been given commendable acts performed by members of this department.

A list of hydrant locations in the congested value sections of the city was submitted to the Board of Street Commissioners, the same to be used in formulating plans for relieving the congestion of motor-driven vehicles near fire hydrants, the parking of which constitutes a hazardous condition.

A conference was held with Mr. Hackett, representing the Engineers' Union, relative to the hours of labor performed by the engineers attached to our high pressure system.

A conference was also held with the representatives of the City of Boston Building Department relative to the regulation of standpipes in certain buildings within the City of Boston. This applies to standpipes used primarily by the Fire Department, and it is intended to have a law enacted to cover buildings hereafter erected exceeding 70 feet in height, and all existing buildings hereafter altered to exceed that height.

An order was sent to the several divisional officers requesting that they inform the company commanders under their jurisdiction to anticipate their coal requirements at least two weeks in advance, in order that the department would not be unduly hampered in its activities due to the present chaotic status of the coal market.

Twenty (20) members of the department were detailed to the "Post" Christmas gift headquarters on Washington street to assist in wrapping and packing gifts for needy children. These men were complimented by those in charge of the distribution for their very efficient work.

Tickets for the annual Relief Fund Ball were distributed to the various members of the department selected to sell the same to the citizenry at large.

The entire inspection force of the Bureau of Fire Prevention and Intelligence was drawn from the outlying districts and detailed to the high value district and shopping district during the month of December. This force consisted of thirty men, and in addition to this inspections were made by the officers of the various fire stations in these districts. The inspection force visited the hide and leather, cotton and wool, boot and shoe districts, printing, lithographing and etching establishments, shirt and dress factories and in general, various other industries located in the high value section. Particular attention was given to department stores and specialty shops, shipping rooms and the use of paper and excelsior as packing materials. Smoking was stopped in department stores and counters where celluloid (pyralin plastic) articles were for sale were particularly watched in this regard. Attention was also directed towards Santa Claus displays where lighting and cotton decorations were used. In all about 8,000 careful inspections were made, which was most creditable to the work of the inspection force at this time of the year when carelessness becomes a habit and which probably resulted in the fact that practically no alarms for fire were received from this district during this period, and owing also to the wise discretion of the chief of department in assigning the entire inspection force to the downtown district during this period.

The various branches of the department have performed their duties in a proper and satisfactory manner.

Yours very truly,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

PRESENTATION OF MEDALS.

The "John E. Fitzgerald" medal and the "Walter Scott Medal for Valor" will be awarded at the coming forty-fourth annual ball of the Boston Fire and Protective Departments' Mutual Relief Association, to be held at Mechanics Building, Monday evening, February 12, 1923.

The so-called "Fitzgerald medal," under the terms of the bequest of the late Mr. John E. Fitzgerald, is to be presented to the fireman who, in the judgment of the Fire Commissioner, has performed the most meritorious act and whose conduct has called for special mention. Although this bequest was received by the city in 1905, nothing has ever been done towards carrying out the terms of same, so that this will be the first time that the medal has been awarded. The only living heirs of the late Mr. Fitzgerald in Boston will be present and take part in the presentation ceremony.

The "Scott medal" is the gift of Mr. Walter Scott of 495 Broadway, New York City, who spent his boyhood days in Boston, and who still holds a very high regard for his native city. Under the terms of the deed of gift, a gold medal is to be presented by the Fire Commissioner to the fireman who in his judgment had during the calendar year specifically distinguished himself for valor in the performance of his duty as a fireman. It is expected that Mr. Scott will be present on that occasion and make the presentation of this, the first award of the medal, which he so generously donated to the city.

Another feature in connection with these medals which particularly appeals to the men of the department is the fact that the recipient of one of these medals is allowed 5 per cent credit in examinations for promotion by the Department of Civil Service and Registration, which makes the award doubly attractive to them.

NEW COAL STATIONS.

After a canvass of the city by officials of Mayor Curley's Fuel Committee it has been decided to open two additional fuel stations, one in East Boston and another in Hyde Park, from which coal will be sold to the public to be carried away in their own conveyances at 70 cents per 100 pounds.

Conditions of such distress were found in these two sections that the committee concluded heroic measures were needed. Accordingly plans have been made for carting from fifteen to twenty tons of screened coal from the Navy Yard pockets, where the city coal is being kept, to Maverick square, East Boston, and the District 11 Paving Yard, Hyde Park avenue.

Scales and clerks are being provided and sales began upon the 26th instant.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 7.

I. EXAMINATION FOR PROMOTION.

The Massachusetts Department of Civil Service and Registration announces that it will hold a competitive examination on Friday, February 2, 1923, to establish an eligible list for promotion from the rank of lieutenant to the rank of captain in the Boston Fire Department. All members of the department holding the rank of lieutenant and who have served in that rank at least twelve successive months next preceding the date of examination are qualified to take the examination.

Application blanks may be obtained at the office of the Department of Civil Service and Registration, Rooms 148-152 State House. Only the first two sheets of the application blank need to be filled out. In order that an applicant may be entitled to be notified for this examination, his application should be received at the Civil Service office to be placed on file on or before January 29, 1923, at 12 o'clock noon.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Experience, 13; report, 4; practical questions on fire-fighting, fire prevention, and rules and regulations of the department, 8; total, 25.

Experience will be marked on the following basis: one year eligible, 70; six years following at 2, 12. In estimating a man's length of service, the unit shall be six (6) months.

Credit for class or so-called "zone service" will be based upon the highest class or zone service an applicant has had up to the maximum of seven years. Credit for this service is given only in a man's present grade. Classes or zones with their credits are as follows: Zone A at $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent per year; Zone B at $\frac{1}{3}$ per cent per year.

In estimating zone service the unit shall be six months. Length of zone service credited will correspond with and not exceed the period of eligibility plus the period for which credit is given for seniority as outlined above.

Drill master, 2; engineer, 1; assistant engineer, 1; telegrapher, 1; chauffeur, 1; aide to chief, 1 per year, provided not more than five years have elapsed since such service, maximum, 5; clear record, 1.

Commendations, Maximum Credits.—Ordinary commendations such as responding to alarm while off duty or other meritorious act, etc., 1; high commendation, 2; special commendation, 3; roll of merit, 4; Fitzgerald or Scott medals, 5. Only commendations appearing in the records of the department and received in a man's present grade will be recognized.

Penalties, Maximum Demerits.—Insubordination, 4; cowardice at fire, 4; disrespect to superior, 3; neglect of duty, 3; under influence of liquor, 3; conduct unbecoming a member, 3; other penalties, 1 to 3.

NOTE.—Penalties given above are the maximum in each case, the particular number of points deducted being determined at the discretion of the Civil Service Commissioners.

If an applicant has a clear record for the past five years no demerits will be given for reprimands or penalties received before that time. If, however, his record for the past five years is not clear, all reprimands and penalties will be taken into consideration.

Credits for a certificate from the Fire School will be given as follows:

(a) certificate without honor, 1; (b) certificate with honor, 1; (c) certificate with high honor, 1 $\frac{1}{2}$; (d) certificate with highest honor, 2.

Lieutenants who make application for the examination on February 2 will in due time receive a set of experience sheets on which Question 9 reads as follows: "Have charges ever been made against you, or have you ever been complained of, reprimanded, fined, suspended, or punished in any other way. If so, state fully the date and circumstances of each case, including penalties and final disposition." In answering this the applicant to state all reprimands, penalties, etc., he has ever received while a member of the Boston Fire Department.

This is necessary in order to determine whether a man has a clear record, for a bonus of 1 per cent for a clear record is given only to those men who have had no reprimands, etc., during their membership in the department.

Failure on the part of an applicant to answer fully and clearly the questions on his experience sheet will not be regarded as sufficient reason for withholding the establishment of the eligible list until the difficulties brought about through such failure have been settled.

Each applicant should bring his own penholder, pen, blotter, pencil, eraser and ink.

Days off for February 1 and 2 will start at 8 a. m.

Changes in days off must be made so those taking the examination will go on day off February 2.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

REPORT OF PLANNING BOARD.

The City Planning Board have presented a brief to his Honor the Mayor, in harmony with an order introduced by Councilor James A. Watson, and passed by the City Council at its meeting, under date of November 20, 1922.

The City Planning Board report is as follows:

Boston, January 22, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The City Planning Board is in receipt of the following order introduced by Councilor Watson and passed by the City Council at its meeting November 20, 1922.

Ordered, That the City Planning Board be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council, as soon as convenient, any information it may have, or contemplates, as to the widening of Cambridge street, and also plans, if any, as to the improvement of said street.

In compliance therewith, the City Planning Board respectfully transmits herewith a copy of its Seventh Annual Report on pages 20-23 of which, inclusive, will be found a report of this Board with regard to the Cambridge and Court street widening and Causeway street extension.

There is also transmitted herewith a copy of House Bill No. 375, an act to widen, extend and construct certain streets in the City of Boston.

Section F of this bill provides for the widening of Cambridge street, from Charles street to Court street, and Court street, from Cambridge street to a point at or near the junction of Howard street, and Court street to a width not to exceed 100 feet, and at a cost not to exceed $3,500,000.

Section G of this bill provides for the widening of Causeway street to Leverett street and its extension to Cambridge street to a width not to exceed 60 feet and at a cost not to exceed $800,000.

The City Planning Board considers the Cambridge and Court street widening a particularly important improvement in view of the increased volume of traffic which will be forced over the Cambridge Bridge and through Cambridge street and Court street to the business district as soon as work in connection with the reconstruction of Harvard Bridge is undertaken. The Cambridge Bridge is not used to anything like its full capacity at the present time, due to the extremely poor condition of the approaches on both the Cambridge and the Boston sides. Cambridge contemplates the expenditure of from $140,000 to $150,000 in paving Main street, from Lafayette square to the bridge. With the widening and conditioning of Cambridge and Court streets on the Boston side there would be afforded a convenient and attractive means of entrance to and exit from the downtown sections of the city.

The City Planning Board also considers the extension of Causeway street, from Leverett street to Cambridge street, thus linking up Causeway street and the traffic emanating from the North Station with the widened Cambridge street, a most essential part of the major improvement.

Plans showing the street widenings and extension indicated in the legislative bill are on file in the office of the Street Laying-Out Department.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERIC H. FAY,
City Planning Board Chairman.

General Order No. 204.

The commanding officer of Police Division 1 has brought to my attention a most excellent piece of police work performed on December 26, 1922, by Patrolman Maurice Driscoll of that division.

At about 12:45 a. m. on that date, Patrolman Driscoll, who was standing at the corner of Hanover and Parmenter streets, noticed on the other side of Parmenter street, two young men, one of whom had no hat and appeared to be very much exhausted. The officer followed them for some distance and not being satisfied with their appearance nor with the explanation they gave when questioned, placed them both under arrest and took them to Station 1, where they were afterwards identified as having robbed a man and broken his leg. While in jail awaiting trial, these two men were also identified as having committed two other robberies and were held on all three counts.

I am very much gratified to learn of this most admirable piece of police work on the part of Patrolman Driscoll and warmly commend him for the alertness, acumen and good judgment which he displayed in apprehending these dangerous criminals.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 205.

My attention has been called by the commanding officer of Division 16 to the following meritorious piece of police work performed by Patrolman James T. Sheehan of that division.

At about noon on January 17, while performing traffic duty at the Perkins school crossing, corner of Cumberland street and Huntington avenue, Patrolman Sheehan observed a loaded ice pung coming down Huntington avenue, drawn by two horses who were running away, and mindful of the danger to the many children crossing the avenue at this place, the officer pursued the pung and catching hold of the back of it, succeeded in drawing himself up on to the load and thence to the seat, and finally succeeded in bringing the runaway horses to a halt just opposite the St. James Theater, near Massachusetts avenue.

I am very glad to learn of such excellent work on the part of Patrolman Sheehan and I heartily commend him for his courage, coolness and quickness of action in stopping the runaway horses and thereby preventing injury if not loss of life to persons in the vicinity.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 206.

In June of this year, the City of Boston accepted from Mr. Walter Scott, formerly of Boston and now of New York City, a gift providing for the purchase each year of two solid gold medals, to be known as the "Walter Scott Medals for Valor," to be given to the fireman and police officer who, in the judgment of the commissioners of those departments, had during the year specially distinguished themselves for valor in the performance of their duties.

So many instances of valor have been displayed by our police officers during the past year, that I wish there were many medals instead of one to be bestowed, and I have found it exceedingly difficult to select any one man who so far outranks his fellows in this respect as to deserve such distinction.

After careful consideration and comparison, I have, however, decided that Patrolman John P. Cavanaugh of Division 9, who, on October 7, 1922, General Order No. 141, was commended for having at the risk of his life, pursued, disarmed and overpowered a man who but a short time previous had shot and killed a druggist in Dorchester, has most "specially distinguished himself for valor in the performance of his duty as a policeman," and I therefore award to him the "Walter Scott Medal for Valor" with a feeling of gratification which I am sure is shared by the whole department.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

General Order No. 207.

The resignation of Patrolman Michael B. McInerney of Division 15, having been presented while charges are pending against him, it is hereby accepted, to take effect Thursday, January 25, 1923, at 5.45 p. m. Seven days' notice waived.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

RETIREMENT BOARD ORDERS.

Boston, January 22, 1923.

To the Heads of Departments and County Officers:

The retirement system for city and county employees goes into effect on February 1, 1923, and on that date every permanent employee of the city or county, except those covered by some other pension law, becomes a member of the system unless he files with this Board within sixty days a written notice that he does not wish to join.

An employee is not a permanent employee until he has completed six months' service from the date of his appointment.

Veterans, laborers, firemen, policemen, police matrons, school teachers, school janitors and attendance officers, probation officers and judges are not included in the system unless they make written application to join the Boston retirement system and waive and renounce all benefits of any other pension or retirement system supported wholly by the City of Boston or County of Suffolk.

Laborers eligible to the laborers' pension law shall include laborers, skilled laborers, mechanics and craftsmen as registered on the list of the Civil Service Commission for the labor service, and includes all janitors and all women performing duties similar to those attached to positions in the labor service.

Beginning with February 1 the pay roll clerk in your office should be instructed to make out the pay rolls with a 4 per cent deduction from the salaries and wages of every permanent employee who is not included in one of the above-named classes.

No deduction is to be made from money allowed for overtime or extra work. In cases where less than the regular compensation is allowed the deduction is to be figured on the actual amount earned.

In figuring the 4 per cent deduction ignore less than 5 mills, and add 1 cent for 5 mills or over. Thus 4 per cent of $19.17 equals $0.7668 equals $0.77.

On the last weekly payroll of this fiscal year, which includes February 1, 4 per cent of one day's pay should be deducted.

It is important that the pay roll clerks should make certain in the case of each employee whether or not he is a veteran or belongs to some other of the exempted classes.

The Board realizes that the computation of the pay rolls and the obtaining of the other information required on account of the establishing of the retirement system will involve the placing of an additional burden on department clerks who in many cases already have as much work as they should be expected to handle, but expects that by the co-operation of the departments and employees the system will function from the start without friction and with great benefit to the employees and the city.

BOSTON RETIREMENT BOARD,
by W. J. DOYLE,
Chairman.

RAT-PROOFING OF BUILDINGS.

By DR. FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, HEALTH COMMISSIONER OF BOSTON.

Bubonic plague, or otherwise the old time "black death," is primarily a rat disease which is spread to human beings by the fleas from sick or dead rats. By good fortune Boston has thus far escaped the plague, but during the last twenty-five years many cities all over the world have been called upon to do something to stop epidemics of this disease which were killing their people and paralyzing their business and commerce.

Time after time experience has demonstrated that the only way to stop the bubonic plague from killing human beings was to stop the disease among the rats and that the only way to stop the disease among the rats was to destroy a very large proportion of the rat population. It was further found that the only way the rat population could be appreciably diminished was to shut off their food supply and deprive them of suitable breeding places and refuges. In other words, it was found necessary practically to so rebuild whole cities as to build rats out of existence.

To say nothing of indirect losses in business and commerce, the direct cost to a city of an outbreak of bubonic plague is enormous. Within a few months after the plague broke out in New Orleans, the amount that private property owners had been required to pay to rat proof their buildings has passed the $10,000,000 mark and the rebuilding work that has since been carried out had scarcely begun.

When the plague broke out in Galveston a few years ago the Federal and State officials did not wait for leisurely rat proofing by property owners but simply demolish buildings which were serving as a refuge or feeding place for rats and ripped out floors and walls indiscriminately wherever it seemed advisable to facilitate general measures for the destruction of rats.

Within a few weeks after the plague was discovered in Galveston, it was estimated that 1-25 of the entire floor area of the city had been torn out and the owners left to rebuild in a rat proof manner at their own expense. This is what awaits Boston if the plague breaks out here and Boston probably will stand for it too just as Galveston did when the city found that cessation of business and commercial relations with the rest of the world is the alternative.

An outbreak of plague in any city today is not to be feared because of the deaths it will cause, but as a commercial calamity. For years the Boston Health Department has been urging the business interests of Boston to adopt measures which will not only serve to mitigate such a calamity should it come but in the meantime will prove a good paying investment. From estimates based on surveys by Government Departments, it seems safe to assume that there are as many rats in Boston as human beings and that each rat destroys property to the value of about $2 annually or in other words it costs about $1,500,000 each year to support Boston's rat population.

As a result of the experience of the world in fighting the plague during the past 25 years, the cheapest and most effective way of rat-proofing a building of any type of construction has been satisfactorily worked out and the Federal Government stands ready to furnish definite information on the subject. It is remarkable how reluctant property owners and builders are to avail themselves of this information.

We have had owners of buildings whose property was being destroyed by rats appeal to the Health Department to show them how to get rid of the rats. When we have showed them that they were troubled with rats because they were feeding all the rats in the neighborhood and have pointed out how rats could be effectually shut out of the building by a little simple rat-proofing, the cost of which would not exceed the value of the foodstuffs the rats were destroying in a month, we have often found this advice discarded in favor of efforts to keep out rats by animal enemies or poison with only temporary success at the best. The Health Department is continually being obliged to threaten bakeries in the city with prosecution for maintaining a nuisance because we find it otherwise impossible to get them to expend for the effectual rat-proofing of a bakery an amount of money no greater than the value of the foodstuffs the rats were destroying in a week.

While a great deal of effective and highly profitable rat-proofing of old buildings can be done at a very small cost, it is, of course, impracticable to insist, in the absence of the plague, on a general rat-proofing of old buildings in Boston. It will be bad enough to have to do this when the plague comes. But there is no earthly reason why rat-proof construction should not be considered by property owners and builders when designing new buildings if the cost is not going to be thereby appreciably increased. Furthermore, it is to be remembered that rat-proof construction always means increased fire protection for a building and its contents even if it does not involve actual fire-proof construction.

MEMBERSHIP OF FIRE DEPARTMENT BOARDS.

One of the first matters taken under consideration by Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn upon assuming duty, was that of the system of hearing charges preferred against members of the department by their superior officers. Prior to that time, it was the custom for the trial board of three men hearing such cases to consist entirely of officers of the department. Upon going into the matter thoroughly the Fire Commissioner arrived at the conclusion that the privates of the department should have representation upon such boards, so issued instructions that all future trial boards should consist of two officers and one private. Fire Commissioner Glynn feels that this step will tend to broaden the entire system, because oftentimes the private on the board will be able to bring out facts that the officer members, through long years of service as officers, have lost sight of.

The Board of Merit has also been reorganized so as to consist of the chief of department, deputy chief, district chief, captain and a private. Heretofore, a private has not been considered for membership on this Board. Under this new arrangement practically every rating in the fire-fighting force is given representation. For the past several years this Board has been more or less dormant as can be ascertained from the fact that the "John E. Fitzgerald" although presented to the city in 1905, has never been awarded. However, it will be this year, and it is the intention to have the Board of Merit hold monthly meetings and investigate all cases of valor referred to it, while the matter is fresh at hand and thus give the members concerned fair and proper recognition for meritorious acts.

FUNDS TO BE RETURNED.

Gen. John H. Dunn, Commissioner of the Soldiers' Relief Department, states that World War veterans who have violated faith with the department by drawing approximately $15,000 in monthly aid from the City of Boston, even though they were receiving salary or wage in public or private employment at the time, have been forced to return $7,500 as reimbursement.

In several cases the men involved were found to be drawing aid while employed not only from the City of Boston but from the Federal Veterans' Bureau as well, the commissioner says. In all, about 220 veterans were found to be so misrepresenting their status to the city bureau.

An index to the great reduction brought about through disclosures of this state of affairs and through the natural medium of elimination from the aid roll because of the fact that labor conditions improved, is given in the records for the month of December, in 1921 and 1922.

In December, 1921, the total disbursements for aid by the city to veterans was $113,000, while last December it dropped to $41,464. The monthly aid is graded according to the number of dependents the unemployed veteran has, and ranges from $10 to $80 per month. Most of the cases require from $30 to $40 per month each.

Commissioner Dunn will demand an immediate repayment of the remainder of the funds disbursed by reason of fraudulent statements.

BUILDING COURSES ESTABLISHED.

Upon the subject of building construction it is interesting to note that on the recommendation of the Building Examiners of the City of Boston practical courses have been established at the Franklin Union and the Wentworth Institute for the purpose of giving instruction to persons having control of building operations with a view to lessening accidents and improving building methods.

SALE OF OLD MATERIAL.

The Acting Mayor has granted permission to Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn to sell the running gears of thirteen discarded horse-drawn hose wagons to the J. J. Walsh Company, 1540 Columbus avenue, Roxbury, for the sum of $253.75. This money will be used in part to cover the cost of manufacture of three more sets of traverse runners that are to be used for converting three discarded hose wagons into pumps.

PAYMENT UNDER WHITE WILL.

The executors of the will of the late George Robert White have recently turned over to the trustees of the George Robert White Fund, the sum of $214,442.48, on account of the residuary bequest under Article XIV. of the will. The same has been invested by the trustees in Federal securities and bonds of the City of Boston.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commissioners announce examinations for desirable positions as follows:

The salary is $1,900 per year.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 9; report, 2; arithmetic, 2; practical questions on the construction and inspection of elevators and the laws governing the same, 7; total, 20.

Applicants will be required to obtain a mark of at least 65 per cent in training and experience and in the practical questions to become eligible.

Successful applicants will be required to file a certificate from a reputable physician as to their physical fitness for the position.

(For other examination see page 114.)

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to Sept. 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY.

The first chartered colony in New England, chartered by Charles I on March 4, 1629. About a year before, a patent had been granted to six prominent men of Dorchester, west of England, among whom was Capt. John Endicott. He sailed in June, 1628, with a party of 50 or 60 persons, arriving in September and settling at Naumkeag, afterward named Salem. In the spring of 1629, the Bay Company fitted out three ships conveying about 400 persons and arriving at Salem in June. Endicott sent a small party to effect a settlement on the Bay in Mishawum, afterward named by the settlers Charlestown, the first town in New England to assume the town polity, Plymouth and Salem being governed by a Governor and Council. Endicott was appointed in London as the first resident Governor on April 30, 1629. The Massachusetts Bay Company was reorganized in London on Oct. 20, 1629, when John Winthrop was chosen as Governor. He arrived at Salem on June 12, 1630, soon proceeded to Charlestown with a large following, and finding that place unsuitable, finally settled in Boston. Winthrop served thirteen years as Governor in four different periods ending in 1649 and Endicott 15 years at various times ending in 1665. Other governors were Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, John Haynes, Henry Vane, John Leverett and Simon Bradstreet, the latter serving 12 years until 1692 when the Bay Colony and the Plymouth Colony were merged, becoming the Royal Province of Massachusetts Bay, which existed 82 years to 1774, the governors being appointed by the King.

The name, Massachusetts, is Indian and signifies "near the big hills."

POPULATION OF OTHER NEW ENGLAND CITIES (BY RANK).

Providence, 237,595; Worcester, 179,754; New Haven, 162,519; Bridgeport, 143,538; Hartford, 138,036; Springfield, 129,563; New Bedford, 121,217; Fall River, 120,485; Lowell, 112,759; Cambridge, 109,694; Lynn, 99,148; Lawrence, 94,270; Somerville, 93,091; Waterbury, Conn., 91,410; Manchester, N. The 24 cities not included here have less than 50,000 population.

VOTES ON REFERENDA AT STATE ELECTION.

On acceptance of Two-palton System, i. e., the division into day and night forces of Fire Dept.: Yes, 59,704; No, 90,524; majority against, 30,820; blanks, 22,640. On election of a City Council of fifteen members by districts instead of at large: Yes, 56,324; No, 79,353; majority against, 23,029; Blanks, 37,191. On approval of Act to regulate the manufacture and sale of beer, cider and light wines (Chap. 630, Acts of 1920), which provides that all beverages containing not less than one-half of 1 per cent and not over 2½ per cent of alcohol by weight at 60 degrees (Fahr.) shall be deemed not intoxicating: Yes, 87,300; No, 63,651; majority for approval, 23,649; blanks, 21,917. (In the year 1920.)

ABSENTEE VOTING AT STATE ELECTIONS.

By Chapter 289, General Acts of 1919, any registered voter absent from home at election time may vote by mailing an "official absent voting ballot" previously applied for and obtained from the Election Commissioners, to the latter so as to be received before the polls close. Said ballot must be marked by the voter privately but within the observation of an official authorized to administer oaths, and of no other person, in a municipality which is separated by at least two municipalities from that in which he is registered. The voter must make affidavit before said official, enclose ballot in official envelope and mail same on or before day of election.

Of 868 Absentee ballots mailed to Election Dept., on or before Nov. 2, 1920, 570 were counted, 10 were rejected and 288 were uncounted because not received until after closing of polls.

VOTE FOR MAYOR AND OTHER OFFICIALS AT LAST ELECTION.

Total registered voters, 207,590 or 131,610 men, and 75,980 women, said total being 3,924 more than in 1920; names checked, 162,132, or 78.1 per cent of all registered, which is higher by two per cent than in 1917, at the last mayoral election.

Vote for Mayor, James M. Curley, 74,261; John R. Murphy, 71,791; Charles S. Baxter, 4,268; Charles S. O'Connor, 10,844; all others, 22. Totals, 161,186. Of the 11 City Council candidates voted for John A. Donoghue was re-elected, receiving 53,466 votes; William J. Walsh became a new member with the leading vote of 57,466 and George F. Gilboy another, with a vote of 55,136. Of the two School Committee candidates, Frances G. Curtis was re-elected, with 79,139 votes. Vote on referendum: "Shall Licenses be Granted for the Sale of Certain Non-Intoxicating Beverages in this City?" Yes, 86,474; No, 46,094; Blanks, 29,564. Per cent of registered voters who voted on referendum, 63.86.

INCREASE IN ELECTION PRECINCTS.

In accordance with Chap. 636, Acts of 1920, the Election Commissioners made a new division of the 26 wards, increasing the number of precincts from 221 to 274. This change was necessary because of the addition of women voters to the electorate, the intention of the law being to keep the precincts equalized, i. e., with 1,000 voters in each.

Wds. 7, 8, 21 and 23 now have thirteen precincts instead of nine; Wds. 14, 17, 19, 20, 22 and 25 have twelve; Wds. 13, 15, 16, 18 and 24 contain eleven; Wds. 10, 11 and 12, ten; Wds. 1, 6, 9 and 26, nine; Wd. 2, eight; Wds. 3, 4 and 5, seven. Only six wards remain unchanged, viz., Wds. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 9.

ESTIMATED POPULATION OF BOSTON.

After making proper deductions for decreased immigration and additions for increasing excess of births (as compared with the 5-year period, 1910-1915) the estimate for July 1, 1922, is 832,678, showing an average annual net increase of 1.49 per cent or 994 + per month. Figuring on this basis, the population should be 862,488 on Jan. 1, 1925 (the year of the next census), if there are no annexations, restricted immigration to be in effect up to 1925.

POPULATION BY GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRICTS, UNITED STATES CENSUS.

CRITICISM OF NEWSPAPER REPORTER.

Coun. MORIARTY.—Mr. President, I am going to ask unanimous consent to make a statement.

President BRICKLEY.—If there is no objection, you may proceed.

Coun. MORIARTY.—Mr. President, I have here an issue of the Boston Post, dated Saturday, January 13, No. 13 being a good number, I suppose, they couldn't pick on anybody else, they had to pick on me. I have given them ample opportunity to get me in the paper; I suppose sometimes at their displeasure, and when I see it in the paper, at my displeasure, I want to say that I have no objection, so far as the newspapers are concerned, to what they say, if they will tell the truth. They can put me on the front page or can say anything they want to say about me, if they keep within the bounds of decency. There is a table set aside here for the newspapers—at least, I feel that it is set aside for the newspapermen—to do their business at. I have never had any dispute with any of the newspapermen since I have been in the Council. I have realized that a newspaperman was not always responsible for the stories issued by the paper. I realize that what a man says has to go through the editing of the desk. But this statement here never was changed at the desk, and I believe that any man with common sense will agree after the reading of it that there were only two men here representing the newspapers last Friday afternoon, the representative of the Boston Herald and the representative of the Boston American. I called up and found that the stories were taken practically by the newspapermen from the man who represented the Herald. This is the story that was read yesterday of the Post of Saturday morning, January 13:

"Bitter Argument on Two Platoon. Opening of Hearing on Proposed System for Firemen Marked by Acrimonious Debates. Marked with attacks on the Good Government and other associations, the opening hearing on the two platoon when he obtained passage before the City Council yesterday afternoon had all indications of a 'general alarm' hearing, so heated was the discussion on the merits of the system between proponents and the opposition."

"Block Opposition. 'Councilor James T. Moriarty, chairman of the committee on firemen, was the chairman of the hearing. I think of men are not able to distinguish the members of the Council the Council ought to appropriate some money and give the opera glasses so they have their glasses changed, so that they may know us as individuals.'"

"Coun. James T. Moriarty, chairman of the hearing, and also the proposer of the proposed system, made it clear that he favored the two platoon when he obtained passage of a motion that the opposition first present its case, against the objection of Coun. Daniel J. Lane."

Coun. Daniel J. Lane, as the record will prove, made absolutely no opposition to that motion, nor did any other member of the Council. The man who wrote that, or was responsible for the writing of it, said that I was an ardent supporter of the two-platoon system, and also that I was in the position of being ardently in opposition to it. Now, if newspapermen are coming here and are going to write, on their own assumption, what the City Council is doing, or what Coun. Lane's vote is going to be, it is about time that we took the table from this corner and that the newspapers out, if they are not willing to give to the public the real truth. Of course, the Herald doesn't care for me any way, and that gets me votes.

Mr. W. Merrick, treasurer of the United Improvement Association, in representing the opponents of the proposed system in his opening argument gained little headway in presenting his figures which showed that Boston voters have twice opposed the system. Repeated interruptions of Merrick by Moriarty and the apparent support of the latter's remarks by other members of the city caused Merrick to remark: "If the Council has its mind made up, it will be useless for me to offer such figures and facts as I have here, showing the complete undesirability of the two-plant system."

Merrick had ample opportunity to put in his case and finish his case before I interrupted him or asked him a question. Coun. Ford asked him the question if he did not desire to put in any figures or any data, and he said "no," and without any opposition made the statement that is referred to in the paper. I think, Mr. President, that we should demand, as the Boston City Council, that Henry Bird of the Herald, who is sitting here, apologize to the members of the Council by writing and stating the facts, getting them from the minutes. There was a public stenographer here whose statements or whose writing nobody doubts, and I am sick and tired of allowing the likes of Henry Bird, who has been a tool for the Good Government Association, who has been a tool for the Finance Commission and who has been a tool for the so-called uplifters of the City of Boston, to continue as he has been doing without protest. He didn't ever publish it in a Boston paper when he was a wire going to the Boston Common and then used the city and got some dough for it. He didn't put that in the paper. Of course, if I did that, or any other register and put it in the paper, it might be full of it, but it was all right because Henry Bird fell over a wire going through the Common. If I fell over a wire going through the Common they would say that I was intoxicated, but I am not going to say that about him. I have no objection to having the newspapers say that I am going to vote for the two-plant system. I am. I am not in favor of it, but I am going to vote for it. I think they ought to have a straight eight-hour day. I don't think it ought to be two plants. I think it ought to be a three shift, three eight-hour shifts. I am not afraid to let anybody know where I am. But I at least expect that the newspapermen here will publish the truth. I am going to come in every day—and I am going to be here, if any paper publishes an untruth in so far as I am concerned, if there isn't a retraction after a statement in this Council, I will take the matter into my own hands, and I won't go into court with it, either. If I cannot get a fair break, then I will take it some other way. I say that I will write would write a story of that kind after sitting at the hearing, is a skunk, and I wouldn't say that if he wasn't here. He takes more liberties in this Council than all of the rest of the newspapermen here. You would think that he was an attaché of the Boston City Government, the way he goes through the papers on the desk. I want to say that I am going to make an objection to that sort of thing. I am going to ask the President of this body to carry out the rules of this body. I think the desk where I am set aside for the newspapermen, I believe that is the place where they should sit, and I am sorry for the rest of the newspapermen that they are not associated with me as a member as the one I have talked about here today. I am sorry that I have had to seem to criticize some of the rest of them, putting them in a poor position. I have tried to be fair to those men here; I have never criticized any one of them before until I saw this absolute, known lie, written by a man paid to write the Herald, and a man who hasn't got the courage of a man to take back the real truth. I have sent for the Herald. There wasn't one on file. But practically the whole story is in the Herald. They can do anything they want in so far as I am concerned, if they will tell the truth. I realize that some men are liable to make mistakes, but as far as making a mistake, it was not meant for any mistake. He both put me in one position and Coun. Lane in another position, that never took place in the mind of Coun. Lane. I suppose he is going to say, "Well, he didn't have my paper." Well, there is another meeting next Monday and the thing can be looked up, as far as making a mistake in his own paper is concerned. But I have it from the newspapermen downstairs that he covered the hearing here, and that he was the one they took their story from. I want to say that I think the Boston Post owes it not only to me but to the rest of the members of the Council to state the facts in this case, because it says the rest of the members with the exception of Coun. Lane supported me, as being in favor of the proposition.

I think the papers that issued that story should at least deny it. The records are here, and the records will very quickly prove that the statement in the Saturday morning papers was absolutely untrue. I am an honest supporter of the two-plant system, yes, and I am going to vote for it. Not only that, but it is going to go through. Whether the Herald likes it or whether the Chambers Commerce Association likes it, whether the Good Government Association likes it, we are going to have the two-plant system in Boston for our firemen, and whether Henry Bird likes it or not. Of course, if we didn't have so many leeches, falling over wires, falling into holes, trying to collect damages from the city, we would have no trouble, not only in putting into effect the two-plant system, but we might be able to get increases for a lot of the other city employees.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. MORIARTY moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 3.40 p. m., on motion of Coun. MORIARTY. Meeting on Monday, January 22, at two o'clock p. m.

INFORMATION AS TO CAMBRIDGE STREET WIDENING.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, January 22, 1923.

Gentlemen,—I transmit herewith a report of the City Planning Board relative to the widening of Cambridge street.

Respectfully,
DAVID J. BRICKLEY, Acting Mayor.

City Planning Board,
Boston, January 22, 1923.

Hon. James M. Curley,

Mayor of Boston:
Dear Sir,—The City Planning Board is in receipt of the following order introduced by Coun. Watson and passed by the City Council at its meeting November 20, 1922:

Ordered, That the City Planning Board be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit to the City Council, as soon as convenient, any information it may have, or contemplate, as to the widening of Cambridge street, and also plans, if any, as to the improvement of said street.

In compliance therewith, the City Planning Board respectfully transmits herewith a copy of its Seventh Annual Report, on pages 20-23 of which, inclusive, will be found a report of this Board with regard to the Cambridge street Court street widening and Causeway street extension.

There is also transmitted herewith a copy of House Bill No. 575, an act to widen, extend and construct certain streets in the City of Boston.

Section F of this bill provides for the widening of Cambridge street, from Charles street to Court street, and Court street, from Cambridge street to a point at or near the junction of Howard street, and Court street to a width not to exceed 100 feet, and at a cost not to exceed $50,000.

Section G of this bill provides for the widening of Causeway street to Leverett street and its extension to Cambridge street to a width not to exceed 60 feet and at a cost not to exceed $300,000.

The City Planning Board considers the Cambridge and Court street widening a particularly important improvement in view of the increased volume of traffic which will be forced over the Cambridge Bridge and through Cambridge street and Court street by the business district expansion as work in connection with the reconstruction of Harvard Bridge is undertaken. The Cambridge Bridge is not used to anything like its full capacity at the present time, due to the extremely poor condition of the approaches on both the Cambridge and the Boston sides. Cambridge contemplates the expenditure of from $140,000 to $150,000 in paving Main street from Lafayette square to the bridge. With the widening and conditioning of Cambridge and Court streets to the Boston side there would be afforded a convenient and attractive means of entrance to and exit from the downtown sections of the City.

The City Planning Board also considers the extension of Causeway street, from Leverett street to Cambridge street, thus linking up Causeway street and the traffic emanating from the North Station with the widened Cambridge street, a most essential part of the major improvement.

Plans showing street widenings and extension indicated in the legislative bill are on file in the office of the Street Laying-Out Department.

Respectfully submitted,

DAVID J. BRICKLEY, Chairman.

VETO—REINSTATEMENT OF JOSEPH V. CUMMINGS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 18, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith without my approval the order of your Board adopted under date of January 15, 1923, providing for the reinstatement of Joseph V. Cummings, from office in the Public Works Department. An investigation conducted by the Law Department discloses the fact that the John never was in the city by this man was slightly in excess of one year, and, under the circumstances, in view of the adoption of General Order No. 10, it is not a re-statute within a period of sixty days, said reinstatement, in my opinion, would be an injustice to not only all persons now in the city service but to those who suffered loss of position despite the fact that their employment with the city covered a longer period of years.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—REINSTATEMENT OF FRED L. CARROLL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 18, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board adopted under date of January 8, 1923, providing for the reinstatement in the Boston Fire Department of Fred L. Carroll for the reason that he had been discharged once, reinstated twice, and resigned twice. Approval of the order of your Honorable Board in the case of Fred L. Carroll would not only be destructive to discipline in the Fire Department but would be equivalent to an invitation to men charged with responsible duties to either regard the order of your Board as a mere formality, or to disregard it altogether, and then, thereby pursuing a course of action that would constitute a menace to the public and property which they are appointed and sworn to safeguard.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—REINSTATEMENT OF FRANCIS L. AMANN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 18, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board adopted for the reinstatement of Francis L. Amann to the Boston Fire Department. The report of the department discloses the fact that this man was tried on three separate occasions and found guilty in each case. To reinstate him would be detrimental to discipline in a branch of the service which the public demands discipline of the highest possible character.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—REINSTATEMENT OF JAMES H. HANLEY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 18, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board adopted under date of January 15, 1923, for the reason that after consultation with the Law Department I find that the service rendered by James H. Hanley while in the Public Works Department was largely of a temporary character. I have consulted with the Mayor and find that he was employed for a period of eight years as a laborer in the Metropolitan Park Department and in which department he has decided to seek reinstatement.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—ANNUITY FOR WIDOW OF ANTHONY FITZPATRICK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 18, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board adopted under date of January 8, 1923, favoring legislation providing for an annuity to be paid the widow and children of Anthony Fitzpatrick. I have a profound appreciation of how difficult it is to resist a kindly impulse prompting not only the City Council but other good citizens interested in aiding the dependents of former Police Sergeant Anthony Fitzpatrick, yet, nevertheless, in view of the report submitted by the Police Commissioner, coupled with the report presented by the physician in charge of the case, there is no way in which by any application of logic the death of Sgt. Anthony Fitzpatrick can be traced to excessive duties in connection with his position as a member of the Police Department.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

VETO—PAYMENT TO JOHN M. CHMIELINSKI.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, January 19, 1923.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your Board reading as follows:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors legislation for the payment of a sum of money to John M. Chmielinski, said payment to be approved of by the Council.

The City of Boston maintains a Law Department which represents an expenditure of approximately $60,000 annually. It is composed of men eminently qualified to pass upon any question affecting municipal administration and in my opinion should not be hampered by the presentation of requests of the character adopted by your honorable body in this particular case. The petitioner for this legislation is not required to present a petition for the adoption of a special act of the Legislature to reimburse him for the loss there is any legal authority or legal liability upon the part of the city to reimburse him and to encourage legislation of this character is vicious in the extreme.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

days' sick leave in each year without loss of pay to employees who are paid a daily wage.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, an order similar in character and language was presented here some time ago calling for thirty days' sick leave for laborers in the employ of the city. The Mayor in his wisdom saw fit to veto the unanimous vote of the body. I am now presenting this order in a new form, asking for fourteen days' sick leave, in the hope that the Mayor will see the wisdom of granting this humane request, giving the laborers in the employ of the city the same advantages that are now enjoyed by all city employees on a salaried basis.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

AREA OF BOSTON.

Area to ward lines (26 wards), 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,944 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,454 acres flats. Land area only, 27,971 acres (i. e., 43.70 square miles). Included in the latter are 154 acres of filled flats added to the land area of South Boston in 1919 and 1920 and 133 acres to that of East Boston. Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, eight are larger in land area than Boston, viz., Los Angeles (365.7 sq. miles), New York (318), Chicago (199.4), Philadelphia (129), Baltimore (91.9), Detroit (80), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.25). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 sq. mi.).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and others have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., Los Angeles, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

ALTITUDES IN BOSTON.

(1) Highest, Custom House tower, 510.71 feet, i. e., top of filial above mean low water (same as "City base"); or 495 feet from surface of street; (2) Bellevue Hill, West Roxbury, 376.3 feet to top of new reservoir, or about 320 feet to top of hill; (3) Bunker Hill Monument, 307.84 feet, or top of Breed's Hill, Charlestown, at base of monument, 56.44 feet; (4) Slocum Hill, near Allandale street, Jamaica Plain, about 300 feet; (5) High Fort Observatory, Highland Park, Roxbury, 291 feet, or top of hill at base of tower, 158 feet; (6) Revolution Memorial Monument, Telegraph Hill, South Boston, 270 feet, or top of hill at base of monument, 145 feet; (7) State House, top of dome, 261 feet; (8) Hill between Poplar and Dale streets, West Roxbury, near Hyde Park boundary line, about 258 feet; (9) Peters Hill, Arnold Arboretum, 237 feet; (10) Fairmount Hill, Hyde Park, about 220 feet. Beacon Hill, now 107.89 feet (i. e., at corner Mt. Vernon and Joy streets), was originally about as high as the base of the State House dome.

REDIVISION OF BOSTON INTO WARDS.

Chapter 630, Acts of 1914, required the redivision of Boston, by the City Council, into not less than 24 nor more than 36 wards, so arranged as to contain as nearly as could be ascertained an equal number of voters in each ward. On December 28, 1914, the City Council enacted an Ordinance, by vote of 6 to 3, the plan submitted by its Committee on Redivision of Wards. This plan describes the new boundaries of the 26 wards. (See Municipal Register for 1921, pages 196-207.) The changes effected by the redivision of wards were mainly these, viz., Wards 1 and 2, East Boston, are divided by Prescott and Princeton streets instead of as before; Charlestown has two wards (3 and 4) instead of three; Ward 5 covers the old Wards 6, 7 and 8; Ward 6 in place of old Ward 9; Ward 7 in place of old 10; Ward 8 in place of old 11; Wards 9 and 10 cover the old South Boston Wards 13, 14 and 15 mostly; Ward 11 takes in the northern half of old Ward 14 and western end of old Ward 15; Ward

12 is similar to old Ward 17 and Ward 13 to old 18; Ward 14 includes old Ward 19 and adjacent part of old Ward 22 (as far as Perkins and Centre streets); Wards 15 and 16 cover old Ward 21 and the northern part of 22 (as far as Boylston street); Wards 17, 18 and 19 cover that part of old Ward 16 south of Dudley street and all of old Ward 20; Wards 20 and 21 cover the eastern half and western half respectively of old Ward 24 (as far as Blue Hill avenue and Walk Hill street); Ward 22 includes the southern half of old 22 below Boylston street and the northern end of old Ward 23 to Whipple avenue, Walk Hill, South and Allandale streets; Ward 23 is unchanged except as to its northern boundary just stated, and Ward 24 takes in Mount Hope section, east of railroad, Mattapan and Hyde Park. Wards 25 and 26 cover the southern half and northern half respectively of old Ward 25, Brighton.

POPULATION OF OTHER CITIES OF OVER THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND, WITH INCREASE OVER PREVIOUS CENSUS (RANKING FROM HIGHEST).

New York, 5,621,151 (increase of 854,268 or 17.9 per cent over 1910); i. e., Manhattan Borough, 2,284,103; Brooklyn, 2,022,262; Bronx, 732,016; Queens, 466,811; and Richmond, 115,959. Chicago, 2,701,705 (inc. 516,422 or 23.6 per cent); Philadelphia, 1,823,158 (inc. 274,150 or 17.7 per cent); Detroit, 993,739 (inc. 527,973 or 113.4 per cent); Cleveland, 796,836 (inc. 236,173 or 42.1 per cent); St. Louis, 772,897 (inc. 85,868 or 12.5 per cent); Baltimore 733,826 (inc. 173,341 or 31.4 per cent); Pittsburgh, 588,193 (inc. 54,258 or 10.2 per cent); Los Angeles, 576,673 (inc. 257,475 or 80.7 per cent); San Francisco, 508,410 (inc. 91,498 or 21.9 per cent); Buffalo, 506,775 (inc. 83,060 or 19.6 per cent); Milwaukee, 457,147 (inc. 83,290 or 22.3 per cent); Washington, 437,571 (inc. 106,502 or 32.2 per cent); Newark, 414,216 (inc. 66,747 or 19.2 per cent); Cincinnati, 401,247 (inc. 37,656 or 10.4 per cent); New Orleans, 387,219 (inc. 48,144 or 14.21 per cent); Minneapolis, 380,582 (inc. 79,174 or 26.3 per cent); Kansas City, Mo., 324,410 (inc. 76,029 or 30.6 per cent); Seattle, 315,652 (inc. 78,458 or 33.1 per cent); Indianapolis, 314,194 (inc. 80,544 or 34.5 per cent).

CITIZENSHIP, BOTH SEXES, ALSO FAMILIES.

Native white citizens, 246,816; foreign born whites naturalized, 102,822; Negro citizens, 12,086; total citizens, 361,724. Foreign born whites remaining aliens, 118,214. Only 56.30 per cent of the citizens registered for voting purposes in 1920 (for City Election) and of the 203,666 who did register only 30.53 per cent voted. Coming to the final facts to be remembered, only 17.2 per cent of the citizens of Boston took part in electing the three members of the City Council and two members of the School Committee in 1920, these five candidates taking office at the will of only 8.3 per cent of the citizens, which was more than sufficient to elect. On the question of permitting Sunday Sports and Games, 10.9 per cent of the citizens voted in favor and 4.3 per cent against, 7.7 per cent being more than sufficient for a majority in favor. The City Election of 1920 reveals the most flagrant case of minority rule ever noted in Boston, not more than one-ninth of the women citizens being interested enough to vote.

Total families in 1920, 164,785 or 3.679 more than in 1915. As this shows a larger increase of families than of persons (i. e., 2,621) since 1915, here is another discrepancy that discredits the 1920 Census. As 4.63 represents the average number of persons to a family, 3,679 families would contain 17,034 persons. The U. S. Census of 1920 shows a net increase of only 2,621 persons since 1915.

POPULATION (ESTIMATED) OF BOSTON POSTAL DISTRICT.

The Supt. of Mails, Boston Post Office, maintains a system of mail delivery whereby the Boston Postal District, consisting of 12 cities (not including Lynn and Woburn) and 11 towns, covering about 231 square miles of territory, is divided into 74 delivery districts, each having a mail station. They extend northerly as far as to include Stoneham, easterly including Wintthrop, southerly including South Weymouth and westerly including Weylesley, all being situated in the Metropolitan District or "Greater Boston" and mostly within 10 miles of State House.

Population of Boston Postal District estimated at 1,885,829 in July, 1922, and of these separate delivery districts in Boston as follows: Allston, 18,811; Back Bay, 65,608; Grove Hall, 43,018; Hanover St., 30,000; Jamaica Plain, 37,850; Roslindale, 19,989; Roxbury Crossing, 52,275; Station A, 91,943; Uphams' Corner, 49,896. These are minor districts (not all that the City contains) and do not correspond with the geographical districts.

MR. JOHN S. WHITNEY, 30 Saint Paul Street, Brookline, Mass.:

DEAR MR. WHITNEY.—In the absence of Mayor Curley in the South, I pray you will accept, and also extend to the members of your family, my sympathy and condolence in the passing of your beloved father, who devoted a lifetime in devising ways and means for the betterment of the City of Boston.

I have known no man of greater sincerity of purpose, of more devotion to his friends, of finer analytical mind in the promotion of vast commercial and industrial projects, a more learned authority upon matters of rapid transit, or who labored more ardently for international trade reciprocity with the foreign powers, and which remains an imperative necessity.

No one who ever came within the embrace of his friendship will ever forget his devotion to their interests, and, in every part of the land, there are hundreds of men who owe their success in life to your father's counsel and generous assistance.

The life of a man who lived with great rectitude and honor has closed and the City of Boston is poorer for his loss.

Sincerely yours,

DAVID J. BRICKLEY,
Acting Mayor.

MAYOR'S COUNTY BILL HEARD.

The petition of Mayor Curley seeking to have Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop be compelled to pay their proportionate part of the expenses of Suffolk County was argued by Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph P. Lyons before the Legislative Committee on Counties. At present the City of Boston pays the entire county expense.

Legal representatives of the two cities and Winthrop argued against those communities being compelled to pay any of the expense, and said that in 1851 the town of Chelsea, now Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop, gave Boston deeds to valuable property on the agreement that Boston should forever bear the county expense.

Corporation Counsel Lyons went into the history of the agreement in 1822 when Boston was incorporated as the first city of the state and an agreement was made with Chelsea to pay the county expense for 30 years or until changed by a legislative act. In the agreement Chelsea surrendered all rights to county property.

Since that agreement was made several attempts have been made by Boston to have Chelsea and the other communities pay their share, but has never been successful, he said. The City of Boston has constructed and maintained two courthouses since the agreement was made, has built and maintained the Charles-Street Jail, maintained Deer Island House of Correction and paid the entire cost of the operation of the county courts, he asserted.

Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop have never paid a cent towards the cost of construction or maintenance of these institutions, he said, and the bonded debt of the city today for county expenses amounts to $1,432,124. Expenses are growing so great, he said, that each community in the county should pay its proportionate share on a basis of valuation.

NEW SCHOOL IN NORTH END.

The Boston School Committee announces in its new three-year building program a purpose to include an appropriation of approximately $1,100,000 for a thirty-room intermediate school building in the Hancock district in the North End. The building will serve the needs of the Hancock and Eliot Districts where the school population is rapidly increasing.

The enrollment in the Hancock District is 200 greater than last year. The Michael Angelo School, a thirty-room building in the Eliot District, completed about a year ago, is fully occupied. Some 700 pupils of the Eliot and Hancock Districts are housed in rented quarters.

For the past five years the work of the first year of high school has been done in the ninth grade of the Hancock School. Last fall a ninth grade was established in the Eliot School because of the serious overcrowding in the central high schools. This has not proved satisfactory. These industrial classes, especially, need better facilities for their work.

The proposed intermediate school building will release space in the present buildings for the younger pupils and will also enable pupils of the Eliot and Hancock Districts to obtain first year of high school training under proper conditions in their own section.

BOSTON FINANCE COMMISSION.

BOSTON, January 26, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR.—On October 18, 1922, the Finance Commission submitted a report to your Honor on the award of a noncompetitive contract for the sum of $25,000 to the National Water Main Cleaning Company for cleaning certain city water mains.

The commission in that report called your Honor's attention to the excessive cost of the work and the unconscionable profit to the company on the contract. The commission recommended that before any further water pipe cleaning be done by the city a study be made to determine that cleaning was necessary and, if necessary, whether it would not be financially advisable for the city to renew the pipes rather than to clean them, and that no contract for cleaning water mains in the city be entered into at a price in excess of 12 cents per linear foot for a 12-inch main.

Following that report the Finance Commission employed an inspector to check the work of the contractor, as well as the cost of doing the work. The total cost to the contractor under the conditions outlined was approximately $5,277. The amount paid to the contractor was $24,847.20. The profit to the contractor was approximately 371 per cent. The members of the contractor's working force, except the foreman, were residents of the City of Boston, of a class of laborers that can be obtained by any contractor. It does not appear that the contractors have any legal monopoly of pipe-cleaning machinery, but efficient machines may be either fabricated or purchased by any party desiring to do such work at a nominal expense.

The detailed figures herewith appended confirm the conclusion that a maximum price of 12 cents per linear foot for cleaning 12-inch water pipe, as stated in the Finance Commission's report of October 18, 1922, would contain a liberal margin of profit for a contractor.

The Finance Commission recommends: That in future, unless a maximum price of 12 cents per linear foot can be obtained through competitive bidding for the cleaning of water mains, the work be done by the day labor force of the Public Works Department.

Respectfully submitted,

MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman,CHARLES L. CARR,
COURTENAY GUILD,
JOHN F. MOORS,
J. WALDO POND.

Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke, Department of Public Works, addressed the following communication to the Boston Finance Commission, upon the 26th ultimo:

BOSTON, January 26, 1923.

BOSTON FINANCE COMMISSION, 73 Tremont Street, Boston:

GENTLEMEN,—Your letter of this evening, relative to the city contract to the National Water Main Cleaning Company, arrived at the Mayor's office after five o'clock, your customary hour, and, in his absence, was referred to me for my attention soon thereafter, but at too late an hour for me to obtain from the clerical force of the Public Works Department the necessary statistical information to draft a reply seasonably to reach the same edition of the press in which you planned, according to your practice, to publish your open letter to the Mayor. If it be advisable for the Finance Commission to publish such interdepartmental communications before submitting them to the department concerned, it is equally advisable that the public should be informed of the department's answer in the same edition of the paper carrying your letter.

On October 18 of last year, you did write the Mayor of the city, after this contract had been awarded, and to that communication the Mayor promptly replied, in part as follows:

"I rejoice that the commission has awakened from the state of coma in which it has been enveloped during the four years of the reform administration, when extravagance and waste were permitted to run riot and without check. Apparently the commission's criticism should have been directed at and submitted to my predecessor, Hon. Andrew J. Peters, sometime during 1918, 1919, 1920 or 1921. Assuming that the Finance Commission have neglected to forward a copy of this report and criticism to my predecessor, the Honorable Andrew J. Peters, that he may make a suitable and proper answer, I am taking the liberty of forwarding him the copy sent me."

In this particular case a thorough inspection was made of these pipes before the contract was made and it was considered a financial advantage to the city to clean these pipes rather than to replace them with new ones.

The only suggestion in your letter that admits of discussion is the advisability in the future of letting this work out by contract, rather than having it done by the city itself.

In the first place, we emphatically question the figures as reported by your inspector, in whom we have less confidence than your commission. Again we note that there is no allowance for overhead on this work—a very important item in figuring the cost of any work—and its omission from your letter, intended for public consumption, is inexcusable and calculated to mislead the public of Boston.

Your figures fail to make any allowance for the indeterminate cost of hazards, that must always be considered, particularly in a job of this kind, where the work is obscured and blind, and sections of the pipe lines may have to be excavated and removed to free the arrested tool.

The reason that the contractor showed such apparent profit was due to an improvement in the design of the cleaning tool, perfected after starting this work, which rendered the chances of the tool being stuck in the pipe lines much less than previously; and because of this improvement the city could not expect to receive any advantage in this particular contract previously made.

Providing, however, the city would not be infringing on any patent rights in this improved cleaning tool, it might be advisable for it to consider seriously the desirability of doing this work itself, and to this end we would be very glad to have some constructive co-operation from your department, if you see fit to give it, but under such circumstances as will permit of our conferring privately rather than controverting publicly.

Yours very truly,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

STATEMENT OF CITY COLLECTOR.

City Collector William M. McMorroo issues the following statement:

We have just reached the close of the fiscal year 1922-23 and I beg to report that the total collection of current taxes amounts to $36,726,032.86 on a warrant of $42,192,555.46, showing 87.04 per cent collected, the highest percentage of collections in the past twenty-five years.

The total amount of outstanding taxes uncollected to date hereof is $5,305,804.23, from which abatements granted by the assessors during the month of January, not yet tabulated, are to be deducted.

Figures of collections of water and miscellaneous assessments will not be available until later.

FAVORS MAYOR'S WATER BILL PLAN.

Assistant Corporation Counsel H. Murray Pakulski represented Mayor Curley before the Judiciary Committee of the Legislature at a hearing on bills designed to give the City of Boston the right to make unpaid water bills a lien on real estate.

Mr. Pakulski declared that $1,000,000 is outstanding in unpaid water bills, and he claimed the previous administration for the failure to force payment. He complained that the method of shutting off a water supply to compel payment of a bill had a serious disadvantage in that it made a Mayor unpopular.

James A. McMurray, chief engineer, and Patrick G. Finnerty, superintendent of the Water Department, also spoke in favor of the bill.

RESTRICTION OF PARKING SPACES.

Chairman John H. L. Noyes of the Board of Street Commissioners declares the absolute prohibition of automobile parking in downtown streets within the area bounded by Boylston and Essex streets, Court and State streets and Tremont street and Atlantic avenue, save in a few spacious squares, is the drastic step necessary to lessen present vehicular congestion.

The commission summoned representatives of the traffic squad, the Fire Department, Boston Board of Fire Underwriters and Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange to discuss the proposal upon the 1st instant. All expressed confidence that the change would bring about much better conditions.

Chairman Noyes said a public hearing would be given the proposal by the Commission within the next two or three weeks.

One parking place that could well be used instead of the streets is the spacious chamber at the South Station under the track level, Chief Taber of the Fire Department said. This chamber has entrances and exits on either side of the central Summer street entrance to the station and runways lead to an underground floor where 1,000 cars could handily be parked.

The fire danger there could be minimized by partitioning this great area into four or six fireproof compartments. The Fire Department and the underwriters are to take up the proposal with the terminal company controlling the station.

Several speakers complained that numberless out-of-town residents use Boston's streets for indefinite periods as "free public garages." The traffic squad cannot keep up with the number of offenders of the parking regulations, it was stated.

The unlimited parking privilege in Charles street, Postoffice square and Winthrop square would not be affected by any change that may be made.

Secretary G. F. Stebbins of the Team Owners' Association and Secretary J. J. Hunt of the Team Drivers' International Union, sent letters indorsing the proposal to prohibit street parking.

NEW ADMINISTRATION BUILDING.

The Boston School Committee, with the superintendent of schools, Jeremiah E. Burke; the secretary, Thornton D. Appolonio; and the many other officers and workers who supervise Boston's educational activities, moved from the quarters on Mason street, which have been in use for many years, to the new building at 15 Beacon street, which has been purchased by the city for a school headquarters, upon the 31st ultimo. In this building spacious quarters have been assigned to the various offices, where the school administration can be directed more efficiently under ideal conditions.

The ninth floor has been assigned to Superintendent of Schools Burke. Miss Cronin's office is next to his, and the other rooms on the floor will be taken up by assistants.

The eighth floor will be occupied by the assistant superintendents, Augustine L. Rafter, Mary C. Mellyn, John C. Brodhead, Arthur L. Gould and William B. Snow, while the business agent of the schools, William T. Keough, has already been located for some time on the tenth floor of the building.

In addition to the offices at Mason street those located at 218 Tremont street of the supervisor of manual arts, licensed minors and other directors, will move eventually to the Beacon-street building, as soon as the three lower stories have been finished. Workmen are still busy there remodeling the interior to adapt it to the other school officials.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 209.

Section 9 of Rule 36 of the Rules and Regulations of the Police Department is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following new section, which shall be known as Section 9:

9. When passing or addressing any superior officer or officer of rank they shall salute in the manner prescribed by the infantry drill regulations of the United States Army.

It is the duty of the subordinate to offer first the prescribed salute, and of the superior officer or officer of rank to return it.

Men in ranks will not salute unless ordered so to do by the officer in command.

Mounted men, upon the appearance of a superior officer or officer of rank, will not salute, but will assume the position of "attention."

The police shall not salute when in citizens' dress whether on duty or not. Upon entering the office of the commissioner or of the superintendent they will uncover and stand at attention until otherwise ordered.

The police when proceeding in a body to perform any duty, or when returning, shall march in military order.

When the flag of the United States or of the Commonwealth is carried in parade or procession past a member of the force in uniform in a street or other public place, and at the moment of such passage, he shall stand at "attention" and salute, in the manner in which he would salute a superior officer or officer of rank, unless his urgent duties at the time make such action inadvisable.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

The request for the transfer to A-2 is because a number of persons are sick, and temporary substitutes have had to be employed.

The request for the transfer to B-23 is because bills have been incurred in excess of the appropriation amounting to $23.

Yours very truly,

JAMES J. MINOT,

FREDERIC H. FAY, Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

COLLECTING DEPARTMENT.

Boston, January 15, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request the following transfers within the appropriation for the Collecting Department, for the fiscal year 1922-23. This transfer is necessary to provide for postage.

From A-1, 1 Teller at $2,800 per year, $235.67; 2 Clerks at $1,400, per year, $192.03—$427.70, to B-2, Postage, $427.70.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM M. McMORROW,
City Collector.

FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, January 22, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In order to close its accounts for the fiscal year 1922-23 the Finance Commission requests the following transfers:

From A-3, $75.17, to A-1, Stenographer, 1 at $18 per week, $150; B-35, $63.04; C-10, $10.63—$75.17.

Very truly yours,

MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Boston, January 19, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request that the following transfers be made in the Fire Department appropriations for the year 1922-23:

From the appropriation for B-18, Cleaning, to the appropriation for B-23, Veterinary, $500.

From D-4, Forage and Animal, to B-10, Rent, Taxes and Water, $541.

From D-4, Forage and Animal, to B-22, Medical, $162.

From D-4, Forage and Animal, to C-13, Tools and Instruments, $3,500.

B-23. The office of permanent veterinary having been abolished, the horses remaining in the department are cared for by an outside practitioner when needed. This condition saves the veterinary $3,000 salary which was appropriated, but there was nothing appropriated for outside services for which this transfer is requested.

B-10. This transfer is necessary on account of the unexpected presentation of a rent bill for $541.67 from the Boston Real Estate Trust for the privilege of using a passageway from 272 Congress street to our high pressure pumping station for foot passengers. This agreement was made prior to my taking office and was a surprise to me, and for which no provision was made in the 1922 budget appropriation.

B-22. This transfer is necessary to pay physician for services to man injured in the course of his employment on June 13, 1921. This bill has come to my knowledge today for the first time and no provision has been made in the 1922 budget for payment of same.

C-13. This increase is asked to purchase hose. There has been a considerable amount of hose condemned this year on the annual inspection of apparatus, which had to be replaced. There was also a considerable outlay for thawing devices which was absolutely necessary.

Very truly yours,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

Boston, January 9, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully ask that the following transfer be allowed:

From the appropriation for Reserve Fund, $675, to the appropriation for Boston Almshouse and Hospital, D-9, Educational and Recreational, $675.

The above amount is to cover cost of Christmas trees and presents furnished to the inmates of the Long Island institution in accordance with your request.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. JOHNSON,
Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

MARKET DEPARTMENT.

Boston, January 17, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I most respectfully desire your approval to transfer from B-8, Light and Power, to B-39, General Plant, $32; also from B-8, Light and Power, to D-16, General Plant, $16.

The above amounts are necessary to pay outstanding bills—one for electrical caused by a short circuit in the market. The other for salt used in the gutters and sidewalks around Faneuil Hall Market.

Hoping this will meet with your approval, I am,

Respectfully yours,

PATRICK H. GRAHAM,
Superintendent of Markets.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

RUPERT S. CARVEN, Esq.,

City Auditor:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request that the following transfers be made in the segregated budget of the Overseeing of the Public Welfare Department.

These transfers are requested in order to make available money for payment of bills for services and materials furnished in excess of what was anticipated at the first of the year.

Yours respectfully,

SIMON E. HECHT,
Chairman.Central Office.

From the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Visitor at $1,500 per year, $138.92, to the appropriation for B-2, Postage, $138.92.

From A-1, Permanent Employees, 1 Visitor at $1,500 per year, $19.74, to C-13, Tools and Instruments, $19.74.

Temporary Home.

From B-18, Cleaning, $0.57, to C-16, Wearing Apparel, $0.57.

From B-18, Cleaning, $4.70, to D-5, Medical, $4.70.

Wayfarers' Lodge.

From B-8, Light and Power, $49, to C-3, Electrical, $49.

From B-8, Light and Power, $6.43, to C-13, Tools and Instruments, $6.43.

From B-8, Light and Power, $10.48, to D-16, General Plant, $10.48.

From B-8, Light and Power, $56.54, to B-39, General Plant, $56.54.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, January 18, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—Your approval is respectfully requested for the following internal transfers in the Park Department:

From the appropriation for D-3, Fuel, $800, to the appropriation for B-21, Removal of Snow, $800.

From D-3, Fuel, $21.60, to G-6, Christmas Tree Celebration, $21.60.

From D-10, Agriculture, $825.33, to F-12, Parkway Resurfacing, $825.33.

From D-10, Agriculture, $217.22, to F-12, Dorchesterway Resurfacing, $217.22.

From D-5, Medical, Surgical, Laboratory, $100, to F-12, Dorchesterway Resurfacing, $100.

From D-8, Laundry, Cleaning, Toilet, $100, to F-12, Dorchesterway Resurfacing, $100.

From C-7, Furniture and Fittings, $200, to F-12, Dorchesterway Resurfacing, $200.

The reason for making the above requests are as follows:

It is necessary to have an additional sum of $800 for the removal of snow on Commonwealth avenue, between Arlington and Kenmore streets.

The amount of $21.60 is needed to pay the balance of a bill due on the Christmas tree celebration.

On the two items of Parkway resurfacing and Dorchesterway permanent resurfacing, it was found advisable to continue the work both at Edward Everett square and on Perkins street, Jamaica Plain, to a further distance than was at first contemplated.

Yours respectfully,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—In budget estimates for the current year $723.80 was appropriated for "A-2, Temporary Employees, Special Justices," this amount covering fifty-five days' service of special justices.

To date there has been thirty three days' service by special justices in the absence of the justice, and twenty-nine days service at sessions held simultaneously with the justice, a total of four days more than the number of days for which appropriation made. Bills covering these fifty-nine days have been submitted to the auditor.

The amount available in A-2, Temporary Employees, other than for special justices is sufficient to cover the deficiency for special justices.

I respectfully request transfer:

From the appropriation for A-2, Temporary Employees, Clerk, pro tempore, 1 at $9.87 per day, $52.64, to the appropriation for A-2, Temporary Employees, Special Justices, 2 at $13.16 per day, $52.64.

Very respectfully,

MARK E. SMITH,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

MUNICIPAL COURT, WEST ROXBURY DISTRICT.

JAMAICA PLAIN, January 17, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—The appropriation for clerical assistance (A-2) in this court for 1922-23 will be insufficient, and I request that the sum of $150 be transferred from Transportation (B-4), to be applied to the payment of bills for clerical assistance already presented and to be incurred prior to February 1, 1923.

Since 1912 I have had authority by statute to appoint an assistant clerk, but having no place for him in our present quarters I have never made a permanent appointment, thereby saving the county thousands of dollars, and we have exerted ourselves to the utmost to carry on the business of the court without adding to our force.

This year we docketed nearly twice as many criminal cases as in 1920, and almost one hundred more than last year, which situation renders it necessary for me to ask for the above transfer and adjustment.

Yours respectfully,

EDWARD W. BREWER,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

DISTRICT COURT OF CHELSEA.

CHELSEA, January 24, 1923.

Yours truly,

JOSEPH M. CURLEY,
Clerk.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

SUFFOLK COUNTY JAIL.

From Group E, Item 13, to Group F, Item 9, $40.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN A. KELIHER,
Sheriff.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 29, 1923.

The amount requested to be transferred is occasioned by change from monthly to weekly pay rolls.

BOARD OF APPEAL.

Boston, January 29, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—I respectfully request a transfer in the appropriation of this department as follows:

From the appropriation for B-4, Transportation of Persons, $10, to the appropriation for A-1, Members of Board, $10.

The number of cases heard by the Board during the past fortnight necessitated their holding three meetings. There are five members of the Board. Each member of the Board is paid $10 per diem for services actually rendered. The appropriation to cover this amount is $140. The amount necessary to remunerate them for services actually rendered would be $150. I therefore ask for the above mentioned transfer.

Very respectfully yours,

WALTER S. GERRY,
Chairman Board of Appeal.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 31, 1923.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, January 30, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—The following transfer in the Fire Department appropriation for the year 1922-23 is hereby requested:

From B-39, General Plant, to D-3, Fuel, $4,000.

This amount is required to pay outstanding bills. There was sufficient money in this appropriation but an amount exceeding the bills payable was transferred therefrom, making this appropriation short this amount.

Very sincerely yours,

THEODORE A. GLYNN,
Fire Commissioner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 31, 1923.

BOSTON, January 25, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor of Boston:

I respectfully recommend the following transfer in the appropriation for the Water Service:

From the appropriation for F-12, Contracts for Construction, Replacement of Mains, $4,158.79, to the appropriation for F-2, Damages, $4,158.79.

Reasons for above transfer:

To satisfy bills of Boston Elevated Railway Company for expense of repairs necessitated by breaking of 40-inch water main at corner of Beacon street and Commonwealth avenue on July 23, 1921, and for pro rata reduction of rental of Boylston Street Subway for one day on same account.

Very respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 31, 1923.

January 27, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor of Boston:

Approval is respectfully requested for the following transfers in the appropriation for the Water Division:

From the appropriation for A-1, Division Engineer, $5,000, $250, to the appropriation for B-42, Repairing Streets, $250; from B-10, Rent, Taxes, Water, $75, to B-5, Cartage and Freight, $75; from F-12, Contracts for Construction, New Mains, $1,050, to B-39, General Plant, $1,050.

Reasons for above transfers:

B-5, due to presentation of two unexpected bills for freight.

B-42, due to presentation of several small unexpected bills.

B-39, when last transfer was made to this item it was expected that this payment would be made out of the 1923-24 budget.

Very respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 31, 1923.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, January 29, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR,—Permission is respectfully requested to make the following transfers:

From appropriations for B-2, Postage, $200; D-11, Auto Supplies, $100; Reserve Fund, $425, to appropriation for B-27, Testing Materials, $725.

From C-9, Office Equipment, $18, to C-4, Automobile Equipment, $18.

This transfer to appropriation B-27 is requested because of the fact that the Fire Department had extensive tests made of fire alarm cables and rubber fire hose for which no provision had been made at this office.

The transfer to C-4 is requested in order to take care of the additional expense of equipping new Buick sedan recently purchased by this department.

Very truly yours,

FRANK P. ROCK,
Superintendent of Supplies.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 31, 1923.

OFFICE OF MEDICAL EXAMINER, SOUTHERN DISTRICT.

BOSTON, January 16, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

YOUR HONOR,—I respectfully request that the following sum be transferred within the appropriation for the Medical Examiner Service, Southern Division, for the reasons given below.

From B-39 to B-13, $35. There is needed $35 to take care of this year's bills.

From C-4 to B-4, $126.50. Transportation. An expenditure made by Dr. William H. Watters, associate medical examiner, during my absence on vacation makes this transfer necessary. During this period there was no automobile available belonging to the department.

From C-12 to D-1, $50. Office Supplies. Necessary expenditures for stationery and printing made this transfer necessary.

From A-1 to A-2, $105. From B-39 to A-2, $8. Stenographic services required by Doctor Watters in my absence on vacation made this transfer necessary. There is a balance under A-1 as follows:

Chauffeur at $28 per week, $80; Stenographer at $18 per week, $25.74; total, $105.74.

$1 from D-11 to B-2. Postage.

Respectfully yours,

TIMOTHY LEARY,
Medical Examiner.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 31, 1923.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Acting Mayor, January 31, 1923.

ACCUSES FINANCE COMMISSION.

The Boston Finance Commission was charged with being the tool of "certain organizations which want to blacken the name of the City of Boston" by Corporation Counsel E. Mark Sullivan, who represented the mayor when speaking before the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs. Mr. Sullivan spoke in opposition to the commission's bill for an appropriation of $45,000 and in favor of the bill of Mayor Curley for the abolition of the Finance Commission.

Mr. Sullivan criticized the practice of the commission in "rushing into print with every little thing" in order to satisfy those who created the commission and who keep it going.

The speaker contrasted the methods employed by the commission with those practiced by Thomas W. White, the State supervisor of administration.

The speaker asserted that the Finance Commission has power to investigate the finances of the state and claimed that Judge Sullivan seriously considered doing it.

MOVEMENT OF FREIGHT.

Through the aid of the Commercial and Industrial Bureau, of the City of Boston, to which an appeal was made by the Randall-Faichney Company of Roxbury, an overdue consignment of eight cases of brass was delivered by the New Haven Railroad upon the 29th ultimo, that enabled the consignees to continue work on a large rush order and avert a threatened cancellation that would have run into thousands of dollars.

The car containing the brass was located at the Cedar Hill junction point, just outside of New Haven, without any prospect of getting to Boston at a definite date. The general superintendent's office at New Haven promptly acted on the suggestion of W. H. McMaster of the Bureau that the car be switched to New Haven and the consignment be reloaded into a Boston through car and picked up by the New York and Boston express freight. This statement was issued from the Mayor's office to show that the New Haven is doing everything possible to meet emergency requirements.

Acting Mayor of Boston:
Dear Sir,—In accordance with the order of the City Council, approved by you, concerning the additional cost for the adoption of the so-called "Two-platoon System" in the Fire Department, I respectfully request as follows:

As a result of a conference with the Fire Commissioner, the accompanying communication was submitted to me as a basis for establishing cost for the first year. The number of officers and privates, as determined by the Fire Commissioner at the existing rates of salaries for the respective positions for the first year, will result in a cost of $304,000, to which should be added the cost of clothing equipment for 200 men at $69.75 per man, namely $13,950, making a total cost of $317,950 for a full first year. On the basis of the present sliding scale of salaries, there will be an additional charge, of $100 per man each year, amounting to $17,700 annually, for four years.

ADDRESS OF HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON.

DELIVERED AT THE INAUGURATION OF THE BOSTON CITY GOVERNMENT, COUNCIL CHAMBER, CITY HALL,
FEBRUARY 4, 1923.

Gentlemen of the City Council:

It is a source of pleasure at this the initial meeting of the second year of my administration as Chief Executive to present to your honorable body a record of stewardship beneficial to the people and gratifying to myself.

The results achieved have been, in a large measure, possible through the co-operation which you have extended and the support which the public and press have given, without which it might be extremely difficult to face with any degree of optimism the year of responsibility which today commences.

Every pledge given to the public at the beginning of the present administration has either been fulfilled or has enjoyed such measure of completion as would justify reporting favorable progress thereon.

Despite an increase in the tax rate by substantially every municipality in Massachusetts, it has been possible to conduct the activities of the city without increasing the tax rate and without impairing in any degree the efficiency of any department, an achievement notable for the reason that this is the first year in which it has been accomplished during the past five years.

The reduction during the year that has just ended in the price of electricity, representing an annual saving of approximately two million dollars to the people, the reduction in the price of gas which became effective on February 1, and which effects a further saving of approximately one half million dollars annually in this commodity, coupled with the adoption of a five-cent fare on twenty or more lines, with the establishment of a single fare in the Hyde Park section of Boston, are results whose beneficial effects are appreciated by all the people.

The relations between capital and labor at the beginning of the year 1922 and which, after many months of bitterness and strife with injury to employer and employee, were peacefully settled, coupled with the absence of labor disputes at the present time, suggest the possibility of making Boston a permanent "strikeless" city. The adoption of a program for a "strikeless" city, through the service, as arbitrator, of municipal or county officials, is extremely desirable in view of the enormous building program arranged for the year 1923.

The building operations in the City of Boston represent for the year ending December 31, 1922, a grand total of $62,934,937 as contrasted with $27,331,448 in 1921, and $9,733,852 in 1918 when the low point was reached. This expression of confidence in the city and belief in its future are most inspiring.

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY.

The establishment early in the year of the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau was justified almost immediately by the results obtained. Largely through the efforts of the Bureau grain shipments through this port have been resumed; the wool industry has been revived; fish has been shipped to California and lumber returned to Boston; cocoa beans and rubber from South America, the East Indies and Java are being imported directly to Boston as a port of entry; a selling agency handling the goods of forty Boston concerns has been established in Buenos Ayres; two steamship lines, the Dollar Steamship Company and the Boston Caribbean Steamship Company, have established this port as a terminus; and the Bureau has received assurance from the United States Shipping Board that Boston will be made a port of origin for one of its national lines instead of a port of call.

The Bureau has co-operated with the Boston Chamber of Commerce in the filing of a bill for the abolition of the system of differentials through which the commerce of Boston was rapidly reaching the vanishing point. The prospects for an early and favorable decision upon the question of the abolition of the discriminatory system of freight differentials, coupled with the commercial development that has taken place in the last year, largely as a consequence of the strategic commercial position of Boston, will result in a problem requiring courage and large sums of money to solve properly, if commercial supremacy is to be again achieved.

I have a profound appreciation of the difficulties that lie in the path of commercial restoration. True, Boston is the chief commercial city of Massachusetts, in fact of all New England, but its possibilities of necessity must continue limited until such time as the entire territory within fifteen miles or more of the States House constitutes a part of the Greater Boston. Even then its development will depend, in large measure, upon the attitude and action of the State Government which, in the past, has invariably been more political than helpful.

Electrification of railroads within a radius of fifteen miles of Boston, connected through a belt-line system with wharves, warehouses and a central Union station, represent public improvements, the total expenditure for which will approximate probably one hundred million dollars, but which are imperatively essential if we desire to take our place in the forefront of progressive American cities.

UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION.

The industrial and commercial depression reached its peak at the beginning of my administration and resulted in a condition of unemployment without a parallel in the history of the city, it being estimated that at least 65,000 men were out of work. To relieve as far as possible the suffering caused by this situation seemed to me to be my most important public duty and an employment bureau was established through which contact between employer and unemployed was possible without expense to either party. Employment for 6,235 men has been secured at a cost of $1.52 each and the Bureau is used exclusively by many concerns. The extent of the unemployment among the war veterans was shown by the fact that the January pay roll of the Soldiers' Relief Department for the month of January, 1922, reached the unprecedented sum of $135,670. The situation was relieved to a great extent by employing veterans almost exclusively on the $2,500,000 project involved in the changes at the Maverick square terminus of the East Boston Tunnel and, with the co-operation of the Civil Service Commission, nearly 2,000 men have been employed on this work from time to time. In addition the other departments of the city were instructed to prosecute such construction work as the finances of the city would permit, and to facilitate in every way the establishment and extension of business enterprises requiring permits or licenses from the city.

By these methods and through the efforts of the Employment Bureau, the Veterans' Bureau and the State Employment Bureau, together with more hopeful business conditions, a remarkable improvement has been effected. The most striking evidence of the improvement is shown by the fact that the pay roll of the Soldiers' Relief Department for December, 1922, was $41,464.50 against $135,670 in February, 1922.

STREETS AND STREET TRAFFIC.

The usual number of residential streets has been accepted and laid out during the past year, and a beginning has been made towards cleaning up the back alleys by laying them out as public alleys.

A construction program calling for the widening and extension, at an estimated cost of nearly $20,000,000, of Exchange street, Portland street, Cambridge and Court streets, Province street, Tremont street, Summer street, Chauncy street and Causeway street has been presented to the General Court and, if the necessary legislation is forthcoming, genuine progress in the remedying of the ever-increasing congestion in the business district will result.

The Street Commissioners have been instructed to make an exhaustive study, in conjunction with the Police and Fire Departments and the fire underwriters, with a view to improving the traffic situation.

PENSION SYSTEM.

Under chapter 521 of the Acts of 1922, which was accepted by the City Council and the Mayor, pension privileges, which formerly were granted only to firemen, policemen, laborers, school teachers, veterans, school janitors and attendance officers, certain classes of county employees and state employees, have been extended to the remaining city and county employees. I approved this act in justice to the 8,000 or more employees who are entitled to equally as fair treatment as the state employees and the other classes who have been given pensions, although personally I believe that the only equitable solution of the whole pension question is a universal old-age pension.

FUEL SHORTAGE.

The City of Boston, in fact all New England, has for many years been at the mercy each winter of the elements and the dealers in fuel. Unfortunately in 1922 an additional force was added largely through the indecision of the federal authorities to compel a settlement of the coal strike. Anticipating a fuel shortage, provision was made early in the year to substitute oil for coal as fuel in the larger and more important plants operated by the city; and acting under authority conferred by the Legislature, thousands of tons of coal and coke were purchased and sold direct to the people without profit to the city. The object in purchasing the coal was two-fold; first, to provide fuel, and second, to prevent an exorbitant charge by fuel dealers, both of which objects have been accomplished.

In addition to the action of the city in supplying coal a vigorous campaign has been conducted by the Weights and Measures Department against short weight in ice and coal deliveries. On coal alone fifty-one dealers were brought into court, found guilty and fined, and as a result of the efforts of the department this evil has been practically ended in Boston.

RE NATIONAL BANK TAX CASES.

When the Legislature, in 1916, passed an income tax law for the purpose of taxing intangible personal property on its income instead of its capital value, there was a universal feeling of relief because the old tax-dodging system was at last to be discarded while the new law gave promise both of larger public revenues and of more general satisfaction to the taxpayers.

The income tax law, however, was not applied to shares in national banks, which continued to be taxed by the cities and towns at the local rate, the same as real estate and tangible personal property. This system has been in operation in Massachusetts for over fifty years, without complaint by the national banks save in a single instance in which the complaint was judicially determined to be without foundation. During this period the national banks grew up and prospered greatly; they became the largest factor in our financial system; and they possessed the confidence and respect of the community. The income tax law left them bearing substantially the same relative share of the general tax burden as they bore prior to its passage, and, in my opinion, they had no real grievance against the new law. But they claim they are discriminated against by the income tax law. Their complaint is not that the law favors their great competitors, the trust companies, who are taxed at the state rate on the full value of their capital stock, deducting property locally assessed, but that it discriminates against them in favor of stock and bond brokers and investment houses and even private individuals who occasionally buy a bond to put away as an investment, because the tax in such cases is on the income whereas the tax on national bank shares is on their capital value.

At the earliest opportunity the First National Bank brought suit against the City of Boston to recover the taxes it paid on behalf of its shareholders in the year 1917. In each year since it has brought suits and other national banks have done likewise, until today the suits pending throughout the state involve about fourteen million dollars. In this city alone, the suits to recover taxes paid in the years 1917-21, inclusive, involve nearly $6,500,000 without reckoning interest on the sums paid. The City of Boston and all other cities that have been sued are resisting the attempt to force the repayment of such large sums. The first case, that of the First National Bank against the City of Boston, has been heard by a commissioner appointed by the Superior Court, but he has not yet filed his report. If his findings are adverse to the city and they are finally confirmed by the courts, the Commonwealth and its cities and towns will have to face the problem of raising money so as to return the amounts they received as their shares of the bank taxes. It is, of course, uncertain what the final decision of the courts will be, but the situation is a menacing one and it requires the gravest consideration.

Fortunately, it is within the power of Congress to permit this Commonwealth and other states in like circumstances to enact laws which will validate the past assessment and collection of such taxes, and it is fervently to be hoped that such legislation be passed by Congress, at this session if possible. The bill introduced by Senator Kellogg of Minnesota is the fairest of its kind. It permits validation of the taxes collected, subject to certain qualifications which are not of vital consequence. It remains to be seen, however, whether the extensive lobby which the national banks have maintained in Washington to prevent validation and to secure a future taxing system even more favorable to them than that now applied to the state banks and trust companies, will succeed in its selfish purpose to the detriment of the general public.

The City of Boston has labored persistently to secure a validating bill, and at its own expense, although many other cities and towns will be affected by adverse action to as large an extent relatively as Boston, considering their respective abilities to raise money by taxation. Such a bill has passed in the Senate and, with the co-operation of the Massachusetts delegation in the House, it will pass in that body and become law. Failing this, if the court decision is also adverse, the entire taxing system of the state will have to be recognized and a huge debt must be authorized for tax refunding purposes.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

The Schick test, as a means of combating the ravages of diphtheria, was introduced to Boston largely through the co-operation of the educational authorities and the physicians of the city. It has been applied to some 27,000 children with a gratifying reduction in the death rate.

The George R. White Fund Trustees acting in conjunction with the Health Department have selected a site for the first health unit in the most congested section of Boston, namely, the North End. The contract for the erection of the health unit has been advertised, the award has been made, and the first unit in the chain of six which it is proposed to establish should be completed in the late summer. The establishment of health units, through which a clearing house for all health activities is possible, should result in a material betterment of health conditions and a reduction in the death rate.

The Boston City Hospital will shortly dedicate the Thorndike Memorial Building which has been equipped with the most approved X-ray apparatus and with facilities for research work which should easily place the institution in the forefront of American hospitals.

The completion of the Out-Patient Department Building will enable the department to house all out-patient clinics under one roof, in addition to doubling the present capacity.

The present hospital area presents a problem for the future which demands an early solution. I have requested the Hospital Trustees to submit a building program which will anticipate requirements for the next half century either by the enlargement of the present hospital grounds, or in conformity with the custom recently inaugurated in western cities, of erecting buildings eight or more stories in height rather than the three-story buildings which has been the prevailing rule of the department in the past. The co-operation of the City Council is invited and I here direct your attention to the necessity for recognition of our common obligation to the needs of the sick in the matter of public buildings rather than to the further extension of municipal buildings for the pleasure and convenience of those who are well.

The American College of Surgeons, after investigation, has rated the institution at Long Island as A-1 and, while this is gratifying, it does not lessen in any degree the necessity for providing accommodations for the chronic sick upon the mainland rather than pauperizing, as at present is the custom, those who lack either finances or influential friends. The decision of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks to convey to the City of Boston, for about one fourth its actual value, the Elks' Hospital, so called, at Parker Hill, will render possible during the present year the transfer of the chronic sick to the mainland. The location at Parker Hill is ideal, being centrally located for the medical and surgical authorities and students connected with the hospitals situated in that section of Boston. I look forward to the development at Parker Hill Hospital of an institution with medical and surgical service unsurpassed in America.

The indications are that the Federal Hospital which the Government is now erecting at Northampton will be completed in the spring of 1924, when probably the lease of the West Roxbury Hospital Buildings will be terminated. The transfer of the unfortunate poor from Long Island, which because of its location renders existence for the individual dreary, drab and desolate, should provide a welcome change. It is my purpose, with your assistance, to establish at West Roxbury as many cottages as may be necessary for married couples, where an opportunity may be afforded for the continuance of the companionship enjoyed by them before misfortune or adversity became their lot. There, by the side of the beautiful Charles river in the shade of the pines, with opportunity to see occasionally the friendly faces of those they knew in more prosperous days, they may in the the sunset of their days approach the end with hope and without despair.

EDUCATION.

In view of the fact that only about 10 per cent of the public school children of America continue beyond the eighth grade schools a more intimate cooperation between the School and Library Departments becomes important and desirable. Good habits acquired in childhood become the second nature of the adult; and if school children are trained in habits of book reading and taught the love and value of good books by discriminating guides and teachers, they will carry the habit beyond their school years and make it a means of supplementing the education of the schools and acquiring that broader and more advanced education of which adverse circumstances might deprive them.

With these ideas in mind I have recommended to the School Committee the desirability of co-operating with the Library Department in establishing branch libraries and reading rooms in school buildings in wards where there is no public library owned by the City of Boston. The pupils of the school will soon learn to use this adjunct to their education; under proper tutelage they will learn to differentiate the good and useful from the poor and nonhelpful in books; and by the time they are ready to go out into the world to work they will have acquired the reading habit; and continuing it after school days, increase their knowledge, widen their views, stimulate their ambition, add to their education, and acquire a respect for order and authority that will save them from the evils and temptation that wait for children in the streets.

The standardization of school buildings containing eight rooms or less as a means of speeding up the program for a seat for each pupil in a permanent school building at the minimum of cost is most desirable. The adoption of this program, resulting as it would in the elimination of architects' fees on buildings coming within the scope of the eight-room-or-less program, with such substitution of materials as may be made without reducing the factor of safety, should result in an annual saving of approximately $300,000 and I look forward to an early consummation of this most desirable measure of economy and efficiency.

PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS.

The expenditure for public parks and playgrounds during the year 1922 was nearly equal to the total expenditure in the four preceding years and, while the demands for additional playgrounds are urgent, it is in my opinion more important that existing playgrounds should be developed to the maximum of usefulness before further additions are made.

The completion of Columbus Park, which will represent a total expenditure in excess of one million five hundred thousand dollars, will be a notable addition to the park system of Boston. This great project which represents an addition of two and one quarter million square feet of land to the park area of Boston, practically all reclaimed from the bed of the ocean, will provide a recreation ground unequalled in America.

The construction of Christopher J. Lee Playground, Christopher Gibson Playground, John W. Murphy Playground and the proposed recreation park in the Fenway, provide concrete "bleachers" to accommodate 20,000 persons, who, through the convenience of witnessing twilight baseball with comfort, will unconsciously be induced to partake of a health course in the open that should prove most beneficial.

The completion of the golf course at Franklin Park and the establishment of the Rose Garden should result in an increased attendance at this most attractive park, while the construction of an automobile driveway through Franklin Park will render it more accessible.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The much-heralded motorization of the Fire Department and the installation of the high pressure service, despite expenditures for both of these improvements during the past year, are not as yet completed. The Boston Fire Department is today about 85 per cent motorized; an additional appropriation of $250,000 will be necessary to complete the motorization of the department, while an extension of the high pressure fire service mains to gridiron the northern end of the city will require the laying of six miles of high pressure mains at an expenditure in excess of one million dollars.

The traffic situation in the vicinity of the Mason Street Fire House is so serious as to render necessary at an early date the erection of a central fire station in the downtown section of Boston, and the abandonment of the Mason street property. This improvement should result in more efficient protection for the downtown district at a minimum of cost and should be undertaken at the earliest possible date.

ELECTION DEPARTMENT.

It is the purpose of the Election Department as a measure of convenience to the public to establish registration booths in two sections of each ward and the adoption of this program should result in increased registration of voters, as under the present system the size of the wards in some cases renders it extremely inconvenient for individuals to exercise the right of franchise.

The system of opening polling booths at 6 a. m. and closing at 4 p. m., which was adopted prior to the establishment of the eight-hour working day, in view of the extension of the franchise to women and the increase in the size of the voting lists, has been outgrown and deprives many individuals of the opportunity to vote. A bill has been presented, which I trust the Council will support, providing that the voting booths be kept open from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. and changing the voting day from Tuesday to Saturday. Adoption by the Legislature of these changes should render unnecessary a further increase in the number of precincts.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Bridge Service.

Abandonment of new construction coupled with a disregard for upkeep made necessary enormous expenditures during the year 1922, a large portion of which should properly have been distributed over the four preceding years.

The temporary bridge on Chelsea street in use for many years became in 1922 a menace to public safety and made necessary the expenditure of $600,000 for the construction of the new Chelsea South Bridge which is rapidly approaching completion.

Contracts have been awarded for the construction of the Beacon Street Bridge and the Cambridge Street Bridge, both expensive legacies, the construction of which it would be unwise to postpone further.

Boston is now realizing the futility of expecting worth-while results from cheap construction, and I trust has at last recognized the necessity for the construction in future of structures both durable and beautiful regardless of cost.

With that end in view a bill has been presented for a new bridge to replace the present one between Boston and Cambridge at Massachusetts avenue, and extending over the Charles river, at an estimated cost of $7,500,000.

The Congress Street Bridge, built in 1875, is rapidly becoming unsafe for the traffic which it is at present required to bear, while a new bridge over the railroad on Dartmouth street, and one at Medway street, Dorchester, are imperatively required at the present time.

The introduction of bituminous top for plank decking during the past year has resulted in a considerable saving, and it is proposed that this policy shall be adhered to in the future. In 1880 an agreement was entered into between the City of Boston and the Boston & Albany Railroad Company, under which the City of Boston was required, at any time that a request be made by the Railroad Company, to construct a retaining wall on Boylston street, from the vicinity of the Hotel Lenox to Massachusetts avenue. This was a burden shifted to posterity. Unfortunately, we have become posterity, and approximately $150,000 will be required to meet this obligation.

Ferry Service.

The abandonment of the Chelsea Ferry, coupled with the condition of the Chelsea South Bridge, has imposed burdens upon the Ferry Service that in all probability will increase annually until such time as a freight and teaming tunnel has been constructed between Boston and East Boston. Until such time, however, it is the duty of the City of Boston to provide the maximum of service that present facilities will permit.

A contract has been awarded representing an expenditure of $210,000 for the installation of double teaming drops of modern design and, provided finances will permit, an additional expenditure will be made during the present year.

At the present time the City of Boston operates five ferryboats with but four teaming driveways, while all the drops which lead from the streets to the boats are antiquated in design and equipped with but a single driveway, making necessary, in the immediate future, the construction of five new piers.

Sewer Service.

Early in 1922 the State Inspection Board notified the Public Works Department that it would be necessary to replace the six boilers at the Sewage Pumping Station at once, in fact, insisting that replacement should have been made during the preceding two years.

Three new water tube boilers are now being installed with an oil-burning equipment, replacing the coal-heating plant, which new equipment should result in increased economy, while studies are being made for the installation of a new Diesel oil engine unit with two electric pumps to replace the present inefficient steam-drive system.

The customary extension of large conduits with provision for new dwellings in the residential districts has been conducted on such an extensive scale that some thirty construction contracts were in process of completion during the year.

It is not generally known, but it is nevertheless true, that, in the so-called Germantown district of West Roxbury, the old privy system still obtains, and it is my desire, in the interests of public health, that a sewer system be established at the earliest date, and I shall shortly request the support of your Board for such appropriation as may be necessary to complete an additional section of the Stony brook sewer and commence the installation of the long deferred sewerage works at West Roxbury.

Sanitary and Street Cleaning Service.

On July 1, 1922, a new ten-year contract for garbage disposal went into effect, against the award of which on December 31, 1921, there was considerable protest from the Chamber of Commerce and myself as to its being ill-advised. The method of disposal and the equipment under this contract are identical with those of the old contract, the odors from which were so objectionable. Some improvements were made in the old equipment which reduced the odors materially when the secondary driers are not in operation.

The use of these driers for salvaging good quality tankage is essential, however, and it looks as though a radical change in equipment and methods must be inaugurated to fulfill the contract requirement for an inoffensive and odorless plant.

The George A. Johnson Company, Inc., of New York was commissioned to investigate and report on the sanitary collection and disposal situation in this city and an exhaustive report has recently been presented in which the existing methods are condemned and another method of disposal recommended which may require an adjustment of the existing contract.

If the present method of disposal is continued improved equipment and a new deodorizing process must be installed at Spectacle Island to eliminate the odor nuisance.

Water Service.

The customary extensions of mains and services have been made during the past year, and greater attention given to establishing unyielding supports for gate boxes, etc., in all streets before repaving. All new gate boxes in the future will be supported in like manner.

A new policy expected to save considerable money for the city has been adopted by buying all the pipes, specials, etc., required for the next season's work during December and January when the foundries are not so busy and cheaper prices can be obtained. The former method of letting these contracts at the beginning of the fiscal year resulted in an increased cost and, due to delay in deliveries, a shortage of necessary material when required has been frequent and held up urgent construction.

Included in the materials contracted for as above are piping and specials for approximately two miles of high pressure fire service, the money to purchase the same being obtained from water revenue. This material will be on hand to start laying as soon as weather permits. It is intended to expend an additional amount of $1,000,000 for the extension of the high pressure fire service.

A second emergency wagon and crew, with gate-operating mechanism, will be established this year and the co-operation of the Fire Department and the metropolitan water organization enlisted for emergencies of breaks in mains, hydrants or other services and costly failures in the water system.

The reorganization of the Income Branch has resulted in a very great increase in the revenue, through the collection of unpaid bills running back to 1918 by the use of the shut-off for delinquents.

It is estimated that a total of $500,000 has been lost to the city because of transfers of property, the accumulated water bills upon which, in most cases for political purposes, has not been paid for a period of three years.

With a view to protecting the city, it is my purpose to enforce the shut-off system for persons failing to pay and, in addition, urge the passage by the legislature of a bill which has been presented making water bills a lien upon real estate.

Paving Service.

During the year 1922, 225,000 square yards of permanent paving was laid, special provision being made for radial highways, including Chelsea street, the great northern artery, Blue Hill avenue to the Milton line, and Huntington avenue to the Brookline line. Commendable progress has been made on Stuart street, the retaining wall being completed and the section between Huntington avenue and Dartmouth street made passable for traffic, while the section from Washington street to Park square, including the widening of Eliot street, has been repaved.

An unexpected burden, the result of a legislative act adopted twenty-five years ago, was imposed on the city beginning June 10, 1922, and which provides that the City of Boston construct the area between the Street Railway tracks which was formerly taken care of by the Boston Elevated Street Railway Company.

The consolidation of the South End and North End yards should result in increased efficiency in the operation of these districts with a resultant economy.

BOSTON SANATORIUM.

The splendid results achieved by the City of Boston in combating the dreaded scourge, tuberculosis, is apparent from a study of the figures submitted covering a five-year period, 1918-22, inclusive.

The total number of deaths in 1918 from tuberculosis was 1,186, 966 in 1919, 821 in 1920, 760 in 1921 and but 722 in 1922. While it is true that there has been a marked decrease in the deaths from tuberculosis the entire country over, it has been more in evidence in New England, and greater in the City of Boston than elsewhere, being largely due to the splendid work of the Boston Sanatorium, a pioneer municipal institution in the combating of this dreaded scourge.

The introduction of occupational therapy, under the direction of two trained professional teachers, is now well established in a workshop where sunlight and an abundance of room make conditions so ideal that the mental attitude of the patients has been entirely changed and this, in a large measure, has been a material contributing factor in the restoration to health.

The appointment during 1922 of a resident pathologist renders possible a more intensive study of the means of determining the origin and the treatment necessary for the cure of tuberculosis, while the appointment of a social worker to follow up discharge cases is proving of inestimable benefit. The most important need of the institution at the present time is an outpatient department which should be provided at the earliest possible opportunity.

FINANCIAL SITUATION.

A new system of accounting, which necessitated assuming a burden of $2,344,732.64—approximately two months of invoices and one month of monthly pay rolls—incurred by the previous administration, was proposed by the present City Auditor at the time I took office. Although the change should have been made in one of the previous years when the books showed a surplus of approximately $4,000,000, I felt that the issue might as well be met one time as another and accordingly consented to the change, believing the ultimate benefit to the city should outweigh the handicap imposed on my administration. Any surplus shown at the end of the present financial year will be a true surplus and will have no lien upon it of outstanding bills or pay rolls. A bill has been introduced by me in the Legislature to permit the Mayor and City Council to fix the tax limit from time to time, and it may be possible that the city will be relieved of the necessity of begging the Legislature each year for authority to conduct its ordinary activities.

REPORT OF BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Charles F. D. Belden, Librarian of the Public Library of the City of Boston, has presented a report on the activities of the Library Department for the month of January, 1923:

During the month there were ordered for the Boston Public Library system 1,031 volumes. The marked decrease of material ordered during January, compared with all the other months of the year, is owing to the fact that the book appropriation was nearly exhausted and it was therefor unfortunately necessary to "hold back." During the same period 4,570 volumes were received and accessioned. Periodicals, current and others, to the number of 2,351 were received and recorded. During the month, ten auction catalogues containing 407 titles were examined. Gifts of 1,117 volumes and 892 serials were received and acknowledged to 612 donors. Foreign invoices during the month numbered five, as follows: Dutch, 1; English, 2; French, 1; Italian, 1.

Exhibitions.—The exhibitions relating to the art of stained glass, consisting largely of designs owned by Mr. Connick, continued through the first week of the New Year. On January 8 there was installed an exhibition of early American arts; on January 21 an exhibition of colored plates relating to Ancient Egypt, of timely interest owing to the recent remarkable discoveries made in the Valley of the Tombs of the Kings. During the same week—the National Drama Week—there was exhibited older works about the theater, histories of the American stage, portraits, prints, and eleven original large drawings by Eric Pape for stage settings for the Chinese play, "The Flame of Love." During the same week Prof. E. Charlton Black gave his lecture on "Shakespeare in the 20th Century" and there was published as a supplement to our Weekly List of New Books, a ten-book list entitled, "Collections of Plays."

Publications.—During the month there have been issued four weekly pamphlets of books added to the Public Library and supplements consisting of ten-book lists as follows: Mathematics for the general reader; Dancing; Collections of plays (noted above); Ancient Egypt, Volume II, Number 4 of Library Life, the staff bulletin of the Boston Public Library, was issued on January 15. Two additional bibliographies for the use of library employees taking the course on reference work were issued, as follows: Books for debaters; directories.

On January 22, after fourteen years of service, Dr. Alexander Mann severed his connection with the library as trustee and President of the Board. On January 2, at a special meeting of the Boston Public Library Employees' Association, Doctor Mann was presented, on behalf of the association by its president, with a large colored and framed reproduction of Abbey's "Round Table," and with suitable resolutions which had been unanimously adopted. At a meeting of the Board of Trustees on January 12, the last meeting at which Doctor Mann was present, on motion of Judge Murray, the librarian was requested to represent the Board at the consecration of Doctor Mann as Bishop of Pittsburgh, on January 26. The librarian was glad to accede to the request of the Board and went to Pittsburgh at his own expense.

Inclosed will also be found a reprint of the Free Public Lectures offered in the Lecture Hall of the Central Library, Copley square, covering the dates from February 4 to May 14, inclusive. Appended may be found the usual tables of statistics covering the month.

GREAT RECEPTION TO ADMIRAL BENSON.

The City of Boston and the United Spanish War Veterans will extend a rousing welcome to Rear Admiral William S. Benson, U. S. N., retired, and now commissioner of the United States Shipping Board, when he visits Boston and delivers an address at Faneuil Hall, upon the twenty-fifth anniversary of the sinking of the U.S.S. "Maine," upon Thursday, February 15.

Admiral Benson is one of the most popular men in the naval life of his country during the present generation. He was born in Macon, Ga., in 1855, and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1877. His service since then has been even more varied and spectacular than falls to the lot of most officers in that service. During his forty-seven years active duty he saw twenty-two years and nine months of sea duty. His first assignment was Admiral Farragut's old flagship the U.S.S. "Hartford." Upon January 1, 1879, he joined the U.S.S. "Essex," commanded at that time by Commander William Scott Schley, who later at Santiago earned everlasting fame during the destruction of Admiral Cervera's Spanish fleet. In May, 1879, this ship was in European waters, and Ensign Benson was ordered back to Annapolis, via England, to take his final examination after his two years' sea service. After his examinations he was sent to the U.S.S. "Constitution," then in service as a training ship, and stayed upon this vessel until July, 1881. During this time he made a cruise through the West Indies, stopping some time at Colon. This cruise was the last active duty of "Old Ironsides."

Admiral Benson, after six months' service ashore at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, joined the U.S.S. "Alliance" and was transferred to the U.S.S. "Yantic" in the spring of 1882. In 1884 this ship made the famous Greeley Arctic relief expedition. Lieut. A. W. Greely, U.S.N., was a captain in the Union Army from Massachusetts during the Civil War, and later joined the navy, and in 1881 was sent out in the Lady Franklin Bay expedition. They lost their ship, and when rescued at Littleton's Island, late in 1884, well up in the Arctic Seas, but few of the crew had survived and the rest were very near to death. For this heroic service Admiral Benson received the acclaim of the nation.

After the return of the "Yantic" the Admiral had several months' duty with the Naval Advisory Board in Boston, and then went to the Hydrographic office at Baltimore. During 1886 and 1887 he was attached to the Fish Commission steamer "Albatross," and charted the Atlantic seaboard, the West Indies and the Grand Banks fishing grounds. In January, 1888, he joined the U.S.S. "Dolphin," and after a short cruise in Caribbean waters, made the trip to the Pacific through the Straits of Magellan, and after some time in that ocean made a cruise around the world, arriving in New York in October, 1889. Admiral Benson cruised on the Atlantic Station until the summer of 1890, and was then ordered to the Naval Academy at Annapolis as instructor in seamanship, naval tactics and naval architecture and after three years there he put in three years' service in coast survey and then three more years in the Naval Academy as instructor in the same branches.

Early in 1898 Admiral Benson was ordered to the U.S.S. "Chicago," one of the finest of the White Squadron, the foundation of the modern naval force of the United States. This tour of duty took him upon a cruise through the Mediterranean, Suez Canal, Red Sea and Indian Ocean, and along the east coast of Africa and Madagascar to Cape Town. Just at this time Admiral Cervera sailed from Spain with the second "Armada," and his destination was unknown. Captain Clark brought the U.S.S. "Oregon" around the Horn in record breaking time, and was in at the death.

The next four years Admiral Benson was flag lieutenant to the commander-in-chief of the North Atlantic Squadron, on board the U.S.S. "New York" and "Kearsage," and later returned to the Naval Academy as senior assistant to the commandant. In the autumn of 1903 he was detailed as executive officer of the U.S.S. "Iowa," until his promotion to commander in 1905, when he went to Charlestown, S. C., as light-house inspector for the sixth district.

In June, 1907, Admiral Benson returned to the Naval Academy again, this time as commandant of midshipmen, and took the boys on the cruise of the practice squadron in 1908, after which he was sent to the Pacific Station and made commander of the U.S.S. "Albany," another of the White Squadron beauties. In July, 1909, he was promoted to captain, detached from the "Albany" and made chief of staff of the Pacific Fleet, until February, 1910, when he returned to the Atlantic coast, and commanded the U.S.S. "Missouri" for a few months, and then the U.S.S. "Utah" for over two years. At this time the U.S.S. "Utah" was the largest dreadnought afloat in any navy. Leaving the "Utah" he went to Philadelphia, as commandant of the League Island Navy Yard in 1913, and from there was ordered to Washington in May, 1915.

President Woodrow Wilson appointed Admiral Benson chief of naval operations on May 11, 1915, and later sent him to confer with the Allied Powers of Europe during the year 1917 relative to our naval operations abroad. He was appointed the naval representative of the United States to draw up naval terms for armistice with Germany and the Central Powers, and served also as adviser to the American Commission which assembled at Versailles to negotiate peace. He returned to the United States and continued as chief of naval operations until September 25, 1919, when he retired by operation of law after forty-seven years' active naval service, and was recommended by former President Wilson to be made permanent admiral for life. He was awarded the Distinguished Medal of Congress in 1919, and also holds the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor of France and the Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George.

DIRECT CABLE TO LONDON.

Mayor Curley addressed the following cable message to London upon the opening of direct service:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.
February 7, 1923.

To the Rt. Hon. Edward Cecil Moore,
Lord Mayor of London, London, England:

YOUR LORDSHIP.—It is with pleasure that the citizens of Boston exchange greetings with the city of London through this first direct cable connecting our two cities.

I believe that I bespeak the unanimous wish of all Bostonians when I say that it is my sincere hope that the friendly greetings this day exchanged will be the unfailing rule through this newest and most direct method of communication.

With the most cordial official and personal expression of good wishes, believe me,

Yours most sincerely,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

BOSTON FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, January 30, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—The Finance Commission of the City of Boston has made a study of certain contracts awarded during eleven months of the present fiscal year by the Public Works Department, the Park Department, the Fire Department, the Supply Department, the Health Department and the Schoolhouse Department of the City of Boston.

Under section 30 of the charter amendments every officer or board in charge of a department of the city, when about to do any work or make any purchase, the estimated cost of which amounts to or exceeds $1,000, shall invite proposals by advertisement in the City Record, unless given authority by the Mayor to do otherwise. The advertisement for such proposals shall reserve the right to the officer or board to reject any or all proposals.

The manifest purpose of this provision is to obtain for the city the benefit of competition in prices on labor and material contracted for by the City in excess of $1,000. The provision that the city may reject any or all bids or proposals is to safeguard the city against collusive bidding, excessive costs or obviously incompetent or irresponsible bidders. Under this charter provision, therefore, the lowest bidders should be awarded the contracts that are submitted to public competition, unless it can be shown that the best interests of the city would not be served by so doing.

At a meeting of your Honor, the Commissioner of Public Works and the Finance Commission early last year, your Honor directed the Commissioner of Public Works, and stated it as a policy of his administration, that all contracts submitted to public competition should be awarded to the lowest bidder, regardless of whether it appeared to the officer or board awarding the contract that the price was too low to enable the bidder to carry out the contract, because the city's interests would be protected under the bond of the contractor.

Of the total of sixty-three contracts awarded to others than the lowest bidders, the Finance Commission's consulting engineer believes that the official reasons given for the award deserve some degree of adverse criticism in forty-one cases, as considered in his report herewith appended. Failure to award these forty-one contracts to the lowest bidders necessitated an increased payment by the city of approximately $69,129.67.

From the report of its consulting engineer the Finance Commission has selected twenty-two contracts that were open to public competition and not awarded to the lowest bidder, and has considered the reasons given—where reasons were given—for not awarding to the lowest bidder. These reasons given the commission believes were not the true reasons.

Four of the twenty-two contracts referred to were awarded to other than the lowest bidders because, it was stated, the lowest bidders were inexperienced. One of these contracts was for sewerage work. In this case the commission believes from the evidence before it that the lowest bidder was of greater experience than the second bidder, to whom the contract was awarded.

Another contract of this group was for building catch-basins, one of the simplest operations in connection with the construction of sewers, and in which the lowest bidder had ample experience.

In another case the lowest bidder was rejected because of inexperience, notwithstanding the fact that he has for several years been doing similar work for the City of Boston and since the rejection of his bid because of inexperience he has been awarded five contracts by the same department for similar work.

Another low bidder was rejected for inexperience, although he is an old and experienced contractor in the City of Boston, whose financial resources were ample for the purpose of the contract.

In two cases the lowest bidders were rejected because the price was too low.

It would seem that if the head of a department is to determine whether the bid is too low to guarantee the performance of the contract, the giving of a guaranty bond by a contractor is an unnecessary requirement. The commission believes that when a head of a department becomes solicitous of the financial interests of a bidder the city's interests are likely to be neglected. These two cases are examples of this attitude on the part of the Commissioner of Public Works. In one of the cases where the head of the department thought the bid was too low the firm making the bid is one of the most experienced general contractors now doing business in the Commonwealth and of large financial resources. This sort of solicitude of the head of the Public Works Department for the interests of bidders in these two cases necessitated the payment by the city of $3,764.50 more than if the contracts had been awarded to the lowest bidders.

In three other cases the lowest bidders were rejected because they had other city work. In one of these cases the lowest bidder had previously been rejected because of inexperience. Later he was awarded five similar city contracts and again when he was the lowest bidder he was rejected because he had other city work. In all three cases the lowest bidder could have easily taken the contract without delaying his other city work and without delaying the performance of the contract for which he was the lowest bidder.

Five of these contracts were awarded to other than the lowest bidders without assigning any reason therefor. In one of these five cases the lowest bidder had indicated in his bid that he was to sublet a large part of the work to one of the competitors, yet that competitor, whose bid was $3,233 higher than the lowest bid, was awarded the contract.

In another case the lowest bidder was a contractor of long experience and unquestioned skill and of ample financial responsibility; yet the contract was awarded to the fifth lowest bidder at a higher price to the city of $1,165. In another case where no reason for the rejection of the lowest bidder was given the successful bidder was the Alco Contracting Company, one of the newest companies in city contracting business, organized during the early part of 1922. The lowest bidder had had a greater amount of experience in building similar work and was financially responsible.

Another group of eight contracts for removing snow from the city's streets at a price per cubic yard was awarded to other than the lowest bidders and approved by your Honor on the following statement of the Commissioner of Public Works:

"These contractors have been selected in accordance with the general policy of this department to give work to those best qualified to do it, provided the price is considered fair and reasonable."

This statement is significant, not only in connection with this group of contracts, but with other contracts considered in this report. It is a frank acknowledgment that the policy of the head of the Public Works Department is not to award contracts to the lowest bidders.

All of the lowest bidders in this competition were qualified to do the work. The policy of the head of the Public Works Department with reference to this group of contracts seems to have been to select a favorite bidder whose price was higher than that of the lowest bidders.

The financial loss to the city in awarding these contracts while serious enough is not more serious than the reputation which the city is acquiring of disregarding the rights of the lowest bidders in awarding contracts to persons, firms or companies on a basis of favoritism.

Responsible and efficient contractors have already refused and will continue in greater number to refrain to bid on city work as they see this tendency grow.

The Finance Commission recommends:

1. That your Honor demand an explanation of the officers and boards in charge of departments for neglecting the best interests of the city in the matter of these contract awards.
2. That the policy of awarding contracts to the lowest responsible bidder, which your Honor stated to the Finance Commission early in the present fiscal year was to be the policy of your administration, be adhered to.

Respectfully submitted,

MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman,

CHARLES L. CARL,
COURTENAY GUILD,
JOHN F. MOORS,
J. WALDO POND,
The Finance Commission.

Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Department of Public Works, addressed the following communication to the Boston Finance Commission, upon the 3d instant:

Boston, February 3, 1923.

BOSTON FINANCE COMMISSION, TREMONT Building, Boston:

DEAR SIRS,—In reply to your letter of January 30, addressed to his Honor the Mayor, criticising the award of contracts in the Public Works Department to others than the low bidders, the following is submitted:

The policy adopted by the Commissioner of Public Works was to award contracts at a fair price to those best qualified to do the work also that the bid price would show a profit over the estimated cost as ascertained by the various services; that the contractor had sufficient resources to take a loss in case of an unforeseen contingency; that he had a good record on city work, and that he was honest in his financial dealings. It was also decided that of prime importance was the completion of the various jobs, and (towards the close of the season) to select contractors not engaged to capacity in the prosecution of other work for the city. In accordance with the above requirements for the lowest responsible bidders, practically all the contracts listed by your commission were awarded.

Few, if any, private concerns or individuals award contracts for work to the lowest bidders, irrespective of record of financial ability, and advertising for bids, as is the city's custom, does not in the judgment of the commissioner abrogate his privilege of acting as a private concern would (and within his legal rights) by awarding the contract to the lowest responsible bidder, when in his judgment it would not be for the city's interest to accept the nominally lowest bidder.

Your commission unfairly intimates that the city is oversolicitous for the financial interest of the bidder. The city is primarily interested in getting first-class work and having the jobs completed with reasonable dispatch, and to obtain this a small increase in the cost of work is absolutely justified. The idea that the low bidder should always be accepted irrespective of his moral responsibility, and that the city should trust to his indemnity bond for all the rest, is not good business policy. The purpose of a bond is to provide against possible unforeseen difficulties with an accepted contractor of established standing, and it is not for the purpose of having the city make a profit at the expense of a contractor whose bid may be so low as to indicate his eagerness to do city work but his incapacity to anticipate its cost and difficulties.

Towards the close of the season low bidders were disregarded in several instances because the commissioner knew that they had all the work they could do for the season, and we think our judgment in this matter is superior to that of the Finance Commission and its advisers, who in many instances may themselves be disappointed contractors.

The commissioner also feels some obligations to supply firms expected in ordinary course to extend credit to selected contractors. During the past year, in six contracts within the present knowledge of the writer that were awarded to the lowest bidders, supply firms are owed large sums of money, for the payment of which the forfeited bonds are not available, nor are the reserved payments on estimates under the contracts sufficient to make up their claims.

We have other cases where the accepted low bidders, after the work has progressed, complain to the division engineers or to the commissioner that they are losing money and want extra allowances. This in the case of poor contractors is embarrassing from the human standpoint. One instance of this occurred early in the year, when a low bidder who was at first refused the award consulted legal counsel and your commission, and to your importunities his Honor yielded and he was finally given the job. Later this contractor came to my office and asked for extra allowance, but without result. He has not bid since, as far as I know; he has a large family and his savings were lost on the job. If he had not received the award, his contract would have been one of those listed in your report. Is it not possible to expect that your commission would look for something besides money saved the city in such cases. In fact, in such cases the bond is often inadequate to compensate the city for its losses.

A contractor having three jobs as lowest bidder recently went into in-solveny, leaving on our hands an uncompleted street and owing supply firms for materials. The writer was reluctant to award these contracts to him, but did so principally because in two of these incidents the second low bidder, both men of demonstrated responsibility, were known friends of his Honor the Mayor, and this fact would have provoked your unmerited and public criticism of the Mayor and myself.

It is not the policy of the commissioner to select favorites at higher prices, but to remove from competition those whose bids are too low to permit them doing good work at a fair profit and to compel all bidders to come in at such a price as will permit this to be done. With very few exceptions, all city contractors have confidence in the fairness of the commissioner.

Your report states "failure to award these forty-one contracts to the lowest bidders necessitated an increased payment by the city of approximately $69,129.67." This is but your usual phantom saving and if your low bidders had been selected in every case the city would have lost through extras, inferior workmanship, poor materials and delayed construction a much greater amount.

We will discuss your seemingly individual increased payments, in which the real reasons for rejection of low bidders will be given the publicity which at this time is due because of your report.

No. 24, Dorchester avenue, $6,999, an important and busy roadway from Summer street to the Dorchester Avenue Bridge. The lowest bidder, at the time of the award, had an uncompleted contract and a business reputation which we believed not quite as your report represents. In our opinion he could not possibly have done the work within the time limited, nor carried the heavy pay rolls required for this job. At the time of the award a "supposed" concrete base installed years before by his firm on a paving job was dug up by the department forces and found far short of specification requirements. This false work caused great maintenance expense to the department and inconvenience to the public using a busy roadway. It is estimated that the early completion of Dorchester avenue effected a very substantial saving to the owners of vehicles who otherwise would have had to detour. It also afforded a new snow dump during this winter's crisis, of inestimable value to the city. Your low bidder would be still putting-in on the job of paving.

No. 10, high pressure water pipes (we suppose you intend "high service water pipes"), $7,976.90; and

No. 18, Paving Brookline avenue, $3,233.10. Your low bidder was thrown out because of his record (well known to the writer) while in the city's employ. We intend not to risk the city's money in payments to such an unscrupulous contractor; and wish now, in reply to your imputation, to assure your commission that the writer has never allowed personal animosities to interfere with the proper conduct of the city's business. We shall discuss your low bidder's rise to a contractor's status through favors of the previous administration upon the receipt of your special report on No. 18, paving Brookline avenue.

No. 17, pavement, Blue Hill avenue, $11,321.80. This contract was awarded to the low bidder for the type of pavement selected; this stretch of pavement extending from Talbot avenue to Mattapan square, comprising 41,000 square yards of roadway, was started in August and was completed at the close of the season—a remarkable achievement.

Contrast this with the paving of three streets under the last administration, comprising practically the same yardage of similar material, which took two years to complete in order to permit the favored contractor to take a larger profit through reduced prices for labor and materials during the second year. Had Blue Hill avenue been awarded to the low bidder for asphalt it would easily have gone into the next year. We refrain from discussing at this time the obsession of your commission, an unreasoned antipathy for the Warrenite bitulithic type of pavement, and do not hesitate to state that personal animosity among your office force may possibly have influenced it to a larger extent than any personal preference in this office.

Nos. 4, 9, 14 and 25, "all variations and subterfuges for the Drinkwater Company." This company was awarded No. 1 on account of the non-citizenship of the low bidder, on March 24. The commissioner later found out that this concern had a contract for Mother Brook Bridge, Hyde Park avenue, at a cost of $11,250, in connection with which the total of claims filed against this company for labor and materials furnished amounted to $6,611.57. This justified the opinion of the commissioner that it was financially irresponsible and should be given no consideration. The Bevilacqua mentioned in No. 4 is a young man, possibly twenty or twenty-one years of age, who acts as timekeeper on the Drinkwater jobs.

No. 20, Boardman street, East Boston. The low bidder in this case, and also on other contracts during the past year on which he was among the lower bidders, defaulted on a contract awarded him in 1921, in connection with which the bonding company was finally called upon to make up the difference in cost. This only partly recompensed the city. Many complaints had come from residents on the streets where granolithic sidewalks had been torn up and which should have been replaced months before had this contractor fulfilled his contract obligations to the city. This situation was thoroughly understood by the contractor at that time and he was told he would be given a fair chance this year. We now hold his check for $1,800, having defaulted on a proposal recently made by him. His future in this office does not appear promising.

Snow removal. There was no financial loss in awarding the snow removal contracts you instance. Every contractor for the last three weeks picking up ice in city streets stands to lose considerable money. With one exception, snow removal contracts were awarded, as your commission must admit, to the best contractors of acknowledged responsibility and whose record for good work on all city contracts is unquestioned. The one mistake the writer did make was the award made for one particular district to the low bidder. His record on this work is such as to preclude our further consideration of him; he was given an important district on account of the fact that he had a greater truck equipment than many of the other contractors, but his work up to date has been disappointing. We repeat that the only mistake was in awarding one district to the lowest bidder.

Limited time and space precludes our discussing the other contracts, and it is hoped that this office may be spared the trouble of digging up our records to refute the unfounded accusations in reports submitted by your commission, that may have personal or political effect but no real financial advantage to the city.

In conclusion, we desire to refer to a method of remunerating low and favored contract bidders by the Public Works Department and Transit Department under the preceding administration of Mayor Peters, which seems to have escaped your observation or at least your published criticism. Contracts were often extended, in some instances to 20 per cent of the original contract. A particularly striking example is the Arlington Street Subway Station, where through a change of location the amount of extra work, at cost plus 15 per cent, was $233,052, or 50 per cent of the original contract low bidder's price. We hope that your commission will not be called upon to criticize the present commissioner for any such favoritism towards contractors and the banking interests who may be supporting them.

Yours very truly,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

THE WATER REVENUE.

His Honor the Mayor received the following communication from Joseph A. Rourke, Commissioner of the Public Works Department, upon the 5th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON.
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS,
February 5, 1923.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

The water revenue for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1923, amounted to $3,791,948 (the largest amount ever collected), as against $3,473,059 collected in 1921-22. The increased collections, amounting to $318,889, were obtained principally through the use of the shut-off in the collection of bills extending back through several years, in many cases on the same premises. The previous administration made little or no effort to collect these bills and did not follow up delinquents, so collections went by default and it became generally known to unscrupulous owners that such was the case, and the amounts due the city increased and accumulated.

The new policy of increased collections resulted from the reinstatement last June of Mr. P. G. Finnerty, who had been suspended by the previous Commissioner of Public Works, Thomas F. Sullivan. In one specific instance $7,200 was owed by a prominent individual, and in a case recently brought to the attention of the Law Department, and where a transfer had occurred, there was owed the city $2,378 by the executors of the estate, one of whom is very prominent in public affairs, the total being an accumulation of quarterly bills extending back to 1917.

Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.

HONOR FOR MRS. SHEEHAN.

Mrs. Carrie F. Sheehan, the first woman deputy election commissioner of this country, will represent the City of Boston at the inauguration of the Governor of New Hampshire. Mrs. Sheehan will be the guest of Governor Brown.

INDORSEMENT OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The Chamber of Commerce committee on municipal and metropolitan affairs will support at the State House Mayor Curley's bill asking legislative authorization to borrow $2,800,000 outside the city debt limit for the widening of Cambridge and Court streets.

This widening, talked of for years, would create a broader new highway in and out of Boston connecting with points to the west and north, it is claimed, and would stimulate commercial development if put through.

The committee so voluntarily informed Mr. Curley in a letter following a thorough study of nine projects of this kind for which he asks authorization.

The Exchange-street widening proposed by the Mayor has much to commend it also, the committee believes,
"but," it says, "the same strong support and overwhelming arguments cannot be found for it as for the Cambridge-Court streets proposal.

"The Cambridge-Court streets widening would be fundamental and necessary, an important part of any broadgauged city plan which might be adopted.
There is practical unanimity of opinion among students of the problem that it is urgently needed. It would not only serve traffic over the West Boston Bridge; it would relieve the traffic now passing on either side of the Common or Public Garden."

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

H. J. Kresser, Burkhardt Corporation,
Prentiss and Parker streets, Roxbury,
in the amount of $40.22, as compensation for damage to his automobile caused by being struck by city of Boston automobile on the Fenway, December 5, 1922.

William Howard, 56 Conant street,
Roxbury, in the amount of $75, as compensation for damage to automobile caused by city truck on Eliot street, city proper, October 29, 1922.

The Boston & Albany Railroad, in the amount of $2,000, as compensation for damages on account of the widening of Clarendon street, Back Bay.

Leo Golden, petitioner, in the amount of $500, as compensation for damages on account of the taking made for school purposes in Paris court, East Boston.

Christine Johnson, by John F. Johnson, 93 Draper street, Dorchester, in the amount of $185, as full payment for land taken, all rights acquired and all damages occasioned to her estate on Homes avenue, Dorchester, by the laying out and construction of said avenue, Draper street to Mt. Ida road.

Katherine C. McGrath, as guardian and per se, estate of Frederick McGrath, by her attorney, Joseph A. Conway, in the amount of $2,700, as full payment for land taken, all rights acquired, and all damages occasioned to her estate on Chelsea street, East Boston, by the widening of said street.

NO CARS IN AUDUBON ROAD.

The Commissioners of the Park Department have unanimously voted leave to withdraw on the petition of the Boston Elevated Railway Company's plan to lay car tracks upon Audubon Road, Back Bay.

This is the second rejection of the Elevated's petition by the Park Department in a little more than a year.
Chairman James B. Shea said the department gave this second petition as careful consideration as it did the first, but voted it to be against public policy to permit trolleys to enter this section of the park system.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 10.

I. RETURN OF CLOTHING AND OTHER DEPARTMENT PROPERTY.

When members resign or are retired from service, all department property in their possession must be turned in before their final salary will be released. Deputy Chiefs and other commanding officers of districts will see to it that these instructions are fully understood and complied with.

II. NEW CLOTHING FORMS.

On and after February 1, 1923, all applications for clothing will be made on Blue Form No. 23-A, and those for repairs to clothing on Yellow Form 23-B. All questions appearing on these forms must be fully answered and the badge number of the applicant shown thereon.

All old typewritten application forms which were heretofore used should be destroyed.

III. NEW UNIFORM REEFER FOR CHIEFS' CHAUFFEURS.

All concerned are hereby notified that the first chauffeur assigned to the Fire Commissioner, Chief of Department, Deputy Chiefs and District Chiefs will make application on Form 23-A for a uniform reefer. This reefer is to be worn in place of the regular uniform overcoat while operating the car.

IV. DOMESTIC OIL HEATING APPARATUS.

The following is a list of the devices which have been approved by the State Fire Marshal for use in this state and which come under the regulations he has issued on domestic oil heating apparatus:

Caloroil, Petroleum Heat and Power Company; Ballard Domestic, Ballard Oil Burning Equipment Company; No-Kol, Boston Domestic Oil Heating Company; Aetna, Aetna Oil Heating Company; Domestic Heater, Boston Vapor Heating Company.

The following data has been received from the Domestic Oil Heating Company, regarding their No-Kol Automatic Heater and tanks up to 275 gallons above ground:

"As to the necessity of putting a control electric switch for the motor near the door, while we will gladly do same, we do not think it is necessary for the following reasons:

"If we have the oil valve at the tank controlled by a means from the entrance to the heater room, there cannot be any more flow of oil to the burner. The operation of the motor then becomes unimportant, as no fire can be maintained if the oil is shut off at the tank. In addition to this, the motor can be shut down from the controlling thermostat, which already acts as a remote control for the motor.

"In addition to the above, we would like to call your attention to the automatic safety device with which all No-Kol machines are equipped, located in the machine. This safety device is so arranged that if for any reason there should be an excessive flow of oil to the burner, or failure of the pilot light, the oil being pumped to the combustion chamber of the burner will return to the safety drip pan and trip same. In tripping, this safety device cuts off both the electricity to the motor and the oil supply to the burner, consequently, we feel that by providing a remote control of the oil valve at the tank it is impossible for any damage to be done, should a fire occur in the heater room or pit of the heater room."

V. CORRECTIONS.

The following corrections should be made in General Orders recently issued:

No. 7.—Subject: Examination for Promotion. Under paragraph 4, page 2, maximum credit allowed for service as Aide-to-Chief should read "3" instead of "5."

No. 9.—Subject: Hearing. Date should read January 30, "1923" instead of "1922."

All copies of the above-mentioned orders will be changed accordingly.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

General Order No. 11.

I. BOSTON FIREMEN'S RELIEF FUND.

The Board of Trustees of the Boston Firemen's Relief Fund wish to call the attention of the members of the department to the following matters:

A free bed is maintained for use of the members at each of the following hospitals: Carney Hospital, Massachusetts General Hospital, Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

These beds are for the use of members who are injured in the performance of duty and for members who can trace any ailment, injury or sickness to an injury received in the performance of duty, provided there is a record of same with the Medical Examiner of the department. Admittance to these beds is direct from fires or place where injury is received, and without any admittance slip. Otherwise members who desire to use these beds shall first obtain permission from the Medical Examiner to do so, and he shall make arrangements with the hospital for the reception of the members who request the use of the beds.

In order that the applications of members to the relief fund for relief may receive consideration, members who require special treatment, the services of a specialist, X-ray pictures, surgical appliances, etc., shall before contracting any bills for services of this nature, make application to the Medical Examiner for permission to do so. The Medical Examiner will issue a permission slip to the applicant and this slip must be signed by one of the Surgical Committee of the relief fund. The Medical Examiner will inform the applicant the name and company of member of the Surgical Committee who will sign the permission slip, he having a knowledge of the days off of the members of the committee, and thus will save the applicant considerable needless running around. The orders and instructions of the Medical Examiner and the members of the Surgical Committee shall be strictly followed, as the Board of Trustees have agreements as to the cost of X-raying, surgical appliances and special treatment with reputable firms and persons. Any bill contracted in excess of the amount allowed by the Board will be contracted at the expense of the member who contracted same.

II. MEETINGS OF THE BOARD OF MERIT.

The meetings of the Board of Merit will be held on the second Monday of each month at Department Headquarters, unless otherwise ordered.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

PNEUMONIA.

By FRANCIS X. MAHONEY, M. D., Health Commissioner.

We are now in what might be called the open season for pneumonia. Pneumonia ranks with cardiovascular diseases and tuberculosis as one of the chief causes of death in this part of the country. Moreover, deaths from pneumonia are probably tending to increase. Pneumonia is a disease not only of human beings but of animals. It is comparatively common in domestic animals and is very frequently found in the rats collected by the Boston Health Department trappers in connection with the antiplague work of the department.

The changes in the lungs to which we are accustomed to refer under the general term "pneumonia" may be brought about by a number of different organisms. Of these, the pneumococcus has probably been given the greatest amount of study. Four different so-called types of pneumococcus have been classified, each type apparently different in some essential respect from the other types and being capable of producing a pneumonia with more or less distinctive characteristics. More recently, particularly during the war, attention was especially directed to streptococci as a cause of pneumonia, particularly the hemolytic streptococcus. This organism seemed to be especially associated with the pneumonias causing the fatal termination in cases of influenza.

One important fact that we have learned in connection with our study of pneumonia is that all the common organisms which have been found capable of producing pneumonia, the four types of pneumococcus and the streptococci, including the hemolytic streptococcus, may be found in a virulent form in the mouths and throats of many people without apparently doing them any harm. It has also been found that if people whose mouths and throats are free from the organisms which may produce pneumonia are brought into more or less intimate association with people who are carrying such organisms in their mouths and throats, the newcomers tend very rapidly to acquire these organisms also.

Whether or not a person who carries the Type III. pneumococcus or the hemolytic streptococcus, apparently the most dangerous form of streptococcus, indefinitely in his throat without apparent harm, is absolutely immune to any ill effects from these organisms, as a person may be immune to the infective agent of smallpox, or whether such a person simply possesses a very high degree of resistance to the dangerous possibilities of such organisms, is open to question. Practically, however, in considering measures for the protection of the health of human beings, it is unsafe to assume such absolute immunity on the part of anyone. Time after time, practical experience on ship-board and in barracks and elsewhere where human beings are being handled in considerable numbers, it has been demonstrated that whenever persons who are free from pneumonia producing organisms are brought in close association with persons carrying such organisms actual cases of pneumonia tend to become frequent. Under such circumstances an epidemic may even develop, comparable in its fatality, to an epidemic of pneumonic plague. About fifteen years ago, a new ship supposed to represent in steerage accommodations the latest features in naval architecture left Antwerp for New York. One steerage compartment of this ship was occupied by about 150 strong, healthy, young Slavs, mostly Slovaks and Poles. The ship arrived in New York with over fifty cases of pneumonia from this compartment, with a mortality of over 50 per cent. Similar experiences have not been uncommon. Practical experience would, therefore, seem to teach us that persons even in good health cannot without danger of serious consequences be brought in close association with carriers of organisms capable of producing pneumonia.

Long before bacteria were ever thought of in connection with pneumonia, it was well recognized that pneumonia was usually associated with physical exhaustion, that it was likely to occur in persons who had been subjected to unusual physical strain, perhaps coupled with exposure to cold and wet, or who were weakened by some acute or chronic disease or who had been deprived of customary sleep, or worn down by worry and other depressing mental influences. Nothing which has been discovered in more recent years regarding pneumonia has tended to lessen the practical value of this old belief that pneumonia is essentially a disease of physical exhaustion.

It would seem that mixed vaccines made from various bacteria including pneumococci and streptococci have proved successful in lessening pneumonia in mortality in military life. It is to be presumed that such vaccines are capable of lessening the prevalence of pneumonia also in civil life. Whether they may do this by reason of some specific immunity which they confer upon individuals or whether they operate as a foreign protein in stimulating bodily resistance generally is a matter of discussion among bacteriologists, but however they may act there are many practical difficulties in the way of the widespread use of such vaccines as a means of protecting people generally against pneumonia. For the time being at least, we will have to rely chiefly on other measures for prevention. Such measures are the avoidance of everything which tends to physical exhaustion during the pneumonia season, for as far as we know, physical exhaustion alone may be sufficient to make the carrier of the virulent pneumococcus vulnerable to active infection by this organism. Likewise, it is to be inferred that an acute illness, even a cold, may be sufficient to so lower the resistance of the individual to a pneumonia producing organism that an acute fatal case of pneumonia may result. To this extent at least colds or any acute respiratory infections may be regarded as factors in predisposing to pneumonia. And they in turn may be regarded as the consequence of a respiratory mucous membrane superheated, dried out and devitalized and irritated by the dust and gaseous mixtures to be found in human habitations in the colder months of the year. Especially to be avoided is the bringing of persons who are not carriers of pneumonia producing organisms and who may be suffering from some acute illness into a hospital ward or elsewhere where they may come in close association with persons carrying pneumonia producing organisms. Danger from pneumonia is lessened by leaving a sick person by himself in his own home if possible rather than by putting him with other people in a hospital ward. The physical effort and possible exposure always involved in the transportation of a person seriously ill from his home to a hospital are in themselves also something to be avoided if practicable.

There would appear to be no specific treatment as yet discovered for pneumonia. Some years ago a serum was devised which was believed to be very efficacious in the treatment of pneumonia from the Type I. pneumococcus. While experience has apparently shown that this serum may prove valuable in some instances, the present opinion appears to be that it cannot be relied upon as a specific even in Type I. pneumonia. Other nonspecific sera have been used in pneumonia and it may be that the administration of such foreign proteins may tend to provoke bodily reactions which increase resistance to the disease.

In many cases of pneumonia the patient is practically doomed from the start. This is especially so in the aged and weak and persons already suffering from some other disease and may be so in the strong and vigorous. But in cases of pneumonia where the patient has a fighting chance, rest, physical and mental, is to be regarded as of vital importance. Here again practical experience seems to teach us that it may be less dangerous to leave a person with pneumonia neglected with respect to food or physical attention than to bundle him into a cold ambulance, jounce him around through the city on a winter day and finally land him in a stuffy over-heated hospital ward crowded with other patients.

SEALING OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES DEPARTMENT.

Boston, January 29, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,

Mayor of Boston:

SIR,—I respectfully request that a transfer be made on the budget of this department as follows:

From A-1, Two Deputies at $1,700, to A-1, Two Deputies at $1,600, $47.96; C-13, Tools and Hardware, $20.50.

Our original budget we asked for a total of $3,260.36 on the item A-1, Two Deputies at $1,600, anticipating the increase of one of the $1,600 men to $1,700, and continuing the second $1,600 at the same rate. The item was cut, however, to $3,015.92, which is $47.96 short for payment for the balance of the year of these two deputies. On the C-13 item the bill of $20.50 is a long outstanding bill which was contracted for during the fiscal year and must be settled before February 1, 1923.

Respectfully yours,

CHARLES B. WOOLLEY, Sealer.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH F. SULLIVAN,
Secretary.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

REINSTATEMENT OF DR. MULLOWNEY.

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner, addressed the following communication reinstating Dr. Patrick H. Mullaney in the Health Department, upon the 5th instant:

CITY OF BOSTON,
HEALTH DEPARTMENT,
February 5, 1923.

PATRICK H. MULLOWNEY, M. D., 1 Vista Street, Roslindale, Mass.:

DEAR SIR,—Respecting the specific charge brought by me against you on January 9, 1923, namely, disobedience of my orders to return to the Richmond Live Poultry Company certain goods and moneys; to wit, a turkey, box of cigars and $200 in money, sent to your home by the Richmond Live Poultry Company on December 21, 1922, I find that you failed to return the aforesaid articles as ordered by me. I also find, however, that you consulted the District Attorney's office in the matter and was advised to keep the same articles pending further advice from the District Attorney's office. Had I known of this fact you would not have been suspended and consequently no hearing would have been necessary. While I feel that you should have notified me that you were in consultation with the District Attorney's office and that it was on that account that you did not return the articles to the Richmond Live Poultry Company, I do not feel justified in continuing your suspension on that ground as such action might lead some persons to infer that you were guilty of receiving bribes. As I have always believed that you would not accept a bribe, I cannot take any action which might create a contrary impression. Therefore, I order your reinstatement, without loss of pay.

Very truly yours,

FRANCIS X. MAHONEY,
Commissioner.

STATEMENT OF THE MAYOR.

Mayor James M. Curley issued the following statement upon the 5th instant.

"Shortly after leaving Boston for a brief vacation, a certain evening publication began a series of attacks for the purpose of discrediting my administration, myself, and even the members of my household. Were I guilty of any of the charges made against me, I would be unfit to hold the office of Mayor.

"It would be useless to enter into a discussion of all the details contained in the various charges. I assure the people of Boston, however, upon my word of honor, that each and every charge that has been made is absolutely false. The best evidence that there is no truth in the charges is shown by the fact that neither the editor of the publication in question, nor the individual responsible for its present policy has submitted evidence to the district attorney for action by the Grand Jury.

"While I naturally appreciated the support this publication gave me in my campaign for the mayoralty, I am not unmindful of the fact, and neither can he be, that had he not espoused my cause his paper would have disappeared the day after election.

"Not content with the survival of his publication, he has reached out further by making demands which I could not honor with justice to the city, to illustrate."

"Many firms doing business with the City of Boston have, under one form of duress or another, been compelled to purchase space in this publication upon a contract basis as evidenced by the lists published each Saturday.

"From time to time during the year many concerns inquired of me whether it was true, as stated to them by the editor or his representatives, that if they failed to advertise in his publication they would be put upon the blacklist so far as future business with the city was concerned.

"To all who made inquiries, my answers were identical, namely: That advertising or failing to advertise in any publication had absolutely no bearing on the action that would be taken either by any head of department or by myself. The position taken by me upon this particular proposition unquestionably was distasteful and irritating to the editor of the publication in question.

"During the recent primary campaign for United States Senator, the editor of the publication in question waited upon me at the office of the Mayor and demanded that I request Sherman L. Whipple, then candidate for the nomination for the United States Senate, to contribute the sum of $50,000 for the support of his publication and, upon my refusal, he asked if I would request him to contribute $25,000. My answer was that I had agreed to support Mr. Whipple without pledge or promise, financially or otherwise, and that under the circumstances I could not submit his proposition to Mr. Whipple.

"The same character of campaign which has recently been used against me by this publication was then immediately inaugurated against Mr. Whipple.

"Shortly before Christmas, 1922, the personal representative of the editor in question waited upon me and informed me that it was the purpose of the publication to present a New Year's greeting to the people of Boston and that it would cost me $1,000 to wish them a happy New Year. I refused to submit to this holdup. Nevertheless, the greeting appeared in the center of a page surrounded by the advertisements of contractors, the majority of whom were bidders on city work.

"If the price of the continued support of my administration by this publication is dependent upon my tolerance of this editor's peculiar practices, which would mean the abandonment of every principal of decency and honor in government, then I welcome his opposition.

"The malice of the editor in question has found more artful and skilful expression in his attacks on my administration than the editor himself is capable of. Obviously, some one has assisted him in preparing the form of the attacks upon my administration. I am curious to know whether he has enlisted the aid of the once master mind of a sinister legal circle. If so, the combination would indeed be formidable, but not formidable enough to prevail against the truth."

THE QUESTION OF STANDPIPES.

In compliance with orders from the Fire Commissioner, Theodore A. Glynn, Chief John O. Taber, who is specially qualified because of his knowledge of this subject, appeared before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs on Friday, January 26, to be heard on the question of standpipes, to be included in the new building code, which is now being considered by the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

The chief's argument in the main was for the use of standpipes in buildings over seventy feet in height, and so standardize the standpipes, not alone to fight a fire within the building containing the standpipes, but also take care of any dangers due to exposure from adjacent buildings.

Furthermore, the standpipe to carry sufficiently on various floors within the building, or to make fire-fighting effective against adjoining buildings on fire, to use three or four lines, i. e., by attaching one or more engines to outside connections, and not only bringing the necessary volume, but also the necessary pressure within and without buildings on fire.

It is a law which prevails in all large cities and should be placed upon our statute books, particularly in view of the fact that the physical condition of our city is such—with narrow streets and buildings closely grouped—as to warrant the additional protection asked for. In a word, we call a great many of our thoroughfares streets which in reality should be called alleyways.

In speaking for this measure of the Fire Commissioner's, Chief Taber feels that he cannot speak too highly of the splendid assistance rendered by the Building Department, and it is worthy of notice that the Building and Fire Departments, by a continuance of the splendid co-operation thus far displayed, can obtain greater worthwhile results in the matter of good construction and efficient fire protection. Moreover, it is the intention of the Fire Commissioner to offer every possible assistance to all municipal departments having contact with the Boston Fire Department.

JANUARY LABOR REPORT.

According to the records of the Public Employment Office, 23-25 Pearl street, business during January was better than in the previous month and a decided improvement over January, 1922. The first two weeks were quiet as usual, owing to the stocktaking period and the inclement weather but the last two weeks showed considerable activity.

During the month 1,552 service men (1,096 soldiers and 456 sailors) visited the office looking for employment. Of this number 193 (128 soldiers and 65 sailors) accepted introduction cards to employers and 172 (116 soldiers and 56 sailors) secured employment.

MALE DEPARTMENT.

In the men's skilled department business was very quiet during the early part of the month, then became quite active. The building industry sent in calls for carpenters and painters which were quickly filled. The metal trades also showed activity, especially in the machinist's line. The calls were for all-round machinists, tool makers, lathe and bench hands. The demand for engineers and firemen has been good with a good supply of applicants; and positions were quickly filled. The shipyards are in need of skilled mechanics, especially machinists, acetylene welders, electricians and pipefitters.

The demand for able-bodied laborers has decreased considerably owing, no doubt, to the weather conditions and the number of applicants is increasing daily.

The demand for boys for errands, office and factory work continues good with a shortage of applicants suitable to the positions.

FEMALE DEPARTMENTS.

Business in the women's skilled department has shown more activity in all lines than for a year. There is a good demand for women workers in machine shops with a shortage of competent applicants. The needle trades are showing more activity especially for power stitchers on leather goods, children's dresses and aprons. The demand for attendants for state institutions is good with a supply that is not equal to the demand. In the women's unskilled department the demand for housework girls exceeds the supply. The call for day workers and cleaners has been good with an excellent supply.

The number of people called for by employers in January was 1,445 as compared with 928 in 1922, 1,080 in 1921, 2,436 in 1920, 2,249 in 1919 and 1,401 in 1918.

The number of positions reported filled in January was 1,166 as compared with 734 in 1922; 812 in 1921; 1,320 in 1920; 1,445 in 1919 and 1,152 in 1918.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 211.

The resignation of Patrolman Lawrence J. Beck of Division 14, having been presented while charges are pending against him, it is hereby accepted, to take effect as of Saturday, February 3, 1923, at 7:45 o'clock a. m. Seven days' notice waived.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Commissioner.

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commissioners announce examinations for desirable positions as follows:

POLICEWOMEN, FEBRUARY 21, 1923.

From the list established as a result of this examination, names will be certified to fill positions as they may occur in the various cities and towns in the state. Vacancies occur from time to time in the Boston Police Department, at an entrance salary of $1,400 a year, increasing $100 a year to a maximum of $1,800.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 4; report, 1; practical questions, 2; personality and fitness, as determined by an oral interview, 3; total, 10.

The practical questions will concern such matters as warrants, arrests, etc., the laws relating to night walking, stubborn children, shoplifters, etc., and practical cases to test applicants' judgment and resourcefulness in handling typical problems along protective and preventive as well as correctional lines. REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PRISONS.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE CITY COUNCIL ON INSPECTION OF PRISONS.

February 3, 1923.
This report is made in accordance with the provisions of chapter 223 of the Revised Laws by the Committee on Prisons, which has attended to the duty and submitted the following report.

The institutions which the committee visited were the Suffolk County Jail and the House of Correction at Deer Island.

SUFFOLK COUNTY JAIL.

The serial annual inspection of the jail was duly made and the institution was thoroughly inspected. It was found to be clean and the inmates of the building are served with wholesome, nutritious food. The morale of the inmates is excellent. The annex is being equipped and will be in operation shortly, which will provide more desirous accommodations for visitors to the jail, and will also render possible the holding of religious exercises, furnish proper hospital and dental treatment places and increased recreational opportunities. The population continues to average two hundred inmates. The committee has nothing but praise for the way the institution is conducted.

HOUSE OF CORRECTION.

The committee made the required number of visits to the House of Correction during the year and found conditions at the institution excellent. A day school has been established at the island where illiterates are taught for three hours each day, the reading and writing of the inmates of this school has met with great success, the inmates obtain the teaching. The twelve inmates now attending the school are able to talk, read and write English. For the past four months those inmates suffering from drug addiction have been isolated from all other inmates and are given medical treatment. It is planned in the spring to reclaim the land in back of the piggery and power house by filling in, thus doing away with the sea wall which has been a long period of need of repair. By the summer the men's new prison, known as "Parracks B," formerly occupied by the navy during the war, will be equipped with running water and toilets.

For the committee

JAMES T. MORIARTY,
Chairman.

THE TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM.

ADDRESS OF HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, BEFORE THE MEMBERS OF THE TRAFFIC CLUB, COPLEY PLAZA, FEBRUARY 13, 1923.

GENTLEMEN.—It is, of course, a trite saying, and yet one that cannot be too often repeated—that the transportation problems of the world are the same everywhere; and stripped of all their fine phrases are merely a question of distributing commodities and connecting communities with speed, safety and efficiency, to the end that commerce may flow with freedom and security, industry function profitably and uninterruptedly, work and wages be constant, agriculture prosperous and the peoples of the earth contented and peaceful. Transportation is the link that binds the uttermost ends of the earth together, the most potent factor in the maintenance and growth of civilization, and which, by bringing men together to exchange the products of their industry and the children of their brain, fosters confidence and promotes fraternity.

In proportion as transportation is hampered on land or sea by the folly, stupidity, craft or indifference of men, as visualized in the enactment of unwise laws and the failure to enact wise ones, the benefits it should yield are stifled and deferred. Every needless burden laid on transportation is written eventually in terms of sterility and futility in the life of this country and the daily experiences of its people.

With all its alleged defects the land transportation system of America—our continental railroad system—is admittedly the best in the world; but where the rails end on the shores of the continent and transportation on the seas begins the American people are at their weakest and worst.

It is of our ocean transportation, our merchant marine, as the essential and imperative supplement of our railroad system I wish to speak tonight, the vital importance of which to our real national life and prosperity is not fully understood even here on the margin of that ocean, out of which came the wealth that made Massachusetts great in industry and commerce, and amid whose toils and dangers were fashioned the character and courage that made the men who stamped their names on American history and carried the fame of the Commonwealth to the ends of the earth.

The American merchant marine—American ships, under the American flag, carrying American goods to alien markets and bringing home to us the commodities we need in American industry,—is a national necessity and not a commercial luxury; it constitutes not only a second line of defence behind our navy for the safeguarding of our national security and integrity, but it is the first line of protection for the maintenance of our foreign commerce which takes care of our industrial surplus and insures the constancy and prosperity of our home market.

The merchant marine—the ships—that carry a nation's commerce, dominates the markets it serves; the nation whose commerce is carried to alien markets in alien ships is at the mercy of the carrier, and by the sheer logic of that fact must sink commercially to a subordinate place.

Those who oppose an American merchant marine as needless and expensive are not good Americans; they could with just as much reason insist that our railroads be turned over to foreign control and that our domestic commerce be over lines of transportation and subject to jurisdictions beyond the law and regulation of the American Republic.

The American merchant marine is the natural and national extension of the American railroad system; it should and must be fostered and protected by the American government for the benefit of the nation since it serves intimately and vitally all the people of America. The people of the agricultural West have been misled by the clever and persistent propaganda maintained and disseminated by the alien shipping interests whose headquarters are in Washington, and have been insidiously taught that the merchant marine is merely a selfish concern of American ship owners. This alien shipping organization rich, powerful and sleepless, maintains a lobby in the national capital, whose agents and spokesmen oppose every effort to foster the American merchant marine, who appear boldly and insolently in committee rooms, and have been able to delude senators and congressmen into enlisting under foreign flags to destroy the commerce and ships of America.

It is time to rouse ourselves before America is reduced to a condition of commercial slavery by the combination of unscrupulous foreign shipping concerns. The agricultural interests of the West are seeking to remove the multitude of middlemen and parasites that stand between the farmer who raises the food of America and the workers who buy it and consume it; and yet he has been educated by foreign propagandists to oppose his own merchant marine and pay hundreds of millions of dollars every year to alien mercantile middlemen, who carry out of the country this money that should be kept at home to keep the wheels of industry turning and the American farmer's home market prosperous.

Treachery to American integrity, American prosperity and American national interests did not become a lost art when Benedict Arnold took service in England's forces. It is still with us under other names and in new disguises. In order to compete with the underpaid, cheaply conditioned and heavily subsidized merchant marines of England, Japan and other foreign countries, and enable us to keep the American flag afloat on the Seven Seas, America must keep the American merchant marine to meet their competitors by special laws and subsidies from the treasury. Is there anything new or strange in an appropriation called a ship subsidy? There is not. We subsidize agriculture and education; we spend vast sums for irrigation in the arid West; we subsidize reclamation works all over the country; we impose protective tariff bills to protect industry and labor; and only yesterday we appropriated $49,000,000 to make our rivers and harbors safe for commerce and its fleets; and yet we have American senators and congressmen who oppose or hesitate to vote to keep alive and strong an American merchant marine to carry American commerce, market our surplus products and keep busy and prosperous American industry and labor and maintain a profitable domestic market for American agriculturists, stock raisers, foresters, fishermen and miners.

Is there any one of the "Pork Barrel Patriots" who has the hardhead to say that the $49,000,000 of the River and Harbor bill are to be spent for the safety and convenience only of the foreign ships that come to our waters and seek to destroy our merchant marine? Let him answer.

The maintenance and prosperity of the American merchant marine is not a party question; it is not a democratic or republican policy solely; it is a national, an American question, that concerns every vital interest of this great Republic, that is of prime importance not only to Massachusetts and the states on the seaboard, but is of equal interest to all the commonwealths that make up this United States.

It is for us to let our representatives in Washington understand that there must be no wavering, no dodging, no fence-climbing on this great question and that they must make up their minds now whether they will stand resolutely and without equivocation for American interests and the American merchant marine or give their services to destroy those American utilities and go over to the flags of England, Japan and other rivals.

They stand on the banks of the political Rubicon. Across its waters lie American honor and interest; to hesitate to cross is to enlist themselves under alien flags and retire to dishonor and obscurity. They cannot stand still; they must act.

THE CITY TAX LEVY.

Mayor Curley appeared before the Legislative Committee on Municipal Finance upon his petition, accompanied by House Bill No. 207, relative to the Boston tax levies, upon the 14th instant.

The bill provides that the taxes assessed in Boston on property shall not exceed the amount which may be fixed by the City Council by ordinance, subject to the approval of the Mayor, on every $1,000 of the average of the assessors' valuation of the taxable property for the preceding three years, such valuation being first reduced by the amount of all abatements allowed previous to December 31 in the year preceding said assessment.

Mayor Curley after stating that Boston is the only city in Massachusetts that is not allowed to fix its own tax limit, said, in part:

"The responsible officials of the City of Boston, in advocating the passage of a bill to remove the present tax limit, are moved not by a desire to add to or extend the powers and authority already delegated to them, but rather by the fact that they desire, first, to obviate the necessity of appealing annually to the Legislature for an increase in a tax limit which has long ceased to be adequate, and second, because the present practice is not in accordance with the accepted principles of democracy, and third, because the dangers which are forecasted if the city were to be allowed this freedom of action are largely imaginary.

"Prior to 1913 every city and town in the state was limited as to the amount of money which could be appropriated on each thousand dollars of valuation. The municipal indebtedness act of that year abolished the tax limit of all cities and towns except Boston. The retaining by the Legislature of statutory control over the expenditures of Boston worked no special hardship or inconvenience during the first three years of its existence. Beginning with 1916, however, the existence of this control has annually been the cause of humiliation and inconvenience to the officials directly concerned with the appropriating policy of the city. In 1918 the statutory limitation of $6.52 per thousand on the average valuation ceased to be adequate for the growing needs of the city. As a result, the responsible officials have been compelled to make a pilgrimage to the State House annually for authority to provide adequately for the health and welfare of the people and the care of their property. The legislators, in the different years, have been generous and fair in their treatment of the pilgrims, but the relief allowed has been of a special nature, operative only for the year in which allowed, hence no lasting benefit has been gained. Because of the pressure of business which confronts each incoming session of the Legislature it has been impossible to secure the passage of remedial legislation much earlier than the first or middle of April.

"The fiscal year of the City of Boston commences on the first day of February and the charter provides that within thirty days thereafter the Mayor shall send to the City Council his budget for the coming year. Since in recent years the tax limit has been a matter of uncertainty on the date provided in the charter for the submission of the annual budget, it has been necessary to submit each year what has been called a "dummy" budget, in which lump sum appropriations to the amount available under the statutory figure have been provided for the various departments. Thus in each year the determination of a fixed financial policy for the city has been delayed and the exact control over department expenditures possible only after the adoption of a segregated budget has been postponed. At the present time it is practically impossible to prepare the annual budget on a scientific basis. Due to the annual uncertainty surrounding the fixing of the tax limit a large portion of the time of the mayor and budget commissioner is spent in "marking time." After the tax limit has been fixed, it is necessary to work at top speed in order to submit the budget to the Council at the earliest possible date. The members of the Council, in their consideration of the document, are naturally influenced by the desire to make available as quickly as possible the appropriations for the different departments. The adoption of the proposed legislation will afford all concerned ample and adequate time to prepare and consider in a deliberate and scientific manner the annual city budget.

Besides inconveniencing the officials of the city these pilgrimages have also placed a heavy burden upon the time of the Legislature. The fixing of the tax limit is a difficult problem for experienced city officials, having all the facts and figures at hand. It must be self-evident, therefore, that it is practically impossible for any legislative committee, no matter how able and well-intentioned they may be, to solve such a serious problem after a few hours' hearing.

The present practice is not in accordance with accepted principles of democracy. No other city in the state is subject to such a limit, and few cities in the country are so restricted. This legislation only allows the representatives of the citizens of Boston, who have been chosen for such a purpose, to appropriate the amount of money which such representatives deem to be essential to maintain the city service on an efficient basis. In a nutshell this bill places responsibility where responsibility belongs. The metropolis of New England should not be discriminated against. Its officials should be allowed to exercise all the rights and privileges that are delegated to officials in the other cities of the Commonwealth.

The stock argument against this proposed legislation is that it will lead to extravagance and unwise appropriations. Those who advance this argument ignore the fact that extravagance and unwise appropriations are reflected in an increased tax rate. Under a form of charter such as Boston possesses, the Mayor is the last word on appropriations, since the City Council cannot originate or pass an appropriation over his veto. It is clear, therefore, that he is held directly responsible for any tax rate that may be declared. No mayor is anxious to defend an ascending rate, hence the natural tendency would be at all times to exercise adequate and complete control over the appropriations of the city. The opponents of this legislation also overlook the fact that a large proportion of the city's expenditures are not even under the control of the mayor. Of the $52,846,682.89 appearing in the 1922 tax bill, only $20,- $19,947.84, or about 39, per cent of the total, was under the direct control of the Mayor. With less than forty per cent of the city's appropriating power centered in the hands of the chief executive of the city, it is hard to conceive the orgy of extravagance which some people like to picture as a result of the proposed legislation.

The increased cost of municipal government cannot be attributed to laxity on the part of the chosen officials. City government, formerly simple and cheap, has necessarily grown technical and costly. Congestion of population has created new needs, traffic control, street widening, unusual fire protection, additional police and better street lighting. Higher standards of living have compelled cities to maintain parks, boulevards and museums, increased educational facilities, libraries, concerts, etc. Increasing humanitarianism has prompted the establishment of playgrounds, better prison facilities, care of the sick and many activities unknown to citizens and officials of a generation ago. Scientific development has compelled the technical and expensive administration of old activities, particularly relating to public health, water supply and the disposal of wastes. As one writer has stated the luxuries of today are the necessities of tomorrow. In consequence the per capita cost of government in every large city has doubled. It is unfortunate that a large portion of the citizens see this fact only as an effect, and refuse to acknowledge the natural causes which underlie this advance in municipal costs.

"If Boston is to keep abreast with the progress of the times it is essential that its officials should be given as complete a measure of independence as is feasible and possible. The continuance of statutory control cannot be expected to accomplish the impossible. If it has been necessary for the past five years to secure annually an increase in the fixed tax limit, is it not reasonable to assume that in view of existing economic conditions it will be necessary to continue for some time these requests. The proposed legislation will remove what is now a serious handicap not only to the present administration, but, if continued, to all future administrations. I therefore strongly urge its passage."

Mayor Curley asked that, if the Legislature fails to repeal the tax limit law, it increase the present tax limit and submit the question to the voters of Boston on a referendum.

"There is no way to justify a continuance of the tax limit in Boston by the Legislature," said the Mayor, "except on the basis of politics. Now, the intentions of the gentlemen on Beacon Hill to reform the politics of Boston may be very good indeed, but you can't change people by legislation, you can't make a man good by legislation, or change his mind, and you can't change the people of Boston any more than you can change the people of Somerville or Everett."

"Boston, the metropolis of New England, should not be singled out and discriminated against by such a law," the Mayor continued. "Last year the metropolitan affairs committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce investigated this question of the tax limit and made a report to the Chamber in favor of abolishing it, but when the question was submitted to the members of the organization on a referendum, it was defeated by a vote of about 800 to 400.

Now, it is safe to say that two thirds of the votes cast were cast by persons living outside of the city, and whose own cities and towns enjoy the right, denied Boston, of establishing their own tax limit."

Mayor Curley then went on to say that the tax rate in Boston is lower than that of all other large cities in the country. The city of New York came into the discussion. Representative Newhall said: "The city of New York is governed by the state."

In discussing the question of the way in which Boston is hampered by the present tax limit law, Mayor Curley said that more than 400 of the 660 miles of streets in the city are dirt or macadam roads and should be reconstructed to meet modern traffic conditions. "This will require an outlay of $50,000,000," he said. "To do this the city should be allowed to borrow $25,000,000 outside of its debt limit over a period of twenty-five years, and the city might well add one dollar to the tax rate to aid in carrying on the work."

The stock argument against the abolition of the tax limit is that it will lead to extravagance, but extravagance and unwise appropriations are reflected in an increased tax rate. Under the present charter, the Mayor of Boston is held responsible for the tax rate. The City Council cannot originate or pass appropriations over his veto. The natural tendency for the Mayor would be to keep the tax rate within bounds. Our opponents also overlook the fact that a large proportion of the city expenditures are not even under the control of the Mayor. Of the more than $52,000,000 in the 1922 tax bill, only about $21,000,000, or approximately 40 per cent, was under the control of the mayor."

Mayor Curley criticised the present charter which "makes it necessary for me to spend two hours every day signing requisitions all the way from five cents up," he said. "If I have to spend two hours signing them, I ought to have at least three hours in which to read them."

The Mayor ended by asking the committee either to report a bill abolishing the tax limit, or fix a tax limit of $13 and report a separate bill to place the question before the people of Boston.

PENSION OF CITY LABORERS.

Mayor Curley addressed the Committee on Social Welfare in favor of his bill which would increase the minimum pension of city laborers in Boston from the present rate of $320 to $480. Men working for the city for fifteen years are entitled to the pension, part of which they contribute from their earnings.

The Mayor held that the city laborer is one who has enjoyed few of the good things of life and that at least he should be given the protection of a minimum pension of $480 a year in his old age. He argued that in looking after "the poor devil who has known nothing but hard work and hard luck" the public would be paying the way for a general old-age pension, which he held to be most desirable. From a business viewpoint, Mayor Curley contended that the taxpayer would not suffer severely, because the pensioned man would be replaced by a younger laborer who, experience has shown, can do three times the work of a predecessor.

THE NEW HARVARD BRIDGE.

Mayor Curley addressed the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs of the Massachusetts Legislature relative to the construction of a new Harvard Bridge between the cities of Boston and Cambridge, and providing for a memorial island and building in the Charles River Basin, upon Monday, 12th instant.

The Mayor declared the Harvard Bridge could well be constructed under the direction of the cities of Boston and Cambridge, as was the West Boston Bridge, which is an architectural work of beauty.

Mayor Curley stated the plan proposed with a memorial island would beautify the Charles River Basin and make it more attractive to pleasure-seekers, and stated he would like to see a memorial which would stand out in honor of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in the World War, even if it cost $10,000,000.

We are not the permanent trustees of this city. The old State will go along, the Mayor will manage the city as much as the Legislature will permit him—for his brief term, the legislators will come along long after we are dead.

You have a perverted idea of the science of government, which is not to save money but to devote itself to the proper methods of expending money.

You are tainted by a permanency of pessimism, in strange contrast with the optimism of Washington and Lincoln, without which we would not have liberty and the union would not have been preserved.

In Boston we have turned too much to the utilitarian and too little to the æsthetic. We have failed to combine both. We have only the Art Museum, the Boston Public Library and the Forsyth Infirmary and then we must turn to the public buildings, headed by the City Hall, which is a disgrace.

I want a memorial island and a building which will combine the utilitarian with the æsthetic, which will stand forever as a tribute to the valor of those who made the supreme sacrifice and of those who were willing to make it; which will be a memorial to the courage, intellect and integrity of the people; which will be useful to the people and pleasing to the eye and a bridge of suitable proportions to effect a magnificent link between the Metropolis of New England and the educational center of the nation.

Mayor Curley spoke of the progress of the world from the time of the Grecian art, and favored the construction of the bridge, which would stand out as the work of the progressive age of today.

He said the Hampden County Bridge is a memorial, although it is called a monstrosity and cost $6,000,000, with a possible deficit of $1,000,000. The Harvard Bridge should have a fitting memorial.

It is agreed that a new bridge should be constructed, he said, and he stated that he is not particularly interested in who will do it, "but I think Boston and Cambridge can do it more economically than proposed under the plans. We want the structure in keeping with the standing of the city and the memorial should show our love and respect for those who paid the supreme sacrifice in the World War and for those who were willing to pay the sacrifice."

The construction of the island would beautify the esplanade, which today is only used by 1 per cent of the population of the city. Those opposing the plan for a memorial island opposed the taking of the basin by the Metropolitan Park Commission, he said.

An island in the river would make the water calm, he said, and pleasure seekers could enjoy boating with greater safety than today. He quoted from the report of the memorial committee appointed by Mayor Peters, headed by Charles A. Coolidge, in which it is stated that the memorial would cost about $2,000,000 and would result in a saving to Boston and Cambridge on 800 feet of bridge at $2,000 per linear foot, $1,600,000.

LAND-TAKING IN DORCHESTER.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the widening and construction of Dorchester avenue and Adams street, as a highway, at the westerly corner of said streets, Dorchester.

The highways named Dorchester avenue and Adams street are hereby widened at the westerly corner of said streets, and ordered constructed.

For the making of the aforesaid improvement an easement for street purposes is taken in the following described land exclusive of trees or structures standing upon or affixed thereto:

A parcel of land at the westerly corner of Dorchester avenue and Adams street, now or formerly owned by Harris Wolfe; containing one hundred and sixty-five square feet, more or less.

A parcel of land on Adams street near the westerly corner of Dorchester avenue and Adams street, now or formerly owned by Frederick W. Bliss and George D. Bliss; containing six square feet, more or less.

Trees or structures standing upon or affixed to the aforesaid described land shall be removed therefrom within sixty days following a notice of the city's intention to enter upon said land for the purpose of constructing said improvement.

Said highways as hereby widened are bounded and described as follows:

East by the westerly line of Adams street as it existed previous to this widening, forty-three and 19-100 feet; southeast by the northwesterly line of Dorchester avenue as it existed previous to this widening, forty-three and 19-100 feet; and west by the westerly line of Dorchester avenue and Adams street as hereby widened, eighty-four and 11-100 feet on a curve of one hundred and fifty-foot radius; containing one hundred and seventy-one square feet, more or less.

No betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

The Board determines that the undermentioned estate sustains damages by the making of the public improvement, consisting of the widening and construction of Dorchester avenue and Adams street, Dorchester, as a highway, at the westerly corner of said streets, in the amount hereinafter set against it, and awards said amount therefor:

LETTER OF MR. SCOTT.

The following letter was received by Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glyn from Walter Scott, Esq., 495 Broadway, New York City, the donor of the "Walter Scott Medal for Valor":

"Upon my return from the West, I find your thoughtful and kind invitation for February 12, and I sincerely thank you.

"I certainly would esteem it an honor to be with you, and your big official family, to present the medal to your bravest fireman. But I now know that it will be impossible to be in Boston on the date mentioned. May I, however, through you, convey to the one receiving the medal for the first time my hearty congratulations. He will be a model for many others. In other words, he has done what every fireman of Boston would do if the opportunity presented itself."

LAND-TAKING IN BRIGHTON.

THE NEW STATLER HOTEL.

Mayor Curley has been advised by Mr. E. M. Statler, President of the Hotels Statler Company, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., that the preliminary work incident to the contract for the building of the Hotel Statler in Boston will proceed without delay.

Mr. Statler has advised Mayor Curley as follows:

BUFFALO, N. Y., February 10, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR MR. CURLEY,—You may have read a few days ago that the Supreme Court rendered a decision which permits the New Haven Railroad to convey to us the title to the site we selected for a Hotel Statler in Boston.

While we felt certain that the court's decision would be favorable, yet we were unable to take any action on our Boston project other than the preparation of the plans for the building.

Our architects expect to send out the plans and specifications for bids in a short time and we can soon tell approximately when building operations will be commenced.

I am sending this to you because of the interest you expressed in our project at the dinner which was given my associates and myself at the Algonquin Club last May. I am sure it was the interest and support which you and other representative Boston citizens evidenced by your presence at that dinner and by what was said to us at that time which induced us to undertake the project. And I want you to feel that we not only place a great value on your interest and sympathy in what we propose to do, but that we are "going the limit" to be in every way worthy of it and give Boston a hotel of which its citizens may well be proud.

This is a somewhat belated acknowledgment of our appreciation, but I felt that I would write you when nothing stood in the way of the accomplishment of our plans.

Sincerely yours,

E. M. STATLER.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT BALL.

The forty-fourth annual ball of the Boston Fire and Protective Departments was held in Mechanics Building on Lincoln's Birthday, February 12, 1923. The proceeds of the ball are applied to the relief of sick and injured firemen, and the widows and orphans of deceased firemen. The feature of the ball this year was the awarding of medals and honor bars to members of the department by Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston.

The two medals which were awarded are known as the "John E. Fitzgerald Medal" and the "Walter Scott Medal for Valor." The former medal was provided for in the will of former Fire Commissioner John E. Fitzgerald, who bequeathed $1,000 to the City of Boston, the interest on which was to be used to provide one medal each year to the member of the department who performed a noteworthy act of bravery. The second medal is the gift of Col. Walter Scott of New York, who has made a gift to the city of $1,000, the interest on which is to provide a medal once a year to the fireman who performs a noteworthy act of valor during the year. The medals are solid gold, and this is the first year they were awarded.

The ceremony of awarding the medals was very impressive. Who the men were who were to receive the medals was a secret known only to the Fire Commissioner. As Mayor Curley entered the hall he was met and escorted to the platform by the reception committee. From the entrance of the main hall to the platform the Mayor passed between two files of firemen standing at attention, and received a prolonged and enthusiastic ovation. Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn presented his Honor the Mayor who, before making the awards, paid a fitting tribute to the memory of Abraham Lincoln, whose anniversary date it was.

The first medal awarded was the John E. Fitzgerald Medal, and this went to Ladderman John J. Leary of Ladder Company 1 for the following reason:

At 8:02 p. m., June 8, 1922, an alarm was sounded from Box 1243, for a fire in five-story building at 440 Hanover street and to which fire, among other companies, Ladder Company 1 responded. Upon their arrival they found the building heavily charged with gas and smoke. A 75-foot ladder was raised by this company to the roof, and Ladderman Leary was assigned to ascend in order to afford proper ventilation. After performing this duty, he began his descent, but upon reaching the fifth floor balcony fire escape he found a woman and three children trapped thereon, there being no possible avenue of escape, due to the fact that there were no stairs leading to the floors below. Ladderman Leary then swung from the side of the ladder to the balcony fire escape in the hope of assisting these persons to the roof from within, but this indeed was a hopeless task due to the intensity of the death-dealing smoke. In the meantime, however, a 50-foot ladder was raised to this balcony, and over which ladder three members of the department ascended. Upon reaching the balcony a hasty conference took place as to the safest method to be employed in saving the lives of these people. Ladderman Leary mounted the railing of the balcony, leaped and caught on to the 75-foot ladder, climbed to a firm position, secured his leg over rung of ladder, and then leaned over the spar of the ladder in the direction of the balcony fire escape. He reached down and received from the arms of the three assisting members who were on the balcony a child three months old, and brought her safely to the roof. Ladderman Leary repeated this act three times until he had effected the rescue of Mrs. Mary Marotta, Louisa Marotta, Mary Ristagno and Joseph Ristagno. Due to his exertion and exposure to smoke at this time Ladderman Leary was rendered sick and weak for a number of hours.

The Walter Scott Medal for Valor was awarded next and this went to Lieut. Dennis M. Condon of Engine Company 5 for the following reason:

At 9:32 p. m., July 30, 1922, Ladder Company 1, with apparatus, responded to fire at 84 Prince street, the alarm having been sent in from Box 1224. A large throng had gathered at this point, for one of the occupants of the fourth floor, unable to withstand the fire and smoke within, let himself out of the window, grasped the ledge of the window, and waited in this precarious position until assistance arrived.

The commanding officer of Ladder Company 1, upon grasping the situation, immediately ordered a ladder raised to the fourth story, and assigned Lieut. Dennis M. Condon, who was at that time Ladderman Condon of Ladder Company 1, to ascend the ladder and remove the man, one Anthony Capo, from his hazardous position, for the man was growing weaker and weaker each minute. In his ascent Ladderman Condon realized the seriousness of the situation, and just as he reached the fourth story, Mr. Capo, his strength now at low ebb, lost his hold and fell into the arms of Ladderman Condon, who by the closest miracle caught him and carried him safely to the street. It must be borne in mind that Mr. Capo weighed in the vicinity of two hundred pounds, and that a move wrongly made would have resulted in death for both. The victim was given first-aid treatment by the members of Ladder Company 1 and later sent to the Relief Station.

The awarding of the medals was followed by presenting to each member of the department who is now on the roll of merit a gold bar to be worn just above the corporation badge of the department when a member is in full uniform. This is a new departure inaugurated this year. A man's name is placed on the roll of merit when he performs a meritorious act which, after investigation by the Board of Merit and the Fire Commissioner, is deemed worthy of special praise. The men who received these bars were:

District Chief James F. McMahon, Capt. Joseph P. Hanton, Capt. Thomas J. Muldoon, Capt. Thomas H. Downey, Capt. Michael J. Teehan, Capt. Denis Driscoll, Capt. Frederick F. Leary, Capt. Edward McDonough, Lieut. Timothy J. Heffron, Lieut. Michael J. Dacey, Lieut. Henry J. Kelly, Ladderman John J. Kennedy.

The name of Lieut. Carl S. Bowers, aside to the chief of department, was added to the roll of merit this year and he was awarded one of the gold bars.

A brief account of the acts performed by the above-named men, which resulted in their names being placed on the roll of merit follows.

It will be twenty-three years the 16th day of next June since the first man now fighting fires was placed on the roll of merit. This man is Lieut. Timothy Heffron of Ladder Company 9, Charlestown, who, while a hoseman on Engine Company 4, responded to an alarm for a fire that was sweeping through the big tenement house at 45 and 47 Leverett street, West End.

Screams for help were coming from all sections of the building and one of the first thoughts of the firemen was to save life. For work at this fire Heffron, together with Capt. Peter Callahan of Engine Company 4, who has since died from injuries received at the big Chelsea fire, Lieut. Joseph A. Kelley of Chelsea Company 1, also passed away, and Hoseman James E. Downey, retired, a brother of Capt. Tom Downey, were placed on the roll of merit and recommended for medals by the Massachusetts Humane Society.

Capt. Fred Leary of Ladder Company 3 was the next to win honors, his work being done on January 28, 1901, while a member of Ladder Company 12, and being on a day off.

Leary was visiting on Auburn street, West End, on this day when he heard cries of "fire." Rushing from the house he discovered the basement kitchen in the house numbered 57 Auburn street in flames, with heavy smoke rolling from the front door and flames with it.

Rushing to the house he was informed that a woman was upstairs, and ducking under the fire he dashed in, and on searching on the second floor found a woman who had overcome by smoke lying half across a table.

Throwing her over his shoulder he started for the stairs and found himself facing a solid body of fire rolling up to meet him. Knowing that he had to go through it he dropped to the floor, and holding tight to his burden threw himself down the entire flight of stairs and landed at the front door, where willing hands pulled him onto the sidewalk.

All the hair on his head and his eyebrows was burned off, but on seeing a woman in a window about to jump, he cried to her to wait and, dashing into another house, seized a blanket of a bed, called on a number of bystanders to assist and made a net in which she was caught without injury.

Another fire was burning at this time in another section of the district, which delayed the apparatus from reaching this building.

District Chief James F. McMahon and Capt. Dennis Driscoll of Engine 37, Longwood, were the next, with a number of others, all of whom are now retired or dead, who a few days after Leary's act, won their places at a fire in the First National Bank Building, 15 and 17 State street, corner of Devonshire street, early in the morning of February 5.

McMahon was then lieutenant of Combination Ladder Company 8, which is now listed as Ladder Company 24, and located on North Grove street, West End. Driscoll was a hoseman attached to Engine Company 7 and both companies responded to the first alarm sounded from Box 36 for this fire.

When the department reached the building, W. H. Goldwaite, the janitor, told the firemen that his wife and twelve-year-old son were on the upper floor.

Engine Company 7, with Driscoll and Martin Keneally, as the pipeman, took the line over a ladder to the second floor. When these men got inside and learned of the two persons upstairs, they dropped their line, which had not been filled with water, and dashed for the stairway.

The woman and boy were on the fifth floor, and the two firemen suffered frightful punishment in passing through the fire on the fourth floor, but Driscoll succeeded in making the room in which the woman lay on the floor and the boy across a window, and dragged her out.

Flames were rolling halfway across Devonshire street by this time, and when the "big stick" of Ladder 14 was thrown against the building, it appeared as if a man would meet his death in going over it, but Lieutenant McMahon braved death and succeeded in picking the body of the boy off the window and getting him to the street.

In February of the same year, on the 21st day, hoseman Thomas J. Muldoon of Chemical Company 8, now captain of Engine Company 16, dashed through a house filled with fire at 62 Gold street, South Boston, and took Eliza Green from a lounge in the room on the third floor and carried her to safety. She was badly burned, but recovered in a hospital. On December 5, 1906, he was highly commended for life-saving at a fire.

Capt. Joseph P. Hanton of Engine Company 33 and Capt. Michael J. Teehan of Engine Company 24 were the next to be placed on this roll and receive silver medals.

These two were laddermen on Ladder Company 17, on the afternoon of February 8, 1902, and responded with this company to an alarm for a fire in the building at 373 Tremont street.

When the truck pulled up to the building it was hidden by the clouds of smoke rolling from a restaurant on the street floor, but the screams of a woman could be heard above all other noise.

Attempts of firemen to make their way into the building were unsuccessful, owing to the smoke and flames, but Hanton, followed by Teehan, made his way over a ladder, and after a search through the smoke-filled rooms found Mrs. Philip Hook, who weighed over 200 pounds, running wildly about and not yet overcome by the smoke.

Hanton seized her and started back for the window and his ladder, but she put up a fight. Hanton at the time was one of the slightest men in the department, but full of pep, and he fought back with such good results that he made his way to a room through which Teehan was searching and they took her down the ladder to the street without injury. Three boys in this house spent a long time at the City Hospital recovering from burns.

Captain Hanton has also been commended and granted extra days off for extinguishing a fire at Winthrop Junction on August 12, 1902, while on a day off; for stopping a runaway horse on Harvard street, near Harrison avenue on November 18, 1903; highly commended for bravery, zeal and good judgment at the Hotel Lenox fire, while commanding Ladder 13, and for life-saving at 180 Columbus avenue on November 26, 1917.

Lieut. Michael J. Dacey of Ladder 20, Andrews square, South Boston, is the next in line, and received his reward for saving 4-year-old Joseph Watson, a colored boy, who was on the second floor of the house at 23 Harwich street, South End.

Dacey was then a ladderman on Ladder 13, and December 8, 1903, responded to an alarm from this building. When the firemen arrived they were told that a boy was on the second floor, but Dacey, after a number of attempts with Lieut. Charles W. Conway, succeeded in getting in and bringing him out. Doctors worked over the boy for an hour and ten minutes on the sidewalk before he showed any signs of life.

On December 8, 1899, Dacey was riding down Hampden street on an electric car. The car was rolling very fast and when near the corner of Norfolk avenue, he saw 3-year-old Thomas Lally start to cross the street. He knew the motorman could not stop the car in time to avoid hitting the child and as it was before the days of vestibules on the street cars, he swung onto the fender, stretched out his arms and picked the child off the street without injury.

On June 22, 1903, he was on Shawmut avenue, near Dedham street, when he saw a horse attached to a coupe dashing down the street, with the driver, who had been thrown from his seat, tangled in the reins and bouncing over the pavements. He jumped for the horse and succeeded in bringing it to a stop, but not until he had been dragged for a considerable distance.

The last man to receive the roll of merit previous to the Hotel Lenox fire was then hoseman, but now Capt. Thomas H. Downey, and his came six years after Dacey. Downey was attached to Engine Company 8, in the North End, and on July 19, 1909, responded with his company to a fire at 19 Morton street.

The building was fully enveloped in fire when this company, the first to arrive, rolled into Morton street. Half a dozen men and women were lying on the pavements, suffering severe injuries received when they jumped from the windows.

One man stood in a third floor window with the flames behind throwing him into bold relief and was preparing to jump. Downey dashed into the adjoining house where a window was set a few feet from where this man stood.

He reached this window, but could not stretch to the man, so, getting a hold on the window in which he stood, Downey swung his body out and over to the man who, seizing him about the waist, clung tight while Downey swung himself back to the other house, where firemen who followed him in assisted in getting both him and his burden to safety.

The names of Capt. Edward McDonough and Ladderman John J. Kennedy were added after the fire in Hotel Lenox on February 10, 1917.

Both of these men displayed exceptional courage at this fire, Kennedy climbing to the top of the "Big Stick" on his truck, which was extended to the full length against the building on the Exeter street front, reaching to a coping above his head, dragging himself to the top and then gaining a window in which were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Finestone, who had been cut off from escape from the building.

A life line which was thrown from the top of the ladder to him by Ladderman Lawler of the same company, who followed him, was the means by which he lowered the man and woman to his comrades below and over which he followed them to safety.

While Kennedy passed off this work as being "part of my job," the other men of his company are still talking about it, and all say it is still beyond their knowledge how he made the coping from the top of the ladder.

Captain McDonough at this fire was a lieutenant and acting as aide to his father, who was then chief of the Boston Fire Department. He had just stepped to the street to report conditions to the chief when cries of people standing about caused both to look up at the building.

The sight of a man, who later proved to be J. J. Collins, a riding instructor, hanging from a sheet lowered from an upper window, startled them. Collins was swinging back and forth in the fifty-five mile gale that was blowing at the time, and many turned their heads in order that when he dropped they would not see him.

The chief suddenly turned to his son and said: "Get him, Eddie."

Without the least thought of his own safety, "Eddie" dashed through the door and into the hotel. He followed the line of Engine 10 crew, who were battling the flames in the halls and stairways, and ducking past these men, who tried to stop him, went through the fire and made the floor outside of which Collins was hanging.

The exertion of climbing the long flights of stairs and the overpowering smoke had gotten to this brave laddie to such an extent that he was forced to make for a window and the open air, and as luck should be with him, he reached a room from which he could get Collins.

On March 12, 1918, Lieut. Henry J. Kelly of Engine Company 32 was aboard the ferryboat "Brewster" when a woman jumped overboard. Lieutenant Kelly attempted to rescue her by plunging in after her. He swam until he reached her and kept her afloat until a lifeboat was launched and came to their rescue.

The name of Lieut. Carl S. Bowers was added to the roll of merit by reason of the following heroic act:

At about 3.30 p. m., Monday, June 5, 1922, during the ceremonies of the drum head election of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, six horses attached to a gun limber took fright at the shattering report of the gun salute and dashed down the Charles street mall and across Boylston street.

The chief of department's car, with Lieutenant Bowers driving, was proceeding east on Boylston street, near Park square, and the chief, sensing the danger to the pedestrians, ordered the car stopped, whereupon Lieutenant Bowers jumped from the car, swung to the bridle of the front "off" horse, and clung to it until the frightened animals were guided across Boylston street and were brought to a standstill.

The timely act of Lieutenant Bowers saved the lives of many people and also prevented serious injury to many, aside from preventing the destruction of many motor vehicles.

REPORT OF BOARD OF EXAMINERS.

Mayor Curley has received the following report of the service of the Board of Examiners of the Building Department for the year 1922:

Boston, February 12, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR.—In compliance with your request the Board of Examiners submits herewith the report of the activities of the department during the year 1922:

During the year the Board held 110 meetings, at which 2,700 applicants for license or for renewal were examined. In August, 1922, John F. Hickey was re-elected chairman.

The policy of the Board during the year was a continuation of that of the previous two years, namely, a consistent effort to raise the standard of conditions having to do with building superintendence. Since the sections of the Building Law concerning superintendence of building operations, especially the recent amendments, distinctly place the responsibility for the proper completion of the work upon the licenseholder, the Board does not fail to realize the necessity of passing most carefully upon the qualifications of such applicants.

The number of applicants for every class exceeded that of any previous year, and each one submitted to a strict examination. In addition to these regular examinations, men who were appearing before the Board for renewal of old licenses were questioned and their records investigated. Where there was doubt of ability or complaint from the Building Department examination was given, and only to those who qualified were licenses renewed. Each applicant was required to be familiar with the Building Law and many were questioned regarding its details. All were instructed as to the necessity of studying it during the coming year, when further examination on its various subjects will be given. Among applicants for license the Board finds numerous men whose practical experience would entitle them to hold license if it were not for the fact that they are handicapped by lack of sufficient technical knowledge. For such men as these the Board was instrumental, a year ago, in having a class of instruction organized at Franklin Union. More recently one was established at Wentworth Institute. The directors of both institutions are working in co-operation with the Board. In preparation for this sort of training the Board has opened classes of preliminary instruction at its own office. Classes are held two evenings a week, after the regular meeting of the Board. The undertaking has the indorsement of local builders, architects and engineers, several of whom have addressed the class at the invitation of the Board. Throughout the coming year the Board anticipates several such classes, and as a result of this sort of development work expects a continued improvement in the type of superintendents controlling work in Boston.

It may be recalled that our previous reports state that Boston is the only city permitting practical supervision of building operations. Throughout the country laws have been passed allowing only professional control. Our records show that better results have been gained by the enforcement of our laws; this is deduced from statistics concerning prevention-of-accident laws published by the various cities of the country.

The following is a summary of applications for license and renewals acted upon from January 1, 1922, to January 1, 1923:

	Approved.	Unapproved.
Class A.	828	234
Class B.	1,516	182
Class C.	1,763	91
Class D.	106	21
Class E.	220	35
Class F.	103	27
Total.	4,542	590

The Board curtailed the special license privilege formerly allowed to those who had attained a fair percentage in examination, the number of special licenses issued during the year being 677, as compared with 953 of the previous year.

Twenty complaint cases, presented by the Building Commissioner, were heard. These were disposed of by the Board or passed on to the Law Department for prosecution.

The fees collected from February 1, 1922, to February 1, 1923, amounted to $7,005.

There was greatly in excess of the amount anticipated by the Board and is another proof that men connected with the building business realize the necessity of having a licensed man upon each building operation, of keeping their licenses renewed up to date, and are working in conjunction with the Building Department and the Board of Examiners in protecting the workmen and the public, as well as guarding the interests of the owner on the work. And this is the real purpose of the control-of-building-operations law.

Very truly yours,

BOARD OF EXAMINERS,
by JOHN F. HICKEY,
Chairman.

MATTAPAN PLAYGROUND.

After nearly a decade of controversy over where to locate a playground in the Mattapan section, for which a $25,000 appropriation has been drawing interest at about three per cent through the years, an agreement between Mattapan residents and City Hall impends.

After discussing the matter with a representative delegation in his office, Mayor Curley agreed to consider the purchase of twenty acres (about 1,000,000 square feet) of land owned by the Ann J. Raymond estate, fronting Almont street and extending back to a line half-way between Atkins and Hersey streets, known as Collins' Field.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

Michael Solari, 49 Leyden street, East Boston, in the amount of $1,000, as full payment for all land taken, all rights acquired and all damages occasioned to his estate in Boardman street, East Boston, by the laying out of said street.

Mary Bonugli, 33 Leyden street, East Boston, in the amount of $950, as full payment for all land taken, all rights acquired, and all damages occasioned to her estate in Boardman street, East Boston, by the laying out of said street.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 14.

I. COMMENDATIONS.

The Board of Merit, organized under Paragraph II, General Order No. 30, Series of 1922, have investigated certain cases referred to it by the Fire Commissioner, and the Board's findings, approved by the Fire Commissioner, are as follows:

High Commendation for Laddermen Patrick J. Doherty, Patrick T. Buckley, Pillsbury C. Fickett, Dennis M. Condon, Martin J. Callahan and Frederick Russell of Ladder Company 1.

On June 2, 1919, the above-named laddermen did carry, direct and assist the occupants in building at 78 Leverett street to the roof and from over ladders to the adjoining buildings, where they received treatment, they all being in a very serious condition. The lower floor and basement of this building were occupied as a furniture store in which fire had spread to the basement and first floor and also stairway leading to the upper portion of this building, shutting off the egress from above. The fire was of such an extent that it required a second alarm to handle situation and the density of the smoke made it impossible for the persons mentioned above to leave the building through causes stated herein and it was only by the extraordinary efforts of these laddermen that there was no loss of life. Their means of leaving the building was via the ladders and from adjoining buildings via the roof.

Commendation for Laddermen Thomas J. Sheridan of Ladder Company 16.

Laddermen Sheridan is commended for stopping a runaway horse on Washington street on May 5, 1920, belonging to or used by the John T. Connor Company, after the horse had detached himself from wagon, at a personal risk to himself and people on the street.

Commendation for Hoseman Francis J. Scott of Engine Company 13.

Hoseman Scott is commended for stopping a runaway horse on Whittier street, near Hampshire, on June 2, 1920. Hoseman Scott climbed over the rear of the wagon as the horse turned from Hampshire to Whittier street, reached the single rein and turned the horse toward the sidewalk, slowing him down so he was able to jump off and take horse by head, bringing him to a stop, thus probably preventing serious accidents, as many children were in the street on their way to school.

Commendation for Engineer Philip Carrigan of Engine Company 34.

Engineer Carrigan is commended for stopping a runaway horse on Western avenue, near Waverly street, March 5, 1921.

Commendation for Hoseman James F. Sheehan of Engine Company 23.

At 11.30 a. m., January 5, 1922, Hoseman Sheehan rendered valuable assistance to an orderly from the Boston City Hospital who was experiencing great difficulty in subduing a patient who had escaped in the nude from the City Hospital. The patient was finally brought into the quarters of Engine Company 23, where he was covered with a blanket and placed under control. Hoseman Sheehan's quick action no doubt prevented the patient from contracting severe illness due to the inclement weather.

Commendation for Hoseman Daniel A. Gill of Engine Company 36.

On January 30, 1922, an alarm was received from Box 424 for a fire at 75 and 77 Bunker Hill street, time 9.39 a. m. Hoseman Gill, who was on a day off at the time, was first on the scene and directed the first company to respond in the front of building. He then took a chemical line to the rear of the building where the fire had gone up three flights and held the fire until the arrival of help. Hoseman Gill's action undoubtedly saved the lives of an old and infirm couple who occupied the upper floor.

Commendation for Laddermen Joseph F. Rorke of Ladder Company 4.

At 7.45 p. m., February 4, 1922, while returning to quarters from supper, Laddermen Rorke discovered a fire at No. 66 Yeoman street. Entering the building and breaking in the door of room in which fire occurred he discovered three small children in bed who were partially overcome by smoke. He immediately removed them to a place of safety where they were revived by neighbors, and extinguished the fire, which was in a closet in the said room, with pails of water. Laddermen Rorke's presence of mind no doubt saved the lives of children, whose ages were twelve, seven and four, respectively.

Special Commendation for Capt. Thomas H. Downey and Lieut. John F. McDonough of Engine Company 22.

Captain Downey, while acting district chief of District 7, responded to a still alarm at 1.22 a. m., February 5, 1922, for a fire at No. 89 Appleton street. Being first to arrive he was informed by occupants who had fled from the building that there was an elderly lady on the third floor in room where the fire had occurred. Proceeding there the captain found that the fire had reached from the front room into hallway through which he had to pass and the heat, fire and smoke were fast becoming intense. Captain Downey was compelled to crawl on his hands and knees, and he reached a side room where he found the unconscious form of Susan Powers, eighty years of age, lying across a bed. He was unable to stand up owing to the intense heat and smoke, in view of which fact he dragged the woman across the floor to hallway, where he called for help. Lieut. John F. McDonough had just arrived in charge of Engine Company 22, and while his company were carrying their line, he rushed to the assistance of Captain Downey, and, together they crawled along hallway, carrying the woman between them to floor below where first-aid treatment was rendered by members of Ladder Company 13 and Engine Company 22. She was then immediately sent to the Boston City Hospital in a police ambulance. The very good work performed by Captain Downey and Lieutenant McDonough should make the other members of the fire-fighting force feel proud of their affiliation with the Boston Fire Department.

Commendation for Hoseman William J. McGrath of Engine Company 17.

At 8.45 a. m., February 19, 1922, while returning from a day off, Hoseman McGrath responded to a call for assistance made by one James Wolf of 2 East street, Dorchester. Entering the building at this address Hoseman McGrath found Dr. Carrie W. McCoart lying on the floor of the second floor of the building overcome by the fumes of coal gas. After ventilating the apartment, Hoseman McGrath rendered first aid to the stricken woman and then telephoned the fire alarm office for further assistance. Doctor McCoart regained consciousness before the arrival of assistance and, furthermore, was pronounced out of danger by a physician who responded. In this case Hoseman McGrath displayed sound judgment and undoubtedly prevented more dire results.

Special Commendation for Laddermen Coleman C. Curran of Ladder 4.

At 12.52 p. m., February 22, 1922, at fire from Box 2145, 241 Warren street, Laddermen Curran rescued Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ruffin from third-story window. Mrs. Ruffin had become hysterical, and at the time Laddermen Curran reached her she was enveloped in a cloud of thick smoke and her husband was laboring under difficulties in preventing her from jumping from the window. Laddermen Curran reached in the window and removed Mrs. Ruffin bodily and carried her safely down the ladder to the street, at the same time directing the descent of Mr. Ruffin. Laddermen Curran displayed keen judgment in his actions, and no doubt prevented disastrous results.

Commendation for Lieut. John Hogan of Chemical Company 11.

At 12.52 p. m., February 22, 1922, while returning to quarters from dinner, Lieutenant Hogan discovered a fire at 241 Warren street. He immediately gave the alarm from Box 2145 and returned to the scene of the fire where he found the rear of the first floor a mass of flame. On being informed by citizens that there were inmates confined in the building the lieutenant groped his way up the front stairs which at the time was heavily charged with smoke, and found in the dining-room on the second floor a Mrs. Mary Taylor who was overcome by smoke. Lieutenant Hogan carried Mrs. Taylor to the street and left her in an adjoining building where she was revived. There is no doubt but that the quick action of the lieutenant in discovering the fire and sounding the alarm saved the lives of other occupants of the building.

Commendation for Hoseman Daniel Gill of Engine Company 45.

At 8.10 a. m., March 3, 1922, while working on District Chief's car outside of quarters, Hoseman Gill's attention was attracted to the galloping of a horse attached to a sleigh owned by George Munchback of Granville street, Roslindale. Hoseman Gill stopped the runaway horse after being dragged a distance. Hoseman Daniel Gill at a risk to himself prevented injury to women and children who were in the vicinity of Washington and Kittredge streets at the time. (At the time of this action the District Chief's car was at Engine 45's house.)

Commendation for Hoseman William L. Nolan of Engine Company 8.

At 11 a. m., May 8, 1922, Hoseman Nolan, while inspecting buildings, heard a woman's screams emanating from 378 North street. Upon investigation he found that the woman, Mrs. Connetta Oteri, had fallen into a tub of boiling water and live as a result of which she had become severely scalded. Hoseman Nolan immediately notified a physician and went to a nearby drug store where he procured some carron oil and absorbent cotton and applied the same to the woman's burns. Upon arrival of the physician Hoseman Nolan rendered valuable assistance in further treatment of the woman.

Roll of Merit for Lieut. Carl S. Bowers, Aide-to-Chief of Department.

At about 3.30 p. m., Monday June 5, 1922, during the ceremony of the Drum-head Election of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, six horses attached to a gun limber took fright at the shattering report of the gun salute and dashed down the Charles street mall and across Boylston street. The chief of Department's car, with Lieutenant Bowers driving, was proceeding east on Boylston street near Park square, and the chief sensing the danger to the pedestrians, ordered the car stopped whereupon Lieutenant Bowers jumped from the car, swung to the bridle of the front "off" horse, and clung to it until the frightened animals were guided across Boylston street and were brought to a standstill. The timely act of Lieutenant Bowers saved the lives of many people, and also prevented serious injury to many, aside from preventing the destruction of many motor vehicles. The placing of his own life in jeopardy calls for the highest praise.

"John E. Fitzgerald Medal" for Ladderman John J. Leary of Ladder Company 1.

At 8.02 p. m., June 8, 1922, an alarm was sounded from Box 1243 for a fire in five-story building at 440 Hanover street and to which fire, among other companies Ladder Company 1 responded. Upon their arrival they found the building heavily charged with gas and smoke. A 75-foot ladder was raised by this company to the roof, and Ladderman Leary was assigned to ascend in order to afford proper ventilation. After performing this duty, he began his descent, but upon reaching the fifth floor balcony fire-escape he found a woman and three children trapped thereon, there being no possible avenue of escape, due to the fact that there were no stairs leading to the floors below. Ladderman Leary then swung from the side of the ladder to the balcony fire-escape in the hope of assisting these persons to the roof from within, but this indeed was a hopeless task, due to the intensity of the death-dealing smoke. In the meantime, however, a 50-foot ladder was raised to this balcony, and over which ladder three members of the department ascended. Upon reaching the balcony a hasty conference took place as to the safest method to be employed in saving the lives of these people. Ladderman Leary mounted the railing of the balcony, leaped and caught on to the 75-foot ladder, climbed to a firm position secured his leg over rung of ladder, and then leaned over the spar of the ladder in the direction of the balcony fire-escape. He reached down and received from the arms of the three assisting members who were on the balcony, a child three months old, and brought her safely to the roof. Ladderman Leary repeated this act three times until he had effected the rescue of Mrs. Mary Marotta, Louisa Marotta, Mary Ristagno and Joseph Ristagno. Due to his exertions at this time Ladderman Leary was rendered sick and weak for a number of hours. No further words are necessary to emphasize the cool daring displayed by Ladderman Leary, for, like a hero, he went about his task in a real business-like manner, without one thought to the jeopardy in which he was placing himself, his only purpose in view being the saving of human life at all costs. It must be borne in mind that Ladderman Leary's task was rendered all the more difficult due to the fact that the building was heavily charged with and enveloped in a deep rancid smoke. It is the Board's belief that Ladderman Leary performed the feat above-described with no thought of future reward in mind.

It is the opinion of the Fire Commissioners that the above act was the most meritorious one performed during the year of 1922 and Ladderman Leary is, therefore, awarded the "John E. Fitzgerald Medal" for that year.

High Commendation for Lieut. Frederick S. Young of Tower Company 1 and Laddermen John J. Buckley and John J. Deegan of Ladder Company 1.

At 8.02 p. m., June 8, 1922, at fire from Box 1243, the above-named members of the department rendered valuable assistance in effecting the rescue of four persons from a gas and smoke filled house at 440 Hanover street. A 75-foot ladder was raised to roof over which another member of Ladder Company 1 ascended to ventilate. On his return he found that a woman and three children had been trapped on fifth floor balcony fire-escape, from which there were no stairs leading to the floor below. The three members of the department mentioned above ascended to this balcony over a 50-foot ladder and placed into the arms of the other members of Ladder Company 1, one at a time, the four persons, who were carried safely to the roof and out of danger. Their action was well timed and their method of procedure was of the highest order.

Commendation for Ladderman Francis J. Newell of Ladder Company 8.

At 2.15 p. m., June 26, 1922, Ladderman Newell, who was on board an inbound car en route to quarters from dinner, perceived unusual commotion near an outboard Dorchester avenue car. He dashed from the car he was on to the scene of excitement and noticed that a young lad had fallen underneath the street car. While the emergency jack was being adjusted and manipulated, Ladderman Newell got under the car and in every known manner tried to lessen the suffering of the unfortunate child. When the car had been lifted sufficiently to permit of the boy's release, Ladderman Newell rushed the child in a commandeered automobile to the Carney Hospital, which act attributed greatly to the saving of the life of the child.

High Commendation for Ladderman Francis J. Newell of Ladder Company 8.

While on a day off, Sunday, July 9, 1922, Ladderman Newell went bathing at Savin Hill Beach. While standing on the beach he observed two girls struggling in the water quite a distance from the shore, whereupon he plunged into the water and swam towards the girl farthest from the shore. She disappeared beneath the surface and Ladderman Newell reached her as she reappeared. The girl was unable to swim and after a terrific struggle Ladderman Newell succeeded in bringing the girl to shallow water where other persons relieved him of his burden. As a result of his efforts Ladderman Newell sank exhausted upon the beach, while the girl was given first aid and recovered. Ladderman Newell's quick action no doubt saved the life of the young girl.

High Commendation for Lieut. William H. D. Nichols of Engine Company 7.

At 9.15 p. m., July 10, 1922, Lieutenant Nichols stopped two runaway horses on South street, near East street. The horses, which had been left unattended on South street, near Summer street, were attached to a street-sweeping machine of the Public Works Department, and had become frightened by the noise from a passing automobile and ran down South street, and at the time Lieutenant Nichols caught them they had gained considerable speed. This act on his part undoubtedly resulted in preventing injury to persons or property.

Commendation for Ladderman John T. Angel of Ladder Company 8.

At 4.45 p. m., July 13, 1922, while Ladderman Angel was on house patrol he was attracted to the outside by the shouting of human voices and the loud rumbling of a horse and wagon. This turned out to be a runaway horse and up to the time of reaching the fire station had collided with two automobiles. Sensing the danger to the many people who were passing on their way to the Revere Beach and Nantasket Beach Stations, Ladderman Angel dashed from the quarters and caught the horse as he was passing the door. In doing this he was dragged about twelve or fifteen feet before bringing the horse to a stop. The presence of many of Ladderman Angel no doubt averted much injury to both persons and property.

High Commendation for Hoseman George A. Whalen of Engine Company 48.

On July 20, 1921, an emergency call was received by this department to the effect that a flood had occurred in the Kenmore Station of the Boston Elevated Railway system, as a result of which a number of members of this department were detailed to assist in freeing the subway of water which had reached a depth of over 7½ feet. It was necessary to take lines through to emergency egress located in the Fenway, off Commonwealth avenue, in order that our department pumps would be enabled to remove the water. When volunteers were called for Hoseman Whalen undertook the task of swimming through with the line. His attempt was crowned with great success and for his splendid courage he was commended by Mr. Dana and other Elevated officials who were present on the ground. Hoseman Whalen's act resulted in the saving of much valuable property, and facilitated the early resumption of service that had been completely tied up as a result of the flood.

Commendation for Hoseman John Sweeney of Engine Company 43.

On July 21, 1922, Hoseman Sweeney rendered first aid to a child at Carson Beach who had been carried out by the waves and had sunk, becoming unconscious. When the child was brought to shore, Hoseman Sweeney worked on the child until she, a girl of two years, had regained consciousness, after which he carried her to her home. Undoubtedly the quick action of Hoseman Sweeney prevented possible fatal results.

"Walter Scott Medal for Valor" for Lieut. Dennis M. Condon of Engine Company 6.

At 9.32 p. m., July 30, 1922, Ladder Company 1, with apparatus, responded to fire at 84 Prince street, the alarm having been sent in from Box 1224. A large throng had gathered at this point, for one of the occupants of the fourth floor, unable to withstand the fire and smoke within, let himself out of the window, grasped the ledge of the window and waited in this precarious position until assistance arrived. The commanding officer of Ladder Company 1 upon grasping the situation immediately ordered a ladder raised to the fourth story and assigned Lieut. Dennis M. Condon, who at that time was Ladderman Condon of Ladder Company 1, to ascend the ladder and remove the man, one Anthony Capo, from his hazardous position, for the man was growing weaker and weaker each minute. In his ascent Ladderman Condon realized the seriousness of the situation, and just as he reached the fourth story, Mr. Capo, his strength now at low ebb, lost his hold and fell into the arms of Ladderman Condon, who by the closest miracle caught him and carried him safely to the street. It must be borne in mind that Mr. Capo weighed in the vicinity of two hundred pounds, and that a move wrongly made would have resulted in death for both. The victim was given first-aid treatment by the members of Ladder Company 1 and later sent to the Relief Station. Lieutenant Condon has emphasized his staunch devotion to duty by modestly refraining from discussing this event, and not even inquiring of his superior officers as to the disposition made of the report submitted to department headquarters. Lieut. George F. Doyle of Ladder Company 1 is to be complimented on the masterly manner in which he handled the above situation, and the further fact that he was well aware of the capabilities of the men under his command. His utmost confidence in the then Ladderman Condon no doubt had much to do with the success of the rescue heretofore mentioned.

After a careful review of the above facts, the Fire Commissioner awards the "Walter Scott Medal for Valor" for the year 1922 to Lieut. Dennis M. Condon of Engine Company 5.

High Commendation for Philip G. Ferren, James E. Plunkett and John A. Hassey of the Motor Squad.

On August 16, 1921, an American-LaFrance pumping engine was accidentally backed into the Charles river, and in assisting in the removal of the same these three men worked under water in relays, in passing lashings and slings underneath and through the rear end of the apparatus. For a period extending over three hours these men worked unceasingly in order that the apparatus might be removed from the river with the aid of derricks and rigging furnished by the Boston Elevated Railway Company. The work was performed under most adverse conditions, but was done so efficiently that there was not five cents' worth of damage caused the apparatus in its removal from its vertical position in the river.

Special Commendation for Ladderman Daniel W. O'Leary of Ladder Company 15.

At fire at 76 and 78 Westland avenue, at 4.03 p. m., August 24, 1922, from Box 2323, Ladderman O'Leary, with other members of his company, entered the building adjoining the, on fire and went to the top floor. He entered the apartment adjacent to the one in which the fire originated, through a window, and found Mrs. Emma J. Benson and Mrs. Theodosia C. Hart in an excited condition, whereupon he passed them one at a time through the window over the areaway to Ladderman McKernan and Molway.

Ladderman O'Leary was then informed that Mrs. Flora McNabb was in the hallway, she having been rendered unconscious. He passed her in the same manner to the other ladderman. The three women were then taken to the street in the apartment elevator and were given first-aid treatment and removed to the Boston City Hospital. Ladderman O'Leary's careful action in the above instance no doubt prevented further harm.

High Commendation for Ladderman William J. McKernan and William W. Molway of Ladder Company 15.

At 4.03 p. m., August 24, 1922, at fire from Box 2323, 76 and 78 Westland avenue, the above-named laddermen with one other member of their company were ordered to proceed to adjoining building, numbered 74, and from there gain vantage point from which to fight the fire. While the other member of the company climbed through window over areaway at 76 and 78 Westland avenue Ladderman McKernan and Molway awaited his return. He soon appeared successively with Mrs. Emma J. Benson and Mrs. Theodosia C. Hart, whom he found in an excited condition, and he passed them one at a time through the window over the areaway to Ladderman McKernan and Molway. Ladderman O'Leary, the other member, was then informed that Mrs. Flora McNabb was in the hallway in an unconscious state. He passed her in the same manner to the other laddermen. The three women were then taken to the street in the apartment elevator, and were given first-aid treatment and removed to the Boston City Hospital. The timely assistance rendered by Laddermen McKernan and Molway in this instance no doubt saved the women possible injury.

Commendation for Hoseman Michael F. Quirk of Engine Company 15.

At 1 p. m., August 31, 1922, while on a day off, Hoseman Quirk waded into the water at the Strandway, foot of G street, and assisted Joseph J. Donahue, a postal clerk, in the rescue of one Charles Zorbas, eleven years of age. Hoseman Quirk applied the Schaffer method to the young lad until normal breathing was established, and this action of his had much to do with the saving of the boy's life.

Commendation for Capt. Fred W. Battis, Engine Company 45, and Laddermen David J. Curran and David A. Shea of Ladder Company 16.

At 3.27 p. m., September 7, 1922, Captain Battis received a telephone call from the Captain of Police Station 17 requesting that he send a pulmotor to 77 Dudley avenue, where one Mrs. Mary Doell had been overcome by gas, and upon arrival at this location, the fire captain, accompanied by Laddermen David J. Curran and David A. Shea, found Dr. M. M. Knudson using the overhead arm movement of resuscitation. As this method proved of no avail, and without recourse to the pulmotor, Captain Battis resorted to the Schaffer method, and with the assistance of Laddermen Curran and Shea, succeeded in bringing the woman to consciousness, and no doubt saved her life.

Commendation for Hoseman Thomas P. Lane and Assistant Engineer Henry J. Ewing of Engine Company 26-35.

At 10 a. m., September 11, 1922, two automobiles collided on Tremont street at the corner of Bromfield street, resulting in the puncturing of one of the gaso-lene tanks which caused the gasoline to flow freely over the streets. Hoseman Thomas P. Lane and Assistant Engineer Henry J. Ewing, who were on a day off at the time, immediately procured a quantity of sand and spread it over the gasoline, stopped all smoking by people in the immediate vicinity, and plugged the broken tank with soap which enabled the car to proceed to the nearest garage. In view of the hazard existing in the congested section in which this incident occurred, the actions of Hoseman Lane and Assistant Engineer Ewing averted serious injury and loss.

Commendation for Ladderman Edward McNamara of Ladder Company 28.

At 7.45 p. m., September 11, 1922, Ladderman McNamara stopped a runaway horse attached to wagon owned by the Telephone Company, in front of quarters, and by his quick and timely action possible serious damage was averted, as there were several automobiles lined up on both sides of street towards which the horse was running.

Commendation for Hoseman Martin J. Flaherty, Thomas F. Flaherty and Daniel G. Harrington of Engine Company 11, and Ladderman John T. Lynch of Ladder Company 21.

The home of a citizen in the immediate vicinity of the quarters of Engine 11, Ladder 21, was broken into by three burglars on the afternoon of September 25, 1920. On leaving the premises the robbers were discovered by the occupant who gave chase. In their getaway the robbers ran past the quarters of Engine 11, Ladder 21, the members of which were startled by the cry of "Stop, thief." The above-named members of the department gave chase and succeeded in catching two of the burglars and turning them over to the police. One of the burglars threatened to use a revolver which he had in his possession, but was prevented from so doing by the members above mentioned.

Commendation for Hoseman Michael J. Griffin of Engine Company 26.

At 7.45 p. m., Saturday, October 1, 1921, Hoseman Griffin stopped a pair of runaway horses that were attached to an ice wagon owned by the Independent Ice Company, on Broadway, corner of Eliot street. It appears that the driver of the wagon, a Mr. McKenzie, was almost under one of the forward wheels of the ice wagon when Hoseman Griffin's action took place.

Commendation for Capt. James F. Ryan, Engine Company 25; Capt. James Mahoney, Engine Company 38-39; Lieut. George J. Baumeister, Engine Company 44; Hoseman Patrick J. Mahoney, Engine Company 38-39, and Hoseman Michael L. Conley of Tower Company 3.

At about 10.22 a. m., October 2, 1922, Captain Ryan (then Acting District Chief) was notified by the fire alarm office that Ladder 17 had responded to Congress Street Bridge with a pulmotor to be used on a man who was taken by the steamboat "Ida Ross" out of the water and left on the wharf at drawbridge. On his arrival at this point he found Lieutenant Baumeister of Engine Company 44 applying the Shaffer prone method of resuscitation on the man who had on apparently attempted suicide, because of the fact that stones had been placed in the pockets of his clothing to add to his weight. Successfully, assistance was rendered by Captains Ryan and Mahoney, and Hosemen

Mahoney and Conley, and by their concerted action the man was restored to consciousness and sent to the hospital where it was reported that his condition had improved.

High Commendation for Hoseman Patrick E. Collins of Engine Company 32.

At 4.40 p. m., October 24, 1922, at fire from Box 437, 114 Baldwin street, Hoseman Collins went up the stairs through the first floor, which was a mass of fire, and groping about the front room of the second floor, charged with heavy black smoke, he found a baby of one year and ten months on the floor and carried him to safety. This saving of life under such hazardous conditions merits recognition.

Commendation for Assistant Engineer Michael J. McGonagle of Engine Company 33.

At 5.24 a. m., October 29, 1922, while riding in the tender of the engine in response to alarm of fire from Box 1552, Assistant Engineer McGonagle noticed a runaway horse attached to a Whiting Milk wagon heading towards the engine, whereupon he signalled to the chauffeur of the said engine to swing to one side, and he jumped to the street and succeeded in stopping the horse and pulling him away from the engine. By his quick action Assistant Engineer McGonagle prevented damage to department apparatus and also possible injury to horse and wagon belonging to the milk concern.

Special Commendation for Ladderman Thomas F. Kilduff of Ladder Company 4.

At 4.59 p. m., December 6, 1922, at fire at 89 Warren street, Box 2131, Ladderman Kilduff entered cellar that was filled with smoke, gas and heat, in search of an aged man who apparently was affected by the elements. Ladderman Kilduff was compelled to return to the street for air, but re-entered the cellar and succeeded in locating the old man, aged seventy, and bringing him to the street. The gentleman rescued proved to be Mr. George H. True and he was immediately sent to the hospital, while Ladderman Kilduff as a result of his efforts became so exhausted as to require first-aid treatment which was given by a member of his company. This timely act undoubtedly saved the life of the elderly gentleman, who, by virtue of his advanced years, was in a most perilous position.

High Commendation for Hoseman David Martell of Rescue Company 1.

At 1.24 a. m., Sunday, December 10, 1922, at fire at 358 Tremont street, Box 1521, Hoseman Martell, while investigating the upper floors of the building in search of occupants who might have possibly been overcome by smoke, heard the whining of a dog in a room heavily charged with smoke. Ladderman Martell crawled around the room on his stomach until he found the dog and then brought the animal safely to the street. While in this instance the rescue did not affect a human being, it does not in the least detract from the bravery displayed, as it was reported at the fire that two men were trapped in the upper floor of the building.

Commendation for Hoseman Philip S. Bates of Engine Company 26-35.

Hoseman Bates is at this time given recognition for his suggestion of an appropriate motto to be inscribed on the walls of the fire station of Engine Company 26-35, viz., Pro Domo et Civitate. In view of the fact that this commendation was promised Hoseman Bates by former officials of the department, but never given him, it is now being awarded.

Commendation for Engineer D. J. Cadigan of the Motor Squad.

Engineer Cadigan is commended for developing a device which is used to eliminate danger from sparks and embers flying about from a fire, and sparks from steam fire engines working at a fire. It is used mainly when filling gasoline tanks of motor pumping engines while engaged in the extinguishment of fire.

Commendation for Hoseman John A. Hassey of the Motor Squad.

Hoseman Hassey devised a tool known as a rocker arm lifter, and is used in motor repair work. It saves much valuable time when it is necessary to lift rocker arms from the smaller types of cars, and since its adoption by the Bureau of Supplies and Repairs has been highly praised by all who have had occasion to use it.

By order of the Fire Commissioner.

JOHN O. TABER,
Chief of Department.

REPORT OF FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Data regarding the two-platoon system was compiled and presented before the members of the City Council.

On January 8, an American-LaFrance Type 75, 750-gallon combination pump and hose motor car was placed in service with Engine Company 43, replacing Christie tractor-drawn steam fire engine.

On January 12, an American-LaFrance Type 75, 750-gallon combination pump and hose motor car was placed in service with Engine Company 45, replacing earlier type of LaFrance pumping engine.

On Wednesday, January 17, a meeting of the committee appointed by the writer to investigate the question of new regulations for a saner protection of life and property within theaters was held and much satisfactory progress was reported.

The Chief of Department attended a hearing at the State House, before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, and spoke in favor of the enactment of a law relating to standpipes in certain buildings within the City of Boston.

A preliminary conference was held with the representatives of the National and Boston Board of Fire Underwriters regarding the matter of a new fire alarm building and arrangements made for the calling of another conference with the heads of the various public service corporations and others interested in this very important project.

During the month, 3,450 inspections were made by the inspection force of the Bureau of Fire Prevention and Intelligence. Where conditions were not found corrected on reinspection the matter was reported to the Bureau and action was immediately taken to compel compliance with the fire laws. The entire inspection forces of the department were concentrated in Districts 3, 5 and 6, from January 26 to February 5, for the purpose of inspecting the hide and leather, wool, boot and shoe, and cotton storage warehouses in the high value section of the city.

The amount received for fees for permits and licenses during the month totaled $1,140.25.

During the month, 1,297 permits were issued by the Wire Division for interior electrical construction, and fees amounting to $4,262.68 were collected for the same. Four fires due to electrical causes were inspected. Fourteen grants for underground conduits were passed and plans for same approved.

The various branches of the department performed their respective duties in a satisfactory and proper manner.

Very truly yours,

PARK DEPARTMENT.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR.—Your approval is respectfully asked for the transfer of the sum of $432.98 from the Special Appropriation, Gymnasium, South Boston, to the Special Appropriation, Park and Playground, Allston.

The reason this transfer is asked for is that the Law Department has approved a claim of $500 made by Joseph Rugo for delay on his contract for new field house at the Allston Playground, and the balance of the appropriation without liability is now but $67.02. The money requested is no longer needed in the appropriation for Gymnasium, South Boston.

Yours very respectfully,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR.—Your approval is respectfully asked for the transfer of the balance sum of $825.70 from the Special Appropriation, Arnold Arboretum Fence, to the Special Appropriation, Arnold Arboretum, Improvements (both appropriations were made from the Parkman Fund Income).

The reason for asking for this transfer is that the sum of $261.62 is needed to pay balance due on fence charged to Arnold Arboretum, Improvements, and the remaining balance of $564.08 will not be needed for fences but can be used for Arnold Arboretum, Improvements.

Yours very respectfully,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

BOSTON, February 6, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR.—By vote of the Board of Park Commissioners, your approval is respectfully asked for the transfer of the sum of $112.25 from the Special Appropriation, Fens Plans, to the Special Appropriation, Charlesbank Gymnasium Athletic Field Improvements (both appropriations were made from the Parkman Fund Income).

The reason this transfer is asked is that it is needed to pay two small balances due that are charged to this appropriation and is no longer needed in the appropriation for Fens Plans.

Yours very truly,

DANIEL J. BYRNE,
Secretary.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

Cemetery Division.

BOSTON, January 31, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR.—Your approval is respectfully asked for the following internal transfers in the appropriation for the Cemetery Division, Park Department:

From the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, Laborers, 41 at $4 a day, $70, to the appropriation for A-1, Permanent Employees, Stableman-Chauffeur, at $27 per week, $70.

From C-9, Office Equipment, $10.50, to C-7, Furniture and Fittings, $10.50.

From B-18, Cleaning, $15.50, to B-8, Light and Power, $15.50.

The reason for asking the above transfers is that the amounts asked are needed to pay small balances that will be due on these items.

Yours very respectfully,

JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

Transferred by the City Auditor, with the approval of the Mayor, January 31, 1923.

DORCHESTER IMPROVEMENTS.

Mayor Curley declines to commit the city to pay $5,000 toward the $50,000 estimated cost of dredging the Neponset river as it flows into Dorchester bay.

Under such a plan Milton would pay $5,000 and the state, through the Metropolitan District Commission, would shoulder the other $40,000. The entire undertaking should be financed by the state, the Mayor declares.

Mayor Curley does indorse the proposal that Victory Bridge, connecting the mainland at Commercial Point with Squantum, should be thrown open to South Shore motorists this summer, since there promises to be much congestion at the new Neponset Avenue Bridge, now in process of construction.

But to open the disused Victory Bridge would require the regular employment of six draftsmen and other attaches, and the Mayor thinks the state should aid of this expense to the city. He has requested City Bridge Engineer John Carty to take the matter up with state authorities and those of Quincy.

Mayor Curley suggested the location of a playground across the street from the Mary Hemenway School in Adams street, rather than adjoining the Daly Industrial School, as at first proposed.

CONSTRUCTION WORK.

The Mayor has approved the following construction work requested by the Commissioner of Public Works:

A sanitary sewer of 10-inch earthen pipe in Milton street, between Wordsworth street and a point 103 feet north-easterly, in the East Boston district, at an estimated cost of $615.

REPORT OF THE CITY PLANNING BOARD.

Mayor Curley has received from the City Planning Board the following report, setting forth some of the major activities of the department during the year 1922, together with those contemplated for 1923:

GENERAL COMMITTEE ON CITY PLANNING.

The department has co-operated with your Honor in the organization of a General Committee on City Planning, made up of 200 men and women representative of the industrial, commercial, religious, financial, labor and educational organizations of the city.

COMPREHENSIVE CITY PLAN.

At the request of this department your honor has placed a small appropriation ($10,000) at its disposal for the first steps in the preparation of a Comprehensive City Plan and Zoning Ordinance for the City of Boston. This has enabled the Board to retain the services of Mr. Nelson P. Lewis, for thirty years Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of New York City, as its general consultant. Assurances of co-operation in the work have been received from the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Boston Real Estate Exchange, League of Women Voters, Boston Society of Landscape Architects, Boston Society of Civil Engineers.

ZONING WORK.

A Zoning Advisory Commission has been formed, made up of representatives of the following organizations: Associated Industries of Massachusetts, Boston Central Labor Union, Boston Chamber of Commerce, Boston Real Estate Exchange, Boston Society of Architects, Boston Society of Landscape Architects, Boston Society of Civil Engineers, Master Builders' Association, Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Team Owners' Association, United Improvement Association.

This commission is holding meetings regularly and through its sub-committee on Legal Matters has made an exhaustive study of existing legislation with regard to height of buildings, scope of zoning law, etc.

In the meantime, the actual preparation of a zoning plan is going forward rapidly in this office, under the direction of Mr. Arthur C. Comey. The work up to the present time includes completion of set of base maps, 500-foot scale, preparation of street and lot maps, 200-foot scale, three-fourths complete, completion of six maps of general statistics, including population curves and distribution, height of buildings downtown, fire limits, building code provisions, and building height zones, street grade and contour maps under way, detail zoning data maps in preparation, study of city building code and zoning ordinances elsewhere, tentative draft for zoning ordinance being formulated.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION.

The department has co-operated with a joint committee on Street Traffic Conditions, consisting of representatives of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, the Boston Real Estate Exchange and the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange. Various surveys will be made to ascertain facts concerning the existing traffic conditions. The first of these showed, by actual count, 6,185 motor and horse drawn vehicles parked within the city proper during the course of one hour. Of this number, only 12 per cent were in authorized parking places.

PLAYGROUND STUDIES.

The recommendation of the Board with regard to Block 30, North End, providing for the acquisition by the City of Boston of the Congregation Beth Israel property, the demolition of the synagogue, the extension of Baldwin place through to North Margin street, and the development of the area remaining as a community playground, has been adopted, and $70,000 appropriated for carrying out the plan.

The Board has recommended that a playground be established in the Readville section of the Hyde Park district, in the area bounded by Sprague, Fleet, Readville and Cross streets, containing approximately 528 acres, assessed for $18,200.

The suggestion that the vacant land adjoining the George F. Willett factory in Hyde Park be acquired for playground purposes has been investigated and reported upon adversely, for the reason that the property is better adapted to industrial than to recreational use.

The suggestion made by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Mattapan Citizens' Association, Inc., that the parcel of land bordering on Oakland street, between Kennebec and Itasca streets, be acquired for playground purposes, has been investigated and reported upon adversely, for the reason that the district is but sparsely populated, and the land in question poorly adapted to playground use.

Playground conditions in the Phillips Brooks School district have been studied, plans brought up to date, and the recommendation made in April, 1921, providing for the purchase by the City of Boston of vacant land at the junction of Ceylon street and Columbia road, containing approximately 34 acres, assessed for $30,000, was renewed.

EXETER STREET YARDS.

An engineering investigation of the possibility of arceding the car storage space between Huntington avenue and Boylston street, Massachusetts avenue and Exeter street, with a view to creating a convenient and adequate parking space that will relieve the city streets downtown has been made, and the opinion has been submitted that the cost of construction, estimated at $250,000, in comparison with the purpose served, rendered the plan prohibitive.

RIVER STREET (HYDE PARK) WIDENING.

Conditions on River street, Hyde Park, between Tileston and Wachusett streets, have been investigated and the recommendation made that a narrow sidewalk be constructed with a curb 8 to 10 inches above the street level, with conforming construction on the bridge over the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad tracks, in order to afford protection from passing vehicles at the outer edge of the existing sidewalk.

COLUMBIA ROAD AND STRANDWAY IMPROVEMENTS.

Conditions in the vicinity of Columbia road and the Strandway have been studied, with a view to meeting the constantly increasing traffic demands at these points and the recommendations have been made:

(a) That Marine road be resurfaced with permanent pavement and one way regulations enforced.

(b) That the causeway be extended to Castle Island with a boulevard and loop on the southerly side of the island itself.

(c) That Summer street be widened from a point near the Army Base to the Strandway.

(d) That Preble street from Andrews square to the Strandway be widened and conditioned.

DARTMOUTH STREET BRIDGE.

The suggestion of Mr. William J. McDonald for a new bridge from Dartmouth street to a point just below the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, thus obviating the necessity for locating a new temporary bridge in case of the replacement of Harvard Bridge, has been studied and reported upon adversely, in view of the fact that, in the opinion of the City Planning Board, the interests of the city would be better served and at less expense by the widening of Court and Cambridge streets and the extension of Causeway street, with a temporary bridge across the Charles river when necessary, than by a new bridge at Dartmouth street as proposed.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

In the street widening and extension program submitted to the Legislature by your Honor, the following improvements have been studied and reported upon by this Board:

(a) Exchange street, widening recommended in 1920.

(b) Province street, recommended in 1914.

(c) Portland street extension, taking of the entire triangle, recommended in 1922.

(d) Second stop in proposed western artery from Tremont and Eliot streets to Washington street. The City Planning Board hopes it will be possible to carry this to Phillips square at least.

(e) Summer street, from the Army Base to the Strandway, recommended in 1922.

(f) Cambridge and Court streets, from Charles street to Scollay square, recommended by the City Planning Board in 1920. The Board hopes this will also include the extension of Causeway street.

MUNICIPAL STADIUM.

Information has been assembled with regard to area, capacity, and cost of stadiums in various municipalities, together with studies of sites for a similar development here in Boston.

MUNICIPAL THEATER.

Details of outdoor theater in St. Louis have been assembled in conjunction with Park Department.

NAVY YARD.

A suggestion that the city acquire the Navy Yard and develop the area along the front as a Strandway, was studied, and in a report submitted to your Honor, the necessity for its retention and utilization in its present capacity was emphasized. If diverted to other uses, the City Planning Board urged that it have consideration for commercial purposes, for use as a free port, and for recreation.

REMOVAL OF GENERAL POSTOFFICE.

The proposition to exchange the plot of ground bounded by Columbus avenue, Berkeley, Chandler and Clarendon streets, with a building of first-class construction thereon, sufficient to house all postoffice and other Federal activities in Boston, for the present general post office at Post Office square was investigated and a report was submitted to your Honor under date of March 21, 1922. The conclusion reached was that the negative arguments outweighed the advantages to be derived from such a transfer, and the recommendation was made that your Honor request an adverse decision on the part of the Joint Commission on Postal Service.

SURVEY—BALTIMORE, DETROIT, GALVESTON AND NEW ORLEANS.

Information with regard to municipal improvements under way or proposed in Baltimore, Detroit, Galveston and New Orleans was assembled and submitted to your Honor under date of March 31, 1922.

BOSTON TRADE SCHOOL PROGRAM.

The suggestion has been made that a public trade school program for the city of Boston should be developed in order to increase the number and efficiency of skilled workers. This matter is still under consideration.

CO-OPERATION AND PUBLICITY.

Representatives of the department have spoken before the following organizations with regard to various phases of city planning work: West Roxbury Women's Club, Boston City Federation, School for Public Service, Dorchester League of Women Voters, Women's Club of East Boston High School Center, Boston Society of Civil Engineers, South End Improvement Association, Beacon Hill Associates, Citizens' Committee of Dorchester, Boston Principals' Association.

The Department co-operated by attendance at meetings, correspondence, suggestions, etc., with the Boston Clean-up Committee in its annual campaign.

The work of the National Civic Federation in its plan for a Street Fair, now abandoned, for the benefit of the Children's Hospital, was participated in by representatives of this department. Meetings were attended regularly and considerable preliminary work accomplished.

Requests have been received in several instances for permission to use material from reports of the City Planning Board in the preparation of civic text-books.

The department has participated in the work of a committee appointed to consider the question of filming the activities of the city as a means of stimulating public interest in municipal matters, in bringing about a better understanding of municipal income and expenditures, and in achieving closer co-operation between the citizens and the various municipal departments. A report relative thereto was submitted to your Honor under date of May 24, 1922.

A considerable amount of material with regard to city planning in Boston has been prepared for use in technical journals and other publications. The City Planning Board co-operated as joint hosts with the Department of Public Welfare and the Massachusetts Federation of Planning Boards at the Ninth Annual Conference of Massachusetts Planning Boards held on Wednesday, November 22. The morning was devoted to a discussion of general matters, the afternoon to metropolitan subjects, and the evening, for which this department was directly responsible, to zoning and regional problems.

Some of the best known city planning and zoning experts in the country have appeared here before various organizations during the past year, including Thomas Adams, who is to donate two days' time to the work here on his next visit to Boston; Edward M. Bassett, formerly chairman of the Committee on Building Districts and Restrictions of New York City; Lawson Purdy, formerly Tax Commissioner of New York City, and at present President of the National Conference on City Planning; Nelson P. Lewis, who has spoken before various organizations in addition to his work as general consultant to this Board; Flavel Shurtleff, secretary of the National Conference on City Planning.

PROGRAM FOR 1923

The City Planning Board hopes to make substantial progress in the preparation of a Comprehensive City Plan for the City of Boston during the year 1923. This will include the completion of a zoning plan, a continuation of traffic studies, and other surveys and recommendations regarding streets, playgrounds, public buildings, etc.

Respectfully submitted,

ELISABETH M. HERLIHY,
Secretary.

INDORSEMENT OF MAYOR.

Mayor Curley received the following letter of indorsement from the Family Welfare Society of Boston, upon the 10th instant:

FAMILY WELFARE SOCIETY,
43 HAWKINS STREET, BOSTON,
February 10, 1923.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

MY DEAR SIR,—The conference of the Bureau for the Aged of the Family Welfare Society passed the following resolution at a recent meeting:

"It is hereby resolved that the Conference of the Bureau for the Aged of the Family Welfare Society of Boston heartily indorses and approves the plan of the Mayor to move the hospital for the poor of Boston, now at Long Island, to some suitable location on the mainland, with the sincere hope and wish that it may be expedited as soon as possible."

This conference represents the attitude of delegates from the hospitals, homes and public and private relief agencies dealing with the problems of the aged poor of Boston.

Respectfully yours,

ANNE WILSON,
Secretary, Conference of the Bureau for the Aged Poor.

THE CITY'S FISCAL STATUS.

Rupert S. Carven, City Auditor, made the following statement relative to the financial condition of the City of Boston, upon the 12th instant:

Statements appearing in the public press concerning a so-called deficit for the financial year 1922-23 are entirely misleading, because they are not based upon facts. The confusion results from considering the cash actually collected in any year as being the only amount available for the expenses of the year, whereas all the taxes assessed for the year, whether or not collected, are available for payment for the expenses of the year. The law has provided for this situation by allowing municipalities to borrow in anticipation of these uncollected taxes, because it is quite evident how impossible it is to collect all taxes by the end of the year.

Any business man selling goods on credit may have such a small cash balance as to make it necessary to borrow from time to time, due to the large amount owing to him from customers. It is no different with municipalities. Boston has uncollected 1922 taxes at January 31 of over $5,300,000, of which, after allowing for abatements and uncollectibles, $4,500,000 should be good.

It should be kept clearly in mind that every effort is being made to pay all known liabilities for the year, contra to the custom of the past, of carrying over to the new year two months of invoices and one month of monthly pay rolls. To accomplish this the accounts are still open for payment of these liabilities, while the cash receipts were closed by the collector at the close of business January 31, thus indicating there was no attempt to boost receipts by keeping open in February. As a matter of fact, there have been collected to February 10, inclusive, over $300,000 of 1922 taxes.

It is unfortunate that such irresponsible statements should appear in the press concerning the financial affairs of the city; rather should the administration be praised for its efforts to place the city on a business basis, by adopting the pay-as-you-go policy, even though an apparent deficit occurred.

The following statement is approximate only, due to the accounts being still open:

Total amount of appropriations including state tax and assessments to be provided for by taxes and income for fiscal year 1922-23.....	$5,545,436.89
Collections during year:
Taxes for 1922.....	$36,733,484.85
All other sources, 15,439,103.53.....
Total cash collections less refunds.....	52,172,588.38
Apparent excess of payments over receipts if every cent appropriated were expended.....	$1,372,848.51
But there will be un-used balances in appropriations of approximately.....	$500,000.00
Plus outstanding 1922 uncollected taxes of $5,300,000 which should produce after abatements.....	4,500,000.00
	$5,000,000.00
Less estimated excess payments as above.....	1,372,848.51
Indicating a real surplus without including outstanding taxes of prior years of.....	$5,627,151.49

It therefore follows that if two contractors name the same price and one specifies a higher B. T. U. it is equivalent to specifying a lower price. If he delivers oil of a higher B. T. U. it follows that a smaller quantity would be needed to produce the same amount of heat, or if he failed to deliver oil with the higher B. T. U. and delivered oil with the same B. T. U. as his competitor there would be an adjustment of the price, which would bring the price paid for the oil down below that of his competitor.

The case now before the School Committee the difference in the B. T. U. specified by the two contractors amounts to 7/100 of one cent per gallon, or about $216.00 of one quantity estimated. It is, therefore, my opinion that the contract should be entered into with the Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation at the price named, that organization and with the guarantee specified in its bid.

There is one slight defect in the bid submitted by the above organization in that on page 6 of the proposal it failed to set forth on the line "B. T. U. per pound of fuel oil as delivered" under "Data to Establish a Basis for Payment," the number of B. T. U. per pound which it had set forth on the line "Heating Value (B. T. U. per pound)" on the last line of the paragraph under "Fuel Oil" which it had declared they proposed to furnish.

I have discussed this matter carefully with Mr. Silverman of the Law Department and have been advised that this point can be fairly and legally taken care of by rejecting the bids and entering into a contract with the Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation without further advertising, and that such is the common method of dealing with such situations where the interests of the city are best served, in such a manner.

I see no reason to do otherwise as the proposals were fully advertised, copies of the advertisement were sent to every organization who expressed any interest in the matter, as well as to several organizations who were reported to me by our fuel expert as being able to deliver the oil if awarded the contract. The only other way which the matter could be handled would be to reject the bids and readvertise. This is an expedient that is of little value. It is an expedient which is unfair to organizations submitting bids in unfair to organizations who do not submit bids as it discloses to competitors who did not bid the first time the figures which they submitted and gives such organizations an unfair advantage. Other departments of the city who have resorted to this policy too frequently find themselves unable to bid on their organizations of good standing to bid on their organizations with the result that competition is limited to very few firms and prices become excessive. I have, therefore, submitted and disapproved to your honorable committee the execution of a contract with the Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation at the figures and with the guarantee named in their proposal.

The Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation has been advised that such action is subject to your final approval and that they must not enter a contract until it has been executed by a member of the board.

I am sending copies of this letter to each member of the Board, and with the request that whichever member is handed the contract to sign will confer with the other members before signing it and make sure that a majority of the Board favors such action.

I am taking this step for the reason that considerable pressure has been brought to bear upon the officers to do otherwise and I have thought it well to place before the members of the Board all the facts.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM T. KEOUGH,
Business Agent.

The Finance Commission wishes to emphasize two statements in the foregoing letter of the Business Agent of the School Committee. The first is the reason given by the Business Agent as to why it was inadvisable to readvertise for bids. The commission believes this policy of the Business Agent is sound and for the best interests of the city. The second matter is contained in the last paragraph of the Business Agent's letter, which indicates the pressure brought to bear upon the Business Agent by city officials acting for or under the direction of the Mayor to do otherwise than his own best judgment dictated.

The following report of the Business Agent made at the time indicates how the matter was finally dealt with by the School Committee:

THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S CONFERENCE.

MONDAY, JULY 31, 1922.

The matter of the award of the contract for fuel oil for five school buildings, proposals for which were advertised on Saturday, July 15, 1922, and bids on which were opened on Monday, July 24, 1922, was brought up for discussion.

The following were present: Mr. William C. McTarnahan and another, representing the Petroleum Heat and Power Company; Mr. Kelley, representing the Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation; and Mr. Perry Barker, consulting fuel expert to the Business Agent.

The Business Agent recommended that all bids be rejected for the reason that the one which made the best offer, that of the Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation, was defective, in that, through error or inadvertence, the bidder failed to enter under "Data to Establish a Basis for Payment," heating value which he had specified he proposed to furnish under "Quality of Fuel Oil."

He recommended that contract be awarded, without further advertising, to the Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation, for the reason that such action appears to be best for the interests of the city.

Both representatives of the Petroleum Heat and Power Company, representative of the Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation and Mr. Barker presented their views.

The majority of the Board expressed their approval of the recommendation of the Business Agent, and the chairman signed the contract with the Ballard Fuel Oil Terminal Corporation.

In the opinion of the Finance Commission the foregoing report of the Business Agent is a sufficient refutation of the intimation made by the Corporation Counsel on February 1 before your committee, and verifies what the chairman of the Finance Commission said on that date with regard to the interference of city officials having no duty in the premises with the duties of the Business Agent of the School Committee, in an effort to direct the placing of a contract to other than the lowest bidder.

All of the foregoing the Finance Commission submits as additional evidence why the Schoolhouse Commission should be appointed by the School Committee and not by the Mayor.

The commission wishes also to submit to your Honorable Committee the cost of first-class construction per cubic foot in other large cities of the country, and two other Massachusetts cities, for comparison with the cost in Boston; also the cost per pupil for repairs and alterations in these same cities, as compared with the cost of repairs and alterations in Boston. This information has been received from the cities named within a few days.

It appears that in the matter of new first-class construction Boston is paying 45.9 cents per cubic foot for high school construction and 53 cents per cubic foot for elementary. The following table shows the cost of both high and elementary construction in:

	Per cu. ft.
Worcester, Mass.	$0.19
Springfield, Mass.	30
San Francisco	33
Pittsburgh, Pa.	37
Denver, Col.	39
Philadelphia	37 1/2
Chicago	39
Cincinnati	40
Cleveland	40
Rochester, N. J.	41
Newark, N. J.	44
New York City	60

The cost of alterations and repairs in Boston is $8 per pupil per year, as compared with:

Denver	$1.10
Rochester, N. Y.	1.30
San Francisco	2.90
Newark, N. J.	2.90
Cincinnati	3.00
Philadelphia	3.70

St. Louis	4.30
Pittsburgh, Pa.	4.40
Cleveland	4.80
New York City	5.00
Springfield, Mass.	6.00
Chicago	6.40

Boston has 122,000 public school children, for whom it pays about $200,000 a year more for repairs than the city of Chicago pays for the same number of pupils. Boston pays $524,000 more per year for repairs and alterations of school buildings than does the city of Philadelphia for the same number of pupils.

The Finance Commission believes that this excessive cost of repairs and alterations of school buildings would be saved if the appointment of the Schoolhouse Commission was made by the School Committee.

Respectfully submitted,

THE FINANCE COMMISSION,
By MICHAEL H. SULLIVAN,
Chairman.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, has submitted the following reply:

Boston, February 15, 1923.

The Honorable The Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, State House, Boston, Mass.

GENTLEMEN:—The Boston Finance Commission late this afternoon (February 15) sent to my Honor Mayor Curley a copy of a "brief" which is ostensibly addressed to your committee, and I desire to reply thereto as the legislative representative of the Mayor of the City of Boston.

The chairman of the Finance Commission represents that this "brief" to your committee which has before it the Schoolhouse Commission bill, was provoked by a statement made by me at a hearing on February 1. You will remember that the proponents and supporters of this bill were heard first, and among them was the Finance Commission chairman, Mr. Michael Sullivan, who ended his argument by saying that he would like to "submit a brief." This is only one of five promised briefs that Mr. Michael Sullivan has already asked legislative committees permission to file. Apparently Mr. Michael Sullivan prefers to file his statements privately in order to escape the embarrassment of having his statements refuted upon hearing before the committee.

Your committee will remember that I appeared in opposition to the bill and was heard subsequent to Mr. Michael Sullivan, and because of statements which he had made respecting alleged improprieties on the part of the Schoolhouse Commission by attempting to interfere with the work of the School Committee, I cited the oil contracts, and said in the face of his interruption that in that instance the Schoolhouse Commission was supported by at least two members of the School Committee, namely, Miss Curtis and Dr. Bogan. This phase of the question has, in consequence of the discussion which took place before your committee, already received great publicity, in so far as Mr. Keough, the Business Agent of the School Committee, is quoted in the Finance Commission's report as referring to me and my relations with the matter of the oil contract, I may briefly say this:

The following the opening of bids for fuel oil Mr. Keough came to this department and consulted with my assistant, Mr. Silverman. His conference with Mr. Silverman was reported to me by Mr. Silverman. The price bid by the only two competitors was the same with the difference of only 300 B. T. U.'s, with a maximum of 18,500 B. T. U.'s as the standard. The Ballard Company bid 18,200. The Petroleum Heat and Power Company bid 18,500 B. T. U.'s. The Ballard Company failed in their proposal to make answer to a very important question in the specifications. In view of the fact that the difference between the quality of the oil specified was so infinitesimal, and the further fact that oil never runs uniformly, it was extremely important that some basis of adjustment should be had. The Petroleum Heat and Power Company in their bid has assented to a form of adjustment in such cases as specified in the School Committee's proposal. The Ballard Company failed to assent in their bid to the specification for adjustment as contained in the School Committee's proposal.

Despite the fact that the Ballard Company had failed to specify how the adjustment should be had in case their oil fell below the maximum B. T. U.'s, Mr. Keough expressed to my assistant, Mr. Silverman, his desire to award this contract to the Ballard Company, and wanted to know how, under the charter provisions of the Act of 1909 this could be done. Mr. Silverman advised him that he might reject both proposals, and ask the School Committee to award the contract to the Ballard Company without further advertisement. It was because of the suspicion thus created in Mr. Silverman's mind, and in my mind, when my assistant reported to me, that I consulted the Mayor of the city, and reported to him what was then transpiring. I was forced, however, to advise the Mayor that under the Charter Act of 1909, he could not interfere with this matter, which was entirely in the hands of the School Committee, and unless he was satisfied that there was a case of palpable favoritism between the Business Agent of the School Committee and the Ballard Company, there was no alternative left to me, as the law officer of the city, but to approve the contract as to form. In spite of the suspicion of favoritism entertained by my department, Mr. Keough, the Business Agent of the School Committee did recommend to his committee that they award the contract to the Ballard Company, and it was so awarded. It will be apparent to your committee that as the bid originally stood, the lowest bidder, in fact, the only legal bidder, was the Petroleum Heat and Power Company.

Despite Mr. Michael Sullivan's statements before your Board, all to the contrary, you will remember that though Miss Curtis said nothing at your hearing, she was quoted in the papers next day to the effect that she and Dr. Bogan did vote against awarding the contract to Mr. Keough's favorite, namely, the Ballard Company. This decision was arrived at after hearing representatives of both bidding companies. Despite the further statements of Mr. Michael Sullivan to the contrary, you will remember that the five members of the School Committee publicly denied in the papers of the day following our hearing, that the Mayor in any way attempted to influence their decision either directly or indirectly.

Mr. Maher of the Schoolhouse Commission frankly admits that he attempted to influence the award of this contract after the bids were opened. Mr. Maher is a competent engineer and graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, with a special training in mechanical engineering. It is he who is chiefly responsible for introducing oil-burning heating systems into the public schools of Boston. He was concerned about the success of these systems, more particularly when the only two concerns that were bidding for the furnishing of oil were the two concerns that were the chief competitors in bidding for the apparatus that was installed. That he might be assured of the responsibility of the Petroleum Heat and Power Company, the company whose apparatus had been accepted and installed, he did insist that all other things being equal, that their oil should in the first stages of the operation of this apparatus be preferred. In this way there would be no division of responsibility or pretext for evasion. This would insure to the City of Boston the most favorable circumstances for testing the efficiency of the apparatus installed and protect the rights of the city under the guarantee contained in the contract of installation. Mr. Maher attempted to bring this compelling circumstance to the attention of Mr. Keough.

Mr. Glynn, chairman of the Schoolhouse Commission, was quite solicitous that the rights of the city in this particular instance should be fully protected, and was so eager and anxious in this respect as to go to Mr. Keough in company with Mr. Maher, his associate on the Schoolhouse Commission, but had no telephone communication with Mr. Keough, as he states. Neither of these two members of the Schoolhouse Commission were influenced by the Mayor of the city, to whom always they are ultimately responsible and might properly be expected to report, especially in a matter of such great importance as the one now before us. On this visit, and on no other occasion, did either Mr. Glynn or Mr. Maher make mention of the Mayor's attitude with respect to the awarding of this contract. The equities of their demand were so palpable there was no necessity of invoking the authority of their superior. No further answer, I believe, is required to the irresponsible text of Mr. Michael Sullivan's brief, on this point at least.

With respect to Mr. Michael Sullivan's tabulation of the cost per cubic foot for school construction, but little need be said, in view of the fact that he represents the Boston costs for high school construction as 45.9 per cent, and the cost in Newark, N. J., at 44 per cent, and New York City at 60 per cent. Our only conclusion is that the represented cost for the city of Worcester, namely, 19 per cent, is either an egregiously false statement, or one established upon an inadequate and worthless basis of comparison.

Sufficient to say in this respect that Mr. Michael Sullivan would now have your committee recommend a bill that would place the business affairs of the Schoolhouse Commission in the hands of this same business agent of the School Committee, whose business acumen and disposition for favoritism is splendidly illustrated in the foregoing statement. Mr. Keough audits his own accounts. The infirmities of such a system earned for itself the adverse criticism of the Finance Commission some six or eight years ago, in which they said "so that the purchasing and auditing are again in the same hands, which manifestly should not be allowed to continue for any length of time."

Respectfully submitted,

E. MARK SULLIVAN,
Corporation Counsel.

AMENDMENT TO RETIREMENT ACT.

Mayor Curley addressed the following brief to the members of the Committee on Social Welfare of the Massachusetts Legislature, relative to his amendment to the Boston Retirement Act, providing for a minimum allowance upon the 16th instant:

To the Honorable, the Committee on Social Welfare, State House, Boston, Mass.:

GENTLEMEN,—At the hearing upon the amendment to the City of Boston Retirement Act presented by me, the chairman of the Finance Commission declared that the lower salaried city employees would suffer rather than benefit were the perfecting amendment adopted. Upon objections being raised to the contention of the chairman of the Finance Commission the chairman of the Committee on Social Welfare declared that he was desirous of securing the view point of the actuary employed by the Finance Commission in the drafting of the city of Boston Retirement Act and such other information or arguments as might be presented with reference to the proposed amendment to the Boston Retirement Act.

I have communicated with Mr. George B. Buck, the actuary, and beg to present copy of telegram received from him and also brief containing information requested.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

(Copy of Brief.)

ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF THE ENACTMENT OF HOUSE BILL NO. 382, ESTABLISHING A MINIMUM RETIREMENT ALLOWANCE UNDER THE CITY OF BOSTON RETIREMENT ACT.

The City of Boston Retirement Act which was enacted by the Legislature in 1922 and accepted by the City Council and the Mayor is undoubtedly, except in one important particular, the best pension system which has been placed on the statute books up to the present time. It provides for a retirement allowance for employees based on equal contributions from the employee and the city and the amount of allowance is governed by the length of service and the age of retirement.

A possible objection to the theory of the act, however, is the fact that each year of service with the city is not given an equal value in determining the pension. This is owing to the effect of compound interest on the accumulations. For example:

An employee who received an average salary of $1,250 during his service with the city and retiring after fifteen years receives a retirement allowance of approximately $200.

After 16 years.....	$218 or $18 more.
After 17 years.....	$236 or $18 more.
After 18 years.....	$256 or $20 more.
After 32 years.....	$627.
After 33 years.....	$662 or $35 more.
After 34 years.....	$698 or $36 more.

That is, a year of service after thirteen years gives an increase in pension of twice as much as a year of service after fifteen years.

This ratio holds true for any rate of salary and the result is that the retirement allowances for the lesser lengths of service are so small as to be almost negligible.

It seemed to me, therefore, that a contributory pension system to be at all worthy of the name should provide a retirement allowance after a fair period of service that at least would go a little ways toward providing the necessities of life for the retired employees, and certainly $480 a year or less than $10 a week, after fifteen years of service, is not extravagant, especially in view of the fact that, for most of the present employees and for all of the future employees, a portion of the allowance will be the result of their own contributions.

Under the act without the proposed amendment an employee receiving $1,300 per annum must have completed twenty-nine years of service with the city in order to be retired at age of 60, with a retirement allowance of $480. An employee receiving $1,600 per annum must have completed twenty-three years of service and an employee receiving $1,800, twenty-one years of service in order to receive that allowance, and the employees having only fifteen years of service must have received an average salary of $3,000 in order to be retired at age of 60 with a retirement allowance of $480.

It follows, therefore, that all present employees whose average salary has been $1,300 or less and whose service before retirement is less than twenty-nine years but more than fifteen years will be materially assisted by the amendment providing for a minimum retirement allowance of $480 and that even those receiving average salaries of more than $1,300 will also, within certain limits, be benefited.

The proposed amendment was submitted after a conference with Mr. George B. Buck, the actuary employed by the Finance Commission, and perhaps the foremost authority on pensions in America, Mr. Buck, while opposed to a maximum restriction, assured me that the provision for a minimum would not injure to it if the city was willing to assume the expense.

I have in my possession a report from him based on the records of employees collected by the commission that 3,698 employees out of a total of 14,297 will be benefited by the proposed amendment and of that 3,698, 3,160 will be from the labor subdivision, which includes laborers, mechanics, scrubwomen, janitors, in fact all employees who do manual labor.

Mr. Buck has also furnished an estimate which shows that if the minimum of $480 is adopted, the increased cost to the city will be considerably less than 7 per cent of the expenditure to which the city is already committed.

It seems no more than simple justice and equity to provide at this comparatively small expense that the 3,600 present employees who come within the scope of this amendment should be retired when their time comes with a retirement allowance sufficiently large to be worthy of the name, and that the future employees in the classes whose wages are small and who will earn one half of their retirement allowance by their own contributions will receive after twenty years of service at least a larger pension on the city's side than $145 a year which is the actual figure for a laborer entering at age 40 and retiring at age 60 under the act as it now stands.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

ST. LOUIS IMPROVEMENTS.

Mayor Curley received the following telegram today from the St. Louis Star, St. Louis, Mo.:

His Honor the Mayor of Boston:

St. Louis adopted hundred million dollar bond issue to practically remake this municipality into highest type modern city in world by the erection of a civic center to include new courthouse, public auditorium, memorial to soldier dead, aquarium, down town plaza, greater boulevard system, new hospitals, public farms for sick and needy, elimination of grade crossings and many other great improvements of which you no doubt have read in past week. Will you not kindly wire us at once in your official capacity as mayor 300 words stating what stimulus this example will give to your city in further public improvement projects in the race to retain your present position among American cities.

Mayor Curley addressed the following answer:

Editor St. Louis Star, St. Louis, Mo.:

The contemplated expenditure of one hundred million dollars by the city of St. Louis, in its program of civic development, meets my hearty approval. I congratulate your community upon this proof that the vision, courage, energy and commercial sagacity of the pioneers who laid broad and deep the foundation of your city still survive to guide and inspire your leadership.

The sole purpose of all government is to transact the public business; and the expenditure of great sums of money to anticipate and stimulate the industrial and commercial growth and development of a great community like St. Louis is the part of wisdom and the true function of democratic government. Parsimony is never economy. Wise expenditure of great sums for fruitful public work is never extravagance, for true economy is expenditure without taste, that is productive of prosperity for posterity. Lack of vision, courage and faith means timid leadership, arrested growth, lost opportunity and civic decay. Boston has these qualities, but she lags because they are asleep. The example of St. Louis may wake up and show us that not the size and volume of expenditures but the sanity and purpose of their use constitute true economy and fruitful investment.

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

MAYORS OF BOSTON.

In its 100 years of existence as a city Boston has had 36 elected Mayors and five ex-officio Acting Mayors. Of the 36 men who have held the office for one year or more, six were elected for other than consecutive terms and 25 were re-elected one or more times. Those born within the present limits of Boston numbered 21; in towns near Boston, 8; in neighboring New England States, 5; in Ireland, 2. PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, February 5, 1923.

The first meeting of the City Council of 1923 was held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 11:30 a. m., members and members-elect being present. Absent—Coun. Brickley.

Senior member, Coun. HAGAN, took the chair and called the members to order.

On motion of Coun. LANE, a committee of two was appointed by the chair to escort his Honor the Mayor to the Council Chamber.

The Chair declared the motion carried and appointed Coun. Lane and Walsh as said committee to escort his Honor Mayor Curley to the Council Chamber.

The committee, accompanied by the City Treasurer, retired at 11:32 a. m. and returned presently with the Mayor and chaplain and suite.

The Mayor then took the chair, rapped to order, and said: "The audience will now give their attention while the chaplain, Rev. Arthur T. Connelly, leads us in prayer."

In the name of the Father, of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, Amen.

We pray Thee, Almighty and Eternal God, God of power and wisdom and justice, through whom all authority is rightly administered, assist with Thy holy spirit of counsel and truth the members of the Boston City Council, that all their deliberations may be conducted in righteousness and that they may be eminently useful and beneficial to the people of our beloved city.

This blessing, O God of love, we ask of Thee through no merits of our own, but through the superabundant merits of Thy beloved Son, our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, to Whom be all honor, praise and glory, forever.

Our Father, Who art in Heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. Amen.

After taking the oath the members-elect then took their seats with the other members, and his Honor Mayor Curley then read his message. (See City Record of February 10, page 143, for account of Mayor Curley.)

Hopkins, 287 Columbia road, Dorchester; Paul V. Di Ciro, 220 Hanover street, Boston; Thomas J. Crowley, 18 Carney street, Charlestown.

LABORATORY, ETC., CITY HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 5, 1923.

To the City Council:
Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith report and request of the Boston City Hospital trustees for an appropriation in the sum of $65,000 for the purchase and installation of laboratory, X-ray and ward equipment in the Thorndike Memorial Hospital Building, and respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Boston, July 14, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Thorndike Memorial Building for research work is rapidly approaching completion, and the trustees desire to purchase the necessary furniture and equipment. A very careful study of the same has been made by Dr. Francis W. Peabody, the director, Dr. Paul Butler, chief of the X-ray Department, and a working estimate of costs obtained. It becomes necessary, therefore, to request an appropriation for the purposes outlined above.

On behalf of the trustees, I respectfully request that you grant a special appropriation of $65,000 to install the necessary laboratory, X-ray and ward equipment in the Thorndike Memorial Building. The unpaid balance of approximately $30,000 in the Thorndike Fund, but the City Auditor has informed me that inasmuch as this money was provided by the city for construction, this balance could not be used for any purpose other than construction. There is some further work to be done, such as laying concrete walks, installing awnings, curtains, etc., which will be an addition to the contract, and I believe it would be wise to leave this balance until the building is completed. The terms of the Thorndike will specifically state that the money provided under that will could not be used for anything other than construction.

Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH P. MANNING,
President Board of Trustees.

Hospital Department,

Boston, December 13, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Under date of July 14, 1922, on behalf of the trustees I wrote to you with reference to a special appropriation of $65,000 to install the necessary laboratory, X-ray and ward equipment and furniture for the Thorndike Memorial Laboratory. I regret to say that the trustees are still of the opinion that inasmuch as additions and some changes will be necessary in the Thorndike Memorial, the unexpended balance of approximately $30,000 in the Thorndike Memorial Fund should be left for such purposes, and respectfully request that their original request be granted. The auditor has stated that the unexpended balance could be used for permanent equipment. The trustees hesitate to use this money, because they feel that it may be needed for completing the building. The building is rapidly nearing completion, and if equipped can be ready for use on or before April 1. The lists of laboratory, X-ray and ward furniture are in, and the trustees would like to place them in the hands of the Supply Department for purchase. They are all necessary and should be purchased and opened for the purposes for which it was constructed. Therefore, on behalf of the trustees, I respectfully request that $65,000 additional be granted so that the contract may be awarded for the equipment of the building.

When the building is fully completed and equipped, the trustees will immediately notify you of any unexpended balance so that you may use the same for any purpose which you may deem wise.

You are probably aware that the opening of this building is looked for by the medical world throughout the country with a great deal of interest, and for the trustees it is a matter of pride to have it ready for occupancy at the earliest possible moment.

Yours respectfully,
JOSEPH P. MANNING,
President Board of Trustees.

Ordered, That the sum of $65,000 be appropriated to be expended by the trustees of the City Hospital for furnishing and equipping the Thorndike Memorial Laboratory, and to meet any appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance, when appointed.

THE MEMORY OF WASHINGTON.

ADDRESS OF HIS HONOR JAMES M. CURLEY, MAYOR OF BOSTON, AT THE WASHINGTON CLUB, LOWELL,
FEBRUARY 22, 1923.

One philosopher says, "Republics are ungrateful"; another says, "put not your trust in princes"; and whether it be prince or republican, great man or poor man, the fact remains that the average man in the average country is not so much ungrateful as he is unreflecting and light thinking.

A great man's contemporaries do not always appreciate a great man's greatness; they are too close to him; they can see that he is a man like themselves and they are inclined to believe they are as great as he but less fortunate. The great things a man does for his country and generation are seldom valued at their true worth by his contemporaries; when he has passed on and the generation that knew him has followed, then and then only do we begin to get his perspective, his measurement in relation to other men, and the real stature of the man is recognized.

The church wisely refuses to enshrine the idea of giving honors to men and women until hundreds of years after death; and this traditional usage of the church is merely the application of the verdicts of posterity to one particular phase. Posterity is the audience that looks at dead men and weighs their accomplishments and failure, their strength and weakness, their service and disservice to man and the world in the balance, and gives a verdict that endures.

A wise man has said that "death loves a shining mark," and it can be said with equal truth that slander and envy love a great human target at which to hurl their venomous shaft. The men who are ultimately enshrined in the honor and affection of their countrymen, who stand unchallenged in the hall of fame, with their names emblazoned in the calendar of national saints, are all men who have given their country and kind great service in their hour and place and who have also suffered from the unworthy assaults of the mean and envious, the mercenary and malevolent, selfish and revengeful. Only when death intervenes to make the great one insensible to the assaults on him; when the clamor of contemporary praise and dispraise are silenced, and posterity examines his claims and learns that he did this or that which was of value to the world, examines the cold evidence, do we get a just estimate of his character and greatness. No contemporary press or promoter can make greatness and none can obscure or destroy it. The trumpets proclaim the victory; they do not make it. And the world itself, which defines the greatness of man and the stuff from which it is made, has all through the years that follow death been building its estimate of the great dead and in defiance of professors and historians, annalists, biographers, has formulated its verdict.

The verdicts of posterity are seldom wrong; contemporary opinions are most erroneous.

The two Americans who have written their names indelibly on the pages of American history are Washington, who made the republic, and Lincoln, who saved the republic, abolished human slavery and made government of the people, by the people, for the people an imperishable doctrine. There have been other American Presidents who clamored more loudly than these, who boasted as these never boasted, and American presidents who were the accidents of politics and went back to obscurity as swiftly as they had emerged from it; and while some still hang on the edges of uncertain definition, the verdict of posterity will come later and give them a seat in the hall of fame or a place in the outer darkness where silence is and will not be broken.

The place in human history and in American annals of these men is settled beyond question; and yet each in his day was the target for the shafts of the mean and the malign, a great figure against which the violence of the misguided and misled beat in vain.

I like to think of the simple greatness of these splendid men rising out of the trials and troubles of their ages, out of the history of our past as the mountains of the presidential range tower above the lake and forests at their feet. The clouds of envy and malice, disappointment and unreason that hung in their skies, casting shadows upon their peaks, have passed away. The passage of time, the disappearance of friends and foes and the causes they personified, and the coming of new generations indifferent to the acrimony of the old, have cleared the skies and left these two standing above the common level, great, serene, untroubled, their heads among the stars:

Like gnomes raised by time to count his centuries.

Abuse, personalities, vilification, slander, are the incidence of politics everywhere. Bryce said they are inseparable from American politics and kept good men out of public life. I don't quite agree with this. These evils keep timid men out of the public service, men who are sensitive and place reputation above duty, and such are not the best type of citizens. These things had no terrors for Washington, and Lincoln's heart and brain were greater than the tongue and pen of his enemies. They did not enjoy the malice of their enemies but they did not shrink from it. Bryce was probably aware that misrepresentation, falsehood and slander grow so riotously in political England as in America and that they are not special American inventions; yet the best class of men in England do not hesitate to face them, urged on by duty or ambition or both. It is well to learn and remember what our great ones knew—that the political critics are not the best citizens; the men who face the battle and win the fight are entitled to rule, do rule and should rule; they are the vigorous and constructive forces of democracy. Even in England today, that latest brand new countess and expatriate, Lady Astor, is not afraid of politics, stands in the gutter and throws mud with the worst of them. No good man with a clean record and a stout spine, who knows himself and believes in his ambitions, is going to be kept out of public life by blackguardism and vilification.

Today we know Washington, we revere his character and patriotism; we admire the courage that was steadfast in disaster and defeat and doubt, and that was stout enough to reject the false counsel of foolish friends; we stand in awe before the lofty spirit that placed the freedom and independence of his country before all things; who jeopardized his fortune and imperiled his life for his convictions; and who looked forward to marching back into the wilderness if necessary and fighting on continuously for America's rights should the weaklings and time-servers in the cause of independence seek terms with the king and fortune desert him.

From the inception of the war for independence he had the jealousy and distrust of pseudo patriots to contend with; he had the envy and disobedience of military subordinates to meet and control; and he had an army under his command to discipline and hold intact in the presence of Congressional stupidity and hostility, that left the valiant battalions of Washington unpaid, undressed, unclothed; and all the dishonest elements in the colonies, the plunderers and profiteers who robbed king and colony alike, were the foes and slanderers of Washington. This great soldier and patriot, who commanded the admiration and esteem of his military enemies, who spent his private fortune to aid the cause, had to face fortune with the false and fickle, the foolish and the futile arrayed against him.

New England people of the class that esteemed itself the "better" class after the loyalists had been driven out made fault finding of the serious patriot soldier fame. William Williams, Jonathan Trumbull, Elbridge Gerry, William Ellery, Roger Sherman, Eliphalet Dyer, Samuel Chase and other patriots and noncombatants criticised Washington for the faults he had and the faults he had not. Washington, under his dignity, serenity and reserve, had good red blood and the heart of a fighter trained on a fighting frontier; and once in a while the man would break out through the skin of the statesman and he would curse out his petty tormentors in good set fashion.

Later, through the anxious, futile days of the confederation, when the follies and jealousies of the thirteen colonies came near to wrecking the labors and sacrifices of the War of Independence, Washington held steadfastly for stronger and more efficient government; and when they came he guided the new republic in safe channels but in the midst of doubts and questionings of the wild-eyed patriots. Firm and fearless he faced slander and scurrility in peace as resolutely as he had combated conspiracy cabal in war, his lofty spirit realizing that his countrymen who had stood back of him in good days and bad would honor and trust him to the end. He met the problems of his time with courage and vigor; he handled rebels, mobs and demagogues with scant courtesy; and yet when he saw in the "Whiskey Rebellion," under a display of popular and fascinating guises, the most diabolical attempt to destroy the best fabric of human government and happiness; it was Jefferson who accused him of permitting "himself to be the organ of such an attack on the freedom of discussion, the freedom of writing, printing and publishing". He could perceive, if Jefferson did not, the essential difference between a free press and an unbridled and licentious one.

All the rogues and blackguards in the publishing business did not die when Washington and his friends and foes passed off the stage. We still have a few left to mock at freedom and scandalize decency.

Ben Franklin Bache, whom Cobbett stigmatized as an office hunting scoundrel, made the most outrageous attacks on Washington in his General Advertiser and Aurora, hesitating at nothing and publishing once again forged letters issued to destroy him during the war. William Duane was the editorial successor of Bache and a blackguard of equal capacity.

James Thomas Callender in numerous publications charged George Washington with treason and treachery, who authorized the robbery of the continental army. Tom Paine, who did valiant work for America, stood stanchly behind Washington until he refused to make him postmaster-general, when he abused him roundly. Congress made abuse of Washington its favorite sport.

We are apt to think that Washington's age was the golden age, the heroic age, because of the great things done; but it was a very human age; men were as weak and wicked, as violent and vindictive, then as now; and the standards of public decency were lower if anything than today. We are shocked and disgusted when some publisher versed in the arts of slander, innuendo and blackmail assails the public men of today; yet as a matter of fact they are tame today compared with the scoundrels of Washington's age, for the villains who stabbed and soiled the First of America had a courage, ferocity and vindictiveness the modern types do not possess.

Washington paid little attention to them. "I am gliding down the stream of life," he said. "That my remaining days may be undisturbed and tranquil, conscious of my integrity, should anything occur in this or any other publication I shall never undertake the task of recrimination." History has justified him; posterity has acclaimed him; his place in the annals of men is fixed for all time, and as far as mortal man can be immortal Washington is among the immortals. Meantime his slanderers have passed into oblivion; their mediums of vilification are forgotten, or only recalled by some digger in the rubbish heaps of the past to renew the nausea of the generations.

They are gone, forgotten, or remembered to be condemned; while Washington and his fame continue to gain luster and splendor with the years, just as the sun grows more glorious as it slowly marches across the heavens to the meridian. Lincoln, like Washington, is immortal. He who was a man of sorrows carrying the burdens of an anguished people, doing his work with reticence and efficiency,—and his name shines brighter every year,—while his noisy cabinet is hardly a name, and only a few of his splendid soldiers who led the armies he organized can be recalled today, and even that few will fade away before him as lesser lights grow pale in the presence of greater lights.

After all the splendid thing about life and living, of work and achievement, is this, only the real and the genuine persist. When the noises of the day are done, when the captains and the kings depart, the men and the memories that are good in the sight of God and sweet in the nostril of men remain, to live on and set standards for generations unborn.

Fortunate the land that has a Washington and a Lincoln to act as beacon lights for the coming generations. For as long as America can find satisfaction and emulation in the characters and lives of such men as they, the Republic will be safe and humanity able to face its problems with clear eyes and clean hearts. If we follow these splendid models in honesty and sincerity we can make our lives sublime, and we, too, perhaps, if we keep to the straight road, can leave footprints on the sands of time.
